Our London Overcoats, $12.00

The choice is thus offered between good quality, Genuine Scotch goods and domestic imitations of the same With prices in favor of the genuine articles.

Why should you pay $5.00 for a pair of "Imitation Scotch goods" Pants when the real articles can be had for $3.50, and cut by Thompson's Patent System. Unequaled for comfort, style, fit.

Again comes the question:

How does E. O. Thompson sell these excellent goods at such prices?

There is no tailoring business in the United States (to the best of our knowledge), that sells such large quantities of English goods as our three houses.

There is no house in London that has such favorable purchasing powers and opportunities as our own London house.

There are certain reasons we have for wishing to turn over these goods at a bare commission.

The result is—Almost before we knew it we found ourselves underselling the entire clothing trade of the United States.

THIRD NATIONAL BANK, NEW YORK, Dec. 6, 1887.

Editor of the Financier.

DEAR SIR: In reply to your inquiry of this date, it gives us pleasure to say that the "Western Farm Mortgage Company" now organized as the WESTERN FARM MORTGAGE TRUST COMPANY, has done business with this bank since June, 1880.

As their Eastern Depository, we have been in a position to know something of their business. Their paper is made payable at this Bank, and we have paid their Coupons and Bonds as they mature, all of which have been invariably provided for by them in advance.

Their business is large, and has constantly increased, and we have been impressed with the method and accuracy that have characterized every detail that has come under our observation.

During the past two years their average balance on deposit has been over $50,000.

All our sources of information assure us of the soundness of the concern and its management. Yours truly,

G. L. HUTCHINS, Cashier.

THE AMERICAN LOAN AND TRUST CO., NEW YORK, Dec. 6, 1887.

Editor of the Financier.

DEAR SIR: The undersigned is acting in the capacity of Trustee for the WESTERN FARM MORTGAGE COMPANY, of Lawrence, Kansas, for the purpose of certifying that the Debenture Bonds issued by the said Company are in accordance with the agreement made between them and us.

The Mortgage Company has deposited Mortgages in excess of the amount required by their contract, which they are fulfilling scrupulously, in fact doing more than is required by their contract for the protection of the Debenture bondholders.

The Mortgage Company has recently been reorganized as the WESTERN FARM MORTGAGE TRUST COMPANY, and we are credibly informed that some of its stockholders are of the most wealthy and reputable citizens in the West. Respectfully yours,

AMERICAN LOAN AND TRUST COMPANY,

tion which receive the most assiduous care. On this relationship the nation owes to this religion all its gratitude, and the Government will not be sparing in its encouragement."

San Domingo This beautiful country, with its teeming wealth of native resources, its fine looking and in many instances intelligent people, is given over to vice and sin, Catholicism and ruin. There is no door so widely open, no field of mission enterprise more inviting than is this land to our Church

The earnest and devotion of the little band, and their unwilling and unselfish labors of Hon. H. C. C. As wood, and more recently the labors of Rev. A. H. Mayo and Brothers Adam Rodgers and Francisco Cloudie, call upon us from every reasonable consideration to open ourselves anew, and by every possible means to not only keep alive the fires already burning, but to make a heroic effort to bring the gospel in all its fullness and power to bear upon the moral, intellectual and social life of the Dominican people.

I here give a little history of our mission in the capital of San Domingo City, an furnish it to the readers. "In the year 1820 President Bayer of Hayti, when the island was under one government, sent one Mr. Granville to the United States to invite emigration from among our colored brother came with all his family in 1824 I was born in 1825. In 1845 my father died, then I came to my mother to San Domingo City. She sent me to church; one Mr. Stephens was this preacher. There were but a few who were Protestants, among whom were Isaac Miller, Rev. Mr Fall, Caleb Hillen, Mr. Hamilton, Mr. Brooks Mr. Steward and Isaac Fountain; with this little band all went well till 1857, when the church was closed on account of war, and remained so for two years. Then Mr. Hamilton and myself commenced to preach again. We continued till 1860, when the Spanish invaded the country, taking away our church and forbidding Protestantism. We remained without a church for four years, during which time the people scattered, some to Hayti, some to the woods, some to the war, and some died. In 1865 the Dominicans drove the Spaniards from the country. Then Mr. Gross, a descendant of America, applied to the Government dem anding religious liberty for the people, which was granted.

In 1866 one Mr. Brooks, a Wesleyan Methodist, came and took up the work. In 1870 all the members of the church died with the cholera except myself and Brooks. In 1875 the church fell down. I then held meetings in my own house till 1883, at which time in the providence of God our house was burned down. Rev. Atwood came. Heat once hunted us up and after consultation, hired a house for two years, during which time he repaired and furnished the old church. Our membership is limited; a good Sabbath and day schools were organized, and once more under his management and influence we were moving along nicely. The church property thus fitted up is now valued at $2,000. Membership, 38; average congregation, 150

Brother Meve, the present City Missionary, and Brother Adam Rodgers have organized a mission at Barahona, a well situated day school, which are giving promises of success. Our congregation in San Domingo City has outgrown the little chapel, and it becomes necessary to build a house in every way suitable. Even it is remembered that this is the capital of the Dominican Republic of the world" and that once is the only Protestant church, all will agree that we should erect such a mission house as will not only be a credit to the city, but such as one as will give to the construction itself prestige and influence. The people of wealth and position have promised Brothers Adam Rodgers and Meve such assistance when we convince them that we intend to do something worthy of their support

One of the most central and desirable lots in the city can be had for about one-half its appraised value for this purpose One thousand dollars will pay for the ground, and the people will do a large share toward raising or the building We shall not rely upon the few members of the mission, for officers of State, merchants and capitalists have also agreed to do their part when we shall have done ours.

Africa Rev J R Fredericks' last report from Sierre Leone speaks for itself. Members total 217; average congregation 420; character, one; value, $2 00; day school, one; pupils 166. All of this has been secured to the church within one year.

Besides a small mission has been opened in the interior on the Searcies River. In Liberia we have three missions which at last account were not in as hopeful condition as we would desire, because of the lack of men and means.

In Africa the outlook is hopeful in this male, and all we need to do is simply to provide the means for a vigorous campaign. We have estimated that $5,000 at least should be put into the work at once, added to this $2 500 for Hayti $2,500 for San Domingo, making in all $10 000 for foreign missions, and now that the Centennial and other anniversary days are off we would urge that the churches begin to work up their Easter celebration. Let us make this last missionary rally of the present quadrennium the most notable of them all. Let it be heralded in every church, Sabbath school and society, that next Easter Day we raise $10,000 for Africa, Hayti and San Domingo. It can be done so easily if each and all would do a little.

It is an easy matter for some who have never contributed in any way to the support of this work to find fault and wisely assert what ought to be done, but those who do the giving and those who are toiling by day and by night, know what it costs to keep the little mission fires aglow. Then it dimly they hunger yet, to the faithful there is inspiration and hope. To all who responded last Easter day to the call, and to as many more we send a present the claims of our struggling mission and pray you come up nobly to the line this year.

OH! THAT HEADACHE.

"How I am tormented with this continual headache. It is what I suffer each morning, noon, and night. It is the last feeling and thought before one rises slumber and the first sensation a return of consciousness. It is the terror and torment of my life, and there seems no promise of an end to it while the lamp of life continues to burn. I feel at times as if I must go mad. I move about in my anguish or most ile prostrate and help him in my agony, while the sole pity, 'oh, no! not sick, only has the headache' But neither insanity nor death comes to my relief. Oh, on, can't I pursue this path of persistent and torment of my life, and there seems no promise of an end to it while the lamp of life continues to burn. I feel at times as if I must go mad. I move about in my anguish or most ile prostrate and help him in my agony, while the sole pity, 'oh, no! not sick, only has the headache' But neither insanity nor death comes to my relief. Oh, on, can't I pursue this path of persistent and torment of my life, and there seems no promise of an end to it while the toothache my be ended by extracting the tooth, but where is the good surgeon that can extract the brain to stop the pain."

The safe and best way is to reach the fountain of life, put it in as healthy condition as possible, strengthen and revitalize it so that it may correct the disordered member and give nature the chance to reassert itself. This pan has been tried very successfully in hundreds of cases and found to be of permanent relief. One of the good virtues of the Compound Oxygen Treatment is that it does not go into the stomach for the pretended purpose of attacking a specific disease, but "locreases the vital powers so that nature may repel the invader.

For full information write to Dr. Starkey & Palen, 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa., for one of their little broke called "Compound Oxygen; Its Mode of Action and Results," which they will send free upon application, also their monograph on headache.

"Be true to truth, to Christ and God;
Be true, and through life's duty plod."
Though our task sometimes seems weary,
And our friends seem far and few,
Let us go on our way rejoicing,
We have a better place in view
Where all teachers shall be rewarded
For the good they have done here;
And our scholars will give us praises,
For all they learned from lips so dear.
Let us then be up and doing
In the cause we have begun;
Thinking out some path of virtue
That our scholars well may run.
For the goal is just before us,
And on earth we have no rest;
We must work, for in the heavenly portals
We'll have a sweet and blest
Where there will no more be parting,
And our sorrows have an end;
Where we'll sing eternal praises
In God's kingdom, without end.

A $2 WASHING MACHINE FREE!

Last year we placed upon the market the great, cost-saving Turnbull Washing Machine. It was a self-operating Washing Machine. IT WASHED AND DID NOT RUB CLOTHES. IT WASHED AND DID NOT RUBBING WHATEVER. We advertised a few hundred of them to introduce them, and thousands these free samples sold over 500,000. Now only in Chicago, Mrs. Helen mott, 226 W. 15th St., was so well pleased with her machine that she became a local agent and sold over 120 in four months. W. C. Hamill, Box 93, Tuscola, Ill., reported over 200 sold. Mrs. Helen mott, Chicago, reported over 300 sold. Mrs. Ida Bingham, Ill., reported over 400 sold. Mrs. Ida Bingham, Ill., reported over 500 sold. Mrs. Ida Bingham, Ill., reported over 600 sold. Mrs. Ida Bingham, Ill., reported over 700 sold. Mrs. Ida Bingham, Ill., reported over

OUR CENTENNIAL RETURNS

In the list of names and amounts given below, we aim to be exact. We wish every pastor to scan the report and see that it is correct, and that it corresponds with the amount mentioned in his receipt from us. We cannot give the names of officers and churches in every case, because not one-half of them were sent in, and while the whole amount raised is less than half what we reasonably hoped for, we tender our hearty thanks to the pastors and churches who generously raised the money sent us.

Fraternally,

NOTICE BY THE MANAGER.

We again call the attention of the pastors and presiding elders to the form of Warranty Deed we have prepared and published for general use in the purchase of church properties. The form is complete, and plain as plain can be, yet it is believed to cover every point in the law. It was drawn by an old experienced attorney, with our Discipline before him at once, 25 cents per copy or 5 for $1.00

LAST CALL.

All ministers who have not sent in their Centennial reports are hereby requested to remit their collections as directed, at once. And we respectfully urge those who have not made the collection up to date to do so at once and send the proceeds in, as the committee must meet early in January to settle up, and the Manager to have his list complete before publishing the same.

Brethren will please respond promptly. Fraternally yours,

CATARRH CURED.

A clergyman, after 7 years of suffering from that loathsome disease Catarrh, and vainly trying every known remedy, at last found a prescription which completely cured and relieved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self addressed stamp d envelope to rev J. A. Lawrence, 212 East 9th St., New York, will receive the recipe free of charge.

NOTICE.

All communications intended for the Sunday School Union of the A. M. E Church that are addressed to Rev. C. S Smith, Nashville, Tennessee, will be received. It is not necessary to give the name of the street nor the number of our business place. Rev C. S. Smith Nashville, Tenn., is sufficient. Teachers' aids read the same way will reach us. We are fully settled in our new headquarters and prepared for business.

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proved itself the most wonderful, if you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

NEAREST HOME.

One sweetly solemn thought
Comes to me o'er and o'er:
I'm nearer my home to-day,
Than I ever have been before.

Nearer my Father's house,
Where the many mansions be;
Nearer the great white throne,
Nearer the crystal sea!

Nearer the bound of life
Where we lay our burdens down;
Nearer leaving the cross,
Nearer gaining the crown!

But that silent, unknown stream
Rolls dark before my sight,
Whose waves on the other side
Break on a shore of light.

O! if my mortal feet
Have almost gained the brink;
If it be I am nearer home
Even to-day than I think.

Father, perfect my trust;
Let my spirit feel, in death,
That her feet are firmly set
On the rock of a living faith.

HARMONY OF TASTES.

BY REV. J. HEIGHT BEAN.

There is hardly, perhaps, to be found a more pliable term—one better fitted to stand as representative of ideas so very diverse, and, at times, so very diametrically opposite, than the simple word, taste. It seems to be one of those chameleon-like expressions which take their shade of meaning alone from the objects with which they are immediately associated—a convenient resort, applicable to almost every imaginable disposition of the human mind. It is not our object to dwell upon it in any of its definiteness—this were as gratuitous as it would be fruitless—nor yet to devise some unknown means by which all diversities of taste may become one—it is were indeed wishing ideas to the nature of mind itself, as well as subverting the very harmony we strove to gain—but to ascertain whether there is such a thing as different tastes existing harmoniously together, and if so, how that result may be secured. "De gustibus non disputandum" has already passed into a maxim as imperishable as the difference in the constitution of men itself, and why should we presume to question another's right to think and act for himself? Minds, as well as countenances, were made to differ, and what diet ingnishment, not to say pleasure, could there exist without? Moral delights and joys are attained by reasoning and investigation, and both of these operations in their very nature involve the ideas of difference. When man conceived in stereotyping mind, in moulding into one harmony and dislike, every propensity and passion; when, in fine, he can change human nature, then may he hope to render all diversities of taste and dispositions the same. Cultivation may change, to a great effect, but it can never eradicate and make anew. Nor should we attempt it. Its legitimate object is rather to harmonize than destroy, to lead forth into appropriate action what already exists rather than to recreate. The propensities over which it seeks to exert an influence are deeply seated within the heart and can never be removed, except at the expense of the mind's just balance. They have been placed there for good and it is only in their unchastened and perverted state that they spring forth into every kind of whim and irregularity of action. Even grace, that most potent of all influences upon the human heart, does not here wholly subdue these workings of the inward man. They are there still, constantly tending, unrestrained, to vitiate every better principle of duty and of taste. And can mere cultivation succeed in what grace has left undone? All that it can do and all that it is called upon to do is to follow up and aid onward to consummation that which grace has already both begun and set forth to be accomplished by its assistance, viz., to bring all into the beauty and harmony of co-operate action and from it gather "the peaceable fruits of righteousness." Instead of stamping all at once with a dreary, unendurable sameness, it should seek to blend them into a sweet accordance with each other and with truth, for it is this alone that can send through society the living pulse of happiness—it is this which should ever constitute the highest aim of the philanthropist and the noblest effort of the Christian.

But in unfolding the nature and existence of harmony, let me for a moment consult the great volume of nature and see whether its munitions accord with our desires. The Deity, in his own operations in the external world, often shadows forth the principles of mental action and development in order that man should read and apply the important lesson. He speaks a language both in his word and works adapted to the comprehension of mind, and that mind is indeed culpable which does not open itself to receive and appropriate the impressions which are thus given. But God has not only prescribed limits to this world and brought all beneath the control of universal order. He has, by a strange congruity of his own, united the most hostile agents in the most inseparable friendship. He has filled all nature with harmonious opposites. His handiwork is a universal illustration of beautiful and varied blending. Science, with all of its inquisitorial racks, has ever been unable to extort from it other than harmony, though the very combination of diverse hue bewilders. The earth rolls on its annual and diurnal round, nicely balanced between two directly antagonistic forces, and from them our seasons and periodic changes come and go, leaving us their varied pleasure. Sunshine and rain, decomposition and reorganization all harmoniously tend to the bringing and perfection of variegated vegetation. Were it all sunshine ours would become a desert land, a wilderness of drought, fit for the habitation of none. Were all things passing to decay with no antagonist principle of life, how soon would this fair earth become a dreary charnel house of death.

The agreeable beverage, when we remove from it its commingled opposite qualities, becomes at once insipid, an object of loathing rather than desire; its very effervescence is oftentimes that which renders it so bland and cooling. Even water, mere primal drink, without its mingled saline and other ingredients, is rejected as unpalatable and vile. The picture of the landscape which presents no blending of shades and of colors, no objects appropriately grouped, can but the idea of dreariness. It is a desert and we gladly turn from its contemplation and seek relief in a more varied scene.

What were music, now so sweet, so soothing to the soul, did it consist merely of one sound? A monotony as painful and disgusting as it would be inappropriate to its use. Forever thus must we have been debarred from that delightful variation of tones, that blending of different and accordant notes, which now greet us at every concert and in every rural walk. All nature speaks in this a language unequivocal. There could exist no unison of soul with external nature, none of that agreeable sympathy of kindred minds, did not blending, not sameness, harmony, not monotony, constitute the very life of every good, moral, natural, physical or mental. All things here must have been marred and their pleasure turned into torment and disgust. But here nature stops; it tells us in a voice of triumph, reiterated by all its works, the entire necessity of harmonious action; but whispers only in shadowy accents the means of its accomplishment. We recognize the finger of an all-pervading God, beginning in order out of confusion; and that is the extent of human wisdom. The how he locks within his own omnipotence; nature knows no self-moving agency, calling into being the concordant beauty every heart and be exhibited in every action, can harmony or tastes exist as universal. "The wolf shall never dwell with the lamb, and the leopard lie down with the kid; and the calf, and the young lion and the fatling together, until a little child shall lead them." Never shall ferocity become the joined companion of gentleness, until it feel and be sweetly subdued by innocence and love

Cape May, N. J.

THE OBSERVANCE OF SABBATH.

BY I. B. TILL, B. D.

To desecrate, in the common acceptation of the term, means to divert from a sacred purpose, to treat sacrilegious, or turn a command from the ordained purpose for which it was instituted. We are commanded to remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy—that is, not to turn aside from the Sabbath God gave Moses a law commanding the observance of the Sabbath as a holy institution. The positive command to "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy," is founded on the immutability of Jahovah, who changeth not. "Wherefore the children shall keep the Sabbath to observe the Sabbath throughout their generation for a perpetual covenant; it is a sign between me and the children forever."

The word Sabbath as need in Scripture signifies rest, i. e., to cease to do, principally referring to the seventh day of the week. The strict enjoining of its observance is not merely to be found in the general Mosaic code, but in the decalogue itself.

1. The Sabbath day is coeval with the creation. The first Scriptural notice we have of the Sabbath, though it is not mentioned, it is implied in the close of the record of the six days' creation, "And on the seventh day God ended his work which he had made," etc. "And God blessed the seventh day and made it holy." The great Creator, who fainted not, neither is weary, is represented as condescending to our weakness, resting himself upon the cloud of his glory, surveying the whole system which he had just made—these heavens and this earth, with all the host thereof, and sanctifying the day in which he saw them all completed. As man seeme to have been created on the close of the sixth day before sunset, no sooner does the bright illuminary withdraw his light than the shades of evening advance and all is at once consecrated to devotion and rest.

"God blessed the Sabbath day and hallowed it." When God blessed the Sabbath day he made it a blessing to all mankind by affording them rest from all secular employment and affording them time for devotion. There is greater stress laid upon the observance of the Sabbath than any other ceremonial institution. "My Sabbath ye shall keep." This command is given to arrest the mind from all secular employment and turn the thoughts towards the spiritual and unseen world, particularly for instruction in the special worship of God by prohibiting all servile labor of man over beast and to secure recreative rest to all upon whom the curse had fallen. As a day of rest and as set apart for intercourse with God, it was designed as a type of "that rest that remaineth to the people of God," Psa 95, 11. "Let us therefore fear lest a promise being left us of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it" Heb. 64 These words, having a reference to the Israelites, are as appropriate and as applicable to people of this day as to those to whom they were originally addressed. "For unto us was the gospel preached as well as unto them" Paul said the reason that the Hebrews did not enter into rest was through the hardness of their hearts, which is unbelief.

2 The Sabbath is perpetually obligatory. This we infer from the nature and the design of the institution. It is a generally recognized principle that those commands that were made to the Hebrews as Hebrews, and founded on their peculiar circumstances, passed when the Mosaic economy was abolished; but those founded on the immutable nature of Jehovah or upon the relations of men are of permanent obligation. There are many commands that bind man as man, father as father, children as children, neighbors as neighbors. It is evident that the fourth commandment belongs to this category It is of inestimable importance that men everywhere should have time and the opportunity for religious instruction and worship. It is necessary for all men and all servile animals to rest and recuperate their strength. This is universal and binding on all men everywhe e. No man assumes that the command, "Thou shalt not kill," passed away and ceased to be obligatory when the old economy became extinct. No; but, like its Maker, it was to stand as a permanent law to rule the conscience of men everywhere, expressing an obligation arising out of the nature of God and our relations to our fellow-men This laws binds, whether formally enacted or not. Even so with the law of the Sabbath; it is obligatory, binding on all men. There are, no doubt, positive elements in the fourth commandment as recorded in the decalogue. It is positive that the seventh, and not the sixth or the eighth, part of our time should be given to the service of God. It is positive that the seventh day and not any other day of the week was intended to be set apart as a moral necessity. It is a moral obligation that God and his great works should be remembered; it is a moral duty that men everywhere should assemble for religious instruction and the united worship of God. All this was required as the reasonable service of all men before the time of Moses and would have been required if he had never existed.

It is observed in the penalty attached to the violation of the Sabbath. "Ye shall keep the Sabbath, for it is holy unto you. Every one that defileth it shall be put to death"—Ex. 31, 14. The violation of no ceremonial law is threatened with this penalty. The neglect of circumcision which did involve the rejection of the Abrahamic and the Mosaic covenant was not visited with capital judgment. But the law of the Sabbath stands above the level of positive enactments, which gives it a character of especial sanctity Moses commanded the Israelites to gather manna every morning, an omer full, but on the sixth day they were to gather twice as much as on this preceding days, because to morrow is the rest of the holy Sabbath unto the Lord bake that which ye will bake, and seethe that ye will seethe, and that which remaineth over lay up for you to be kept until the morning. And they laid it up till the morning, and it did not stink, neither was there any worm therein. And Moses said, eat that to-day; for to-day is a Sabbath unto the Lord; to-day ye shall not find it, but on the seventh, which is the Sabbath, there shall be no manna

Not only do we find the observance of the Sabbath in the Pentateuch, but in the historical books of the Old Testament it is spoken of as a day of religious observance. But frequent mention of it is made as set forth as a type of the Messianic dawn. The prophet Isaiah has a reference to the blessings that shall fall upon all that observe the Sabbath when he says, "If thou turnest away thy foot from doing thy pleasure upon my holy day, and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honorable and shall honor him, not doing thy own ways, nor speaking thine own words, then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord. I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth and shall feed thee with the heritage of Jacob."—Isa 58, 13, 14 It is evident that the prophet connects prosperity, peace, with the Sabbath and makes a blessing to the godly observance of the Sabbath to all who make the Sabbath a delight in serving God This promise equally applies to all men under the gospel economy as much as it did to those under the old covenant.

The observance of the Sabbath or seventh day is seen in the historic fact, from the creation to the flood, a period of sixteen centuries Noah in Genesis, 8, 10-12; is said twice to have rested or stay d ten seven days, etc. In this we fell not to see the observance of one day in six, i. e., the seventh, as a day of rest; from this we see the division of time into weeks as found in Genesis 29, 27, 28. This division of time into weeks became an established usage among the Hebrews We cannot account for the hebdomadal division of time by referring to the seven planets We have not the evidence of the worship of planets at that early period of the world especially among the Shemitic races. Besides this would be inconsistent with the Mosaic account of the creation.

The only satisfaction is found in the institution of the Sabbath, which fact will not only prove that the Sabbath was an original institution from the beginning, is the continual observance of the seventh day, or Sabbath, to keep it holy, is sufficient proof of a day to be kept holy already in existence.

3. The essential element in this command is that the Sabbath day shall be a day of rest from all worldly avocation and amusement, chiefly devoted to the service of God. It has been said by some expositors of the law, recorded by Moses, that the Sabbath day is to commemorate the deliverence of the Hebrews from Egyptian bondage. They take the words as recorded, "Remember that thou wast a servant in the land of Egypt and that the Lord thy God brought thee out thence thr ugh a mighty hand and by an outstretched arm. Therefore the Lord thy God commanded thee to keep the Sabbath day."—Deut. 5, 15.

Moses, in his repetition of the law, did not forget the reason given by God himself from Sinai. "Six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day. Wherefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day and hallowed it" The authority of the Jewish legislator is founded not only upon God's authority as creator of the world, but also upon his redemption of the nation from Egyptian bondage. "I am the Lord thy God which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, promising to prolong thy days which the Lord thy God giveth thee"

It may be asked, what have we to do with these commandments? We reply so far as they are moral and bind the relation of the creature to the Creator, so far are they binding on all intelligent creatures. Our Lord gives us the summary of these commandments as universally binding upon all men, viz, "Thou shall love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul," etc. The second is like unto it, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."—Matt. 22. 37-39.

Jesus came not to destroy these commends or the teaching of the prophets concerning them, but he came to fulfill what Moses in the law and the prophets did write. He came to breathe new life into it; to give to it the wings of the morning, sending it to the uttermost parts of the earth, conquering and to conquer These laws for the observance of the Sabbath ware incorporated into the new dispenestion with all the Mosaic laws, founded on the relations between the creature and the Creator, was taken up and adopted into the Christiae code. Therefore, the command to remember the Sabbath as an holy lesitution is still in force and binding on all men because given to all. Men are still found to worship God in spirit and in truth to-day as in the days of the giving of the law, but not at Jerusalem.

Marriage is still as sacred as ever, but all the special laws regulating its duties and penalties for violation are abrogated Homicide is as great a crime now as in the days of Moses, but the laws of the aveoger of blood and the cities of refuge are no longer in force. The same is true with regard to the Sabbath We are as much bound to keep one day in seven holy onto the Lord as the Israelites or patriarchs were. It is important for all men to remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy If the deliverance of Israel should be commemorated how much more the redemption of the world by the death of the Son of God? If the creation of the material universe should be e memorated, how mech more the new creation, brought about by the resurrection of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ from the dead.

THE "RECORDER'S" MILLENIUM.

BY H. T. JOHNSON, A M, B. D.

That our Church organ is slowly yet assuredly attaining its long-to-be-hoped-for status, is a fact too patent to ite many readers to require special exposition from any quarter or from anybody. The Church, race and reading public are being gradually greeted by the golden dawn of an era in our jonrealistic world, for the which many have been waiting and longing through wearisome years. Toward the idealistic estate the RECORDER's chiefstain is moving for some time, but its evolution may be accelerated an hue dredfold by the timely expression of a word of encouragement, which is good, and the contribution of every feasible means of support which is better. A thought in reference to the improved features of the paper, an endorsement of the suggestion for its further develop ment, and a word of commendation in behalf of the best editor and enterprising business manager, may not be considered out of time or place.

Than the editorial and business management of our Publication Department there are no two more important representative posts in the connection. But that there are also no two trusts involving more self-sacrifice and exposure to misjudgment, ingratitude and needless vituperation is a fact that does not need go without saying. Rather than afford ing a "soft spot" or furnishing a "flowery bed of ease" to those who may chance to get there, our Book Con cern usually turns out to be a "vale of tears" or "official slaughter-pen," according to the experimental verdict of not a few of its incumbents. Those hitherto journeying thither, as a general thing, have been made to feel glad twice

All credit, then, to Manager Embry, whose heroic efforts have resited in the enlarged and generally improved appearance of the paper. To have increased its size in the face of a delinquent constituency and beneath the burden of an oppressive debt, certainly bespeaks tact, push and prowess on the part of Dr. Embry.

At the close of the last quadrennium, Dr. Lee, fresh from the arena of literary labors, vigorous and able, yet in a virgin state, and, Abraham-like, not knowing whither he went; nevertheless, in response to the summons of the Church, cheerfully and hopefully assumed the vast and varied responsibilities of our editorial post Widely divergent are the lines of duties and experience between the professional educator and the monitor of public sentiment through which the trustee has to pass. But in the latter case the test seeme to be both more critical and crucial. Still our editorial incumbent has stood it manfully and praiseworthily, going on to "pefection" yet more and more.

That the goal of journalistic excellence is still before him, and that he may attain it, he plaintively appeals to all qualified to help him. That the tone of the organ may be more elevated; that its character may be heightened and more dignified; that it may hereafter move upon a more cosmopolitan and intellectual plane; that its groove of circulation may be broadened and that its thought-atmosphere may be less dense, but more lofty and healthier, are ends most devoutly to be wished for, and which, as the hope of the editor this year, will be cosummated on condition that his contributors co-operate in the proposal

Let writers of every section and caliber come up the help of the RECORDER's chieftain. Should it not be considered presumptuous we would re-echo the hint that it is both preferable and more profitable not to write without doing so creditably. If contributors would furnish articles only local in interest or scope, they should be rare and sentential. If they are writers of feeble parts, let them improve first, then practice at home or have their articles faithfully proved before venturing them before the critical inspection of the public. It is less humiliating to be "sat upon" by the editor who consigns your meritless article to the stove or waste basket than to have the public offeeded by its appearance and complimentarily write you down a dolt. Let us all write less about "conglistrict," "my quarterly meeting," "our people," "the presidieg elder system," "more bishops," "grand rally day," et id genus omnes, and more about "the relation of morality and religion," "faith," "science," "the old and new faith," et cetera ad infinitum.

May God speed the day when the pulpits aed press "lock-arme" and march in concerted movement up the high-road of progress.

THE COLUMBIA (S. S.) CONFERENCE.

BY REV. G. W. PRIOLEAU, B. D.

MR. EDITOR:—The Columbia (S. C.) Coeference is destined to become one of the leading conferences in this great connection. She leeds now, so far as numbere are concerned. We were gratified to see the great progress our mother has made. True, some of the pioneers have stepped down, but God has men in reserve, who stepp'd to the front, took up where the fathers left off and are pushing the battle to the gate with great determined force to see our old classmates, I. S. Lee as presiding elder of one of the best preading elder's districts in the conference; R. E. Wall, the silvery tongued orator, who stood as a giant amidst the combined forces of the enemy at Bethel Church, Columbia, S. C. Then there is C. M. Crosby, who is never known to fail, and Brother Sampson, the Christian and gentlemen and true preacher. Among the pioneers are Revs. Wm. M. Thomas, Weston and Baker These gentlemen have been tried and are willieg to be tried again; they have been put into the crucible of persecution, and when taken out, found to be the same true, loyal and figbting soldiers. Among those who have stepped aside to let the army go on, are Elders Prioleau, Pickett, Blake, White and Rawlins. Their stentorian voice of thunder ringing the young men on to duty God grant that their eyes may behold the Church more beautifully arrayed before they shall have put on robes of immortality.

The conference has done herself credit in the careful election of her delegates to the General Conference The defeat of one big "Isaac" to the General Conference goes to show that the mind of the conference is a discerning spirit of a master and that there is a cure remedy for the "big head." The conference is growieg stronger, intellectually. The young men are ambitious and full of zeal. We trust that the younger class of ministers will learn to accept a brother irrespective of whatever part of the land he is from, so that he is a gentleman, a Christian and a successful pastor. There seems to be one thing that a part of the conference has forgotten, that is, the time is now when men can think and that they may clothe their thoughts in words, orally or written; and the different men with the recognition of body of men assume the right to take away from a man his rights to express his thoughts on any subject of the Church or State, that they they assume rights which are not theirs We can bring the horse to subjection to our will, but we can not make men think as we think. The visiting brethren at its last session were Drs Tanner, Arnett, Embry; Revs. W. H. Heard, M. B. Salter and your humble servant. It was our pleasure to preach at the Presbyterian Church of Newberry, the seat of the Conference. We were kindly received by the brethren and made welcome. The hospitality of the people of Newberry cannot be surpaseed Before the cloude roll by we will have returned. The inspiration we received at this conference can never die.

Editor Southern Recorder:

In the issue of the Southern Recorder of January 21st, your notice to the West Tennessee Conference unwarrantedly mentions my name in unsavory connection. In justice to me, you will please publish the following comple e and emphatical denial of the allegation which it contains:

Mark Well! You say you had the conference roll called and everybody was urged to subscribe to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER on the third day of the session.

If this was done, then a person or persons were appointed to receive the money for the subscriptiones.

This was done Friday, (third day of the conference session). I did not arrive in Memphis until Sunday morning.

MARK WELL. No one said a word to me concerning the CHRISTIAN RECORDER or its subscriptione except Bishop Turner, who told me that a committee had been appointed to attend to the interests of the CHRISTIAN RECORDER.

MARK WELL. I deny having solicited or received one-tenth of a mill as subscription for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, or for the Publication Department for anything.

THE NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

BY REV. E. W. LAMPTON, REPORTER.

The eleventh series of the North Mississippi Coeference met at YAZOO City, at nine o'clock, January 3, pursuant to adjournement. Bishop T. M. D. Ward, D. D., came a day late for its opening wired the venerable T. W. Stringer, M. D., to open and begin business. Accordingly he opened and began business Tuesday morning, with many anxious hearts and strange new faces gazing upon him from whom much good has sprung for the upbuilding of this Christian cause. On Wednesday Bishop Ward arrived, renewing his established love and friandship with those who love practice and appreciate the lofty cause he so eminently advocates; as usual he seemed his station and with his unbounded commandieg influence dispatched the various parts of his business with great harmony and power. Visitors were numerous from both far and near, exhibiting an undivided interest in the course of our well governed Church. The visitors consisted of distinguish d divines from the regular ranks of the Coeference and a general good time was had. The financiel report was quite as improvements on former years, being considerably in excess of collections in former years in all departmeeds of our Church. Our reception and care in Yazoo City by its God-fearing people cannot be surpassed by any city or town in the North Mississippi Coeference, for under the auspices of Dr. James Porter, pastor in charge, the members and friends of Christianity left no comfort unrendered for our pleasure and support. On the fourth day of our session, the order of business was completed by the election of delegates to the General Conference, which, to the satisfaction of the entire conference, resulted in the election of Revs Dr. T W. Stringer, E. R Carter, L. M. Mitchell, G. P. Johnson, A. A. Jackson and W. M. Parker, for which the distinguished Bishop Ward made a short and impressive address, prompting the conference to lay aside politics and lay hold of the glorious cause of Christianity, and to put fame on financial gain, but for the upbuilding of the cause which bore on the wings of love o'er the river of Jordan, even in the realme of Paradise, the honorable and revered four father of our Church, Right Reverend Richard Allen, and the dearest and dearest mortal on earth of T. M. D. Ward, the wife of his bosom, Bishop Cain and a host of other bright jewels, whose works of righteousness and many deeds of benevolence are acceptable to Deity, who loves piety, truth, benevolence and virtue. Their spirits rest on the golden shore, beckoning us come.

Upon resolved Sunday, the 8th day of the session, with its gloom and dampness, but throngs of anxious hearers tripped their way to the various churches to hear the expounding of the gospel of Jesus Christ by brethren from various portions of our connection appointed by Bishop T. M. D Ward.

The talent exhibited by the various distinguished divines planted a germ of warmth and Christianlike tenderness in the hearts of the Yazoites, one which is so indelibly impressed that their Christian manners will ever be remembered. On Monday the compiling of various reports, together with a right celebration of our centennial anniversary, rendered many glad hearts; several distinguished divines made good and impressive remarks, showing the various reasons why every colored man and woman should connect with the A. M. E. Church. But, alas, dawn reveals Tuesday, the eighth day of our session, and at four o'clock A. M., ordination of deacons and elders by the Bishop began, in his usual and impressive manner with many charges to the brethren to wield their sword and conquer sin on every side; at eight o'clock the Bishop read the many appointments, giving a few words on his last year in this quadrennial session, some of which (in his hurry to make the 10 o'clock train) we have not got time to shake hands with you all, but those who will meet me beyond the cold icy bonds of the grave, make it known by the showing of hands; accordingly every hand in the house was shown, mingled with many tears and groans for his departure, which was painful and sad, but all joined in singing two verses of his last hymn—

Up into thee, our living head,
Let us in all things grow,
Till Jesus last made us free indeed,
And spotless here below.
Then when the mighty work is wrought,
Receive thy ready bride;
Give us in heaven a happy lot,
With all the sanctified.

Adjourned with appointment for our next session at West Point, Mississippi, the time to be set by the Bishop.

Benediction by Bishop T. M. D. Ward.

OUR CHILDREN'S EDUCATION.

Call upon a senior or junior in one of our colleges, ask him to define moral obligation, with the exactness of a Hodge or Whately, he will tell you, Rodger to him further. Does it enter into the life of man? Yes, he will reply. Is it a principle or acquisition? Is it in all men the same, or does it admit of variety? Is it developed in all men alike? To all such questions he will give you satisfactory answere. But carry your question just a step farther and ask the genius of "book knowledge," How do you know this? Mark! the answerance of Alexander or Abbe r mhy says it is true in their works, and I accept them as authority.

Now, what has he gained from the books? He stands before you a mere intellectual seigne. We may carry on quiz still further and ask this wonder of intellectuality, whence came the knowledge of these men? He doggedly responce, "Why, from the books." Mark the ignorance of this genius and observation, I suppose, in their own lives and the lives of others." Have you enjected yourself to the acrutiny of your own observation and compared your acts with the acts of others with whom you are associated? He will readily tell you, I accept those who have done this as an authority on that point, which is as much as to say, the experience of one man or set of men is the experience of all men or of the classes. According to the laws of reasoning this is illogical.

And just at this point the education has done nothing for the character of this man who is all intellect, observing facts in himself or others and therefore what he accepts as true is only the mere inculcation of statements from books, which by far are not facts. We claim as the fact of every man's life, only that which he knows from observation and experience.

"How to Observe" is the title of a little book we have read These three words might serve as a motto to guide in early education of our youth. The most important, and of all that the heart neglected. The elements which make a man of a noble and unblemished character exist from early childhood. We begin the education of our children at the wrong end with all kinds of "book knowled e," but never teach it to see anything in nature—nothing but the print of the book.

Moral feelings may be prominent. The consciousness of obligation may show out. The principles of virtue may be prominent, and yet all that may be seen and felt and known of these elemeote which enter into the charaoter of the man are closed up in the fidel of the book he may peruse. He sees and feels something. He cannot tell what it is, simply because in the course of his edncation he had never been taught to observe, to observe accurately the characteristic little up knowledge thus galeed, making it a part and parcel of his own being.

We therefore claim the business of the student is, in all he sees to observe carefully the points of likeness, and with these also the points of diff rences, for differences necessarily go along with likeness, as the shadow goes with the light. Differences make up no part of the actual thing.

Yet they separate one genius from another. The great classification to be taught is "natural order." Thus the artificial arrangement, such as the words placed alphabetically in a dictionary or the order of the rules in arithmetic or algebra, may be useful helps to the learner in the commencement of his education, but if exclusively used are hindrances to true knowledge.

What we want, or rather what young men and women want, is to acquire the habit of uniting things according to their natural affinities and this can only be done by the combination of a broad view of general effect, with an accurate observation of the special properties contained.

Who does not pity the child that wends his way day after day to school to learn what the book contains. Having eyes they see and do not perceive; ears have they, but they do not hear. Thus on and on they go, observing nothing, feeling nothing, and we add knowing nothing. For their education is a theory based only on a system or series of books which, when taken from them, leave them to wander on in hopeless ignorance.

Thought has never been awakened, conscience, the monitor of the soul, has never been enthroned. That he is immortal there is bet a faint conception; that virtue is to be practiced seems a mystery. Yet he is called a smart child or young man, as the case may be. Humb a, oh, terrible is the calamity that has befallen the character of that man or woman who has been thus educated! The kind of education for the American youth is that which will teach the laws of nature and nature's God, that they may see through the dim veils of bygone centuries the principles that actuated Socrates and Plato and Aristotle, that they may draw them into their lives and make it sum and substance of their own existence; that the foundation on which their character is built may be such that no system of philosophy, no false logic of event, no theory of words will ever be destroy, but that it is built upon a sure, a strong, a solid foncdation.

The facts of experience and not "book knowledge" we ask, we implore, that such elements enter the education of our youth, that their relation be such to the end that the world may have men who know the right, and dare to do it.

The Virginia Legislature has specially empowered Miss May Amelia Smith to place upon the State's engraved on the tomb of her father, who was twice Governor of Virginia. It is related of "Extra Billy" (who entered the Confederate service when he was over sixty years old) that he and General Mahone, while reconnoitering the enemy, were fired upon and were compelled to fall back General Mahone dropped his hat, and Governor Smith dismounted, picked it up, and, riding up, presented it to Mahone, amid the loudest cheering from his brigade.

SHALL WE GLORIFY GOD OR MAN?

BY REV. J. L. LOWE.

During the last five or six months past the columns of the CHRISTIAN RECORDER have been filled with suggestione, plans and discussions intended for the consideration of the members of the coming General Conference, appointed some few months hence, but a careful perusal of these numerous suggestions, plans and discussions reveals but one line of thought or ideas, viz., of a earthly honors and promotion. No knowledge has been advanced concerning any plan or plans for the purpose of sustaining or extending our missionary work, either home or foreign. Not a word about our educational work, which is one among the most important duties that is before us, for we may scan the pages of his story, either ancient or modern, sacred or profane, and you cannot find a single instance where any nation, race or people ever rose to any prominence or greatness who neglected their educational interests or left in the hands of others to perform for them. As a race we may write, talk and complain about being deprived of our rights, but we will never be recognized as a people of worth, observe, to observe accurately the characteristic little up knowledge thus galeed, making it a part and parcel of his own being.

We therefore claim the business of the student is, in all he sees to observe carefully the points of likeness, and with these also the points of diff rences, for differences necessarily go along with likeness, as the shadow goes with the light. Differences make up no part of the actual thing.

Yet they separate one genius from another. The great classification to be taught is "natural order." Thus the artificial arrangement, such as the words placed alphabetically in a dictionary or the order of the rules in arithmetic or algebra, may be useful helps to the learner in the commencement of his education, but if exclusively used are hindrances to true knowledge.

What we want, or rather what young men and women want, is to acquire the habit of uniting things according to their natural affinities and this can only be

There are numerous other things that I might mention If space would permit, far more important to the Church than the selection of a few men to the office of Bishop, for after all, if the members of the next General Conference decide to elect more Bishops, they will have to select them from men who possess smaller qualities to other men. They will be men of like passions to others, with their likes and dislikes, with their prejudices, etc. Therefore it is useless to spend so much time and space discussing a matter of Bishops and presiding elders; if the whole Church would adopt the old Methodist rule, we would save ourselves a great deal of unnecessary formality and accomplish a greater work for God and humanity.

THE DEATH OF MRS. WOODLIN.

MR. EDITOR:—Here and there the bonored and aged members of the A. M. E. Church are laying down the crosses, the responsibilities of this life and are entering their long sought rest. How true is the fact that the paths of God's children diverge in many directions in this wilderness of sorrow, but it is consoling to know they converge at the gates of heaven. Death is not only thinning the ranks of the laity, but the wives and ministerial ranks are being thinned by the sickle of death.

Mrs. Frances Woodlin, wife of the late Rev. Joshua, departed this life at one o'clock A. M., January 12, in Trenton, New Jersey, after a lingering illness possibly brought on by the hardship of former life, and the infirmities of old age; she died in great peace and in the full triumph of faith. "Mother Woodlin," as she was justly called, was born in Burlington, New Jersey, February 18, 1813, being about 75 years of age. When considering the weight and sorrows of nearly seventy five years, we may suppose she had a remarkable constitution, and closely observed the laws of health, which all women ought to do. As her mother was a strict Methodist, Sister Woodlin was converted to the Lord Jesus when quite a young woman in the M. E. Church. When the A. M. E. Church was organized in Burlington, New Jersey, she was among the first to join this branch of God's church; and when the first A. M. E. Church building was erected there, I was informed by her that she carried some brick for the foundation. She lived a member of Wesley A. M. E. Church, and was personally acquainted with Bishop Allen, heard him preach many times, and thought it a short distance to walk up on Arch street on Sundays to hear him preach. She was of such a congenial disposition that wherever her husband was appointed to preach, the people of all classes loved and respected her as a noble, Christian woman. She informed Rev. Joshua Woodlin, her husband, to visit their house and lot in Burlington to the A. M. E. Church for a parsonage, with the understanding that the church pay her so much rent per month till her death, and she will stands good to-day.

Sister Woodlin was a remarkable woman. Rev Woodlin was not only a minister of the gospel, but a school teacher; this, of course, brought her in contact with books, and she gave evidences of having read quite extensively. She was a member of Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church, and lived in Trenton eighteen years, and was honored and loved and respected by all who keew her. The funeral was held in Mt. Zion A. M. E Church and was largely attended. Bishop Campbell and wife were present, and the former made some appropriate remarks, dwelling on the religious life and character of the deceased, as did also Rev. Frisby, of Bethel Church, Philadelphia, who knew her when she was a young woman. The following ministers were present: Revs. J. C. Ayler, L. Burgis, J. H. Pierce, G. A. Mills and J. T. Digge. Rev. Mrs. Dr. Felts was also present, as was Mrs. L. Burton and others from Philadelphia.

When we arrived in Burlington, a very feeling service was had. Remarks were made by Revs. Pierce, Mills, Morgan and Cooper. Rev. Mrs. Cuff and Matthews were present. The body was laid at rest by the side of that of J. Woodlin's, in the A. M. E. Church at Burlington. Two sisters and a large circle of friends are left to mourn her loss.

DR. STEWARD'S NEW BOOK.

In reply to many questions respecting my forthcoming book, I beg to say that its full title is "The End of the World; or, Clearing the Way for the Fullness of the Gentiles."

It enters upon an entirely new line of discussion, and is of intense interest to all the dark races of the earth. It reaches the conclusion that after this age it almost impossible to get our people out to church except on a bright Sunday afternoon or night, when they can exhibit their fine dress; in many of our churches prayer meeting is never heard of; class meeting is very slimly attended and very little interest manifested towards the upbuilding of the church These are truths that cannot be denied

ANNEXATION OF CANADA.

THE DISASTROUS ATTEMPT TO ACCOMPLISH IT BY FORCE—A FAMOUS RETREAT.

The present agitation concerning the relations between Canada and the United States recalls the time when the annexation of that country was proposed to be brought about by force of arms. The project was entrusted to the brave General Montgomery, assisted by the famous patriots, Colonels Ethan Allen and Seth Warner. While engaged in this invasion Ethan Allen was taken prisoner by the British and sent to England, where he experienced very harsh treatment.

It was Colonel Warner who twice conducted his men safely home, though the march was constantly surrounded by daegers. Once Montgomery sent them home because their time was out, and though they were willing to continue in service, they were without sufficient clothing, and none could be had in that country. Colonel Warner had hardly arrived home before he heard that Montgomery had been killed, and the cause, as well as the lives of the soldiers, were in great jeopardy. He collected his men again and at once started for Canada to assist his countrymen in their extremity. But his efforts were of no avail, and it was soon found necessary to take up the line of retreat.

It was the dead of winter, and only necessity sanctioned moving the troops. The terror of pursuit and the rigor of the season furnish a motive for haste and speed. Colonel Warner remained with the rear of the army, and aided them in many ways most effectually, as he was a man well posted in caring for the sick and this knowledge came into excellent use.

He must keep the army in motion, not a day must be lost, and yet he was without any chest of medicines. But he understood the medicinal use of roots and herbs, and of proper care at critical times, with these allies, he made an effectual fight against disease among his men.

When Ticonderoga was reached and the roll called, thanks to Seth Warner but few vacancies in the ranks appeared

Col Warner saved the lives of hundreds of men in this way, and he did a good work, but it remained for his namesake, H. H. Warner, head of Warner's Safe Cure establishment, to give the same kind of remedies then used to the people of to-day. Warner's Log Cabin Remedies." These remedies have been adopted after thorough trial and investigation, and they are remedies of established reputation. Being wholly vegetable, they can be used without any fear as to their effects.

Among the new remedies is a Sarsaparilla for the blood, Hops and Buchu for the stomach and digestion, Cough and Consumption Remedy, Regulator for the head and liver, Liver Cream for that horrible disease, catarrh, a Log Cabin Liver Pill; a Log Cabin Plaster and an Extract for internal and external use. Our readers may rest assured that there is merit in every article.

INDIANA ANNUAL CONFERENCE AND TOBACCO.

BY REV. J. MITCHEM.

LETTER NO. 4.

MR. EDITOR:—I am deeply impressed that a large per cent. of those preachers who are slaves to the use of tobacco are ignorant of the injurious effects of chewing or smoking it.

They also seem to be ignorant of the fact that they are violating the laws of health. A great many preachers will readily admit that chewing or smoking tobacco is a bad habit, yea a filthy habit, but they say that it is not a sin for them to be slaves to the use of tobacco; and many of them seem to be so blind that they cannot, or will not, see or understand that God is the author of the laws of health, and that they are violating the law of God. Now, so far as the slavery is concerned; he (the man who uses, or who is a slave to the use of tobacco), is just as much a violator of the law of God as the man who is a slave to the use of alcoholic liquors, and so far as the filthiness of the two characters is concerned, (the tobacco slave and the whiskey slave), one is just as consistent as the other for the filthiness: if the two above named characters should be put on exhibition, I am quite sure that the tobacco slave will take the first premium.

After they leave their rooms the landlady has to open the doors and hoist the windows in order to rid the room of the sickening scent of the filthy weed. Now, Mr. Editor, I affirm without any fear of successful contradiction that those preachers, as a class, are the most fastidious and unreasonable class of men that I know, for they will compel ladies and gentlemen, and children and babies in their homes and the street, or in the post office and other places to inhale and swallow the foul tobacco smoke from their mouths, whether it is desired or not. I remember one case where a sister in the A. M. E. Church took her pastor and his family to board; they occupied one room for several months; that pastor chewed and smoked tobacco until he was so sick sometimes that he could hardly sit up; and sometimes he would drink so much brandy that he could hardly walk without staggering; yet as a pulpit orator that brother's equal was hard to find; hundreds of nice fishbones at the time, for the Rev. C. H. Spurgeon has very wisely said: "All evil habits are incousistent with the Christian profession." In my next letter I shall speak of the injurious effects of tobacco upon the body and mind of man, as I gleaned by reading, by observation and experience.

THE WEST TEXAS AND CENTRAL TEXAS CONFERENCES.

BY REV. B. W. ROBERTS.

These conference met at Bastrop, Texas, December 15th, Bishop A. W. Wayman, D. D., presiding. After religious services and the Bishop's usual lecture, which was received greedily by all the brethren, Rev. A. F. Jackson called the roll and nearly one hundred ministers answered. Revs. A. P. Buckner, G. B. Taylor and A. Grant were elected secretaries; Rev. B. W. Roberts, reporter to the RECORDER, Southern Recorder and State papers. The different committees were then appointed. The following brethren were then introduced to the conference: Rev. W. A. J Phillips, of the Arkansas Conference; Rev. W. R. Carson, M. D., of the South Arkansas Conference; Rev. J. E Edwards, the scholar of the Texas Conference; Rev. M. Falliner, of the Baptist Church. The financial report of the conference was then called which showed a decided improvement. The conference then adjourned to meet at 7.30 P. M. to hear the annual sermon preached by Rev. G. E. Taylor, presiding elder of the Chappell Hill District, who delivered a most eloquent discourse. On motion of the writer the sermon was ordered to the list of the conference minutes. Elder Taylor is one of Texas' ablest ministers.

SECOND DAY.

The financial table was completed, after which examination of characters took place. The Bishop gave a very able admonition. He said no guilty man should be allowed to escape and that no men, be he proven as an angel, could escape the tongue of calumny, but advised all brethren to defend each other justly, with love for all and malice toward none The name of Rev. Walton deemed to constitute a doubtful case, but due inquiry showed he character clear. The presiding elders reported their work in good condition in every particular. Friday at twelve M., being set for the Centennial service, the Bishop appointed Revs. W. A. J. Phillips, W. R. Carson and E. Gaines to deliver addresses. W. A. J. Phillips made an eloquent speech of the progress of the A. M. E. Church in the last hundred years. The doctor dwelt on the necessity of education, and on the among our ministers. He urged the brethren to labor for the educational advantages held out to them. He said if we did not educate, we would soon die out and our places would not be known. Rev. W. R. Carson, M. D., next addressed us; he spoke very feelingly of the thousands dead who looked forward to this day when African Methodism should reach its present eminence. He spoke of the millions yet unborn whose future happiness depended on the work now in progress. He said the work of the Church told too plainly that God had called the African to carry the gospel. He said he loved the African Methodist Church because it is the church of manhood. The fire kindled by Richard Allen, Absalom Jones and Coker would never go out. Rev. A. Grant then told in unmistakeable language of the beauties, grandeur and triumphs of African Methodism with five million dollars' worth of church property, managed and controlled by black hands, told too well its future prosperity. He said Paul Quinn College stood as the giant prodigy of the nineteenth century. The centennial collection amounted to $7 10. At 7.30 P. M. a sermon was preached by Rev. J. E. Edwards, D. D., from a deep and philosophical sermon. Rev. Edwards being a young man, surprised many by his eloquence.

The third day's session was taken up in hearing the various committee reports, which showed a decided improvement in every direction. After which the Central Conference elected delegates to General Conference. A. Grant was elected on the first ballot, then deme Rev. J. H. Wilhite, presiding elder; your humble servant was elected alternate. The West Texas Conference elected Revs. G. E. Taylor, J. F. Jackson, J. R. Bryant and the Bishop's annual address, which was received greedily by all the brethren, Rev. A. F. Jackson called the roll and nearly one hundred ministers answered. Revs. A. P. Buckner, G. B. THE STRIKE in the Reading (Pa.) mines continues and great suffering follows.

PHILADELPHIA has been visited with a large fire during the past week, entailing a loss of property and goods amounting to about one million dollars.

DR. C. S. SMITH publishes an important notice in this issue. Without evincing any disposition to enter into a discussion of the merits of the question involved we simply say that it is a strongly drawn document and very forcible and clear in its construction.

IT MAY BE inspiring to our General Conference lay-delegates to know that the Rev. William Taylor was a lay-delegate to the M. E. General Conference of 1884, which elected him Bishop. He is one of the greatest men in the Episcopal office. In a recent letter he speaks of attending their General Conference next spring, saying that it will be very difficult to leave his African work. The General Conference will probably make him a "full" Bishop if it can ascertain that he is not full already. From our standpoint he appears quite as full as the fullest. Just how they will proceed to make him fuller is the question.

THE TARIFF question seems to be uppermost in political circles at present. Both the great parties seem to have mutually agreed that it shall constitute the issue for 1888. Few common persons will be able to see how it should outrank some other subjects of importance. That it does is only another instance of the hold money has upon us. Great moral questions are sunk beneath the question of gain. There has been much effort spent in making prohibition the issue, but the real strong men, the men who move our political machinery, will not allow prohibition to become the issue. There have been attempts to compare this subject with slavery, but the differences are greater and more numerous than the similarities. Slavery forced itself to an issue much more rapidly than prohibition can do.

THE GREAT blizzard in the far West has severely punished the people. It has been the coldest wave known to civilized America. Think of sixty-two degrees below zero! Hundreds of human beings and thousands of lower animals succumbed to the wild winds, driving snow and low temperature. Those who live in a timbered country but poorly appreciate the condition of those who in such adverse circumstances were not only without fuel, but without anything like the loose timbers and wooden fences that are so plentiful in timbered countries. Farm implements, house furniture and fences, where there were any, have been used as fuel by many. Thousands of bushels of corn were also used as fuel. But some travelers and many others were so exposed that they perished. Sad tales are told of school teachers perishing on their way home, with little pupils in their arms, dead also; old and sick persons dying at home, while those upon whom they depended were frozen.

THE CHURCH'S opportunity is now, always. To it there are no times nor seasons. Its movements are as constant as those of the planets and should be as regular and harmonious. The Divine energy upon which they depend is equal to that upon which those of the planets depend. The inharmonies of our natures prevent the free course of this energy. The refinement of our associations is slow. There is many a well converted man who carries with him into communion so much of pre-acquired material that he is for a long while, though a strong wheel, a fifth wheel. He attempts to bear on in his new life a large amount of the "old man," his former self, with all its lack of refinement. The necessity of moral refinement is equal to that of the moral change. To be born again is in order to live again. To be made anew is in order to living anew. What mighty works must he wrought in us and among us. What patient, what careful examinations and watchings. What earnest praying and acting.

THE STRETCHES and yearnings of our natures towards all that promises pleasure or guarantees greatness are not limited to any given side of the human race. Therefore, the meanness that enters into the compact that protects any trade, any source of pleasure or avenue to the attainment of the full measure of our creation, is clear.

The word "white" or the word "black," referring to the color of persons in any instrument regulating human associations, is a disgrace to men and an insult to God. There is too much easiness on the part of our Christian times on this subject. The division of conveyances, depots, hotels, schools, offices, churches, literary associations or places of amusement by these words, white and black, is incompatible with the well-being of a republic and a support of immorality. The division by color prevents the proper subdivisions by moral quality. These facts apply with equal force to every phase of the social question. Under the present social management in this country, no black man can be equal to any white man; no white man can be inferior to any black man. Every person is sufficiently wise to see whither such measurement tends.

THE GOOD article clipped from the editorial columns of the Southern Recorder, provokes the statement that "circuits" are really not necessarily greater avenues for movement than stations. A name is a small consideration in such case. Often the station preacher does a hundred fold more moving than the circuit rider. We cannot see the great distinction between the two that the Southern Recorder feels. The British Wesleyan Methodist Church, greatest of all Methodisms in age, is greatest in little else. With only circuits one hundred and fifty years it has not nearly the influence of the M. E. Church of a century. It is not this distinction that underlies Methodist success, but the earnest of the spirit that sends a sanctified ministry out into the world in a constant line, whether their "circuit" be among three hundred people all meeting in one building or three hundred meeting in four churches, paying railroads as much as preachers.

The idea of the patriarchal and prophetical circuits is indeed interesting, but not of any logical force in its connection. We could say as much of the circuits of the planets, etc. There is probably as much argument from nature, from patriarchs and prophets, in favor of stations; but what of it all? Preachers must go—must move, go about doing good, God helping, whether in station or circuit.

A FREQUENT expression of a pitiable, old, drunken man, whom we knew years ago, was, "What's a man when he ain't nowhere?" Those seems to be a possibility for ministers in our Church to reach that indescribable place. The methods of trying ministers on charges of wrong-doing and transferring ministers from conference to conference for various reasons are lacking a very necessary link or two. Ought a minister accused of serious wrong-doing—or, indeed, any wrong-doing worthy an examination—be transferred beyond the jurisdiction of the conference in which the basis for such charge is said to exist? Reason and justice would both say, no, for financial and prudential reasons, as well as for justice. It must be more expensive to examine a case after a man charged has transferred; if he is to be present. If he is not at the trial he is unlikely to be justly dealt with. But his transfer and his subsequent appointment before a hearing is unkind and unjust to any people to whom he may be appointed, the ministers with whom he is to associate and to those whom he has left, believing that he has degraded his calling. It is a violation of the spirit of the law and a sad subversion of government; favoring crime in the ministry and affording a cloak for sin. Now, after all this, suppose this charged, transferred minister becomes also a condemned minister, i. e., the conference in whose bounds he is accused has tried him, though absent, and finding him guilty as charged, has expelled him. Being already employed in another conference can he be in any sense considered in good standing in this second conference? This would seem to be a question to which but one answer could be given; that such minister is not in good and regular standing and should not be so considered.

However great the injustice that may have been done to a minister by the conference in which he is charged, in expelling him in his absence, a greater injustice is done the cause of the ministry by holding him in good and regular standing immediately after expulsion.

What becomes of these cases ultimately? They should not be allowed to sink into forgetfulness. The methods by which such men are employed should be investigated by the proper power and the responsibility for such unreasonable and destructive actions fixed upon the proper shoulders.

If a minister, after due notice of the intention of committee or conference, declines or refuses to attend the examination and is expelled, he should be placed on the outside of the ministry; especially so since he has forfeited the right to appeal. Surely it is sufficiently easy for Bishops to have a common list of all such cases, indeed of all ministers in the connection, and to place into the hands of their presiding elders the list of all ministers resting under charges, clouds or condemnations, instructing them that certain men must not be employed in the pulpit under any circumstance. Such an episcopal and presiding elder's list would obviate much difficulty and relieve the Church of scandal.

WOMAN IN THE CHURCH OF GOD.

The recognition of woman as the other side, the equal side, if not the better side of man, has made but slow progress. Though at creation there is every indication of her equality and none of her inferiority; she seems to have lost ground in many respects in the life-race from the very first on down through centuries. She has been debased to the vilest servitude, exalted to the greatest altitude of human deification, transformed from the poorest toy to the highest angel. Even the great civilization of the nineteenth century is only beginning to recognize and employ woman in her full value.

The Jewish Church was established when man was the representative of himself and woman also, largely; the commandments were given to men, the government was given to men, the priesthood was given to men, the spirit of prophecy was given to men. There were exceptions in respect to several of these cases, but this was the rule. So we could say the scribes, the philosophers, the teachers, the doctors, the lawyers, the chiefs and the warriors of later times have been men.

It is in our more Christian times that woman is taking her proper place. Every phase of even semi-civilization has approached the proper regard for woman in some respects. In one case she has been properly regarded as the mother, in another as the gentle modifier of rough human nature, still another as a good martyr to religious faith. In our immediate times the tendency toward making woman, not simply equal to man, but man like is too great. There should be great distinction between these two facts. All that has been said in praise and honor of motherhood, wifehood, gentle companionship and poetic influence as peculiar to woman has not over-measured her actual contribution to the race. But it is an important question whether, in our efforts to grant her all the honors due, we may not be in danger of robbing woman of the very ability to maintain those qualities that conquer and compel our devotions.

Women are not only filling pulpits (which may be well enough), but they are clerking, pleading law, managing railroads and managing other large secular and coarser work.

Is it in the interest of humanity or of Christianity that this state of affairs should continue and grow? This question may be considered a long while.

The tendency of our times is not towards true refinement, but a refinement that is very selfish and without much heart.

The training of the rising world requires the combined presence and direction of both man and woman. It will be a sad day for the world when equality before the law shall mean that woman may legally be placed in any position that State or Church has to give; when she will be taken from home to attend the hard affairs of State. The strength and the rights of women must be maintained as the strength and rights of men are maintained by developing womanliness. The inspirations of woman's spirit upon the world are worth all that is given to the world by man's peculiar strength. The Christian Church will harmonize the two sides of humanity and ultimately find the golden line on the respective sides of which shall play all the graces and loveliness of woman and all the stern, rugged manfulness of man.

THE DIVINE PRESENCE.

In a letter received last week from a brother engaged in a revival, this statement was made: "I never before felt the Divine presence so really," referring to a certain meeting. That awakened again the thoughts that must so frequently recur in the mind of all men, what is this awful presence? We compare it with impressions, with imaginations, with desires, with the exaltations of joy and the depressions of fear; it is none of these. We compare it with eloquence, with beauty, with form, with motion, with magnitude, with time, with space; it is none of these. We compare it with magnetism, with electricity, with gravitation, with cohesion and adhesion, but it is none of these. Indeed, we find it above these and in connection with them.

Our efforts at explaining omnipresence is far from satisfactory to ourselves, and to those who hear, our efforts to explain it away would be still more difficult, while any efforts to explain the presence of everything else—of anything else—without taking account of the Divine presence is the most difficult of all things. Sometimes persons say, "the Lord told me to do thus." You may doubt this statement, you may deny it, but it comes from a man whom you would never doubt if his message to you was of the ordinary kind. Nor can you be sure that he is false; that he is following a delusion, because you have heard nothing from God? May not the Maker of ear and mind reach the mind without employing the organ that he has constructed so delicately as a medium between men? Others say they saw the Lord. Do you deny it? May not he who formed the marvelous eye and mind in such tender, such exquisite relations and for such noble purpose, make intelligible impressions upon that mind without employing the instruments so necessary to man?

Many say they feel his presence. Some say that is all imagination, but, like hearing and sight, feeling, both that kind which comes from touch, and may be called external, and that which comes from mental states and actions, is a fact; the former to acquaint the mind with externalities and the latter with internalities. May not God use the latter without affecting our minds by ordinary methods?

Whether or not these interrogations can be answered in the affirmative, one thing is sure: that the Divine presence is a reality, from which we cannot escape. It is of great interest to all men that they study this subject as a reality. The old Scriptures ask if a man by searching can find out God, and answer, he will be found by those who seek after him. The New Testament says they that seek him shall find him. This Divine presence overshadows us at all times, regardless of our condition. To the sinner seeking rest it is a present help in the time of trouble; to the way-worn traveler it is a rock in a weary land; to the stranger in the world's great throng it is the fairest of ten thousand; to the sorrowful it is the sun of righteousness; to those depressed with life's burdens it is a day-spring; to those to whom life is otherwise a waste, howling wilderness, it is the rose of Sharon and the lily of the valley, and to the dying it is eternal life.

The promise of God to Moses, "My presence shall go with you," has been repeated to every mortal pilgrim, and with it a score of concomitant and adjusted promises. Traveler, don't wait for the enthusiasm of the congregation and earthly communion of saints, all of which must pass away, to assure you of the abiding presence, but from every standpoint accept a present Lord.

Every minute has some duty.

—Prof. F. S. Delany, A. B., of Lincoln Institute, Jefferson City, spent his holidays in St. Louis.

—Bishop Campbell has presented Allen Chapel, Philadelphia, with a Sunday school library worth $50.

—Dr. T. G. Steward was in our city last week and preached the funeral sermon of Mrs. Lydia Wears.

—Rev. P. F. Matthews, of Atlantic City, was in Philadelphia last week. He is succeeding nicely at his work.

—Rev. J. H. Armstrong is stationed at Houston, Texas, and is very highly commended by papers of his city.

—Rev. Mr. Dorsey, pastor of the Wilberforce College Chapel, is having a wonderful revival. Thank God.

—The church building erected by Sister Margaret Will on is in Franklinville, New Jersey, not New York.

—Rev. J. T. Shaffer has been quite ill recently, as, according to a Western exchange, is his brother, Rev. G. H. Shaffer.

—Dr. W. B. Derrick, D.D., has recently visited his district as presiding elder. We received a letter from him last week away up in northern New York.

—The Bastrop (Tex.) Bee speaks in complimentary terms of our pastor in that city, Rev. Mr. McKenna, also of Bishop Wayman, who held conference in that city.

—Bishop Ward has completed the conferences of his own district, the two assigned him from the first district last year, having still to hold the South Carolina Conference in February.

—The Rev. J. H. Morgan, of Salem, N. J., has had a great revival, over fifty conversions. His church is in a good condition. The Salem people have gotten along well with the payments on their new church.

—The death of Mrs. Eunice P. Shadd Lindsey, of Xenia, O., has taken from our Church a faithful member and from this world one of its noble women. Mrs. Lindsey was far above the average human being in Christian nobleness.

—Sister Elizabeth Ralls sets a Sunday breakfast in Liberty Hall, Philadelphia, every Sunday morning, where the suffering, and often otherwise breakfastless, may have a good cup of coffee and substantial food. God bless Sister Ralls.

—Mr. H. O. Tanner is spending the winter in Jacksonville, Fla. Philadelphia misses the young artist, who is doing much to redeem the black hand so long degraded by master. Last week's Harper's Young People contains a full page picture bearing the name, H. O. Tanner. It is as white as others.

—The Rev W. H. Bryant has manifested great interest in the Johnson case, having been chosen as spiritual adviser for over a year. Johnson has been in the Media, Pa., jail under sentence of death during that time. His life has been respited from time to time. His case is now before the State Board of Pardons the second time. If that Board does not hear the petitions favorably he dies next month.

—At the recent session of the Texas Annual Conference of the A. M. E. Church, at Bastrop, Rev. A. Grant, who, for the past four or five years has been the able and zealous pastor of the church in this city, was transferred to San Antonio, where he will go in a couple of weeks. During his residence in Austin Elder Grant has won the good opinion and respect of all classes, and in his new field of labor carries with him their best wishes for his happiness and prosperity. Rev. J. H. Armstrong, of Dallas, will succeed Elder Grant as pastor of the A. M. E. Church in Austin. —Austin Daily Statesman.

THOUGHTS ON REVIVAL MEETINGS.

BY A CHRISTIAN SOLDIER.

The holidays are past with their season of merriment and festivities and every one has settled down for winter work. The churches especially at this time usually commence some effort to turn mankind from the darkness of sin into the light of the Son of God.

It seems to me that the results of the work would be larger and more satisfactory if the leaders of our several churches did not attempt the work with undisciplined forces. In order to obtain the best results in any undertaking it is necessary that some plan of procedure be clearly formulated in the mind and the work done on that basis. A general, when he is about to enter upon an engagement, considers the best positions for his army, the probable number and strength of the enemy, their means of defense, whether he will gain by a pitched battle or not—in short, he goes over the ground and becomes acquainted with the field which is to be the scene of future defeat or victory. It is not so much the bravery and valor displayed upon the battle-field that is the test of good generalship, as it is the power and good skill to plan a campaign, which tests the genius of a general and tells whether he is worthy of the name or not. Napoleon, before his memorable career in Italy, studied late and early, and ere the first blow was struck his mind possessed the key to victory. The men who have led in the great battles of the world's history were followed by no undisciplined troops; but, on the contrary, they were men who understood the tactics of war, and with confidence in their own powers and that of their general, they went forward to victory and fame.

If preparation and drill are necessary for men who would obtain earthly honor, how much more so is it for those who have enlisted under the flag of the Great King, and who are engaged in a moral conflict, whose war is waged for the purpose of turning souls from the kingdom of this world to that of our God and his Christ. If the soldiers of the Cross are conscious of a higher mission than that which actuated a Grant or a Sherman, shall they not make preparation commensurate with the dignity of their work?

There is too much aimless work done in our revival meetings. Random shots may sometimes hit the mark, but is it wise to allow the issue of the battle to depend upon these occasional sharpshooters? In order that the word of God be effectual in pulling down the strongholds of satan, it is essential that each soldier should be drilled in the fine arts of war, that he should be clothed in the habiliments of a Christian warrior. Let him not go forth to fight the great Apollyon without his shield; but put on the whole armour of God.

The songs which are sung upon the battle-field were war songs; songs which fired the heart of every soldier and incited them to victory. Too often it has been our experience to note that when the call has been made, urging those who would seek Christ to come and bow at the anxious seat, some soldier of the Cross with more zeal than knowledge, sings, "Come, thou fount of every blessing," "Try us, O God," or, worse still, one of those nameless songs that has neither point nor purpose. Our prayers should be special appeals to God for sinners and for strength to do the work. We want victory over the hearts of men; we want to see them turned to God; and this should be the burden of our prayers, not the sick and the afflicted, the poor and needy and the distressed everywhere. Let the men who stand at the head of these armies of Christian men and women lay out before them the plan of the campaign the line of march to be followed, the proper division of the army, for there are some soldiers that would serve the cause better if they were relegated to the rear, and vice versa. We think the Church would see greater results, there would be less desultory firing, sometimes hitting and sometimes missing the mark; but, with minds and hearts consecrated, and faith in God, every shot would be a missile from the very throne of heaven, exploding with power in the face of the enemy of souls.

HINTS TO PARENTS AND YOUNG FOLKS.

Parents and teachers and the church with its appliances are all engaged in training youth to do. It is the age of doing. But the essential prerequisite of doing is being. Character is the seed of acts. In our haste to have every young man do something are we not forgetting that they must have a right start? Knowledge, moral convictions, religious principle are needful before young men are fit to undertake anything but subordinate employment. A youth whose whole thought is of a ball game, or of a dance, or of a banquet, cannot do the serious work of life successfully, cannot either make plans or carry out the plans of others. And yet, what is called "pleasure," in one form or another, is the whole thought and purpose and occupation as far as possible of many young lives. No wonder the preacher of righteousness, temperance and a judgment to come cannot get hold of such minds, or interest them in things unseen and eternal. They will not be interested in things seen and temporal enjoyment; how much less will they be affected by the claims of another and immortal life! But while these gilded youth are living their butterfly life about a flame which will surely singe their wings and perhaps burn them to death, many of the other class of whom I wrote are learning in Christian associations and in Christian company how to live wisely, nobly and well. Not all of the young men who are so gathered turn out good men and useful citizens, but a majority do. They are without home training, but they have done their best to supplement the deficiency; they cannot go to foreign countries and gain knowledge of their languages and modes of business, but they are trying to learn foreign tongues in language-classes, and by the faithful use of the libraries to which they have access. They are cultivating mind and heart as well as the physical nature. If sometimes their work is a little rude and clumsy, still it is honest and thorough work, and has disciplined the man who wrought it.

The pastor will not be disappointed in his labors among this class of young men. They will be grateful to him for his friendly interest; they will yield a rich fruitage for all the care and thought and toil which he may bestow upon them; and in future years he may thank God that when disappointed in the young men who ought, from their advantages of birth and educational opportunity, to have been its helpers and friends, he turned to the youths in the Christian association and to the lonely lads from the country in their cheerless bedrooms and gave them his best thought and most unstinted help. For these are the men who will largely decide the future of our churches, of our religious societies, of the charitable and philanthropic movements of the next generation. They are not triflers, they have got through with play if they ever knew what it was; they were made for work, when they were sent out into the world, and they know it, and mean to give the best work of which they are capable to Him who made and redeemed them.

The Christian young men are not all among these; thank God there are some, children of the rich and the noble and the mighty, that are called; "not many," the Scripture says, but there are some, and they are born leaders in every good cause, and their handsare as full of saving interests as their hearts are of benevolent and gracious plans; but the hosts of the elect who are marked workers for God, having been trained in a harder school and led by a different way into his kingdom, are those who will disappoint the pastor or make him feel that his strength is spent for nought.—Augustus, in Zion's Herald.

NOTICE OF PETITION AND CONTEST.

WHEREAS, The General Conference of the African M. E. Church, in session at St. Louis, Mo., May, 1880, did, by resolution unanimously passed, express its pleasure and willingness to effect organic union with the British M. E. Church, and did create a Commission to treat with the representatives of the British M. E. Church on the subject of organic union; and

WHEREAS, The commissioners on the part of the African M. E. Church did assemble themselves at the place and time of meeting of the General Conference of the British M. E. Church, viz: Toronto, Ont., September, 1880; and

WHEREAS, The General Conference of the British M. E. Church, in session at the place and time aforesaid, did create a Commission to treat with the commissioners of the African M. E. Church on the subject of organic union; and

WHEREAS, The joint commission, to wit: the commissioners of the African M. E. Church and the commissioners of the British M. E. Church, agreed to effect organic union; and did formulate, consent to, approve and adopt articles of agreement for organic union, and attested the same by affixing their several signatures, thereby mutually agreeing and solemnly pledging and binding the two churches and the denominations which they represented, viz: the African M. E. and the British M. E. Churches, to faithfully, completely and without reservation as to any part thereof, conform to, carry out, uphold, maintain and defend each and every stipulation and condition embodied in the articles of agreement; and

WHEREAS, The African M. E. Church, bound by the acts of its commissioners, did faithfully conform to and carry out each and every stipulation and condition embodied in the articles of agreement; and

WHEREAS, Bishop R. R. Disney, claiming to be the accredited representative of the British M. E. Church to treat on the subject of organic union, appeared before the General Conference of the African M. E. Church, in session at Baltimore, Md., May, 1884, and audibly and officially proclaimed, during the proceedings of one of the regular sessions of said General Conference of the African M. E. Church, convened in Baltimore, Md., May, 1884, that the British M. E. Church had faithfully conformed to, and carried out, each and every stipulation and condition embodied in the articles of agreement as formulated, consented to, approved and adopted by the joint commission heretofore referred to; and

WHEREAS, The General Conference of the African M. E. Church, in session at the place and time last mentioned, confiding in the correctness of the representations made to it by Bishop R. R. Disney, the supposed authorized agent of the British M. E. Church, did order the Bishops of the African M. E. Church to issue a proclamation decreeing and affirming the completion of organic union with the British M. E. Church in all matters in which the African M. E. Church was required to act and assent to by the stipulations and conditions of the articles of agreement; and

WHEREAS, Under date of September 4, 1884, and at Chatham, in the Dominion of Canada, Bishop R. R. Disney issued a proclamation decreeing and affirming the completion of organic union with the African M. E. Church in all matters in which the British M. E. Church was required to act and assent to by the stipulations and conditions of the articles of agreement as formulated, consented to, approved and ratified by the Joint commission first mentioned in the third (3) paragraph of this preamble; and

WHEREAS, Proof exists that the British M. E. Church at no time previous to, or since the issuing of the proclamation by Bishop R. R. Disney at the time, place and for the purpose named and expressed in the preceding paragraph had, or has, faithfully conformed to and carried out each and every stipulation and condition embodied in the articles of agreement for organic union with the African M. E. Church, now, therefore, be it known that—

I, Charles Spencer Smith, a minister in good and regular standing in the African M. E. Church, do hereby serve notice on all whom it may concern that I shall (D. V.) petition the General Conference of the African M. E. Church, to convene in the city of Indianapolis, in the State of Indiana, United States of America, Monday, May 7, 1888, to review the several proceedings by which the African M. E. Church sought to effect organic union with the British M. E. Church, and if sufficient reasons can be shown therefor to declare that the African M. E. Church stands related to the British M. E. Church in the precise manner that it did prior to September 4, 1884, i. e., separate and independent; but that such declaration shall not operate as a bar against the admission of any bishop, preacher or lay member of the British M. E. Church who may voluntarily apply for membership to the African M. E. Church; provided that should the applicant be a bishop, he shall not rank as such in the African M. E. Church unless elected to said office by a General Conference of the African M. E. Church.

The grounds of the petition will principally be as follows, to wit:

First. That the British M. E. Church has failed to observe and fulfill the condition of the second article of the agreement, viz: to "accept of the name and discipline of the A. M. E. Church, in any and every particular now and forever."

Second. That it failed to observe and fulfill the condition in the third article of the agreement, which required that the articles of agreement as a whole should be submitted to each of the annual conferences of the British M. E. Church for their approval or rejection; proof existing that the question of the ratification or rejection of the articles of agreement was not submitted to the Demarara Annual Conference at the British M. E. Church at any time between 1880 and 1884; and one of the courts of Canada has decided that the failure to submit the articles of agreement to the said Demarara Annual Conference between the preceding dates for its approval or rejection vitiated and annulled the entire agreement, and that no part or all of it was in any manner binding on any of the societies of the British M. E. Church, and refused to grant the writ of mandamus which Bishop R. R. Disney applied for to compel the trustees of the B. M. E. Church at Chatham, Ontario, to turn over the property to the possession and use of the African M. E. Church.

The petitioner will inquire—Did the African M. E. Church intend to simply effect organic union with but a merefractional part of the British M. E. Church or with the British M. E. Church as a whole? The petitioner will affirm that if it meant the former then has organic union been completed; but if it meant the latter, organic union has not been completed; and for the sole reason that the British M. E. Church has failed to fulfill and carry out each and every stipulation and condition in the articles of agreement, thus releasing and absolving the African M. E. Church from any and all responsibility for the failure to complete organic union with the British M. E. Church, and also releasing it from all obligation to further recognize Bishop R. R. Disney as one of its bishops.

Notice is also given that the right to seats in the General Conference of the African M. E. Church, to convene in Indianapolis, Ind., May, 1888, of all persons who may claim to have been elected as delegates from any part of the territory occupied by the British M. E. Church, prior to September 4, 1884, to said General Conference will be contested. The Demarara Annual Conference of the British M. E. Church is hereby advised not to attempt, under any circumstances, to send delegates to the General Conference of the African M. E. Church, to convene in Indianapolis, Ind., May, 1888, for any other purpose than to apply to said General Conference for admission into the general body of the African M. E. Church; inasmuch as the said Demarara Annual Conference was not made, for reasons known only to the representatives of the British M. E. Church, a party to the consideration, rejection or approval of the articles of agreement for organic union between the African M. E. and the British M. E. Churches.

Further notice is given that the right of Bishop R. R. Disney to equal coassociation with the bishops of the A. M. E. Church in presiding over and regulating the affairs of the General Conference of the African M. E. Church, to convene in Indianapolis, Ind., May, 1888, will be contested, and the petitioner will endeavor to show that the said Bishop R. R. Disney has never been, and is not now, a de facto bishop of the African M. E. Church.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 20, 1888.

MANAGER'S NOTICE.

We are just receiving from the binder a fresh lot of Hymn Books in cloth, sheep, roan and gilt, and, as business is dull just at this season, and we have some stiff bills to meet in February and March, we have resolved to offer churches, choirs and presiding elders this new lot of six hundred copies at a great reduction from regular rates for the next sixty days. Fine dozen cloth bound for $7 20; one dozen sheep bound for $8 40; one dozen roan (bia k), for $9 60; six extra roan gilt for $7.00, and a corresponding reduction on morocco of any class. Now, please send on your orders at once. We will close out this lot or all gone, and then complain that we cease selling at the same rate. Remember, there are only 600 copies at this rate, and the first that come will be the first served.

Remember, also, that we sell the People's Hymn Book, a small, cheap, excellent work, collected by Mr. S. B. Scheffolin. It contains tunes of standard excellence on the opposite page. Only 20 and 25 cents per copy. But we must tell you that the best selling song book we have had for two years or more is the little gem called "Sought Out Songs," by Rev. A. B. Earle, of Boston. This book contains the famous "Lily of the Valley," and other lively tunes and hymns that stir the multitudes into a glow. Send in your orders. Only 30 cents per copy; 5 cents extra by mail.

Finally, we call attention to this paper. We have been late "to press" the last two weeks, and we come a little late still, this week, but with all this we submit that we are handsomer and handier than ever we have been. We are clipped and pasted, we are lighter weight and finer paper than ever before. One drawback only is worthy of note. Having changed our printer, our new pressman has not, for want of skill or time, been able to give us a clear page as we have been accustomed to show our readers hitherto. In appreciation of all we have tried to do for the convenience and pleasure of our patrons, will not our patrons help us a little by securing for the paper at least one cash subscriber for '88?

We earnestly request every subscriber and friend of the RECORDER to show the paper to a friend and ask him or her to try it for one, two or six months. By so doing you will help us, and at the same time promote the advancement of a good cause.

THE STAR CONCERT.

The Star Concert for the benefit of the Parish Building of the Church of the Crucifixion, Rev. H. H. Phillips, pastor, will be given at Musical Fund Hall on Thursday evening, February 9, 1888. Miss Flora Batson, the Queen of Song, will be the leading vocalist, assisted by Miss Dora J. Cole, Soprano; Mr. T. S. Cheatum, Tenor; Mr. Louis DeBrown, Basso, and Mr. W. I. Powell, the "king of fun," with Mrs. Albert Wilson as accompanist. Miss Mary A. Crawford and Miss Mary E. Harper, the talented elocutionists, will also recite choice selections. Twenty dollars will be awarded to the person selling the largest number of tickets. General admission, 25 cents; reserved seat ticket, 50 cents. For sale at Ditson's Music Store, 1228 Chestnut St.

The heroines of Fielding's Novels would have been surprised at the calmness three Boston women exhibited under trying circumstances the other evening. As they were riding rapidly through the streets there was suddenly a lurch, a veering upon one side and a scraping of the carriage over the stones. The axle had broken and the wheel rolled off rapidly. The occupants did not scream nor faint nor exhibit any of the emotions which the heroines of former days thought proper to exhibit. With the simple remark, "The wheel is off!" they stepped quickly out of the carriage, which had come to a standstill, hailed a hardic and were riding away before the gathering crowd had had time to notice that the carriage was deserted at the time of the accident.—Boston Journal.

What Scott's Emulsion Has Done!

Over 25 Pounds Gain in Ten Weeks. Experience of a Prominent Citizen.

THE CALIFORNIA SOCIETY FOR THE SUPPRESSION OF VICE.
SAN FRANCISCO, July 7th, 1886.

I took a severe cold upon my chest and lungs and did not give it proper attention; it developed into bronchitis, and in the fall of the same year I was threatened with consumption. Physicians ordered me to a more congenial climate, and I came to San Francisco. Soon after my arrival I commenced taking Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites regularly three times a day. In ten weeks my avoirdupois went from 155 to 180 pounds and over; the cough meantime ceased. C. R. BENNETT

CATARRH IN THE HEAD.

SYMPTOMS OF THE DISEASE.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a "nasal twang"; the breath is offensive; smell and taste impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians.

COMMON SENSE TREATMENT. If you would remove an evil, strike at its root. As the predisposing or real cause of catarrh is, in the majority of cases, some weakness, impurity, or otherwise faulty condition of the system, in attempting to cure the disease our chief aim must be directed to the removal of that cause. The more we see of this odious disease, and we treat successfully thousands of cases annually at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, the more do we realize the importance of combining with the use of a local, soothing and healing application, a thorough and persistent internal use of blood-cleansing and tonic medicines.

CHIEF RELIANCE. In curing catarrh and all the various diseases with which it is so frequently complicated, as throat, bronchial, and lung diseases, weak stomach, catarrhal deafness, weak or inflamed eyes, impure blood, scrofulous and syphilitic taints, the wonderful powers and virtues of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cannot be too strongly extolled. It has a specific effect upon the lining mucous membranes of the nasal and other air-passages, promoting the natural secretion of their follicles and glands, thereby softening the diseased and thickened membrane, and restoring it to its natural, thin, delicate, moist, healthy condition. As a blood-purifier, it is unsurpassed. As those diseases which complicate catarrh are diseases of the lining mucous membranes, or of the blood, it will readily be seen why this medicine is so well calculated to cure them.

LOCAL AGENT. As a local application for healing the diseased condition in the head, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is beyond all comparison the best preparation ever invented. It is mild and pleasant to use, producing no smarting or pain, and containing no strong, irritating, or caustic drug, or other poison. This Remedy is a powerful antiseptic, and speedily destroys all bad smell which accompanies so many cases of catarrh, thus affording great comfort to those who suffer from this disease.

PERMANENT CURES. The Golden Medical Discovery is the natural "helpmate" of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It not only cleanses, purifies, regulates, and builds up the system to a healthy standard, and conquers throat, bronchial, and lung complications, when any such exist, but, from its specific effects upon the lining membrane of the nasal passages, it aids materially in restoring the diseased, thickened, or ulcerated membrane to a healthy condition, and thus eradicates the disease. When a cure is effected in this manner it is permanent.

Both Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy are sold by druggists the world over. Discovery $1.00, six bottles for $5.00. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy 50 cents; half-dozen bottles $2.50.

A complete Treatise on Catarrh, giving valuable hints as to clothing, diet, and other matters of importance, will be mailed, post-paid to any address, on receipt of one 2-cent postage stamp.

"Maurice Thompson is an ordained prophet of Nature! Whenever he talks of either Birds, Weather, or Archery, the very leaves on the trees stop rustling to listen, and the clouds stand still in the blue to wonder! His latest, 'Sylvan Secrets,' will repay the reading."—Evening Journal, Chicago.

"Mr. Thompson is a pleasing writer, and a new book from him, dealing with outdoor subjects in his own charming way, such as those who have read his previous works will not easily forget, is sure to be welcomed by an eager and extensive circle of readers. His observations are fresh, keen, intelligent, and full of a bright and original individuality."—Times, Hartford.

What Scott's Emulsion Has Done!

Over 25 Pounds Gain in Ten Weeks. Experience of a Prominent Citizen.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7th, 1886.

I took a severe cold upon my chest and lungs and did not give it proper attention; it developed into bronchitis, and in the fall of the same year I was threatened with consumption. Physicians ordered me to a more congenial climate, and I came to San Francisco. Soon after my arrival I commenced taking Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites regularly three times a day. In ten weeks my avoirdupois went from 155 to 180 pounds and over; the cough meantime ceased. C. R. BENNETT

$500 WILL PAY FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS

For a case of Catarrh in the Head which they cannot cure.

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS 50 CENTS.

The Only Guaranteed Cure

CATARRH IN THE HEAD.

SYMPTOMS OF THE DISEASE.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a "nasal twang"; the breath is offensive; smell and taste impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians.

COMMON SENSE TREATMENT.

If you would remove an evil, strike at its root. As the predisposing or real cause of catarrh is, in the majority of cases, some weakness, impurity, or otherwise faulty condition of the system, in attempting to cure the disease our chief aim must be directed to the removal of that cause. The more we see of this odious disease, and the more successfully thousands of cases annually at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, the more do we realize the importance of combining with the use of a local, soothing and healing application, a thorough and persistent internal use of blood-cleansing and tonic medicines.

CHIEF RELIANCE.

In curing catarrh and all the various diseases with which it is so frequently complicated, as throat, bronchial, and lung diseases, weak stomach, catarrhal deafness, weak or inflamed eyes, impure blood, scrofulous and syphilitic taints, the wonderful powers and virtues of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cannot be too strongly extolled. It has a specific effect upon the lining mucous membranes of the nasal and other air-passages, promoting the natural secretion of their follicles and glands, thereby softening the diseased and thickened membrane, and restoring it to its natural, thin, delicate, moist, healthy condition. As a blood-purifier, it is unsurpassed. As those diseases which complicate catarrh are diseases of the lining mucous membranes, or of the blood, it will readily be seen why this medicine is so well calculated to cure them.

LOCAL ARENT.

As a local application for healing the diseased condition in the head, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is beyond all comparison the best preparation ever invented. Mild and pleasant to use, producing no smarting or pain, and containing no strong, irritating, or caustic drugs, it is perfectly safe in the hands of any one. Its action, which complicate catarrh are diseases of the lining mucous membranes, or of the blood, it will readily be seen why this medicine is so well calculated to cure them.

PERMANENT CURES.

The Golden Medical Discovery is the natural "helpmate" of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It not only purifies, purifies, regulates, and builds up the system to a healthy standard, and conquers chronic, torpid, and lung complications, when any such exist, but, from its specific effects upon the lining membrane of the nasal passages, it aids materially in restoring the diseased, thickened, or ulcerated membrane to a healthy condition, and thus eradicates the disease. When a cure is effected in this manner it is permanent.

Both Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy are sold by druggists the world over. Discovery $1.00, six bottles for $5.00. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy 50 cents; half-dozen bottles $2.50.

A complete Treatise on Catarrh, giving valuable hints as to clothing, diet, and other matters of importance, will be mailed, post-paid to any address, on receipt of a 2-cent postage stamp.

Rev. J. C. Brock, West Chester, Pa., writes: A glorious revival going on; twenty-one accessions to the church.

Rev. W. Forter writes: The Arkansas Conference reports, though a dry year, were Dollar Money, $2 149.50; for missions, $319 75, and for all other interests in proportion.

Rev. J. B. Green, McClellanville, S C., writes: My quarterly conference closed December 15 h, with laying the corner-stone for a new church. Our worthy Presiding Elder, S. W. Ballamy, and Rev. C. F. North, of Mt. Pleasant, were with us. The Quarterly Conference reports showed our work to be growing. We have received nearly two hundred members on the circuit since last February; one hundred and three of whom professed saving faith. My congregation is awake. The young people are doing much for the advancement of the masses. Our Sunday school is prosperous.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO GENERAL CONFERENCE DELEGATES.—Inasmuch as there is no standing committee on railroad arrangements, I have made application for reduced rates to the General Conference which meets in Indianapolis, Ind. May 7 1888. The reduction, if granted, will cover every section of the country, and extend to every delegate, as well as to such other persons as may desire to attend. Delegates will please not endeavor to make local arrangements until further notice

Father—"You want the hand of my daughter? Have you any means of existence?" Young Man—"Yes, sir; I'm a telescope." Father—"Then you are a mere piece of a telescope—not a wife."

Is that rheumatic shoulder troubling you again? Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured rheumatism in thousands of cases and it will cure you. It costs only a trifle to try it.

AN EXTENDED POPULARITY.—BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES have been before the public many years. For relieving Coughs, Colds, and Throat Diseases they have been proved reliable. Sold only in boxes.

WANAMAKER'S.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Jan. 23, 1888.

IT SEEMS A PARADOX THAT MUCH CURRENT interest in the store should be divided between things for midsummer and midwinter. Pins and Lawns, Tubeggan Sleds and Gingham, Skates and Hammocks, Embroideries and Furs, Straw and Fin Underwear are equally in the minds of retail buyers. To meet all these elements is our study.

WE'RE A DOZEN SILKS THAT ARE MAKING talk because of their little price. Here are three of them:

Black Satin Rhadame, 21 inches wide, $1.
Black Faille Francais—
21 inches wide, $1.00
21 inches wide, $1.25
22 inches wide, $1.50

Black Surah 36 inches wide, our direct importation, 75 cents. The best value of the kind we know of Silks are wonderfully cheap, and there is a sharp fashion drift toward them.

NUN'S VEITING BLACK SILK-AND-WOOL, We have reduced the best make to 90. These prices are the best in America. Sunday School Record Books, $1.50, $1.75, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50, and $4.

The reduction is on new goods.

BLANKET WORTH TURNING SIDE AND QUALITY. A stingy Blanket is a plague, whether for the crib or the biggest bed in the house. A simple, generous Blanket is one of the luxuries the luxury grows with the thickness.

7 pounds in a pair; cotton in the warp, all-wool filling $3.50. Fine all-wools, 7½ pounds, $6 50. "Tuck-in" 8½ pounds, $7.50. These sorts out of season now.

JUST HERE, FOR MEN: DENT'S CHAMOIS-lined Gloves, strong soft leather outside and in, 2 buttons; 1 button and 2 pearl-reinforced on palm and three fingers, for driving; $1 for either—just their price.

SNOW INDIAN SNOW-SHOES IF YOU WANT them which you probably don't, $2; Pogogan Sleds, which possibly you may want if you see and—slide on which to use them $3 75 and 4 50; Double-runner Coasters for 2 or 3 children, $3 50; Children's Upholstered Sleds, $4 25 to $4; Boys' Sleds, for lads forgotten by Santa Claus, 75 cents to $1.60.

BOOKS EVERY SORT FOR EVERY PROPER taste. Solid and substantial, light and pleasing. For the student or the leisure reader. The newest Books almost as soon as the last is off the press; the New Book table or—what is just as well if you are not handy to the store—watch Book News (6 cents, 40 cents a year) and you'll always know "what o'clock it is in the Book world."

OUR CENTENNIAL RETURNS

In the list of names and amounts given below, we aim to be exact. We wish every pastor to scan the report and see that it is correct, and that it corresponds with the amount mentioned in his receipt from us. We cannot give the names of officers and churches in every case, because not one-half of them were sent in, and while the whole amount raised is less than half what we reasonably hoped for, we tender our heartiest thanks to the pastors and churches who generously raised the money sent in.

Fraternally,
J. C. EMBRY.

NOTICE BY THE MANAGER.

We again call the attention of the pastors and presiding elders to the form of Warranty Deed we have prepared and published for general use in the purchase of church property. The form is simple, and plain as plain can be, yet it is believed to cover every point in the law. It was drawn by an old experienced attorney, with our Discipline before him at Price, 50 cents per copy, or $5 for $1.00

THE CENTENNIAL OF AFRICAN METHODISM.

LAST CALL.

All ministers who have not sent in their Centennial reports are hereby requested to remit their collections as directed, at once. And we respectfully urge those who have not made the collection up to date to do so at once and send the proceeds in, as the committee must meet early in January to settle up, and the Manager to have his list complete before publishing the same.

Brethren will please respond promptly. Fraternally yours,

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with name, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, New York.

NOTICE.

All communications intended for the Sunday School Union of the A. M. E. Church that are addressed to Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tennessee, will be received. It is not necessary to give the name of the street nor the number of our business place.—Rev. C. S. Smith Nashville, Tenn., is sufficient. Telegrams addressed the same way will reach us. We are fully settled in our new headquarters and prepared for business. C. S. SMITH, Secretary.

Hair Neglected

Soon becomes dry, harsh, coarse, and full of dandruff; it loses vitality and turns prematurely gray, or falls out rapidly and threatens early baldness. A careful dressing daily with Ayer's Hair Vigor—the best preparation for the purpose—will preserve the hair in all its luxuriance and beauty to a good old age.

"My hair was faded and dry," writes Mabel C. Hardy, of Delaware, Ill., "but after using only half a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor it became black and glossy. I cannot express the gratitude I feel."

Frederick P. Coggeshall, Bookseller, 51 Merrimack St., Lowell, Mass., writes: "Some six or seven years ago my wife had a severe illness, in consequence of which she became almost entirely bald and was compelled to wear a wig. A few months since she began to apply Ayer's Hair Vigor to the scalp, and, after using three bottles, has a good growth of hair started all over her head. The hair is now from two to four inches long, and growing freely. The result is a most gratifying proof of the merit of your admirable preparation."

LESSON HELPS IN FOUR GRADES.

THE TEACHER'S QUARTERLY. A thirty-six page pamphlet of doctrinal lesson helps for teachers and other scholars. Its value is enhanced by the introduction of appropriate forms for opening and closing services, hymns and tunes, maps, dictio. ary of proper names, etc.

THE SCHOLAR'S QUARTERLY. Similar to the above, but with such necessary changes as adapt it to the wants of scholars in the main school. It is issued in two forms, the more copies to one address, per year, 7 cents each.

THE EVERY-LESSON PAPER is a four page weekly, designed for younger scholars who have outgrown the infant class, but who retain their fondness for pictures and simple stories. 208 pages for a dime.

THE GEM LESSON PAPER is a beautiful lesson sheet, four pages handsomely illustrated and printed on plain paper; for primary or infant scholars. Each number contains besides the lesson, a page or more of "baby-land" talk. All for 6 cents a year, where five or more copies are sent to one address.

THE CHILD'S RECORDER, now beginning its eighth volume with a larger issue than ever before, offers superior attractions for the coming year. With additional editorial force, and a list of regular contributors skilled in the style of writing required by the young no pains will be spared to put the publication abreast with the foremost of its class.

DO YOU THINK TO PRAY?

Ere you left your room this morning,
Did you think to pray?
In the name of Christ our Saviour
Did you plead his loving favor
As your shield to-day?

When you met with great temptations
Did you think to pray?
By His dying love and merit
Did you claim the Holy Spirit
As your guide and stay?

When your heart was filled with anger,
Did you think to pray?
Did you plead for grace, my brother,
That you might forgive another
Who had crossed your way?

When sore trials came upon you,
Did you think to pray?
When your soul was bowed with sorrow,
Balm of Gilead did you borrow
At the gates of day?

HAS METHODISM FULFILLED ITS DUTY TO THE EXTREME OF SOCIETY?

BY REV. W. B. DERRICK, D. D.

The question asked is one of vital importance, especially to those who believe in Christian progression. May we not inquire what is meant by the extreme of society? First let us define what is meant by extreme. May we not use the term extreme, applying a two-fold meaning, extreme high and extreme low? May we not further inquire what is meant by society? Webster defines it, persons collectively who live in any region, or at any period; any community of individuals who are united together by any common bond of nearness or intercourse; those who recognize each other as associates; friends and acquaintance specifically; the more cultivated portion of any community, in its social relations and influences; those who give and receive formal entertainments, and many others.

Has Methodism met the requirements of these individuals, composing what is termed society, in its two-fold sense? Methodism had its origin at Oxford, born in the heart and brain of one who was reared among the cultured and refined of his day and generation; one whose social and intellectual standing was recognized by some of the best members of society in the age in which he lived. Although censured and scorned by a large number of the members of the communion to which he then belonged, they had to admit, on the other hand, the honesty and purity of his motives, because he simply declared that the great need of the then Christian Church was holier living. This could only be brought about by a larger development of grace in the heart, backed by a holy zeal. His preaching, naturally, was considered revolutionary on his part, and its founder a revolutionist, a term which need not be considered offensive when worn in behalf of justice and truth. Revolutions are inevitable when they are carried on in the interest of religious, moral, political, physical and scientific reformations.

Luther stands out in history as the greatest religious and moral reformer the world has produced. This title he could not have achieved without revolting against the practices then carried on in the church to which he belonged. The benefits accruing from the revolution incited by this religious champion are gratefully acknowledged by every evangelical Christian. What we have said in relation to Luther we can with the same propriety say of John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, who, in adopting his new method of worship, so constructed its rules and regulations as to welcome all classes of society. This at once would convince the unbiassed mind that the new organization had for its aim the Christianizing and evangelizing of the world for Christ. For it was founded on the broad basis of Biblical truth: "Of one blood God made all nations to dwell upon the face of the earth." The missionaries of this new organization had to contend with the Established Church of England, which was backed by a corps of learned religious teachers, reinforced by the wealth of the United Kingdom; yet, in spite of this formidable opposition, these holy men of God, led by the sainted John and Charles Wesley, waged war against the corruption and deadness then existing in the church, proclaiming as they went, "Without holiness no man shall see the Lord." Their teachings were simple and plain, so that even the most untutored mind could understand when they would exclaim, "Whosoever will let him come." The stronger the opposition grew the more rapidly the news spread throughout the United Kingdom of the religious revolution then carried on by the new sect known as the Methodists. Wafted by the breeze of heaven, the story was told in the palaces of kings and the lowly huts of peasants. Hundreds and thousands flocked to hear the old, old story told in a simple and effective manner, "Ye must be born again." Strong men began to listen; the attention of the Empire was arrested; the meaning of so great an uprising could not be understood. The judge on the bench, the lawyer at the bar, the statesman in the hall of legislation, the banker at his desk, the merchant in his counting-room, the farmer at his plough, the blacksmith at his anvil, the carpenter with the implements of his profession, the spinster at the spinning-wheel, the weaver at his loom, the miner in the coal pit, the seaman on the deck of his ship, the soldier arrayed in the uniform of his country, the minister of the gospel of sister denominations, master and servant, maid and mistress, teachers and scholars, professors of science and literature, military and naval heroes—all stood still and listened to the solemn truths of the modern Pauls, influenced by the Holy Spirit, warning a sinful world and calling it to repentance. Great throngs—hundreds and thousands—were gathered, who, having been pricked to the heart, were converted by accepting Christ as their Saviour. From among these new recruits were gathered to swell the armies of missionaries in spreading the news of pardoning grace. At this first gathering of converts were to be found representatives of all grades of society. Some of these were from wholesale and considered families, others from the second and third grades until was reached what are considered the outcasts. Although differing as to social grades and earthly possessions, they were all favorably recognized by our Heavenly Father, as all of them were nothing more than sinners saved by his grace. This is the secret success of Methodism. She sings as she goes:

"Come, ye sinners, poor and needy,
Weak and wounded, sick and sore;
Jesus ready stands to save you,
Come and welcome, rich and poor."

May we not with propriety state that all the new methods by which the world has made such unprecedented advancement have been introduced since the advent of Methodism? Methodism, by its simplicity and truth, stands in the forefront rank of the world's reforming forces, carrying with it light, heat, force, power and grace, electrifying and enlightening inventors' and discoverers' minds and equipping them with the necessary inspiration and courage to seek out new kinds of man's industry and to simplify, as well as amplify, his diversified labors.

Thus has Methodism fulfilled its duty, not simply from a religious, but from a moral, scientific, literary and intellectual point of view. England's great activity to-day must be attributed to her working classes, her commercial and manufacturing interests. The manual labor necessary for success in all departments of trade is furnished from the class of society which is largely influenced religiously by the Wesleyan Methodists of England. Then, to a great extent, England's prosperity during the past century can be attributed to the religious element which composes the body politic, of which none has exerted a more extensive and wholesome influence than the church of our modern Luther, Wesley.

Methodism is aggressive. Its children regard the universe as the Master's vineyard, in which they are free to labor. Wesley, Coke, Asbury, Barbara Heck, Philip Embry, Coke and others, sailing westward for weeks, were tossed upon the tempestuous bosom of the Atlantic, washed and lashed by its saline spray, yet continued their course, guided by the Star of Bethlehem, until the happy shores of Columbia were reached. Here they planted the standard of the Cross and unfurled its folds to the breeze. With clarion voices they again repeated the same old, old story of Jesus and his love. With such fervor and simplicity was it told that it attracted all classes and conditions, from every rank and station of life, as it did in the mother country. The Irishman dropped his spade and shovel, the Jew quitted his bartering and trading, the wild Indian laid aside his war-paint and tomahawk, the German adventurer ceased from their hunting exploits, the Spanish buccaneers paused in their war-like expeditions, the negro stopped hoeing his corn, rice and tobacco and caught the sound. Both master and slave hastened to hear the message brought by the inspired men of God. When, with unbridled tongues and courageous souls, they gave utterance to such infallible truths, illustrating that with God there are no distinctions of color, race, rank or station, and that all which was required for the creature to accept was the plan of salvation as laid down in the Word of God. "Ye must be born again," so inspiring were these words that they ran like an electric current from the granite hills of New England along the base of the Sierra Nevadas, from the frigid waters of the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the warm and placid stream of the Carribean Archipelago. Scores and scores flocked to hear the encouraging words which fell from the lips of these messengers of peace. Meeting houses, as they were then called, sprang up all over the land. The crudest and unlimest architecture entered into the construction of these edifices, showing that all her spiritual children are recognized regardless of their positions in this life.

The spirit of aggressiveness is to be seen as clearly developed in her success in the rich and fertile islands of the West Indies, where members of her communicants are to be found belonging to all ranks and stations of life, from the most cultured to the unlettered peasantry. Brazil, Guiana, Paraguay, Uruguay, even Patagonia, are beneficiaries of the blessings and civilizing influences which Methodism imparts wherever it is planted. These South American States, almost in semi-heathenism, through the spiritual blindness of their religious teachers, are being regenerated and almost converted to the pure and simple evangelical truths as taught by Wesleyan Methodists. Dom Pedro, the recognized chieftain of the South American States, although of a different faith, has acknowledged the benefits and blessings his subjects have derived from Methodist organization.

Mexico, controlled and led by Roman Catholics, has been brought to the light by the aggressive and Christian influences of Methodism. This is not only to been seen in her places of worship, but throughout the entire realm, in both commercial, scientific, moral, intellectual and political circles. This change may further be attributed to the influence of America's greatest military hero, the late ex-President Ulysses S. Grant, who, during his two Presidential terms, appointed as Inspector General a distinguished Methodist divine in the person of Dr. John P. Newman, whose duty it was to circumnavigate the globe and inspect the ministers and consuls who were the representatives of the American government in foreign lands. Thus another opportunity presented itself for Methodism to perform its duty to the extreme of society as this distinguished representative was brought into contact with diplomats, potentates and heads of departments, with superiors and inferiors in office, with masters and servants, and did so impress them with his superior intellectual, social and spiritual worth as to cause them to inquire, "To what religious sect do you belong?" and in the modest and unassuming manner of the true minister of Christ, he would answer, "I am a Methodist."

The power and grandeur of Methodism consists in the simplicity of its creed and personal hearing of its representatives, thus rendering them agreeable and acceptable to all grades of society. The islands of the sea—Fiji and Sandwich Islands—which, fifty years ago, were wrapped in heathen darkness, the inhabitants of which were cannibals, were entered by Methodism and in a population of 120 000 in the Fiji Islands alone, 102 000 of this number became regular attendants at the Wesleyan Church. Similar results are to be seen in the adjacent islands. Her day schools are to be counted by the hundreds, thus permeating the society of those far off islands with moral and intellectual, as well as religious ideas. Japan, China, Siam and the Orient—they, too, have caught the healing balm of the news of pardoning grace through the Methodist missionaries, who, with life in hand and death staring them in the face, dare enter those lands of perpetual summer, walled in for centuries from what they termed the outside world, with a code of laws in direct opposition to our civilization and Christian belief, which debarred those whom they considered intruders from coming among them for the purpose of instructing the masses in the true way of salvation. In spite of these seemingly impassable barriers the Methodist missionaries are to be seen surmounting every difficulty, leveling and straightening Christian influences of the millions of Christian professors known as Methodists; and amid the ice and frost of those frigid lands are to be heard the sweet songs of redeeming love, whose healthy and righteous influence has been the means of causing millions of souls to turn from the evil of their ways, and of accepting Christ as their Redeemer.

And with additional propriety may we add, among those who are there, Allen, the founder of our branch of Methodism who awaits our coming in the Master's home beyond the skies. May we, who are living to-day, continue to be "Scatter seeds of kindness, till the reaping bye and bye."

Some of us who have just started from childhood's peaceful asylum, others who have crossed the meridian of manhood's noon, and those who are waiting in the twilight of old age, may we persevere until life's burdens are laid down. Then may we fall asleep with the consciousness of having done our duty as Methodists to the extreme of society.

THE A. M. E. CHURCH AND THE COLORED RACE.

BY EDW. A. CLARK.

"What has been the moral, social and religious influence of the A. M. E. Church on the progress of the race and its influence on the colored societies?"

Heroism is the best of human nature, and moral heroism is the best of heroism. Great and good men have marked the epochs of history, and the history of those men is the very soul of the world's history.

A man's religion is the chief fact concerning him. Not his creed not what he believes, but what he actually regards as his relation to the unseen world—this is the determining factor as to his character.

Duty is the watchword that has inspired great souls to sacrifice the seen for the unseen, to endure "light affliction, which is for the moment, and which worketh more and more exceedingly an eternal weight of glory, looking not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal; knowing that if the earthly house of our tabernacle be dissolved, we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal, in the heavens."

The belief that "he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it" is productive of the noblest heroism. Do you wish to find the sublimest heroism of human history, turn to the records, not of Rome the imperial; not of Greece the brilliant; not of Persia the magnificent; not of Egypt the learned; turn to the records of an obscure nation, in a little strip of country 150x50 miles, of no political importance, of little influence on civilization, always in a state of servitude, the Hebrews; turn to the Hebrew Scriptures, this Bible, for the sublimest heroism conceivable by human minds.

I select one illustration: the character of that courageous man, John the Baptist, the Elijah of the New Testament. Is it true that in the New Testament, in the gospel of love and good will, in the dispensation of Him who bids us turn the other cheek to the smiter—can it be that here is to be found the most heroic man of all time? Listen!

John was a cousin of Jesus, his elder in years, preceding him in public work, engaged in the same profession, already famous when Jesus is unknown; a mighty preacher and prophet of the wilderness, a mysterious light from the desert, flashing its radiance over all Palestine; attracting multitudes from cities and villages, thundering in their ears the solemn words, "Repent ye; for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." To all classes of every rank he speaks as duty bids; to the extortionate tax gatherer he says, "Exact no more than that which is apportioned you;" to the lawless soldiery he says, "Do violence to no man, neither accuse any falsely;" to Sadducee and Pharisee he gives warning and counsel; to all he cries, "Bring forth therefore fruits meet for repentance," and the gathering crowds heed his message, and bow before his appeal while he baptises them in Jordan. He is the preacher of the times, successful—yea, famous!

The admiring crowds and wondering Jews, awe struck by his greatness, gather around him; they ask "Who art thou?" and he confessed and denied not. And he confessed, "I am not the Christ." "What then? Art thou Elijah?" And he answered, "No." They said therefore unto him, "Who art thou? What sayest thou of thyself?" He said, "I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness. After me cometh a man who is become before me: for he was before me. He that cometh after me is preferred before me, whose shoe's latchet I am not worthy to unloose."

Listen to these words from John, when borne on the crested wave of popular enthusiasm, to the pinnacle ready to put any wreath of honor on his brow, and remember that scenes as strange and mysterious, as full of promise and expectation, attended his birth as attended the birth of Christ, and remember that the prophecy had given him the title of Elias; listen to him say, I am only a voice; pay me no honors; honor and follow him that cometh after me; listen to this and tell me if any character in the whole realm of profane history he equal to such a self-renunciation.

Napoleon, the hero of the French, observed his soldiers pointing out Vesuvius, shining in the full daylight, as his star of destiny. He bowed, smiled, and ever after was regarded as the child of destiny. Imagine him in the situation of John!

One day, while John was administering the sacred rites to thronging multitudes, the unknown Jesus came into his audience and asked to be baptized. John baptizes him, introduces him to his congregation, hears testimony to his superior character, induces him to his ministerial work. Not long after, his disciples, jealous for their master's fame, came to John, and said, "Rabbi, he that was with thee beyond Jordan, to whom thou hast borne witness, behold, the same baptizeth, and all men come to him." Pause! grasp the situation! This man that he ordained, this rival that he had made, was now proselyting his congregation. Can human nature stand this? John answered and said, "A man can receive nothing, except it have been given him from heaven. I am not the Christ, I am sent before him. He that cometh from above is above all; he that is of the earth is of the earth, and of the earth he speaketh; he that cometh from heaven is above all

HE MUST INCREASE, BUT I MUST DECREASE.

These are the sublimest words ever uttered by human lips. I challenge the world to find a character in all the profane history capable of uttering them. "He must increase, but I must decrease." Compare with this Cæsar's statement, as he rode with his generals through a small village. Turning to his officers, he said in words characteristic of the man, "I would rather be first in this village, than second at Rome."

John's fame had reached the ears of the mighty Herod, the governor. He is invited to his palace halls. Herod listens to him with fear, with respect, with pleasure. He acquires great influence over this ruler. But Herod is married to Herodias, his brother Philip's wife. Shall John meddle with it? Shall he be silent? Will speaking do any good? Had he not better retain the influence of this ruler's great name? Shall he lose his hold upon him, and jeopardize his own life? Upon every reason, argues John. He stands before this titled ruler with this calm, bold, faithful utterance, "It is not lawful for thee to have another man's wife."

This is the stuff of which John was made. What if he was cast into the dungeon cell of Machaerus? What if he was beheaded at the order of the tyrant?

He had conquered. Succession was his. And the victorious soul swept from the dungeon cell of Machaerus through the gates of the New Jerusalem, into the city of the Most High, bowed before the great white throne, and heard the welcome, "Well done!" of the Eternal.

Turn to profane history. A similar episode occurs in the life of the great Cardinal Wolsey. Henry VIII of England desired a divorce from his wife Catharine, and applied to Pope Clement VII therefor. Cardinal Wolsey, his favorite counselor, was obliged to help in the cause of his imperious master. He went as legate to Rome, and plead the king's cause, but failed to obtain the divorce. The incensed king deprived Wolsey of all his dignities. He was charged with treason, his strength melted away on his fall from the heights of power and he died a broken spirited man. Shakespere puts these words into the mouth of the dying Cardinal: "O Cromwell, Cromwell! Had I but served my God with half the zeal I served my king, he would not in my age have left me naked to mine enemies." This is the best profane history can give us. Great, brilliant, magnificent, miserable Cardinal Wolsey!

But let us sum up the character of John. How better can we do this than in the words and with the text-many of his master "What went ye out into the wilderness to behold, a reed shaken with the wind? But what went ye out for to see, a man clothed in soft raiment? But wherefore went ye out, to see a prophet? Yea, I say unto you, and much more than a prophet. Verily I say unto you, among them that are born of woman, there hath not arisen a greater than John the Baptist."

Resting the assertion upon this one example of John, I repeat, Moral heroism is the best of heroism. To the Church, then, we look for examples of exalted courage, of heroic action. We need not heap up examples of martyrs to principle for Christ's sake. We only give that noble summary of St. Paul in his address to the Hebrews: "And what shall I more say? For the time will fail me to tell of Gideon, Barak, Sampson, Jepthah; of David and Samuel and the prophets, who through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched the power of fire, escaped the edge of the sword; from weakness were made strong, waxed mighty in war turned to flight armies of aliens. Women received their dead by a resurrection; and others were tortured, not accepting their deliverance, that they receive a better resurrection; and others had trial of mockings and scourgings, yea, moreover, of bonds and imprisonment; they were stoned, they were strewn asunder, they were tempted, they were slain with the sword; they went about in sheepskins and in goatskins; being destitute, afflicted, tormented (of whom the world was not worthy), wandering in deserts and mountains, and caves, and in the holes of the earth."

No greater nor more inspiring deed was ever done in Scotland than when, in 1843, for conscience' sake, in protest against the dangerous and unlawful interference of the State, in the face of great suffering for themselves and families, 475 ministers went out from the established Kirk, and signed away their livings to the extent of $500,000.

Dr. Cummings prophesied "that he doubted if one went out, but was sure that not one hundred would." The Royal Commissioner, the Earl of Bute, thought twenty-five might go. When the time came, four hundred and seventy-six signed the deed of demission The news was carried to Lord Jeffrey that "more than four hundred of them are out." Springing to his feet, he cried, "I am proud of my country. There is not another country upon earth where such a deed could have been done!"

The religious is the main element in heroism, and the religious is paramount in the negro character. Have we not examples of heroism of which we may be proud?

One hundred years ago our Richard Allen was a member of St. George M. E Church in Philadelphia, a licensed preacher thereof; drawing by his influence other Christians, bearing more or less pigment in the maiphgian layer of the skin, to that church; the officers of that church, however, did not wish a Pentecost of that color of souls. They therefore passed a resolution that "the colored members should sit one in a pew and that next to the wall." But, like the Israelites of old, oppression only increased their numbers. Soon the church had a black wainscoting of colored members around its fore sides. The second edict of Pharoh was, that "the colored members should sit in the gallery." Still they increased. Desperate measures became necessary. So these "saints of the Lord" pulled the colored brethren from their knees at prayer, from before the altar of the Most High, and ordered them to the rear. All this happened one hundred years ago, you understand. Don't any of you think that it happened last Sunday at one of our city churches. No! This happened a long time ago, a long ways off from here. These were not times when the world was not worthy), wandering in deserts and mountains, and caves, and in the holes of the earth."

One hundred years ago our Richard Allen was a member of St. George M. E Church in Philadelphia, a licensed preacher thereof; drawing by his influence other Christians, bearing more or less pigment in the maiphgian layer of the skin, to that church; the officers of that church, however, did not wish a Pentecost of that color of souls. They therefore passed a resolution that "the colored members should sit one in a pew and that next to the wall." But, like the Israelites of old, oppression only increased their numbers. Soon the church had a black wainscoting of colored members around its fore sides. The second edict of Pharoh was, that "the colored members should sit in the gallery." Still they increased. Desperate measures became necessary. So these "saints of the Lord" pulled the colored brethren from their knees at prayer, from before the altar of the Most High, and ordered them to the rear. All this happened one hundred years ago, you understand. Don't any of you think that it happened last Sunday at one of our city churches. No! This happened a long time ago, a long ways off from here. These were not times when the world was not worthy), wandering in deserts and mountains, and caves, and in the holes of the earth."

Never in his life had he thought of such a thing. His stomach grew weak at the sight; he began to feel decidedly seasick. "Rise, Peter; kill and eat." At length he stammered out, "Not so, Lord; for I have never eaten anything that is common and unclean." Then that voice thrice repeated, "What God hath cleansed, that make not thou common." Then Peter opened his mouth and said: "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons; but in every nation he that feareth him and worketh righteousness is acceptable to him."

I think Peter was just then converted; he had just become Christ-like, at any rate. This was Peter's object lesson on caste prejudice Now, these "white Christians" of St. George M. E Church, Philadelphia, Pa., United States of America, had not been converted in the same way that Paul had been, because God does not "use cannon to kill chippie-birds with—too great a waste of powder."

Richard Allen was not a white Christian; he was only a Christian; but he was a hero, with a heart wide enough to take in all mankind into its fellowship He headed a secession movement, which was indeed a forlorn hope. But it was founded on manhood; it was in search of freedom. As bones and lot were seized mighty in war turned to flight armies of aliens. Women received their dead by a resurrection; and others were tortured, not accepting their deliverance, that they receive a better resurrection; and others had trial of mockings and scourgings, yea, moreover, of bonds and imprisonment; they were stoned, they were strewn asunder, they were tempted, they were slain with the sword; they went about in sheepskins and in goatskins; being destitute, afflicted, tormented (of whom the world was not worthy), wandering in deserts and mountains, and caves, and in the holes of the earth."

No greater nor more inspiring deed was ever done in Scotland than when, in 1843, for conscience' sake, in protest against the dangerous and unlawful interference of the State, in the face of great suffering for themselves and families, 475 ministers went out from the established Kirk, and signed away their livings to the extent of $500,000.

Dr. Cummings prophesied "that he doubted if one went out, but was sure that not one hundred would." The Royal Commissioner, the Earl of Bute, thought twenty-five might go. When the time came, four hundred and seventy-six signed the deed of demission The news was carried to Lord Jeffrey that "more than four hundred of them are out." Springing to his feet, he cried, "I am proud of my country. There is not another country upon earth where such a deed could have been done!"

he can himself give birth to thought children. The negro has graduated with honor from Howard, from Lincoln, from Oberlin, from Yale, from West Point, from Harvard. But none of these are willing to employ the brains they have trained when enveloped in a black skin. To him all these give the same baleful lesson in political economy, "You may be a consumer, a producer you cannot be."

Wilberforce, leading a chorus of A. M. E institutions, alone exclaims, Enter my halls. Come as a gardener, as a janitor, as a stable-boy. Be your skin white as the Polar snow, yellow as the gold of Ophir, red as the setting sun, brown as the coffee of South America, black as the jet of Africa, enter You shall fare as you deserve. The height you reach is measured only by your deserts. Every door is open to th touch of merit. Nothing here is out of your reach Here merit counts.

Its publications offer a channel for negro literature, and at the same time make him known to the outside world The Recorder and the Review recognize no difference in the writings of black and white. Both use black ink In short, the A. M. E Church has taught that the talent to use talent is the best talent

This is that work of Allen which still marches on. Is it finished? Has the A M E fought the good fight? Has she kept the faith? Is she now ready to be offered up? Is it now time to fold the glorious banner, "African," around memory ourselves into the M E? Many well meaning people feel called upon to apologize for anything colored I am not one of them. When the A M E Church, working hand in hand with so many churches, has Christianized the colored man, she must then Christianize the white man up to a standard where he can recognize a Christian heart beating beneath a black skin. She must then do all and more than she has done for if it is not to make life less difficult for others?" Do we not see enough of the good and its influences to passionately love and revere it?

Such good desires may not be implanted in us, but let us nobly struggle within to cultivate a love for them. If we live sacrificing and unselfish lives for the sake of those who are to take our places in the future, need we worry about the future influences of the dead I think not.

"Build to-day, then, strong and sure,
With a firm and ample base;
And ascending and secure,
Shall to-morrow find its place.
Thus alone can we attain
To those turrets where the eye
See the world as one vast plain,
And one boundless reach of sky."

DR. C. H. EICHER, D.D.

DEAR SIR:—On the third day of the last session of the West Tennessee Annual Conference, I asked Bishop H. M. Turner, D.D., LL.D., to whom should I pay my subscription for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, whereupon he, (Bishop Turner) appointed me to look after the interests of the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. I visited every member of the conference, requesting him to renew his subscription to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, explaining that by so doing he would save postage, but not a single man, with the exception of myself, paid a cent, I sent you my subscription and am receiving my paper regularly. I notice in the Southern Recorder of the January 26th, that the Bishop refers to this appointment, stating that the "ministers are not getting their papers," I think they have a very good reason for not getting them, unless they expect you to furnish them gratuitously.

Yours, very respectfully,
G. D. P. BUCKEE.

WHAT WILL THE HARVEST BE?

BY REV. G. H. WADE.

This is an all-important question that touches with its broad, far-reaching hand the condition of every enterprise, whether it be Church or State. Those whose business it is to be concerned, and upon whose shoulders higher power has placed the responsibility, and to whom the people are looking for better government and legislation from the product of their wise judgment, are now giving their brain no time for recreation in order that they may consistently, satisfactorily, and economically legislate for the promotion of the country in every branch of industry and interest.

And those who can do nothing but cp it lok and blow off gas, both of which are very cheap, wonder "what will be the harvest."

Suppose the General Conference was to do what some men would have it do, "what would the harvest be?"

There are those who want fifteen Bishops. There are about forty-two conferences, a fraction and two conferences a year or a fraction and nine conferences in four years, with perhaps a few dedications, and to all of these appointments their traveling expenses found to be the leaders of all that is low and vile. The world wonders again. The education of this child for whom the land was begun before its birth. The desire of the parent or parents was boldly fulfilled by the child. Again, some people are neither positive nor negative; they live on with no special feeling as to whether they like or dislike certain things, whether they are for or against them. Children whose parents are of this class are liable to be either good or bad. What they are depends upon their environments. This class of people may be termed the undedicated before birth. Homes neatly kept, made comfortable and happy by loving hands, are oftentimes the means of keeping such from straying out upon the highway of vice, while others, which are made unhappy by selfish hearts and hands, serve to fill the highway.

But men and women who are truly engendered with those qualities which make men and women, men and women, no matter what their surroundings may be, no matter what their temptations are, they cannot be lured into the pit of degradation.

I do not mean especially that all persons born in the midst of vice and degradation are bad, and that all born of parents whose precepts are moral are bad, for that is not true; but I do say that all born of either parentage under the circumstances spoken of, must, of necessity, according to the laws of nature, be more or less vicious. If we would have the dens completely demolished we must begin in the right way to abolish them ourselves. Do we not see miseries enough through each succeeding day to cause us to alter the plans and influences which make them? And can we live for our fellow-man without seeing the decrease? Then is it not our duty to ascertain the causes and seek for them a remedy? Can we do more than we do now to make life less difficult for others?" Do we not see enough of the good and its influences to passionately love and revere it?

Such good desires may not be implanted in us, but let us nobly struggle within to cultivate a love for them. If we live sacrificing and unselfish lives for the sake of those who are to take our places in the future, need we worry about the future influences of the dead I think not.

There are those who want fifteen Bishops. There are about forty-two conferences, a fraction and two conferences a year or a fraction and nine conferences in four years, with perhaps a few dedications, and to all of these appointments their traveling expenses paid for $2 000 a year each, or $30 000 a year for fifteen Bishops, or the enormous sum of $120,000 for four years. With the present elder system, to the perpetual existence of which I am not opposed, with a cost of near $50 000 beside their railroad fare, saying nothing about the general efficiency, would be beyond the limits of extravagance.

There are some who want the old Bishops set aside. I do not know what for, unless it is to give themselves a chance. A man who would set aside Bishop Payne without his unselfish consent, is cruel and void of a Christian heart. What I say for Bishop Payne, I would say for Bishops Ward, Brown, Campbell and Wayman. These men are worthy of the highest honor, and I say let them die Bishops of the A. M. E. Church.

What does the A. M. E. Church, which is a hundred years old, want with young aspirants who are only seeking prominence and honor in the sight of men? Of course we want three more Bishops. Ours is a Christian Church; therefore give us more Christian Bishops.

Ours is a well matured and cultured Church; then give us well matured and cultured men for Bishops.

RECEPTION TENDERED REV. A. F. JACKSON.

BY REV. N. W. HARLLEE.

At Dallas, Texas, on December 29th, the congregation, the Sabbath school, the former pastor, Rev. J. H. Armstrong, the teachers of the city schools, several ministers of different denominations and many citizens united to make the reception of A F Jackson as pastor of the A. M. E. Church the grandest of the kind ever given in the history of the city. A committee met the new pastor at the depot and escorted him to the church, where the choir greeted him with an outburst of melody. Rev. Dr. H. S. Howell, President of the National Christian College, then led the blessing of God upon the new pastor and the congregation. The address of welcome was delivered by Mr. Thomas Armor. He said:

"In behalf of Bethel A. M. E Church and the citizens of Dallas, I have been chosen to deliver this address of welcome. I perform it with pleasure, mixed with sorrow. On the one hand I am pleased to bid you welcome, Elder Jackson, to the hearty co-operation of the blessings and kindnesses of the Church, and to our city at large, while we feel highly congratulated in securing the services of so able a pastor as we know you to be. But on the other hand, to say that we could part with our former pastor without much sorrow, would prove us a people without gratitude.

"We have been highly favored in the welcome, I am another sad to extend to you the same fidelity and co-operation that we have shown to our ministers in the past, trusting, sir, that you may be successful in leading us on in the good work as we have been led by our faithful minister in the past. The Church pray the blessing of God upon you and your labors, that peace may be within our walls and prosperity within our gates. You know the matter cannot grind with the wear that is past."

Upon closing the address of welcome, Elder A. F. Jackson rose and said: "I feel highly congratulated at the reception that your pastor has given me. I also congratulate the whole congregation and Sabbath school, and the good people who have taken a part in this grand reception. I also congratulate you upon being so fortunate in securing the services in the past so zealous a worker as the Rev J. H. Armstrong, who has done so good and grand a work here. I congratulate you upon your intelligent congregation, and upon having erected such a neat and commodious building. The house shows the kind of people. The most of us are strangers, but as time moves on we will become acquainted. I have no promises to make except that I will perform my duty the best I can."

At the conclusion of his remarks, Mr. Thomas Armor came forward again not to deliver another address of welcome, but to deliver a $25 overcoat in behalf of the Sunday school and Church to Rev. J. H. Armstrong, who accepted it by telling the story of the boy and the angel-barrel.

GLENCOE, LAKE FOREST AND RACINE CIRCUIT.

BY REV. W. H. HARPER.

DEAR EDITOR:—You will doubtless be pleased to hear that the work on this circuit has, during the past few months, been on the march to success, notwithstanding the very discouraging cloud that confronted us on our arrival in August last. To overcome this, and put the work in as healthy a condition as possible, we resolved to hold a week of special meetings at each place.

We began our work at Lake Forest. Here the power of God was convincingly manifested in its never-failing effect. The church was revived to active work, some of the chaunels of peace and heavenly prosperity that had been closed for a long time were now cleaned out, and the flood-gates of the streams that make glad the city of God were thrown open, and the old debris of malice and selfishness was carried out into the sea (we trust) never to be forgotten.

There are some who want the old Bishops set aside. I do not know what for, unless it is to give themselves a chance. GLENCOE, LAKE FOREST AND RACINE CIRCUIT.

BY REV. W. H. HARPER.

DEAR EDITOR:—You will doubtless be pleased to hear that the work on this circuit has, during the past few months, been on the march to success, notwithstanding the very discouraging cloud that confronted us on our arrival in August last. To overcome this, and put the work in as healthy a condition as possible, we resolved to hold a week of special meetings at each place.

We began our work at Lake Forest. Here the power of God was convincingly manifested in its never-failing effect. The church was revived to active work, some of the chaunels of peace and heavenly prosperity that had been closed for a long time were now cleaned out, and the flood-gates of the streams that make glad the city of God were thrown open, and the old debris of malice and selfishness was carried out into the sea (we trust) never to be forgotten.

There is a small membership of about twelve persons. The prospect of increasing this membership is greatly deterred, owing to the limited number of families in the place. However, these are filled with the spirit of earnestness and dint of determination to do what they can for God and his Church. A proof of this was manifested in the cheerful and successful effort in raising fifty dollars to assist my family in getting to this country. Then there are a few in number, yet their hearts are full and large, ever ready and willing to do their best. There can be no doubt but Lake Forest will shake herself free from whatever may have clogged the wheels of progress, her advancement, and in the new race for which she is girding up her mind, will soon become unprecedented in her church work.

We have accepted of these responsibilities in the sight and under the direction of Him who is our strength and shield, and while others are marshalling their armies for war against the host of darkness, we earnestly pray that the banner of peace between God and man may be seen waving prosperously in our midst.

Our next week was spent at Racine, Wisconsin. Here we found the work at the very lowest ebb of Christian existence. The church was very much scattered; from the reports of the books there was only one member in good standing, as left by my predecessor. It does not require much discipline at this juncture to understand our feelings, but we were encouraged by the fact that the darkest hour is just before the break of day; the thicker the cloud, the stronger are the indications of its clearing away." This fact was made obvious in a two-fold sense among the people of Racine.

1st. To revive and save the fragments of this much scattered church and people, we were compelled to reorganize and remodel the basis of operations, which resulted quite successfully.

2d. The sweet, still voice that whispers to a discouraged heart, saying, "Be of good cheer; I'll never leave nor forsake thee," was heard, and the light of the countenance was seen beaming with love. Then a desire for heavan and immortal distinctiveness began to swell forth from many hearts, so as to lead to them (in the name of the Heavenly Master) the infallible seeds of the ancreated light of the gospel through Jesus Christ. The breaking away of this gloomy cloud was further evinced by the increased number in each of the members and well-wishers contributed $37 75 toward the above-named purpose.

Are not these signs of much significance, and do they not call forth some attention? We cannot speak in too laudatory tones of these Christian indications of our onward march in the right direction.

In looking at the word of God here, we have abundant reason for devout gratitude. "The Lord of hosts is with us, let us rejoice."

Another feature of success which is worthy of note, is the increased state of the Sunday schools. At Lake Forest there has been an increase in the attendance of about fifty per cent.; at Racine, about ninety per cent., and at Glencoe we have organized a small school. Our earnest prayers are that the Great Head of the Church may continue to vouchsafe his divine approval, and that the churches and Sunday schools may receive place and wonted position at the hand of God in strict adherence to the law of sound affinity with him.

I now call to my attention to Glencoe as the last but not least place of visitation Here are found a few of our people, about eight families in all, struggling hard with the little church they were trying to erect.

The financial embarrassments that was resting upon them produced considerable discouragement, for the want of means, and the early setting in of the winter, has somewhat checked the operations. However, we are trying to surmount this hill of difficulty, and hope the time is not far distant when we shall hear the shout of victory therein to. As a young church of only six or eight members, it requires the united prayers and sympathy of all lovers of the cause of Christ.

We now leave our readers for the present, and supplicate your prayers for our success.

DEATH OF MRS. C. H. SHEEN.

GEORGETOWN, DEMARARA, December 13th, 1887.

DEAR DR. LEE:—It did not enter my mind when writing my last letter to you, in which I informed you of my wife's convalescence, that to-day I should have to communicate the mournful tidings of her lamented death. Her health had been so far restored by the change to this colony that we contemplated leaving for America in March next year; but the Almighty disposed willed otherwise, and on the 30 h ultimo she took fever; the doctor was called, but he said there was no danger, and, acting according to his advice, I left her in care of kind friends and went to our mission station at Den Amstel village to preach centennial sermons on Sunday, December 4 h; but alas! on Monday morning a telegram summoned me to her death-bed. Her constitution, already weakened by the ravages of infectious disease, could endure no longer, and she succumbed to the violence of the fever, which proved to be bilious of a most malignant type. She died tranquilly in the faith of the gospel, with her latest breath invoking heaven's blessing in behalf of her husband and children.

The character of my dear, departed wife was eminently that of a Christian; quiet, patient, self-sacrificing and unobtrusive; developing itself in a consistent walk and conversation; and in all my late trials she was always the same faithful, long-suffering, loving partner. Her end was eminently peaceful. She sleeps in Jesus. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. George Sykes, Vice-president of the Wesleyan Conference, at Trinity Wesleyan Chapel in this city, and from thence to the place of interment. The Revs. Paul Ellis, Wesleyan, and T. James Toddinge, London Missionary, attended and followed her remains to their last resting place. Letters of condolence have been received from the Rev. H. Moore, Moravian, P. Ellis and H. V. P. Brookbnrst, Wesleyan. My delay in the West Indies, as I informed you in my last, was caused by her illness; now, that her race is run, I have nothing to detain me and hope to be in New York early in February, God willing. I claim an interest in the prayers of the Church.

Now for a word anent the centenary of African Methodism in Guiana.

Our services in celebration of this great event were all well attended, and, I believe, gave satisfaction to all concerned. On Wednesday evening, November 23d, we held a grand concert and social gathering in the Hall, Camp and Church, which I presided. On Sunday evening, the 27th, I preached a centenary sermon in the same hall—text, Isaiah, 60, 15; on Monday evening, the 28th, a smoky on the life and influence of Richard Allen. The friends already assigned me the task of delivering this eulogy and I was fortunate in securing the presence of the Mayor of Georgetown, G. A. Forshaw, Esq., to take the chair on the occasion. On Sunday, December 4 h, I preached again at Den Ametel Village, and the death of my wife occurred on Monday, the 5 h. It was a severe trial, but the Lord has been good to me and I am sustained. I am praying for grace to bear the stroke, and kiss the rod, and how in submission to His will who "will not break the bruised reed," who wounds me for His mercy's sake, but wounds to heal.

Remember me kindly in your prayers, and believe me,

Yours faithfully,
CHAS. H. SHEEN.

DEATH OF MRS. DR. LINDSAY.

A VERY ESTIMABLE COLORED LADY PASSES AWAY.

Mrs. Eunice P. Shadd Lindsay, wife of Dr. Frank T. Lindsay, of East Main street, died, at their home, Wednesday, January 4 a few minutes before noon. Deceased had been ill for several weeks, but until a few days before her death her many friends, and most of all her devoted husband, hoped for and expected her recovery. But it was not to be so. The faithful attention and ministrations of her, the medical science and skill of her husband, together with that of other physicians, temporarily restrained, but could not effectually stay the silent but majestic march of the angel of death. To her, however, this messenger bore no terrors, but with a resignation born of a conscientiousness of a glorious immorality awaiting her she said she was perfectly willing and ready to go, that she had no fear of death. Beckoning her husband to her, she admonished him to so live that they, with their little boy who had gone on before, might be reunited and form a family in heaven, and with a parting kiss she quietly fell asleep:—

"Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep,
From which none ever wakes to weep."

The deceased was a native of West Chester, Pa., but when quite a child her father moved to Buxton, Canada, where she was raised. Here her father, Mr. Shadd, was a large land owner, a wealthy and influential citizen, and chosen to several important offices. All his children received a liberal education. A son, Hon. J. D. Shadd, is a politician of note, having been Speaker of the House of Representatives of the State of Mississippi.

Another son, Abraham, now deceased, was an accomplished and successful lawyer. A daughter also graduated from the law department of Howard University, D. C., and the deceased herself was a graduate from the Normal and Medical department of that University. Her husband, Dr. Lindsay, is also a graduate from the Medical department of Howard. It was while a student that the married her acquaintance, which grew into fondness and ripened into love. They were married April 26, 1877. Thus, after a brief union of but little more than ten years, the sacred tie is broken. In the full flush of life's noontide her sun is set, but 'twas in a cloudless sky, and the radiant effulgence of her noble and pure life reflects from its summit a hallowed influence to all those who have the blessing of its example.

She was a faithful and consistent member of the A. M. E. Church of this city. She was an ever-ready advocate of Christian temperance.

Her remains will be taken to Canada and interred in the family cemetery in Chatham.

Besides a brother and three sisters she leaves a fond and devoted husband to mourn her loss, and those, especially the latter, have the heartfelt sympathy of a large circle of friends.

Mrs Lindsay has been for some time, and was at the time of her death, the superintendent of work among the colored people of the Ohio W. C. T. U. She was also the county superintendent of the White Cross and White Shield department; she has written papers on that subject which were published in the Union Signal, the national organ of the W. C. T. U. The papers were favorably commented upon as being the most able ever contributed She was a ready writer, and the cause of Christian temperance found in her a pure, able, eloquent and convincing advocate. She had finished the last work it further stated that while the cause in which they labor has lost, in the death of Mrs. Lindsay, a faithful and earnest worker, they themselves feel a great personal loss. A WORD OF SYMPATHY TO BISHOP WARD,

BY REV. EDITOR: A. L. BIDGEL.

MR. EDITOR:—Please allow space for me to extend a word of sympathy to my beloved Bishop in the person of Bishop H. M. Ward, D.D., in this his hour of trouble, grief and bereavement.

Dear Bishop, you have my prayers. I am indeed sorry, sorry, to learn of the demise of your dear wife and companion. For years and years has the grim monster death visited your home. Now in the course of four fleeting years you are stripped, robbed and bereaved again. Dear Bishop, we brethren of Arkansas do share a part with you in your grief and bereavement. We ask for your divine guidance through the remainder of your days, and that you may cross Jordan in a calm line.

THE GRANDEUR OF CIRCUITS.

It has become to be a great insult to send a minister any more to a circuit, who has ever been appointed to a station. It does not matter how great his failure, or fearful he break down, he imagines he belongs to the royal corps, and must be kept in a station, otherwise the Bishop or presiding elder is punishing him; and the sequence is a grumble, a whine, a howl all the year round. Think of the wail of bad luck, and self-abasement, a kind of full or penitentiary, or the Bishop's banishment territory, where he sends men when he wishes to expend his ire upon them. There is no stronger evidence of a man's incapacity to be a station pastor than the fact that he does not know that a circuit is superior in rank to a station. Circuits hold priority Biblically, Methodistically and cosmologically, which no man acquainted with church history and science will deny. The Hebrew priests, judges, prophets, apostles and primitive preachers all traveled circuits, so did the Wesleys, Dr. Adam Clarke, Asbury Watson, Quinn, Waters and all the Methodist fathers; so does the world upon which we live, all the heavenly planets, comets, and the sun himself travels a circuit.

It takes the sun nineteen millions of years to ride around its circuit one single time. Circuit riding or traveling is the order of nature everywhere, above, below or on either hand, and the minister who travels a circuit is simply doing what every world in the universe is doing. The English Methodists, the mother church of all Methodists, have no stations, after a hundred and fifty years' experience, and we have grave doubts as to whether or not station preaching is God's plan. Movement is the plan of God, as read in the heavens above or in the heavens below. The suns that shine up from beneath are as full of activity as those that shine down from above.

Besides, there is not one minister in a hundred that can preach a different sermon weekly for a year in our Church This positive affirmation may come in THOSE trades unions that disher from their pleasures and profits every boy and man whose identity with the negro race can be established, are depriving a whole class of the blessings heatowed by Heaven without reference to color, and appropriating them to themselves exclusively.

MRS. TAYLOR, a wealthy white lady in Orange, N. J., where the Rev. J. P. Sampson, M.A., is pastor, has bequeathed to our church in that city one thousand dollars, five hundred dollars for the cause of missions in said church. The Rev. Sampson has succeeded in entirely discharging the indebtedness on the Orange Church and nearly trebled itmembership. With his good people, he intends to enlarge the church building acon.

THE VERY thoughtful article published on the cause of missions in our columns recently, with the statement that the author was unknown to us, was from the pen of our Corresponding Secretary of the Parent Home and Foreign Missionary Society. It is out of our line to publish anonymous papers, but we felt sure that that was not anonymous for any weak or bad purpose. It was a good article. The Secretary failed to send a note with it, or we failed to read his note. It was the Secretary's bugle blast, calling the army of the A. M. E. Church into line, preparatory to opening his Easter campaign.

REVIVALS are in progress at nearly every point from which we hear. Bethel Church, Philadelphia, has had one hundred conversions. Wilberforce University has one hundred students in attendance, and a wonderful outpouring of the Holy Spirit is being enjoyed there; only four students do not profess Christianity. This is success. If the institution is acknowledged by God, as President Mitchell, Profs. Shorter and Jackson, and Secretary Maxwell say in private letters, what can man do but acknowledge it? "If God be for us, who is he that can be against us?" The very highest commendation for any institution of learning is its being used by God to transform the carnal mind to "the same mind that was in Christ Jesus."

THERE IS more skill displayed by the present "representative of Peter" than by his predecessor, in the exercise of diplomacy. By his mild profession of liberality and other commendable qualities, he has won considerable devotion from Germany, England and the United States. This must not be understood as an indication that popery and protestantism are growing together, however, for popery never turns that way, but that the latter is "pocketing" all the tendencies towards this reinvestiture of ancient powers. The Vatican cheerfully receives all the homage that can be given by the Court of England and the American White House, but carefully gives back nothing but benedictions for service thus rendered to God(?)

There appears to be a foolish superstition stealing over great nations relatives to Roman Catholicism that would have done credit to the dark ages. Why should the chief of the United States pay any more attention to Pope Leo's consummation of fifty years' service in the priesthood than to a similar fact in the case of Bishop White, Bishop Foster, Bishop Jones, Bishop Campbell or Bishop Payne?

IT IS remarkable how uneasy our friends become at any general movement on the part of the negroes to leave this country or move from one part to another in great numbers. North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama and Louisiana all object to our people leaving their territory for Kansas or Arkansas. Now that a Western company wishes to transfer thousands to South America, the papers advise the colored people not to go, even such papers as the Charleston News and Courier. There is no doubt that the whole scheme is well underlain with a monstrous rascality, and that it is absolutely without the slightest interest in the welfare of the negro; but in the restlessness created in the American negro's mind by the many outrages inflicted upon him by the majority of white citizens in all the ways possible, he is prepared to seize any thread thrown out promising relief, or simply change. The advice of the News and Courier is, in the main, good. It is unwise to follow every inducement presented by men more interested in making money than in improving our condition. No successful emigration can be made under the contract system. If negroes desire strongly to emigrate, they will do it, but should not do so till they do so strongly. Whoever we locate, henceforward, we may expect to push our own way through the meshes of life. There is no spot of earth that will yield us a living and protection unless we show forth enough of life to merit existence.

THE EXECUTIVE BOARD OF Publication of the A. M. E. Church held sessions in Philadelphia last week. Bishop Ward is President of this Board and was present, as were Drs. J. H. A. Johnson and W. B. Derrick, who has not missed a call in the past three and a half years. The Board held an informal meeting in the Episcopal Room, 631 Pine street, Wednesday, 25th ult., and adjourned to meet the next morning at the residence of Bishop Campbell, 1923 N. Eleventh street.

Here, January 26th, assembled the three named members of the Board, together with Bishop Campbell, Drs. Embry, Tanner and Lee.

The Centennial Committee held a session in the morning. After the ecclesiastical matters were settled, Bishop Campbell, centennial treasurer, receiving receipt for $1,700 as the entire returns from the call, which made a very pleasing impression on all present. Bishop Campbell conducted the committee as his guests down to a well-furnished table to increase their pleasure. In Bishop Campbell's house one is in a refined, Christian negro-Quaker Methodist's home.

After dinner the Executive Committee resumed its sessions and made appropriations of Centennial funds, discharging some old, rusty debts, that had grown none the weaker for their rust, of many years' standing. The Church has shown itself friendly, to say the least. With no compulsory law it has made of its own free will this offering of nearly $2,000. There is more to come yet.

"EASY TO BE ENTREATED"—THERE is much comment upon and frequent repetition of several of the series in the train of excellencies that issue from the "wisdom that comes down from above." "Easy to be entreated," as understood in our popular way, is as important as the host of them. To have a mind is simply to be spiritual, to use that mind rightly is to be spiritually correct; for the mind used correctly is the body used correctly. Strength of character, as ordinarily used, does not necessitate correctness of mind; for wrong character may have great strength. There is a point here worthy of much consideration; a strong character may need reformation. It must hear the opinions of others. It may have need to be entreated. A strong character, easy to be entreated, is a noble character. Its strength is held and exercised with respect to other minds and established in good judgment. Men are unkindly styled weak sometimes when they are strongest, and strong when they are weakest. The strong man gains strength by yielding to the pressure of reason and righteousness; the weak man loses by sticking to an opinion or a line of procedure simply because it has been chosen. "Be sure you are right;" be easily entreated. Does this not say, he weak? By no means. When you are sure you are right, by all the external testimony, by all your internal judgment, by the direction of the Bible and providence, by the counsels of Jewish people, by the decision of the Bible and admonition of the Spirit, be hard-headed, stubborn; but always remember to inquire for light, for wisdom, and when proven incorrect, how to the right. The test is not a consideration in yielding to right. It is sometimes exceedingly expensive, but the reward is the stimulating object, the "far more and exceeding weight of glory."

IT WAS the pleasure of the editor to spend last Sunday evening with Rev. D. S. Bently at the Wylie Avenue Church, Pittsburgh. They reached their one hundredth conversion last Friday night, a coincidence with Bethel Church, Philadelphia, which also reached its one hundredth conversion on the same evening. The interest at Wylie Street Church was simply wonderful last Sunday. The great building was crowded at both the afternoon and evening services. Every part of the audience seemed equally engaged in the work. The whole house was mellow with the sacred presence. There have been in all 113 conversions and over one hundred have joined the church. There were upwards of thirty mourners, of all ages, from 7 years to fifty years. God is making great use of Brother Bently in Pittsburgh. From our standpoint, Brother Bently is naturally endowed for the work of an evangelist. We should be pleased if the Lord would set him at work as an evangelist in his own time.

The Rev. W. S. Lowry, in Allegheny, with whom we spent Sunday morning, has an interesting revival also; fifteen conversions up to Sunday. Brother Lowry and his people have transformed Brown Chapel into a beautiful, convenient church. The spirit is very warm there. The Sunday school was well attended. In the afternoon the Rev. J. W. Riley, of the Manchester Mission, had the use of Rev. Lowry's church for a rally in behalf of his work. The Rev. Milligan, of the Zion A. M. E. Church, assisted him. There seems to be a general good feeling among the Pittsburgh preachers. The Rev. Brooks, of the Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. John Holiday, of the A. M. E. Z. Church, appear highly interested in the revival at the A. M. E. Church. Glory to God.

IS "DOLLAR MONEY" THE BEST TITLE?

The "Dollar Money" comes in for a large consideration by our contributors. The real fact is, there is no dollar law in force. When the main principle of law is undermined by an incorporate subclause and all actions and all requirements are based upon this sub-clause, the main element is annulled. If the law of Pennsylvania should stipulate that all real estate should be taxed at the rate of one mill per dollar, that would be an administrable law, but if it should subjoin the clause, "or a part thereof," or "a reasonable portion thereof," the whole force of what had seemed the law would be destroyed and each citizen could pay what he pleased. There is really no law on taxation but this, every citizen may pay what he pleases. We have just this self-destructive element in our "Dollar law." It requires four years to settle what is a "reasonable portion thereof." This is not settled uniformly. It has been said that the Bishops have agreed upon what shall be considered a reasonable portion, but it is easy to show that what is reasonable at one time or place is not so at other times and places. Would it not be an improvement upon our present law to change the name of "Dollar Money" to "Connectional Funds?" Under this title we might raise twenty-five cents or fifty cents per member. The title might appear to be a matter of small moment, but the heaviest sledge used by our competitive Christian brethren against us is the fact that we require each member to pay one dollar yearly for "this and that." The fact is, we do not require it, though we seem to do so. Is it not to our advantage to not seem to do that which brings us no good, but does us much harm? We have never yet reached the one-fourth of one dollar per member. Is it of any service to the connection to blend local moneys with connectional moneys and thus appear to use forty per cent. more money in connectional work than we really do? This forty per cent. deducted and it will be seen that we have never raised the one-eighth of one dollar per annum under the "Dollar law" for connectional interests. Conferences could easily manage the collection and disbursement of all moneys necessary to their local work. This would weaken the power of our Christian competitive churches' blows; for it could then be seen that but little more than one-twelfth of one dollar was raised under the "Dollar law" for connectional purposes. It is hardly bringing us nearly so much as it costs us to support this high sounding title. Our weakness is marked on the very face of the present law, when we step down to indefiniteness and hold no man accountable for uniform stipulated return per member. For all the purposes among which the "Dollar Money" is distributed, while we maintain so many episcopal days for collecting moneys for particular departments, we cannot use one dollar per member. Certainly we shall be wise to "cut down" our title, cut off some episcopal collections or prevent our own progress by our inconsistency. The strong points of argument to support our present title are, first, that if we aim at a dollar we may hit a half dollar; that if we aimed at a half dollar we should hit only fifty per cent. of our object. This has the same weakness as the destructive, "When I say 7 o'clock I mean 8 o'clock; for our people require an hour to play on." We must remember that if we are not surrounded by enemies we are surrounded by Christian bodies that are making aggressive movements upon us; they will take advantage of any such fallacy; second, that the influence of the high sound is all allowed to leak out through the little hole—"or a reasonable part thereof." Where is the minister among us who has not heard from those without, "Why you all have to pay one dollar a year for such and such purposes" and from those within, "No, we don't; we only pay a reasonable part of it." Our laws should constitute a basis for consistent action on all things and enable us to make as easy a defence of polity as possible.

WRITE.

BY REV. R. C. RANSOM, B. D.

The American people have a conscience. They have ears, and if a man really have something to say they will hear him. He that speaks what is really in him, will find men to listen, though under never such impediments." Dr C S. Smith, in a recent article in the RECORDER, asks a very pertinent question, "Are our leaders dead or dumb?" under which heading he presents a very vivid picture of the existing state of affairs. Mr. T. Thomas Fortune, following him, offers us a panacea for some of the ills complained of I hold that for the vindication, elevation and defence of the race we need writers. I know that the treatment of colored citizens of the republic, especially in the South, is a standing contradiction of the high privileges and justice of which we boast. I know that the dignity of our manhood is daily insulted. Each day we are confronted in the public press by the basest misrepresentation. White men ever have and ever will hold us up before the world in the light in which they see us. We grow very indignant, but our indignation is bottled up and kept among ourselves.

Some men, eminent among us for learning, men of ability, enter from time to time their protests against the unjust, often cruel and malicious, treatment we are forced to bear, but their protests are, for the most part, uttered in some obscure church or in an assembly composed mostly of our own people, and rarely, if ever, right a single wrong. They, through the public press, should ring the story of our wrongs in the nation's ears until men would stop and listen from whence the voice proceeds. True, we are doing much thinking, but the world is enlightened very little by it, because our thoughts are not properly spread before the world. Colored men are writing a few books and pamphlets, but as a rule they either do not possess subject matter of sufficient interest, or are not presented in a way to arrest public attention.

A large number of newspapers are edited and published in this country by colored men. Many of them are good, but according to the make up of the average newspaper, it is impossible for them to develop a journalism of a high order. According to what seems to be their aim they are fulfilling their mission—to give the religious and social news, etc., among the colored people in various localities; but in order to become organs of power they must do more than this. They should represent the best brain of the race, arguing intelligently, pleading eloquently the cause of the race. Ideas must be met by ideas, thought by thought; logic, right reason is our weapon of defence. The books of white men crowd our library shelves; the white man's newspaper comes daily to our homes. We read their thoughts, we keep posted on all of their movements, but not so with them. They do not take or read our papers, and seldom, if ever, clip from them, so it is evident that they are a poor media of communication between us and the general public.

The Northern press is not fighting for us as in the ante-bellum days and immediately after. The South never did nor does it now sympathize with our material advancement, political rights, moral and intellectual elevation. Our champion will not come from without; they must come from within. When the white press does notice us it is mostly in an unfavorable light—to tell the country that a "black brute" has been lynched. The accounts of Southern outrages are copied by the Northern press with rarely an editorial comment. I have said write. We must fight our own battles, we must plead where our pleadings will be heard. We should make ourselves heard in such papers as the Cincinnatt Commercial, the Philadelphia Press, the New York World and the New York Tribune. There our voice will reach the nation's ears. If Hon Frederick Douglass has done more than any other colored man to cause the world to respect the intelligence, worth and manhood of the race, it is because he secured a hearing for himself and his people and attracted the attention of the world, compell ug it to listen to his reasonable and eloquent plea. The Knights of Labor make their grievances heard through every leading journal in the Republic. Are not our grievances greater than theirs? If we speak where there are ears to hear we will be heard.

In the Century Magazine a writer was recently giving a description of the home life of the negroes, which was about as true as one would be if I were to take a wretched family in one of the worst tenement houses in Philadelphia and say this represents the home life of white people. Such writing as this causes us to be held in disrespect. We must write. We need novelists, who shall make their heroes and heroines represent the best phases of character and life among the colored people. There is in the field of romance abundant material for instructive and thrilling narative. Mrs. Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has done more to create a hatred for slavery and to show some of the noble characteristics of the race than a thousand speeches could do. We need a stage literature. "The Merchant of Venice" could never have been written by a Jew; Shylock is taken to be a fair representative of the Jewish people. What race has been more persecuted than the Jews? Certainly not the American negroes. Leaving out the money kings—the Rothschilds and the statesmen Gambetta and Disraeli—I believe I am safe in saying that the Jews owe their elevation and tolerance more largely to the writings of Spinoza, Moses Mendelssohn and Heinrich Heine than to any other source. On the American stage we are caricatured and burlesqued. These characters are taken to be true to life. The stage is a great educator; we should write for the stage. Materials are abundant and I believe that there are those among us who, if they would cultivate it, have sufficient talent for the task. Our young men and women are practically shut out from the great factories and founderies of the country. They have little or no opportunity to learn such trades as telegraphy, engineering and that of a machinist. This constitutes a most formidable barrier to our progress. This should be brought before the nation and kept before it in such a way as to attract attention and awaken a sentiment in our favor. We must thunder at these doors of industry until they are opened. We have men who are in every way qualified to lead in these matters. There is Dr. B. T. Tanner, than whom we know of no more able advocate in questions pertaining to the race; and there are Dr. Arnett, Prof Scarborough, Dr. Smith and many others of equal ability. Let these men speak. But we must not cast our shot inside the enemy's line to prove effective. There is the great North American Review and the Century Magazine with open doors. Let our ablest men and women present our cause there, where it will touch the centres of intelligence and power. Let our writers cease firing all around the mark; let them take sure aim and fire at the mark. What does England do when she wants to suppress a sentiment in favor of Home Rule for Ireland? She pursues a policy of coercion, muzzles the press and proclaims the Irish National League. We have no such impediments. Our ablest men are little known or their worth appreciated. For all that is best among us, with the average white man, Douglass is the Alpha and Omega of the race. We must cease quarreling with "ole massy" while we are down at the big gate and he at the house. He is too far away; he cannot hear. Our ablest writers should make the great journals of the country ring with the story of the wrongs which we have so long in silence borne. Let the voice of eight million freemen rise and swell and peal like a trumpet of seven thunders until this deaf nation shall be made to hear. This kind of agitation will agitate. I speak not of impossibilities. The pen is mightier than the sword.

"THREE MINUTES' TALK."

BY REV. JOHN M. ABBY.

No. VI.

REVIEW OF THE FINANCIAL SYSTEM OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH

The Rev. C. C. Shaffer, it will be observed, touches upon his manifested clear conclusions with peculiar emphasis when he declares in his second proposition that the financial system under advisement is impracticable and confusing. From whatever point of view I regard it, the attempt to prove that the now existing financial system or systems is infeasible and beyond human control seems to fail distinctly. Our present methods of money getting for general purposes stand pre eminently above the old systems. The Church, which has now become edneated up to the demands of the various departments, wents no change. The annual reports of each of the General Offices show that they have their departments under full control and are running them with ease without dashing against each other in their respective chanuels, and upon this principle can be seen an annual increase of finance, which has enabled them to expand in space and time. And I remark further upon this point, that whenever and wherever the general interest of the Church is properly laid before the laity by general officers and pastors in charge there can be no conflict, and local interest will move on jost the same.

To follow Bro, Shaffer's plan would throw us back into the old regime, confuse the Church, paralyze the collections and make the money method impracticable sure enough. The readers of the RECORDER will remember that my dear Brother Shaffer helped to establish the system under review which he claims to be impracticable, and now advocating changes without giving it a fair chance to develop its strength—bad logic, to say the least. Had he moved to modify, the writer of these notes would have given a hearty second, for the system is in need of some modifications, but no changes. My prayer is that the coming General Conference will let the General Departments remain separate and distinct as they are. "Learn to labor and to wait."

Brother Shaffer concludes with the remark that the plan is too expensive, to which I will make no reply, for the simple reason that it is almost a recapitulation of the two preceding propositions advanced by him. However, I close this number of my "Three Minutes' Talk" with the remark that a consolidated system of finances would clog every wheel in our great engine.

WHY NOT OUR BISHOPS ROTATE?

BY REV. AMOS A. WILLIAMS.

Why not the Bishops of the A. M. E. Church rotate? is a question that has often flowed in my mind. Rotation, I believe, is a better system for Methodism than the diocesan. A Bishop is elected for the whole connection, and, therefore, should not be assigned to a diocesan district. The diocesan district is that of restriction. Our protestant Episcopal Church friends have the diocesan system, where their Bishops remain for life. This districting is not the surest and progressive enough for Methodism. A Bishop should not be bound in geographical lines and imaginary boundaries. Our Bishops are hindered and restricted in their jurisdiction. It is true "he shall, whenever the officers of any church call him and necessity requires him, visit any Episcopal district and act alone, in the absence of its Bishop, or conjointly with him in all cases in which the interest of the connection demands his service," yet it seems to me there is a delicacy in performing such service in the absence of the appointed diocesan Bishop. Courtesy alone allows a Bishop to visit a district and perform certain services in the absence of the regular assigned Bishop, yet the law demands that the Bishop of the diocesan district "shall travel at large through his district and visit every circuit and station and oversee the spiritual and temporal business of the societies in his district." A Bishop assigned to a diocese is as much restricted as a presiding elder assigned to a presiding elder district, or a minister to a charge. A minister has no right to interfere in another minister's charge; a presiding elder has no right to interfere in another presiding elder's district, and a Bishop has no right to interfere in another Bishop's diocesan district unless requested to do so. Our Bishops continually travel through each other's districts, yet they have no power to correct any wrong they may know of until called by the Church or requested by the diocesan Bishop.

The Diocesan District is not a general superintendency, but a restrictive superintendency. Our Bishops are not elected for dioceses but for the whole Church. When our General Conference formed or divided the connection into episcopal districts, they broke one of the organic laws of the Church which says, "It shall not alter any rule of government to the effect of doing away with the episcopacy or general superintendency." —Discipline, p. 88, section 5, article 2 When a Bishop is restricted to certain fields of labor in the connection for four years he has, in the broad sense of the word, lost the general superintendency. During the quadrennium we have lost three of our Bishops who fell at their posts. Those mighty men with God have gone at the Master's call to receive their reward. Their episcopal districts have been broken de jure if not de facto. In rotation such broken districts could not occur.

NOTICE OF PETITION AND CONTEST.

WHEREAS, The General Conference of the African M. E Church, in session at St. Louis, Mo., May, 1880, did, by resolution unanimously passed, express its pleasure and willingness to effect organic union with the British M. E. Church, and did create a Commission to treat with the representatives of the British M. E. Church on the subject of organic union; and

WHEREAS, The commissioners on the part of the African M. E, Church did assemble themselves at the place and time of meeting of the General Conference of the British M E Church, viz: Toronto, Ont., September, 1880; and

WHEREAS, The General Conference of the British M. E. Church, in session at the place and time aforesaid, did create a Commission to treat with the commissioners of the African M. E Church on the subject of organic union; and

WHEREAS, The joint commission, to wit: the commissioners of the African M. E Church and the commissioners of the British M E Church, agreed to effect organic union; and did formulate, consent to, approve and adopt articles of agreement for organic union, and attested the same by affixing their several signatures, thereby mutually agreeing and solemnly pledging and binding themselves and the denominations which they represented, viz: the African M. E. and the British M. E. Churches, to faithfully, completely and without reservation as to any part thereof, conform to, carry out, uphold, maintain and defend each and every stipulation and condition embodied in the articles of agreement; and

WHEREAS, The African M. E. Church, bound by the acts of its commissioners, did faithfully conform to and carry out each and every stipulation and condition embodied in the articles of agreement; and

WHEREAS, Bishop R. R Disney, claiming to be the accredited representative of the British M. E. Church, appeared before the General Conference of the African M E. Church, in session at Baltimore, Md., May, 1884, and audibly and officially proclaimed, during the proceedings of one of the regular sessions of said General Conference of the African M. E. Church, convened in Baltimore, Md., May, 1884, that the British M. E. Church had faithfully complied with, and carried out, each and every stipulation and condition embodied in the articles of agreement as formulated, consented to, approved and adopted by the joint commission heretofore referred to; and

WHEREAS, The General Conference of the African M. E. Church, in session at the place and time last mentioned, confiding in the correctness of the representations made to it by Bishop R. R. Disney, the supposed authorized agent of the British M. E. Church, did order the Bishops of the African M. E. Church to issue a proclamation decreeing and affirming the completion of organic union with the British M. E. Church in all matters in which the African M. E. Church was required to act and assent to by the stipulations and conditions of the articles of agreement; and

WHEREAS, Under date of September 4, 1884, and at Chatham, in the Dominion of Canada, Bishop R. R. Disney issued a proclamation decreeing and affirming the completion of organic union with the African M. E. Church in all matters in which the British M. E. Church was required to act and assent to by the stipulations and conditions of the articles of agreement as formulated, consented to, approved and ratified by the joint commission first mentioned in the third (3) paragraph of this preamble; and

WHEREAS, Proof exists that the British M. E. Church at no time previous to, or since the issuing of the proclamation by Bishop R. R. Disney at the time, place and for the purpose named and expressed in the preceding paragraph hed, or has, faithfully conformed to and carried out each and every stipulation and condition embodied in the articles of agreement for organic union with the African M. E. Church, now, therefore, be it known that—

I, Charles Spencer Smith, a minister in good and regular standing in the African M. E. Church, do hereby serve notice on all whom it may concern that I shall (D V) petition the General Conference of the African M. E. Church, to convene in the city of Indianapolis, in the State of Indiana, United States of America, Monday, May 7, 1888, to review the several proceedings by which the African M. E. Church sought to effect organic union with the British M. E. Church, and if sufficient reasons can be shown therefor to declare that the African M E Church stands related to the British M. E. Church in the precise manner that it did prior to September 4, 1884, i. e., separate and independent; and that such declaration shall not operate as a bar against the admission of any bishop, preacher or lay member of the British M. E. Church who may voluntarily apply for membership in the African M. E Church; provided that should the applicant be a bishop, he shall not rank as such in the African M. E. Church unless elected to said office by a General Conference of the African M. E. Church.

The grounds of the petition will principally be as follows, to wit:

First. That the British M. E. Church has failed to observe and fulfill the condition of the second article of the agreement, viz: to "accept of the name and Discipline of the A. M. E. Church, in toto and every particular now and forever."

Second. That it failed to observe and fulfill the condition in the third article of the agreement, which required that the articles of agreement as a whole should be submitted to each of the annual conferences of the British M. E Church for their approval or rejection; proof existing that the question of the ratification or rejection of the articles of agreement was not submitted to the Demarara Annual Conference of the British M E Church at any time between 1880 and 1884; and one of the counts of Canada has decided that the failure to submit the articles of agreement to the said Demarara Annual Conference between the preceding dates for its approval or rejection vitiated and annulled the entire agreement, and that no part or all of it was in any manner binding on any of the societies of the British M. E. Church, and refused to grant the writ of mandamus which Bishop R. R. Disney applied for to compel the trustees of the B. M. E. Church at Chatham, Ontario, to turn over the property to the possession and for the use of the African M. E. Church.

The petitioner will inquire—Did the African M. E. Church intend to simply effect organic union with but a mere fractional part of the British M. E. Church or with the British M. E. Church as a whole? The petitioner will affirm that if it meant the former then has organic union been completed; but if it meant the latter, organic union has not been completed; and for the sole reason that the British M. E. Church has failed to fulfill and carry out each and every stipulation and condition in the articles of agreement, thus releasing and absolving the African M. E. Church from any and all responsibility for the failure to complete organic union with the British M. E Church, and also releasing it from all obligation to further recognize Bishop R. R. Disney as one of its bishops.

Notice is also given that the right to seats in the General Conference of the African M. E. Church, to convene in Indianapolis, Ind., May, 1888, of all persons who may claim to have been elected as delegates from any part of the British M. E. Church, by the British M. E. Church, prior to September 4, 1884, to said General Conference will be contested. The Demarara Annual Conference of the British M. E. Church is hereby advised not to attempt, under any circumstances, to send delegates to the General Conference of the African M E Church, to convene in Indianapolis, Ind., May, 1888, for any other purpose than to apply to said General Conference for admission into the general body of the African M. E. Church; inasmuch as the said Demarara Annual Conference was not made, for reasons known only to the representatives of the British M. E. Church, a party to the consideration, rejection or approval of the articles of agreement for organic union between the African M. E. and the British M. E. Churches.

Further notice is el en that the right of Bishop R R. Disney to equal coassociation with the bishops of the A. M E. Church in presiding over and regulating the affairs of the General Conference of the African M. E. Church, to convene in Indianapolis, Ind., May, 1888, will be contested, and the petitioner will endeavor to show that the said Bishop R. R Disney has never been, and is not now, a de facto bishop of the African M E. Church.

DR. C. S. SMITH'S PROTEST.

CEDAR GROVE COTTAGE,
91 LINDEN AVENUE,
FLUSHING L. I., N. Y., Jan. 28, 1888.

NOTICE.

The admissability of the question which is thrown upon the surface in this most extraordinary document in my mind is surrounded by clouds of grave doubt as to the legality, as well as the practicability, of its presentation in the manner our Nester intends to bring about his subtile revoiutionary scheme at the coming General Conference. I am cognizant that it is the prerogative of every man to petition, may he be in Church or State—a fact no one will undertake to deny. But while this is true, is there not some danger of this prerogative going beyond bounds?

I now, through the medium of the Church, the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, notify Dr. Smith, the plaintiff, that I am prepered at the proper time and place to convince him of the very greve error in which he has purposely allowed himself to be drawn, likewise establishing the following impregnable points:

1st. That the Union is an incontestable fact, as such there is no ground for contest.

2d That such is the case, there is no longer any organization known as the B. M. E. Church.

3d. That the organization which was once known by that title—B. M. E. Church—now forms part of the great integral whole, the African M. E. Church.

4th. That although financiality it may not be as strong as other districts within the bounds of the Church, yet it is nevertheless true, morally, religiously, socially and intellectually the equal of any.

5th. That the persons within the bounds of said district are not mendicants, as some would have it appear; and that the motives which actuated the movement on their part was one more lofty than that of mere cents and dollars.

6th. That the General Conference at Baltimore, in 1884, undoubtedly knew what it was about, led by distinguished Dr. Smith, in pronouncing to the whole world that the vox pupuli and vox Dei declared we were one.

7th. That the Board of Commissioners consisted of some of the ablest and most judicious minds within the borders of the Church, were thoroughly acquainted with the question and did so act to the almost unanimous satisfaction of all, Dr. Smith included.

W. B DERRICK,
For Defendants.

MANAGER'S NOTICE.

We are just receiving from the binder a fresh lot of Hymn Books in cloth, sheep, roan and gilt, and, as business is small just at this season, and we have some stiff bills to meet in February and March, we have resolved to offer churches, choirs and presiding elders this new lot of six hundred copies at a great reduction from regular rates for the next sixty days. One dozen cloth bound for $7.20; one dozen sheep bound for $8 40; one dozen roan (black), for $9 60; six extra roan gilt for $7.00, and a corresponding reduction on morocco of any class. Now, please send on your orders at once. Do not wait until they are all gone, and then complain that we cease selling at the same rate. Remember, there are only 600 copies at this rate, and the first that come will be the first served.

Remember, also, that we sell the People's Hymn Book, a small, cheap, excellent work, collected by Mr. S. B. Scheiffelin. It contains tunes of standard excellence on the opposite page. Only 20 end 25 cents per copy But we must tell you that the best selling song book we have had for two years or more is the little gem called "Sought Out Songs," by Rev. A. B. Earle, of Boston. This book contains the famous "Lily of the Valley," and other lively tunes and hymns that stir the multitudes into a glow. Send in your orders. Only 30 cents per copy; 5 cents extra by mail.

Finally, we call attention to this paper. We have been late "to press" the past two weeks, and we come a little late still, this week, but with all this we submit that we are handsomer and handier than ever we have been. We are clipped and pasted, we are lighter weight and finer paper than ever before. One drawback only is worthy of note. Having changed our printer, our new pressman has not, for want of skill or time, been able to give us a clear page as we have been accustomed to show our readers hitherto In appreciation of all we have tried to do for the convenience and pleasure of our patrons, will not our patrons help us a little by securing for the paper at least one cash subscriber for '88?

We earnestly request every subscriber and friend of the RECORDER to show the paper to a friend and ask him or her to try it for six months or one year. By so doing you will help us, and at the same time promote the advancement of a good cause.

—Fortune smiles on those who put their shoulders to the wheel.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is a peculiar medicine. It is carefully prepared from Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Dock, Ipsiwsswa, Juniper Berries, and other well known and valuable vegetable remedies, by a peculiar combination, proportion and process, giving to Hood's Sarsaparilla curative power not possessed by other medicines. It effects remarkable cures where other preparations fail.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best blood purifier before the public. It eradicates every impurity, and cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, Pimples, all Humors, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Indigestion, General Debility, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Complaints, overcomes that tired feeling, creates an appetite, and builds up the system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has met peculiar and unparalleled success at home. Such has become its popularity in Lowell, Mass., where it is made, that whole neighborhoods are taking it at the same time. Lowell druggists sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than of all other sarsaparillas or blood purifiers. Sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

THE WORLD-FAMED LIVER, BLOOD AND LUNG REMEDY.

WHAT AILS YOU?

COPYRIGHT, 1887.

ARE YOU SICK? indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from the most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, and your most prominent and your disease has become, the greater the number of symptoms, the more complicated the attack, and the severity of each. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in a majority of cases, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time, will cure it. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, Scrofula, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in, and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

BILIOUS ATTACK. DAVID G. LOWE, Esq., of St. Agathe, Manitoba, Canada, says: "Being troubled with a terrible Bilious attack, fluttering of the heart, pain, etc., at night, etc., I commenced the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and derived the very highest benefit therefrom."

LIVER DISEASE. Mrs. I. V. WEBBER, of Yorkshire, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., writes: "For five years previous to taking 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' I was a great sufferer; had a severe pain in my right side continually; was unable to do my own work. I am now well and strong."

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and every blotch, pimple, boil, carbuncle, sore, scrofulous sore and swelling, blood-taint, or vitiated condition of the blood, from whatever cause, is conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating remedy. While it promptly cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood.

CONSUMPTION. SOLOMON BUTTS, of North Clayton, Miami Co., Ohio, writes: "I have not the words to express my gratitude for the good your 'Golden Medical Discovery' has done my wife. She was taken with consumption, and after a doctor after another I finally gave up all hope of relief. Being very poor and having but one dollar in the world, I prayed to God that he might show me something; and then it came as though something did tell me to get your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' My wife took it as directed, and as a result she is as she can work now."

GOUGH OF FIVE YEARS' STANDING. Mrs. N. W. RICE, of Newfane, Vermont, says: "I feel at liberty to acknowledge the benefit I received from two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' which cured a cough of five years' standing, and dyspepsia, from which I had suffered for a long time. I have also used Dr. Pierce's Extract of Smart-Weed, or Water Pepper, in my family, with good effect."

GAINED 25 POUNDS. Wasting Disease.—WATSON F. CLARKE, Esq., of (Box 10), Summerside, Prince Edward Island, Can., writes: "When I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I was not able to work and was a burden to myself. At that time I weighed 125 pounds, and to-day I weigh 167 pounds. Then I used to eat about one meal a day, and now can eat four or five if I dared to."

WORTH $1000 A BOTTLE. W. R. DAVIS, Esq., of Belleville, Florida, writes: "I have taken your wonderful 'Golden Medical Discovery' and have been cured of consumption. I am now sound and well, and have only spent three dollars, and I would not take three thousand dollars and be put back where I was."

Discovery $1.60, Six Bottles for $5.00; by Druggists.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Propr's, No. 663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

SALT-RHEUM AND RHEUMATISM. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Gentlemen—For several years I have felt it to be my duty to give to you the facts in relation to the complete cure of a most aggravated case of salt-rheum, by the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Before taking about a dozen bottles she was entirely cured. Her hands were perfectly well and as smooth and healthy as a child's. Her general health was also greatly improved; the rheumatism entirely left her, and the eczema was almost cured, so that it ceased to be much annoyance. She has enjoyed excellent health from that day to this, and has had no return of either salt-rheum or rheumatism. The 'Discovery' seems to have entirely eradicated the salt-rheum from her system. She is now over eighty years old, and is remarkably well for such extreme age.

I have written this letter, of which you can make any use you see fit, hoping that some sufferer from salt-rheum might chance to read it and obtain relief by using your 'Golden Medical Discovery' —for 'Golden' it is in its curative properties, and as much above the multitude of nostrums and so-called 'patent medicines,' so seasonably haunted before the public, as gold is above baser metals.

Respectfully yours,

F. W. WHEELER, 182 Flat St."

CONSUMPTION, WEAK LUNGS, SPITTING OF BLOOD.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. While it promptly cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood.

WANAMAKER'S.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30, 1888.

NEW GOODS COMING IN EVERY DAY. They are elbowing their way onto our counters, and shelves in all parts of the store, and the more they push and crowd, the more the prices of the older things suffer.

We must make room for the new comers; we can best make it by getting rid of whatever is inferior. The quickest way to get rid is by low prices—we are done.

Very quick prices on the new things, also. Whatever the price of a yard of cloth or a pair of shoes or a piece of furniture, or of any other thing must be anywhere within a little or little here, quality for quality. Our prices are more likely to be below the market than any other way.

YOU MUST LOOK OFTEN TO KEEP TRACK OF THE things we are all the time doing to make your visits to the store more and more pleasant. The reading rooms, the resting places where you may write, the telephone and telegraph and letter mail (no facilities are for you, if you are glad to have some of them in the store whether you care to buy anything or not.

Look, but go as long as you like, at your leisure. You are always welcome.

"BARGAINS" AT EVERY COUNTER. AT MACY'S you will run across half price or third-price or quarter-price goods, and the reasons things are all over the store at warm-weather values

For the eighteenth year, who think more of getting good and substantial, wor hful articles at a fraction of the common price than of being at the very tip t of every wave crest of fashion find a rich reward by looking about the store these days for those goods of any sort that a little behind the times or the season, down go the prices.

Thrifty buyers watch for such chances. This is their harvest time.

IS THIS AN AGE OF MIRACLES?

The physician who has a large correspondence with his patients constantly hears the still, sad wail of humanity crying for help. Patients appeal to him for aid for whom he knows cure to be hopeless. Alas! why have they waited until man's best aid can be of little avail? The wisest physicians do not lay claim to work miracles. Great as are the virtues of Compound Oxygen, it must be called in before the undertaker. In cases of consumption, neuralgia, rheumatism, asthma, and bronchitis, Compound Oxygen, as made by Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1529 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., has achieved wonderful cures. Send for pamphlet, describing the Home Treatment. The book will be sent free, by return mail.

Edison says only one-fourth of a ton of coal is used "That goes up the chimney. Edison is wrong. The rest is left at the coal yard.

"It is worth its weight in gold," is a common expression. But, while the value of gold is easily afforded, the worth of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, as a blood purifier, never depreciates. It will eradicate scrofula from the system when everything else fails.

Calter (to little Bobby): Bobby, what makes your eyes so bright?" Bobby (after a little thought): "I does it with a hatchet, an' I'm very long."—Ex.

All derangements of the kidneys and liver, pains in the back, tired feelings, and weakness, are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine is purely vegetable. It is sold by all druggists.

Customer (in the restaurant): "The last time I was here, waiter, I found a hair in my soup. Are you sure this is all right?" Waiter (confidently): "Yes, sah, I done took 'em all out."

TRUE MERIT APPRECIATED.—BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES are world renowned as a simple yet effective remedy for Coughs and Throat Troubles. In a letter from Hon. Mr. Perry, Castle Gray, Limerick, Ireland they are thus referred to: "Having brought your 'BRONCHIAL TROCHES' with me when I came to reside here, I found that, after I had given them away to those I considered required them, the poor people will walk for miles to get a few." Obtain only "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES." Sold only in boxes.

The Great Success
Of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is due to the fact that it meets the wants of the people, being economical to use and always reliable and effective. Its ingredients are the best, and their combination the result of profound study and skill. Thus, for all diseases originating in impure blood, Ayer's Sarsaparilla stands unrivaled.

"As a blood-purifier and general builder-up of the system," says Eugene L. Hill, M. D., 381 Sixth ave., New York, "I have never found anything to equal Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

Mrs. Ellen A. Clough, Matron of the M. E. Seminary, Tilton, N. H., writes: "Every winter and spring my family, including myself, use several bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Experience has convinced me that, as a powerful blood-purifier, it is superior to any other preparation of Sarsaparilla."

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla gives better satisfaction than any other blood medicine I handle."—Geo. W. Whitman, Druggist, Albany, Indiana.

of sympathy for the negro with a kick, simply voice the sentiments of a large portion of the white people of this country in relation to the morality and the Christianity of the colored people. Such expressions we often hear in this section from pulpit and platform, from many who come to appeal for aid for their cause. They adopt this method hoping to excite the philanthropy of their Northern brethren and sisters by contrasting their immeculate piety with that of the negro, for whom they express their sympathy by representing him indiscriminately as a fetish potentot or an immoral hyprocrite. From such statements the opinions of many of the Christian characters of the colored people are formed.

Having been requested to read a paper before the Preachers' Meeting of the M. E. Church, Providence, January 16th, the unqualified statements of Bishop Dudley and others relative to the colored people suggested an answer to the subject: "What is African Methodism Doing to Help Elevate the Negro; or Does Christianity under the Leadership of the Negro Degrade or Elevate the Negro?" In stating the grounds for the introduction of this subject it was said, "But some will say, perhaps, that that subject is trite." This subject is not trite, because it touches the negro problem at many vital points. The negro problem is not trite, as is evidenced by the prominence given it in popular discussions of the times and in the leading journals and periodicals of the day. Labor and capital, tariff, the silver surplus and coinage, the rum power and prohibition, the coming presidentiel campaign and the proper government of our large cities are all great questions before the American people, but it is seriously questionable whether either one of these problems touch national interests at so many vital points as the negro problem.

Before emancipation the perplexing question was: "What shall we do with the negro?" The question now is: "What will the negro do with himself?" And why is this question so prominent? Because, politically, American citizenship is in it; because the wisdom or the folly of the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution of the United States is in it; because the capabilities and the destiny of a race are in it; because the conscience of the nation is feeling the impress of God. Under the Christian light of to-day public conscience is awakened, sensitive and inquisitive. God is arousing the popular heart as to its duty to these long crushed, but now struggling and rising people. The solution of this question relating to elevation of the negro would be comparatively easy if left to work itself ont by ordinary methods of human progress and development along the lines of just and equal privileges; but caste prejudices and color distinctions enter the area with their disturbing differences and attempt, by outrageous methods, to throw themselves across the way of the negro's advancement. They pervade ampreme judicial asociations, ignore the expressed will of popular majorities, set aside constitutional amendments to subordinate human rights to State rights. The negro's color and his weakness appear to be pretexts for every wrong and outrage upon his manhood In many places color is made to gauge every brain by the same calibre and to grade all characters to the same level. If a manly spirit is found to take issue at infringements upon his rights, false and flendish charges are preferred, the shotgun or lynch rope are made to supplant the courts of justice. If he demands a fair day's wages for a fair day's work he is falsely charged with an attempt et insurrection, so that the militia may be called out and colored people indiscriminately shot under forms of law. In defiance of constitution and laws that protect the rights of all, the elective franchise, the chief safeguard of citizen liberty, is openly wrested from him in many parts of the South and he compelled to be represented in State and National councils by those whom he has no choice in electing. In addition to these facts that there should be in sixteen States and the District of Columbia a population of 5 703,218 to be educated; that there should be nearly a million colored voters in this mass of illiteracy and that a forced vote or ballot cast by the hand of an illiterate on the wrong side in Louisiana has as much counting power in a National or State issue as a ballot cast by an intelligent citizen of Rhode Island ou the right side is a fact that should arouse the serious apprehensions of the most indifferent friend of good government.

But the crushing power of caste pursues the negro into more sacred precincts than politics. The color line is made to rear separate schools and churches, out annual cooferences, divide religious assemblies and sever episcopal dioceses. It enters the temple of God with its distinctions and writes above its door, "Whosoever will may come except the negro" It has the gates to cemeteries, the last resting place of the dead, with the inscription, "In life I hated you; in death I will not be with you." It taints the gospel of Christ with its foul philosophy of a partial God the respecter of persons, affording another most astonishing fact of the age that, in the face of all this the negro in his ignorance under these crushing outrages by so-called Christians has not turned in disgust from Christianity to irreparable barbarism The explanation is only to be found in the fact that the negro's deep spiritual penetration enabled him to discern beneath all this the true nature of the Divine character, grasp a firm grip on God's promises which have sustained him. Thus while the free Indian, refusing to bow before the Cross, is going down, the enslaved negro, accepting Christianity, is rising and flourishing.

In the face of these facts where, with more propriety, should attention be repeatedly called to a subject so vital in its humane, Christian and political bearing than at a meeting of ministers, the directors of the interests of moral and religious thought of the country • • •

It is evident that sin and ignorance, with their consequent weaknesses, are the causes of many of the above mentioned evils. As African Methodists we believe that the remedies for the colored man's misfortunes are to be found in a cultured brain, a skillful hand and a Christian heart. We believe that if the black man would arise above his environments education he must help himself. There must be a force within responsive to aids without. African Methodism touches the religious, moral and educational phases of the negro's needs and views with the colored people are doing to help themselves. As a Christian organization we are helping to solve this question through the doctrines, forms and usages of Episcopal Methodism. We have been dealing with this question, in efforts at self-help, since 1787.

After an outline history of the rise and progress of the A. M. E. Church, with a resume of what she is doing in the General Department to diffuse general intelligence among the masses, in the Sunday school, missionary, educational departments and in the cause of prohibition and general moral reform as well as train them in systematic benevoleuce through the financial methods. The work other colored Christian organizations was cited so as to see in the light of facts if Bishop Dudley's unqualified statements were true.

The argument was closed by saying: "Not only do these facts refute the unqualified stetements of Bishop Dudley as to the morality and the religion of the negro, but if taken in connection with the negro's industry since emancipation, as shown by the increased production of cotton; corn, sugar, rice and tobacco, his business tact and economy in the acquirement of taxable property with comfortable homes, his improvement in morals and religion seen in the annual amounts given to sustain them, and that there is not an Anarchist among them except Parson's wife (it is said); his love for learning seen in the rapid increase of intelligence, with the 950,000 colored children in schools, they will serve also to show that the negro problem need not long perplex the nation, but if given an open field and a fair chance the school book, the Bible and the ballot will do for him what they have done for other people. All this African Methodism is striviog to bring about.

MANAGER'S NOTICE.

We are just receiving from the binder a fresh lot of Hymn Books in cloth, sheep, roau and gilt, and, as business is dull just at this season, and we have some stiff bills to meet in February and March, we have resolved to offer churches, choirs and presiding elders this new lot of six hundred copies at a great reduction from regular rates for the next sixty days. One dozen cloth bound for $7.20; one dozen sheep bound for $8.40; one dozen roan (black), for $9 60; six extra roan gilt for $7.00, and a corresponding reduction on morocco of any class. Now, please send on your orders at once. Do not wait until they are all gone, and then complain that we cease selling at the same rate. Remember, there are only 600 copies at this rate, and the first that come will be the first served.

Remember, also, that we sell the People's Hymn Book, a smell, cheap, excellent work, collected by Mr. S. B. Scheiffelin. It contains tunes of standard excellence on the opposite page. Only 20 eud 25 cents per copy. But we must tell you that the best selling song book we have had for two years or more is the little gem called "Sought Out Songs," by Rev. A. B. Earle, of Boston This book contains the famous "Lily of the Valley," and other lively tunes and hymns that stir the multitudes into a glow. Send in your orders. Only 30 cents per copy; 5 cents extra by mail.

Finally, we call attention to this paper. We have been late "to press" the past two weeks, and we come a little late still, this week, but with all this we submit that we are handsomer and handier than ever we have been. We are clipped and pasted, we are lighter weight and finer paper than ever before. One drawback only is worthy of note. Having changed our printer, our new pressman has not, for want of skill or time, been able to give us a clear page as we have been accustomed to show our readers hitherto. In appreciation of all we have tried to do for the convenience and pleasure of our patrons, will not our patrons help us a little by securing for the paper at least one cash subscriber for '88?

We earnestly request every subscriber and friend of the RECORDER to show the paper to a friend and ask him or her to try it for six months or one year. By so doing you will help us, and at the same time promote the advancement of a good cause.

OUR CHURCH AT WORK.

BY AN EARNEST WORKER FOR CHRIST.

DEAR EDITOR:—We, the members of the White Street A. M. E. Church, of Pittsburgh, Pa., are well pleased in saying that our worthy pastor, Rev. D. S. Bentley, is doing a most wonderful work in and throughout Pittsburgh. Through the Almighty Power from Heaven, he is spreading the Gospel far and near; and we all bless the Lord for the wonderful effect his sermons and his daily walks and conversations have had upon the people of our city. We have received the intelligence from the old veterans of the cross that the spirit of God in our church has not been attended with such a power from Heaven for 21 years. Everybody is awake. Christians that have been resting on flowery beds of ease have been aroused at last, and all the people of God are coming together and seem to be enjoying the precious fruit from the tree of life.

The work is increasing day by day, hour by hour, and members of the church of God's people are certainly working faithfully for the upbuilding of the Kingdom of Christ, and are praying to see the devil's kingdom and his army weaken and torn down by the power of the Holy Father. We all appreciate our most worthy pastor very highly, and bless God's eternal name for putting it into the heart of our beloved Bishop Campbell to send us such an evangelist, such an exemplary Christian as Rev. D. S. Bentley. We cannot speak too well of him, and want everybody to know who our pastor is and what he is doing through the divine power of God. We have one or more meetings close there will not be one sinner left to advocate the cause of sin. O! Christians everywhere, help us to pray that God may continue to pour out his blessings upon our pastor and us, his sheep, who are on the Lord's side.

We have had, beginning with New Year's morn, up to the present, 52 conversetons, and if we are not mistaken, have at this time 25 or 30 sinnions acute at the altar seeking Christ Jesus, the Son of the living God. Praise God from whom these blessings flow. The spirit that exists in our church at the present time is so powerful that sinners tremble in the congregation of the righteous, and are being stirred with the power of conviction from Heaven all over Pittsburgh; not only among the Methodists but from all deuominations they are coming. We desire to see the world saved. Anybody and everybody is welcome to our church. Many prayers are being answered in our meetings for the conversion of souls. Brothers and sisters, we all feel like pressing on and upward to that beautiful City of God.

Our meetings are so crowded at times it is almost impossible seenre a comfortable seat. We found our lecture room was too small. At this time we are holding meetings at night in the main audience room, and we are laboring very earnestly for Christ. In our meetings we have the best of order, and in all we are enjoying the blessings from Heaven as the Father showers them down upon us. God is certainly blessing the work in our pastor's hands. O! Christians, if you read this, be up and doing. Speak to some poor trembling sioner. Offer them your Saviour now. Entreat them to come along with you and enjoy the precious blessings for a day in His service is better than a thousand earthly treasures. Tell the sinner to come to-day, while Jesus whispers to them, come, I will help some one to Christ. O! if I could, I would gather the world together and run with them to Jesus. O! Christians, this is a wonderful work to be engaged in. Just think of all we will enjoy when we reach our Father's dwelling.

We, as a people, have been able through faith in Jesus, our Saviour, to say, "Get behind me, Satan!" and we want to keep him there forever. O! what a precious gathering of souls here at this time. Never was there such a time in the history of our lives as young soldiers.

Satan's army trembles. His number is growing less every day, and they are enlisting in the army of the Lord. O! that I could send the news all over the earth; the good news from Pittsburgh. God's army certainly is in earnest about the salvation of souls. Even the children are laboring for Christ. They are being used as instruments in God's hands in bringing their parents to the church. One interesting fact we desire to mention is that a little girl came to our meetings regularly, became deeply convicted, went forward to the altar, sought the Lord and found him precious to her soul. Her conversion was the means of stirring up her mother's heart, and made such an impression upon that mother's mind that she could not rest until she sought the Saviour, and the result was she found in him a precious Saviour. She came to the church and went around shaking hands. With one hand she led the child that had been an instrument in the Father's hands in bringing her to enjoy the love of Jesus; while the other hand she used in shaking hands with the people of God. Now at this time the father of the child is seeking our wonderful Redeemer. O! such a time, such a time! We will never forget it as long as life lasts.

O come to this valley of blessings so sweet,
Where Jesus will bless you and comfort you;
And believe and receive and confess Him,
That all His salvation may know.

May God add His blessings on us all.

BENEFICENCE OF THE GOSPEL.

BY REV. J. A BROADNAX.

The Gospel has been one of the great conservative forces which has contributed to mould and fashion the governments of the earth, making men better and more patriotic citizens. Many have knelt at its sacred shrine and there learned its cardinal lessons of temperance and virtue and gone forth into the various walks of life to disseminate, teach and practice them.

The principles of the Gospel tend to develop pure and noble men—men free from bigotry; men who have broad and liberal views; men who see in their fellowmen children of a common Father; men who have hearts of sympathy for the erring, and who are ever ready to extend a helping hand to the fallen.

The Gospel as it is held up in every man's pure and moral edifice, whose foundations crumble not, and which grows into that pure spiritual temple which stands as a beacon light to point the path that leads to immortality. It teaches that a well ordered life is the best inheritance; more valued than great riches without nobility of soul.

"STRICTUE."

"THE RULES OF YOUR CHURCH ARE TOO STRICT."

BY REV. T. R. GEDA.

BROTHER EDITOR:—We have heard the above words uttered so often in the East (from whence cometh light) that we thought we would write a few lines upon them and state a few of our many observations. Persons very often say to us, "We would join your church," meaning the Methodist Church, "but your rules are too strict." We ask in what way, for an explanation, and the answers are often thus: "Your church is too strict on the young people." "You will not permit dancing, which is no harm." "You do not permit them to sing." "You keep them from the opera house; nor will your church permit those innocent games of which the young are so fond." Say some, "Permit these and many other amusements and your church will have more young people in it." Our answer is invariably this, that no consistent Christian will want such amusements as here mentioned. There is a conversion from and not into them. In some parts of the East (I am sorry to say) there are those who are looking for a church society with as little strictness as possible; a do as you have a mind to, and no one to call you to account.

We now relate a few facts: Talking with a gentleman of 60, last summer, about his son's welfare, he said, "If I were converted I would not join your church." "Why?" I asked. His reply was, "You Methodists are too strict." In December this person was taken very sick. He sent for the writer to have prayer with him. In a week after he was converted, and requested that his name be kept on the class book of our church; was baptized, given the communion, and was buried from the too strict Methodist Church.

A young lady was asked to take a part in the Sunday school concert in a Methodist Church. She refused because she heard that that church does not permit dancing. She said, "I love dancing, and therefore cannot help a church that would take away my pleasure." She is now very ill, and promises, if she recovers, to live a different life. She also sent for a minister from this too strict church to pray for her.

A father in the East thought it no harm for his only son to play an innocent game; so the father taught his son to play cards. The son loved it, and turned to be a gambler; was shot, and when dying sent for a minister of this too strict church, and said, "My father taught me how to play; tell the young men to stop gambling, for it was my ruin."

A middle aged lady slipped and fell one evening while coming out of the theatre, and is crippled for life. She, too, sent for a minister of this too strict church, and said to him, "I left your church because I thought the rules were too strict. Had I stayed and obeyed them, my condition would be different to-day. Tell the people or members to keep the church rules strictly. It is the best for them after all."

LETTER FROM DEMERARA, B. G.

BY REV. S. MARTIN.

MR. EDITOR:—The day school of the African Methodist Episcopal Church held its first anniversary at Anna Catharina, West Coast, Demerara, British Guiana, on Monday and Tuesday, 2nd and 3rd inst. The examination was conducted on Monday by the pastor, conjointly with the teacher, and in the evening the recitations and dialogues took place. On both occasions the children gave ample satisfaction, which reflects not a little credit on Mr. J. B. Brice, who is painstaking, persevering and energetic. On Tuesday, at noon, the children re-assembled in the examination hall, after which there was a procession from the above mentioned village to Blankenburg, with banners, preceded by a band of music. We gratefully acknowledge the receipt of prizes from his worship, G. A Forshaw, Esq., Mayor of the city of Georgetown, and W. Stuart Cameron, Esq., attorney at law, which were awarded to those who also obtained the maximum number of marks on the day of examination in Reading, Dictation, Scripture, History, Arithmetic, English Grammar and Mental Arithmetic. Prizes were also awarded to some of the children for regular attendance and good conduct. The prizes, which were to have been distributed by Mr. Cameron, were, in consequence of his absence, distributed by the pastor, after the proceedings on Tuesday. These cheers having been given for his excellency, the Lieutenant Governor, Charles Brice, C. M. G.; G. A. Forshaw and W. S. Cameron, Esquires, the proceedings then terminated by singing the national anthem, and the parents, children and friends retired to meet again in the evening at a soiree which was held, the proceeds of which are for the benefit of the school. The number of children on register at quarter ending December 31, 1887, was: Boys, 55; girls, 45. Total, 100. Daily average attendance during said quarter: Boys, 51; girls, 40 Total, 91. The prizes were awarded as follows:

Mary Ann Scoza, 1st prize, Reading; Annie Walters, 1st prize, Dictation; Alexander Solomon, 2nd prize, Dictation; Augustus Sellman, 1st prize, Scripture History; David Beeton, 1st prize, Arithmetic; Rosaline Phillips, 2nd prize, Arithmetic; Isabella Harvey, 3rd prize, Arithmetic; Joseph Green, 1st prize, English Grammar; Rampani, (Coolie), 2nd prize, English Grammar; Robert Rudon, 1st prize, Mental Arithmetic.

On Wednesday, the 4th inst., the children again assembled to partake of some refreshments which were provided for them, and were then dismissed to enjoy a well merited holiday.

I may here take this opportunity of adding that British Guiana offers a fair field for the proper planting and establishment of African Methodism; that the church, if properly organized and worked, will here be second to none in numerical strength, moral and intellectual influence, in the not very distant future; that in order thereto, men of the very best talent, zeal and piety must be appointed as its agents to carry on the work, for the West Indies are enlightened, both morally and intellectually; that the present financially embarrassed state of the church here militates not a little against its progress, and necessitates timely assistance from the parent society, and that if these (more and means) be withheld all the labors of past years must come to naught; for the cause of African Methodism cannot be much longer sustained here without substantial help.

I now conclude, dear Dr., with re-echoing the Macedonian cry, "Come over and help us."

REV. N. B. STEWART'S INTERESTING LETTER.

MR. EDITOR:—My last missive was forwarded from New York. Since that I have been visiting various parts of the Southern States, of which I send you a synopsis. I preached at Allen Temple for Rev. Jackson; also assisted that noble and true hearted brother, Rev. Flipper, at Bethel Church, in Wheat street, Atlanta, Ga. I had been privileged to visit, through him, with Bishop Dickey, Atlanta University, where there are many students of our caste procuring that which is better than silver or gold.

Among those whom I heard preach was Bi. Rev. Dr. Turner, who preached a sublime, theological and historical sermon from St. Luke concerning Michael and the devil. His points were striking and remarkably applied. On the said Sunday Bishop Dickey preached an impressive, appropriate and interesting sermon.

My time being limited I was obliged to leave for Savannah, Ga., where I was cordially received by Rev. Bro. Wilson, one who is genial in his aspect, and develops in his movements that of a Christian. That being the time for conference I was encircled among those whose presence indicated welcome. The feature of their business was so disciplinarily carried out that it contradicted the assertion of those who affirm that the colored man is not capable of transacting his own business. Surely it is a mistaken idea. What was Egypt once? Was she not admired for her constitutional powers? Did not Greece borrow many of its laws? After which Britain copied many of its edicts. Let us bear the words of Socrates in mind: "Let him that would move the world move first himself." Also these sublime words of the poet:

"If every one would see
To his own reformation,
How very easily
You would reform a nation."

The various ministerial brethren who preached and addressed the conference with the eloquence of a Demosthenes and a Cicero were Rev. Drs. James Johnston, Gaines, Derrick and others.

Having visited the various stations and ministers there for a few days, I left with my commission from Bishop Dickey to go further in the South. I am here for a short time where I have been preaching for the different brethren (Revs. Rose, Lee and Welsh) of the church, and also assisted in open air preaching.

The Rev. Rose has done a very good work for the year. He has almost completed a new place of worship and a mission house. He is a self-sacrificing man, what he has done. His mind acts as that of Napoleon, who could keep the conquered Prussians in the rear whilst his army faced the Russians at the same time, and having the Austrians on the right flank, and still knew what his soldiers wanted, and at the same time had to send communications to France. Such a man's motto is this, "Whatsoever they hand findeth to do, do it with all your might."

Whilst visiting the divinity school of the A. M. E. Church I noticed how reluctant is its principal (Rev. Welch) for the further advancement of our people. It brought to my recollection the words of King Charles IX., laying his hand on his youngest son, he said, "He shall do it." Brother Welch's idea is this, that what is of real worth must be achieved by courageous working.

Bro. Lee is also doing a good work. He is preparing to put new seats for his place of worship, and is progressing.

I was favored with the opportunity of listening to our honored prelate, Bt. Rev. Dr. Payne, who lectured on the "Ministry for this Time." With his academic ideas, united with the writings of the Old and New Testaments, his remarks were preponderate and sublime. Those who heard him have been edified and admonished. His impression will stand on the mind, and will be entertained as that of St. Chrysostom, Dr. Augustine, Archbishop Whately, and others, of centuries past.

The climate here is neither hot nor cold In conclusion, I say,—

Unite in friendship's happy band,
And bid fell discord flee;
Each give to each a helping hand,
No more let envy be.
Take not advantage, great or small,
Of a weak neighbor's fault,
But strive to profit, one and all,
And guard against assault.

Church News.

Rev. R. J. Bailey, Devoreaux, Ga., writes: I was appointed to Warren Chapel Church, Ga., in 1885. I found two churches. By trusting God we have been able to buy and pay for a splendid church, with two acres of good land, for all of which we have deeds made to the A. M. E. connection. We found the people in general very immoral; but, thank God, we have been able to bring many to Christ. We have added two hundred members to the circuit, making a membership of 355. I have been able, through trust in God, to pay the debts of thy churches, amounting to $200.

Rev. J. W. Williams, Forest, Miss., writes: I want to say something about home mission to the many readers of our Church paper. Our mission in life is to hit sin whenever and wherever we see it. Get sin out of our churches, Sunday schools, families, cities, towns and countries, and preach, pray, sing, teach and write, until the love of Jesus Christ find its way into the hearts of all men, women, girls and boys. And talk and teach people and members to do their duty towards supporting those schools that are already built. Build more; sustain the RECORDER, Review, Southern Recorder and Sunday School Union, all to uphold our church in this land. When, oh, when shall we see those places, and hear the cries of those that want our Church, and help those preachers who are on missions in this land? Will you do something for those men who are willing to deny themselves for the Church, and go into dark and unknown places and hold up the banner of the A. M. E. Church, and teach the fatherhood of God and brotherhood of man in this land? When, oh, when shall we, the A. M. E. Church, take up those poor children of our members who are sleeping in the grave, and their children dying for knowledge, and in jails, and on farms, working out fines? Oh, they are all around us! Shall we stand still and let them die? Oh, church of ours, awake! Awake to save our people! God speed sister A. J. Miller with her school at Natchez, Miss., which she started to save the children of her church. Amen, amen, to Rev. Gazaway's letter. Get a dollar from every member. Extend our church in unknown places. Send me something to build a church at Forest, Miss.

Obituary.

Death has entered the household of Ex-Representative J. S. Hintou, your old correspondent from this city, and removed therefrom and from our midst his dear wife, Mrs. Sarah A. Hinton. The deceased was a devout Christian and ever active in the upbuilding of the various religious benevolences of the church of which she was a member for a number of years. In social circles she was always useful and enterprising, making all happy with whom she came in contact. The funeral obsequies were conducted at the A. M. E. Church, on West Vermont street. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Saunders, preached an effective discourse from the 31st chapter of Deuteronomy and the 14th verse. The services were attended by a large crowd of sympathizing friends.

JAMES T. HILL.

Indianapolis, Indiana.

REV. E. C. JOINER.

Rev. Edwin C. Joiner was born near the city of Belleville, St. Clair county, this State, on the 18th day of April, 1841, and died in the city of Springfield, Illinois, on Friday morning, January 20th, 1888, aged 46 years 9 months and two days. He leaves a heart-broken widow, a son, Willie, a daughter, Laura, two brothers, a sister, and a great host of relatives and friends to mourn his loss. While these that are left are mourning, just over the dark river, in the land of joy, he is with Ida and Hanky, who left Springfield a little while ago for the sweet rest in Heaven; and his mother and two sisters, out of Bloomington; a father, out of Belleville, and other relatives and friends, singing and praising God. In early youth E. C. Joiner was happily converted to God, in the city of Chester, Randolph county, this State, on the banks of the great Mississippi River, in an old building that was formerly used for holding services. Soon after that he removed with his mother, sisters Mary and Catherine, and his younger brother, Peter, to Bloomington, where it was soon developed that the Spirit of the Lord was upon him to preach the Gospel; and in the month of February, 1868, in the city of Peoria, Illinois, under the pastorate of our venerable father, Rev. A. T. Hall, he was licensed to preach; and then began the useful life of this good man. It was not long after he was licensed that he entered the itinerant ranks of the Indiana Conference, in which he remained until 1872, when the Illinois Conference was formed, and he became identified with it, in which conference he remained until the day of his death, with the exception of one year, which he spent in Des Moines, Iowa. He was married to his now bereaved wife in the city of Muscatine, Iowa, in July, 1862. To them were born seven children, all of whom are gone but Laura and Willie. They are left to comfort mother in her lonely and trying hours.

Elder Joiner has served as pastor of the following charges, and the most of them with great success:

Belleville, Alton, Quincy, Metropolis, Muscatine, Peoria, Bloomington, Springfield, Jacksonville, Galesburg, Lincoln, Quinn Chapel, Chicago, Richmond, Indiana, Blue River, Cairo, Brooklin, and Decatur, where he finally closed his ministerial labors.

He was a wonderful man indeed; eccentric in the extreme; a powerful preacher, a strong debater, and a grand committee man. A good, kind husband, an indulgent father, and a true and tried friend of those he loved. He and I have been the nearest friends for over thirty years of his troubles and trials in the ministry. I was always apprised when he was sorely pressed; and, though we were separated by miles, once every year he was in my house and I in his. Two years ago last August he went to Cairo and I to St. Paul, and we met no more until the 23th of last month, when I left my home and came to this city, where I found him on his afflicted bed. While in conversation with him, he said, "Well, Charley, I am glad to see you, for we have been friends for many years, and now I am here on a sick and possibly a dying bed I feel that everything is all right and secure with me, and I am simply awaiting God's time. Oh," said he, "I am resigned to God's will."

In 1870 he, with Elders Dupugh, Jackson and myself, were elected as delegates to the General Conference that met in St. Louis, and he filled some of the most important positions in that grand body. In the several annual conferences of which he has been an honored member, you will find the name of E. C. Joiner on the most important committees, and wherever he has visited the conferences he has always been honored with an appointment to preach, which he always did to the entire satisfaction of the people who heard him.

In conclusion we simply say he died as he lived—a consistent and earnest Christian. The Illinois Conference has lost a strong man, the connection an able defender, the wife a good husband, the children an indulgent father, his friends a grand companion and the world a shining light. He sleeps to-day, but will awake in the gathering morning, and we will see him again. The church will meet their pastor and the minister their earnest co-laborer. Sleep on, Brother Joiner; we will hail you by and by A few more storms shall beat on this wild, rocky shore; a few more years, a few more tears; a few more sighs and groans, and we shall weep no more.

In the years gone by E. C. Joiner was the pride and joy of many of the men of God that have preceded him to the Heavenly Canaan. Such men as D. W. Haslam, A. McGosh, Thomas Roberts, J. M. Derrick, R. Bridges, Bishop Quinn, Bishop Shorter, W. S. Lankford, and others. Last Friday morning as the golden gates were opened to admit the holy spirit of this battle scarred and blood-washed warrior, these brethren possibly raised their notes of praise higher and shouted a welcome to E. C. Joiner. Oh, what a hallelujah! Many of his older brethren are still here lifting up their humble voices and saying, "We are coming by and by." Among them are Revs. Cooper, Myers, Malone, Davis, Brown, Trevan, Dawson, Depugh, Jackson, Dove, Turner, my humble self, and a host of younger men in the itinerant ranks.

The church at Decatur is left without a shepherd, and in her sadness she is mourning with those that mourn, and weeping with those that weep. But it is not weep as those who have no hope, for Elder Joiner is not dead; he only reests; he was tired, so weary; he had fought so many battles; had gained so many grand victories. He is only at rest.

Servant of God, well done;
Rest from thy loved employ;
The battle fought, the victory won,
Enter thy Master's joy.

C. S. JACOBS.

"ANOTHER VOTE."

BY REV. J. M. HENDERSON.

The article in late RECORDER which attempts, by a liberal application of Greenleaf, Judge Harris and Latin, to drag out from its forgotten grave issues long since adjusted, between Rev A. J. Burton and myself, deserves and shall have no reply.

Rev. Burton was inflamed by the efforts of the writer of that same article and wrote to me, whereupon he was let into the light and I have a letter from him professing complete satisfaction and good feeling. He regards the mention of himself in my anticipated article as complimentary, and like a Christian gentleman is resting easy. Nor will I permit any mischievous scribbler to inweigh me into a controversy through the columns of a paper having the dignity and sacred character of the RECORDER.

If parties most concerned understand each other, outsiders had better not meddle. I shall try, when I write to the RECORDER or any of the other papers, white or colored, which recognize me as a correspondent, never to provoke mischief by things said. The same spirit should animate others.

St. Paul, Minn.

The one who will be found in trial capable of great acts of love is over the one who is always doing considerate small ones.—F. W. Robertson.

Dr. Arnold, of Rugby, wrote this prayer for his own use before he went into the school every day: "O Lord, I have a busy world around me: eye, ear and thought will be needed for all my work to be done in that busy world. Now, ere I enter upon it, I would commit eye, ear and thought to thee. Do thou bless them, and keep their work thine; that as, through thy natural laws, my heart beats and my blood flows without any thought of mine for them, so my spiritual life may hold on its course at these times, when my mind cannot consciously turn to thee to commit each particular thought to thy service."

BETHEL CHURCH, Wilmington, Del., Rev. G. W. Brodie, pastor, has just closed the indebtedness on a sister church in Delaware City, Del. Bethel Church assumed the responsibility of the Delaware City church from the first.

THE BITTER, pinching temperature of the past ten or twelve days will not be soon forgotten by many poor people in this portion of our country. Thanks to a kind Providence we have now a change for the better. A finer day than yesterday (Wednesday) is seldom seen in this latitude in mid-winter.

THE TRUSTEE BOARD of Wilberforce University, at their session last June, appointed a committee to arrange for the celebration of the quarto-centennial of Wilberforce University under the auspicies of the A. M. E. Church. The committee consists of Drs. B. F. Lee, and T. H. Jackson; President S. T. Mitchell, C.L. Maxwell, Esq., and Rev. G. H. Graham. It held sessions January 31st and February 1st. Elder Graham being absent, Dr. B. W. Arnett was added to the committee. The session took place in the parlor of President Mitchell, who, with Mrs. Mitchell, entertained the committee nicely at tea.

To many it will not seem that Wilberforce has existed as the property of the A. M. E. Church twenty-five years. They have been years of mingled sunshine and shadow; many times it has seemed that it could not possibly open a succeeding year, but twenty five consecutive autumns its bell has oelled the earnest students together from all quarters of the land, and for twenty-five consecutive summers has sent them out again. Thirty-three teachers have graduated seventeen classes, ninety-five students. With the close of this, the twenty-fifth year, they will graduate one hundred. Altogether from ten hundred to thirteen hundred studied there, more or less. Hundreds have been converted to Christ and prepared to properly perform their duty. It is well to take a few minutes to pass upon our great work occasionally.

The committee has arranged to hold the twenty-fifth anniversary Juoe 21st and 22d. There will be prominent gentlemen and ladies invited to serve on the programme. The committee propose to address all those who have been students of the University in both the present and former régimes, expecting to receive financial and literary aid from them. The addresses on the days of celebration, together with papers from many students, will be collected and bound in a volume, whose sale shall help to swell the funds The committee has arranged to organize an association geoeral; not limited to students of the University.

WE ARE seldom called upon to chronicle a more grieful osse than we do in publishing the death of Sister Katie Bockott, ibo wife of Rev. J. W. Beckett, B. D., pastor of Bethel Church, this city, and daughter of Bishop Campbell. Until a more complete obituary shall have been written, we content ourself with giving the simple story of her demise, which occurred on Thursday morning, February 2d, at 1 o'clock. Sister Beckett had been ill for ten days or more, but no serious result was apprehended until the last three or four days before her death.

She leaves behind her husband and several small children to mourn their sad bereavement. The event has cast a gloom of sorrow over the congregation of Bethel, and over the whole community related to Mrs. Beckett by the ties of friendship and society. No place of worship in this city will hold the multitude that will he present to offer a token of love when her funeral takes place.

But, alas! our sad sto y is only half told, for while we are still hushed in sad surprise as we ponder our loss in the demise of Sister Beckett, we are compelled to relate the death of Mr. Charles E. Dillon, son-in-law of Dr. B. T. Tanner. A little less than two years ago we were all at the wedding of this most interesting and happy pair. The whole official and clerical force of the Book Concern were there, and never did we see Miss Hallie E. brighter or prettier than she appeared at the time, while her young and beautiful husband seemed her equal and fitting companion. But the order of storn, insorntable Providence breaks up the union there formed, loaving the loving young bride and mother under a cloud of sorrow sod loneliness while yet in the honeymoon of their marital experience. We all shere her sorrow; we all taste her grief. And what can we say by way of solace in such an honr as this? Why, nothing at all. But we may say this at least: Herein appears a silver lining in the cloud above us. This sad display of what seems almost fate opens afresh in our hearts the fountain of sympathy and love. We realize afresh our helplessness and our sole dependsnce upon God. Heaven ever comes nearest to the smitten soul. The horses and oheriot of fire are seen only out of the furnace of affliction.

IN THIS meterial age there is great danger that the Church, following in the footsteps of the State, is falling into the ruinous error of estimeting all worth by the standard of finance and statistics. Against the interrogative phrases of how many, and how much? we oppose the far more important qnery, how good, how inet, how true? While struggling to increase our nnmbers and influence, to systematize and enlarge our financial interests, were it not well to remember that though we may gain in numbers and in gold, if we shall have lost the essentials of righteousnes, faith or purity, our gain is after all worse than failure. The king of Israel sinned once in numbering the people. Not because there is sin in taking the census, but in trusting to numbers rather than to God. In like manner we can see no fault in the Church making plans to collect the money she needs—honestly needs—to do the work before her. She may ask for the money, ask earnestly, even upon her knees in prayer, but she will be guilty of a grievous sin if she allow herself to rely more upon this agency than upon that of the Holy Spirit. "It is not by might nor by powor, but by my spirit, saith the Lord."

O, let us not forget that it is the life of the Church, her spiritual and moral life, and not her numbers nor financial ability, that is alone salutary; not even her edncational institutions, her organized departments, nor all her equipments, however splendid, are worth a fig of moral valne ihongh all be held in the name of God, except as she may be able to exert through these agencies a power to turn men from sin to holiness and from Satan to God. She must sustain a sturdy flame of morel light in all the high and low places of her being—a stern and rugged consistency between her doctrines and her life, no superseanity; no phariseeism, but a firm and heroic adherence to doctrinal truth and practical righteousness.

So we submit that the higher question for the time is not how many, nor how much, but what kind of men compose our ranks from bottom to top? Are we palming off a sickly declamation against beer and tobacco, while our pride or selfishness and greed are running riot before the eyes of the world? Isn't there too much shouting about our thousands of dollars, and hundreds of thousands of members, while men are dying through lack of faith and spiritual bread within our very doors? All who are in the Church are not of the Church; all who are without the Church are not against the Chnrch; disloyalty to the Church has its root always in disloyalty to Christ. We plead for the old ironclad Christianity that shall feel itself always and everywhere called upon to stand for righteousness without regard to the praise or opposition of men, and that will grant no preminm to malconduct, though it come ladened with talents of silver or graced with the emblems of a gladiator's victory.

OUR FINANCES AND GENERAL CHURCH WORK.

Many wise and good suggestions have been made by different brothren as to our Chnrch work and finances. A very strong paper from Brother Shaffer in the last Review, is matched in clearness of thought and ideas by the Gazaway series now passing through these columns. Besides these somewhat elaborate discussions, many notable ideas in brief are presented by others Still, of all, so far as they have passed under our notice, it may be said that nothing really new has been hronght ont. Everything of force suggested in Rev. Shaffer's admirable paper was logically seen and brought out in discussion by the men who constructed the Dollar system in 1872. On the other hand, the failure to accomplish all that was expected and claimed by the advocates of the law, was apprehended, or, rather, feared, and vehomently urged by those who opposed the system. There was good sense and strong reasons on both sides, but the stronger prevailed First, it was better than any proceding system. It has accomplished incomparably more than any plen before thought of, and yet not so much by far as the projectors supposed. Second, the system in itself is founded in reason, and from the standpoint from which it sets out, one can scarcely imagine how it could be improved.

To collect "one dollar" from or for each member, seems so simple, so direct, so easy. To attempt to show how and why our calculation has always fallen short, would require an essay. Enough it is to say that we have fallon short and will for some years future, and for the good reason that a people and their business must ever grow together. However simple and plain your laws may be, it will still be the most difficult thing to induce a weak people to become strong, or an nnenlightened people to become enlightened. They want the strength and the light, but how to get them is the question. Slowly, by degrees, and "all round," the walls of a house must be built.

Secondly, our work. While we have five departments of work and seven officers in charge of them, our work, in common with all Christian chnrches, may be comprehended under three heads, nemely, Publishing, Evangelization or Missionary work, and Edncation or the fonnding and maintenance of Christian schools. The Review and the Sunday School work are both branches of our publishing work. The Finance Department, so-called, is not really such, but a subsidiary agency. Our business is not to make money, but to evangelize and enlighten so much of the world as God may enable us to reach. It would be well, as it seems to us, to bear these matters in mind when we are writing for the instrnction of the Church at large.

Literature.

The Woman's World improves with every number, and that for February is particularly interesting. The frontispiece is a portrait of the Princess of Wales in her Academio robes as a Doctor of Music. Lady Wilde, the mother of the editor, opens the reading pages with a poem on "Historio Women." This is followed by a prose description of a historio house, Kirby Hall, the home of Sir Christopher Hatton, by Lady Constance Howard. "Medioine as a Profession for Women" is the snbject of a paper by Mary A. Marshall, M.D. Last month we had a paper by Mrs. Craik; this month we have a paper on her giving a portrait and pictures of the interior and exterior of her home, "The Corner House." Shortlands, the Greek Plays at the Universities are described by a Girton girl. Following this is a paper on Alexander College, Dublin, which was fonnded by Mrs Jellicoe, who was its first president. The literary and other notes by the editor, Mr. Oscar Wilde, are more literary than otherwise, but they are all conspicuous for that easy style and cleverness for which Mr. Wilde is famous. The discussion of the month's fashions is left to the end of the magazine. There are London fashions and Paris fashions and pictures of Sara Bernhardt's costumes in her new play. The Woman's World realizes its mission and is prepared to fulfill it. Cassell & Co., 35 cents a number, $3.50 a year in advance.

The Pearl of Days, for February, confirms the opinions already so generally expressed in relation to this excellent magazine, that it is the foremost of its kind in the world. It is especially enlisted in the defense, maintenance and observance of the Christian Sabbath, and likewise furnishes choice reading for the home. The number at hand is decoidedly beautiful and will attract special attention and receive emphatic praise. The richness of its table of contents, consisting of a variety of matter by distinguished writers, gives the present issne superior valns. The fine illustrations which adorn its bright pages, with the good paper and press work, indicate the great care taken to insure its welcome in every Christian home. Chief among the illustrations especially designed for it, is one by the famous artist, Mary A. Lathbnry, entitled "The Inner Sanctuary," and inscribed to the members of the "Shut in Society." The question if anything from the pencil of the artist has been equal to this production. An original poem by the designer accompanies it. Among the contributors we note the names of Hon E. L. Fancher, LL D, Rev. Lewis W. Mudge, D.D., Rev. H. C. McCook, Rev. F. D. Ayer, D.D, Rev. A. E. P. Albert, D.D, Rev. Geo. S. Mott, D.D., and others. This pure and healthful magazine, which makes the Christian Sabbath its chief theme, is worthy of hearty support, strong endorsement and wide circulation. It deserves and will most assuredly win unprecedented success. We advise our readers to subscribe for it, and thus forthly more strongly the defenses to protect the Christian Sabbath. One dollar a year. Single copy 10 cents. Wilbur B. Ketcham, Publisher, 71 Bible House, New York.

WHAT IS THEOLOGY?

ITS RELATION TO THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION CONSIDERED.

BY REV. J. W. MALONE.

Says Dr. Lee, in his comment in RECORDER of January 5th: "Men have gotten false notions of theology," &c Theology comes from the Greek word theologia. Theos, God, and logos, a discourse. The study of religion proper. Says Mr. Webster, "Theology is a science that treats of the existence, character and attributes of God, his laws and government, the doctrine that we are to believe and the duties we are to practice." Says Rev. Charles Buck: "Theology signifies that science which treats of the being and attributes of God, his relation to us, the dispensation of his providence, his will with respect to our actions and his purpose with respect to our end." In general, therefore, theology is the knowledge of God carried to the highest degree of perfection in respect to correctness, clearness and evidence of which it is susceptible in this world. The knowledge of God as to his nature, attributes, providence and grace; of his relation to men and the dispensation of his providence by which his will. Hence our effections and conduct correspond with this knowledge, or the application of this knowledge. Says Jesus: "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them." Therefore practical theology consists of an application of precept and directions, and of the motives for complying with them in all relations of life by doing the will of our Father which is in Heaven A distinction, however, must be made between natural religion and revealed religion, between natural theology and revealed theology, also between theology and religion, because the terms theology and religion are contrasted thus: religion is practical and experimental, theology scientific—Biblical science. The human will is employed about the former, practically, and the human understanding is employed about the latter, which is called the theoretical part of religion. The science of religion, then, is that science which comprises everything relative to the knowledge and revelation of God. Theology, therefore, is that science which comprises and comprehends all that is known to man concerning God and our relation to him as taught in the Scriptures of divine truth the correctness of this knowledge of God, however, is very important in regard to our conduct. The human mind is compelled to conceive oi God as the great ideal oi moral perfection, and consequently to make him the pattern for imitation. Hence, false notions re-

God-man. And, by the way, there is another source of the knowledge of God in man's own cooscience, which diocetly acquaints him with a supreme and invisible Judge of his thoughts and actions Says Paul, "For as many as have sinned without law shall also perish without law. And as many as have sinned in the law shall be judged by the law. In the day when God shall judge the secrets of men by Jesus Christ according to my gospel."

Let us return to the snbject. The natural revelation which God makes of himself to man in the constitution of the human soul and in the works of creation and providence would be unquestionably have been sufficient to lead him to the knowledge of God proper if man himself had not continued in his natural moral condition and relation; but since, by reason of sin, man's mind has been darkened, his heart hardened and his relation to God infinitely involved, man never can be able by the mere light of nature to reach both a certain and an adequate knowledge of God. "The world by wisdom knew not God." It is therefore certain, both from the reason of the case and from universal experience, that a supernatural revelation is absolutely necessary. For all history shows that man has deeply felt the necessity for a direct revelation. First, to make certain by additional evidence the conclusion of reason. Second, to com plete and render practically adequate the knowledge of God which otherwise has reached. We should, therefore, naturally expect that God would supply these defects in natural religion by means of direct revelation. Natural theology, as reached by unassisted reason, was fragmentary, inconsistent and uncertain. The Apostle Paul in his day, as he traveled among the learned heathens, discovered the truth of the statement. Natural theology, as appropriated and vindicated by reason under the clear light of revelation, is itself a strong witness to the truth and supernatural origin of that revelation. Revealed religion, then, is not opposed, but added to, natural religion. It respects, confirms and illuminates many of the precepts of natural religion and at the same time brings to light much that was before unknown Therefore, since the necessity for a direct revelation is felt so universally, the bestowment of it by the Almighty Jehovah in condescension to our wants cannot appear to the unprejudiced inquirer neither inconsistent or incredible. Yes, it is true, Dr. Lee, some "men have gotten false notions of theology." You well and truthfully said that "it is not pure theology that has been defiled, but mind that has become defective." Revealed theology is employed about religion and has the truth of religion for its object. The more accurate and comprehensively systematic our religious knowledge, the more it is a theology; and the more real and practical our knowledge, the more is a religion. Theology is to religion what physical science is to the practical arts Without science all art would be unintelligent and limited. Theology, therefore, defines religion God, however, has a moral government over the world and his will, as obtained in two ways: first, by means of nature; second, by means of an immediate or direct revelation. In reference to these two fold source of knowledge, religion has been divided into natural and revealed, hence a natural and a revealed theology. Let us, then, notice the two ways by which the knowledge of God can be obtained. I By nature. Says the Psalmist, "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament sheweth his handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech and night unto night sheweth knowledge"—the knowledge of God. This is a source of knowledge which even the heathens possessed. Said Paul, "For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead." So that they are without excuse. Therefore every man capable of reflection finds one source of the knowledge of God in surrounding nature, which, when he reflects upon it, invites and conducts him to a knowledge of its Author. For "nevertheless he left not himself without witness, in that he did good and gave us rain from heaven and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness. Seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands." Yet even the natural knowledge of God of this purer kind leaves men in perplexing doubt on many very important points as soon as they rightly begin to feel their wants and see their needs. Hence, secondly, the direct revelation from God was a necessity to assist men in having a clearer and better knowledge of God. We see, therefore, that God has manifested himself in nature, in history and in revelation. God, who, in time past and in divers ways, spoke to men in nature, in history and in revelation, hath in these latter days spoken more direct unto us by his Son. God manifested in the flesh, the immortal Deity clothed with the nature of mortal man, the incarnate up," he had brought them a second. "Eaten up" was not a bad expression. Bishop; for our Lord said that his word should be our meat and drink. Mr. Edward F. Harris was made librarian of the choice books, and of this excellent young man and untiring worker in the Church and out of it, I shall have more to say hereafter.

The Bishop's good wife, whose intelligent and refined face is an index of her character, sat in the upper part of the room, enjoying the occasion as much as the Bishop. Large-hearted, full of sympathy for the suffering and an earnest laborer wherever she is needed, she is a blessing to her husband and her Church, and an honor to womanhood.

On the above occasion Elder Coppin held up in his hands five books, which he presented to the library with honest pride, calling them his "black boys." There was Dr. Crummell, on "The Greatness of Christ;" Dr. Steward on "Genesis Re-Read;" But I will not mention them all, for while Elder Coppin was rejoicing over his "black boys" I was wondering where the "black girls" were. Why are not Mrs. Harper's poems bound in blue and gold and lying upon our library shelves? Her exquisite poem, describing the life and times of Moses, bears testimony that she has the poetic genius, and she has written many pieces which eminently deserve to be preserved as a contribution to our literature. Like Whittier, Mrs. Harper always writes upon choice subjects, and her rhythm is always simple and musical. Why is it always necessary when we want to quote a poetess to go all the way back to Phillis Wheatley, when we have such poems as those of Mrs. Harper's shining in our faces from the newspapers and magazines of the present day? Mrs. Harper's prose works also deserve to be put into a permanent form. A hundred years from now aspiring school girls will be searching among dusty newspapers for Mrs Harper's lyrics. Now, in pity to those unborn girls, why can't we have Mrs. Harper's poems published by subscription? I shall be glad to hear from any of the "black girls" whose books are already published, for I will certainly see that they are put upon the shelves of the Sunday school librar.es.

Two of the most earnest and devoted temperance workers among us are Miss Theodosia Lyons and Miss Elizabeth Burrell. They have accomplished a great deal by forming Bends of Hope in our churches and by visiting localities where rum and vice are rampant. They should be ably supported, not only with our sympathy and prayers, but with our money. It would be an excellent thing if we could devote all of their time to the temperance cause. But they cannot live on air alone. They now receive nothing for their services, and even pay their own car-fare when they visit their charges.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ralls and her noble band of helpers are making the Sarah Allen Mission a great beneficent institution. Let us see to it that we do not wear out Queen Elizabeth by allowing her to do a lot of drudgery in washing, cooking and so on, that any one else could do as well. She ought to have all the money necessary to keep herself in good physical condition. Everybody that expects to give a lot of flowers when she dies is respectfully invited to walk up and give the money now. A few dollars in Elizabeth's hands now may indefinitely postpone the time for the floral offering.

As a number of the Elders have been naming gentlemen for the Bishopric, it may not be out of the way for us women to be naming some wives for the position of Bishop's wife. It is a little strange, and yet it isn't either, that those that have been named as possible Bishops so far as I know have wives who are as worthy of their possible honors as their husbands. A man is not independent of his wife, gentlemen. He never knows how much he owes her or how great her influence has been in developing a true manliness of character in him. But as a Bishop must be the husband of at least "one wife," wouldn't it be well for any aspirant who is not supplied to be looking about him for an amiable consort. Or shall we begin naming for him? All women engaged in the trades and all who are earnestly holding up the hands of our pastors in their labors, and all workers in the Mite Missionary cause will have honorable mention given to them in this column. A great deal of valnable history of the colored women of this country is being lost because we are too busy or too careless to preserve it. Now, it will be the business of this column to collect, as far as possible, brief biographical sketchee of our women whose lives and deeds will be a profitable study for future generations. Therefore report to Catharine from Texas to Maine, from the Golden Gate to the Old Bay State.

Mrs Sarah Bowers Bell has been one of the chief workers in the Industrial cause in this city and her labors are highly appreciated. She comes of a family remarkable for their public spirit and unselfish generosity. I heartily wish there were more such.

Alas! Alas! two faithful laborers in the A M E. Church have passed from earth to their home in the skies—Mrs. Lydia Wears sod Mrs Katie Campbell Beckett, one crowned with the beoadiction of three score years and the other in the prime of life.

"Leaves have their time to fal,
And flowers to wither at the North wind's breath,
But all—thou hast all seasons
For bttio own, O Death!"

I shall speak further of these dear ones at another time.

MRS. KATIE S. BECKETT.

A SHORT SKETCH OF HER LIFE AND DEATH.

Mrs. Beckett, or "little Katie Camp bell," addressed by those who have known her from birth, was an estimable woman. From childhood she possessed qualities of amiability, humility and obedience, which caused her to be admired by many. She was the constant companion of her mother, separated only when necessity compelled. They counseled together and shared each others' joys and sorrows. They were more like equals and associates than mother and daughter. Katie was deeply pious. From childhood she was religiously inclined; but not until the meetings held by Moody and Sankey in this city, 1875, did she clearly see the light. On Thursday morniog, November 9th, 1876, she was united in wedlock to Rev. J. W. Beckett, going immediately with him to his appointment in Hagerstown, Md As a wife she was loving, true, kind and affectionate. She lived to please her compasion; she was the queen of the house, none was ever placed before her. There and in that home she exhibited that modest, quiet and loving character. She was never heard to utter an impatient word, always in great sympathy with the arduous duties of her husband and gave advice in the right spirit.

As a mother she was kind, loving and indulgent, yet firm and positive. Her children were devoted to her. Notwithstanding the many cares incumbent by the large family and other responsibilities, she was never abusive nor used impatient epithets to her children. She took delight in trying to answer their many and intricate questions. She never was demonstrative nor allowed herself to become excited. She took much time and care, believing soything worth doing should be well done. She endeavored to treat every one with the utmost politeness and respect and never found time to indulge in speaking evil of any one.

Her death was very unexpected. On last Wednesday morning the physician, perceiving the change, informed the husband that there were very slight hopes of her recovery. On Wednesday evening she very affectionately kissed her husband and said, "John Wesley, preach the word, preach Jesus and him crucified. You will have much opposition and will be falsely accused, but remember Jesus says, 'Blessed are ye when men shall revile you and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you for my sake. Rejoice and be exceedingly glad; for great is your reward in heaven.' Hold up the standard for Jesus. Hold it high. Never allow it to trail. Jesus will help you. Don't dodge in and out, but live for Jesus. Keep close to Jesus. Do not go ahead of him, nor behind, but keep close at his side. Jesus is the some yesterday, to-day and forever. He is with me and he will be with you. Will you trust him?" She then sank in unconsciousness; when she aroused, she was weeping. In the presence of Sisters Hodges, Rodgers and Clark, Sister Elizabeth Ralls inqnired, "Sister Beckett, why do weep, are you in pain?" "No ma'am, I have not had any pain this day. I am happy. I am glad that I am saved. I never was demonstrative in religion, but Jesus is with me and I am resting in his love. Sister Hodges, my husband is a Christian. He lives to it at home and abroad; out of Church and in the Church. I know him. I have lived with him over eleven years and know whereof I speak. He will have opposition, but He that is for him is more than all that can be against him." Her last sentences, nttered before death, on arousing from slumber, she said,

"And are we yet alive,
And see each other's face;
Glory and praise to Jesus give
For his redeeming grace."

BETHEL CHURCH, PHILADELPHIA, } February 3, 1888. }

At a meeting of the Official Members, held on the above date, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, In the exercise of Divine clemency and mercy various states and conditions are meted out to humanity, some are allotted length of days; others, to an early grave, but each fills his probation; and

WHEREAS, We are well assured by Him who cannot err, that a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without our Heavenly Father's notice; and

WHEREAS, It has pleased Him in whose hands are all our destinies to remove from our midst and from the side of our very excellent pastor his most pious, amiable and inestimable wife to an endless habitation beyond the grave; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That while we condole our brother's loss, and drop a tear of sympathy with him and the little onee herelt of a mother's care, yet we rejoice in the full assurance that our dear sister and friend, Katie S Beckett, is

"Safe in the arms of Jesus,
Safe on his gentle breast,
There by his love o'ershadowed,
Sweetly her soul shall rest."

And be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of these proceedings be tendered the pastor and his bereaved family, as a token of our sympathy and respect.

NOTICE OF PETITION AND CONTEST.

WHEREAS, The General Conference of the African M. E. Church, in session at St. Louis, Mo., May, 1880, did, by resolution unanimously passed, express its pleasure and willingness to effect organic union with the British M. E. Church, and did create a Commission to treat with the representatives of the British M. E. church on the subject of organic union; and

WHEREAS, The commissioners on the part of the African M. E. Church did assemble themselves at the place and time of meeting of the General Conference of the British M. E. Church, viz: Toronto, Ont, September, 1880; and

WHEREAS, The General Conference of the British M. E. Church, in session at the place and time aforesaid, did create a Commission to treat with the commissioners of the African M. E. Church on the subject of organic union; and

WHEREAS, The joint commission, to wit: the commissioners of the African M. E Church and the commissioners of the British M. E. Church, agreed to effect organic union; and did formulate, consent to, approve and adopt articles of agreement for organic union, and attested the same by affixing their several signatures, thereby mutually agreeing and solemnly pledging and binding themselves and the denominations which they represented, viz: the African M. NOTICE OF PETITION AND CONTEST.

WHEREAS, The General Conference of the African M. E. Church, in session at St. Louis, Mo., May, 1880, did, by resolution unanimously passed, express its pleasure and willingness to effect organic union with the British M. E. Church, and did create a Commission to treat with the representatives of the British M. E. church on the subject of organic union; and

WHEREAS, The commissioners on the part of the African M. E. Church did assemble themselves at the place and time of meeting of the General Conference of the British M. E. Church, viz: Toronto, Ont, September, 1880; and

WHEREAS, The General Conference of the British M. E. Church, in session at the place and time aforesaid, did create a Commission to treat with the commissioners of the African M. E. Church on the subject of organic union; and

WHEREAS, The Joint commission, to wit: the commissioners of the African M. E Church and the commissioners of the British M. E. Church, agreed to effect organic union; and did formulate, consent to, approve and adopt articles of agreement for organic union, and attested the same by affixing their several signatures, thereby mutually agreeing and solemnly pledging and binding themselves and the denominations which they represented, viz: the African M. E. and the British M. E. Churches, to faithfully, completely and without reservation as to any part thereof, conform to, carry out, uphold, maintain and defend each and every stipulation and condition embodied in the articles of agreement; and

WHEREAS, The African M. E. Church, honud by the acts of its commissioners, did faithfully conform to and carry out each and every stipulation and condition embodied in the articles of agreement; and

WHEREAS, Bishop R. R Disney, claiming to be the accredited representative of the British M. E. Church to treat on the subject of organic union, appeared before the General Conference of the African M. E. Church, in session at Baltimore, Md, May, 1884, and audibly and officially proclaimed, during the proceedings of one of the regular sessions of said General Conference of the African M. E. Church, convened in Baltimore, Md, May, 1884, that the British M. E. Church had faithfully conformed to, and carried out, each and every stipulation and condition embodied in the articles of agreement as formulated, consented to, approved and adopted by the joint commission heretofore referred to; and

WHEREAS, The General Conference of the African M. E. Church, in session at the place and time last mentioned, confiding in the correctness of the representations made to it by Bishop R. R. Disney, the supposed authorized agent of the British M. E. Church, did order the Bishops of the African M. E. Church to issue a proclamation decreeing and affirming the completion of organic union with the British M. E. Church in all matters in which the African M. E. Church was required to act and assent, to by the stipulations and conditions of the articles of agreement; and

WHEREAS, Under date of September 4, 1884, and at Chatham, in the Dominion of Canada, Bishop R. R. Disney issued a proclamation decreeing and affirming the completion of organic union with the African M. E. Church in all matters in which the British M. E. Church was required to act and assent to by the stipulations and conditions of the articles of agreement as formulated, consented to, approved and ratified by the joint commission first mentioned in the third (3) paragraph of this preamble; and

WHEREAS, Proof exists that the British M. E. Church at no time previous to, or since the issuing of the proclamation by Bishop R. R. Disney at the time, place and for the purpose named and expressed in the preceding paragraph had, or has, faithfully conformed to and carried out each and every stipulation and condition embodied in the articles of agreement; and therefore, be it known that—

I, Charles Spencer Smith, a minister in good and regular standing in the African M E. Church, do hereby serve notice on all whom it may concern that I shall (D V.) petition the General Conference of the African M. E. Church, to convene in the city of Indianapolis, in the State of Indiana, United States of America, Monday, May 7, 1888, to review the several proceedings by which the African M. E. Church sought to effect organic union with the British M. E. Church, and if sufficient reasons can be shown therefor to declare that the African M E. Church stands related to the British M. E. Church in the precise manner that it did prior to September 4, 1884, i. e., seperate and independent; but that such declaration shall not operate as a bar against the admission of any bishop, preacher or lay member of the British M. E. Church who may voluntarily apply for membership in the African M. E. Church; provided that should the applicant be a bishop, he shall not rank as such in the African M. E. Church unless elected to said office by a General Conference of the African M E. Church.

The grounds of the petition will principally be as follows, to wit:

First. That the British M. E. Church has failed to observe and fulfill the conditions of the second article of the agreement, viz: "accept of the name and Discipline of the A. M. E. Church, in any and every particular now and forever."

Second. That it failed to observe and fulfill the condition in the third article of the agreement, which required that the articles of agreement as a whole should be submitted to each of the annual conferences of the British M. E. Church for their approval or rejection; proof existing that the question of the ratification or rejection of the articles of agreement was not submitted to the Demarara Annual Conference of the British M. E. Church at any time between 1880 and 1884; and one of the courts of Canada has decided that the failure to submit the articles of agreement to the said Demarara Annual Conference between the preceding dates for its approval or rejection vitiated and annulled the entire agreement, and that no part or all of it was in any manner binding on any of the societies of the British M. E. Church, and refused to grant the writ of mandamus which Bishop R. R. Disney applied for to compel the trustees of the B. M. E. Church at Chatham, Ontario, to turn over the property to the possession and for the use of the African M. E. Church.

The petitioner will inquire—Did the African M. E. Church intend to simply effect organic union with bnt a mere fractional part of the British M. E. Church or with the British M. E. Church as a whole? The petitioner will affirm that if it meant the former then has organic union been completed; but if it meant the latter, organic union has not been completed; and for the sole reason that the British M. E. Church has failed to fulfill and carry out each and every stipulation and condition in the articles of agreement, thus releasing and absolving the African M. E. Church from his and officially proclaimed, during his and officially proclaimed, during the proceedings of one of the regular sessions of said General Conference of the African M. E. Church, convened in Baltimore, Md, May, 1884, that the British M. E. Church had faithfully conformed to, and carried out, each and every stipulation and condition embodied in the articles of agreement as formulated, consented to, approved and adopted by the joint commission heretofore referred to; and

WHEREAS, The General Conference of the African M. E. Church, in session at the place and time last mentioned, confiding in the correctness of the representations made to it by Bishop R. R. Disney, the supposed authorized agent of the British M. E. Church, did order the Bishops of the African M. E. A holy life has a voice. It speaks when the tongue is silent, and is either a constant attraction or a continual reproof.

SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is a combination of two of the most valuable remedies in existence for the cure of Consumption and all Wasting Conditions; is more generally recommended and used by Physicians than any known remedy; it gives most satisfactory results, and tones up the system; and when the Consumptive has wasted away and loses hope, the Emulsion will speedily check the ravages of this terrible disease, and restore the sufferer to good health and happiness. This is equally true in regard to Rickets in Children, or Marasmus and Anæmia in Adults, and all impoverished conditions of the blood; and especially desirable for Colds and Chronic Coughs, as it will cure them more quickly than ordinary Specifics used. Palatable as milk.

Few mercies call for greater thankfulness than a friend safe in heaven. It is not every one that overcometh.

"Now Joh," said Mrs. Shuttle, "those trowsers are altogether too big for the hov. They'll have to be changed." "No, they won't They're all right. I brought 'em when they advertised Boys' clothing to play in.' They are just big enough to play in without going out of doors. They're so roomy."

Peculiar

To itself in many important particulars, Hood's Sarsaparilla is different from and superior to any other medicine.

Peculiar in combination, proportion and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom.

Peculiar in its medicinal merit, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown.

Peculiar in strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 doses one dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Peculiar in its "good name at home"—there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers.

Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales thereof, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time. Do not be induced to take any other preparation. Be sure to get

CATARRH IN THE HEAD.

SYMPTOMS OF THE DISEASE.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a "nasal twang"; the breath is offensive; smell and taste impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians.

COMMON SENSE TREATMENT.

If you would remove eh evil, strike at its root. As the predisposing or real cause of catarrh is, in the majority of cases, some constitutional weakness, impurity, or otherwise faulty condition of the system, in attempting to cure the disease one shld aim above all things directed to the removal of that condition. The use of this odious disease, and we treat successfully thousands of cases annually at their own homes. Pamphlet, Hotel and Surgical Institute, is devoted in this manner to the permanent relief of the worst cases. We realize the importance of combining with the use of a local, soothing and healing application, a thorough and persistent internal use of blood-cleansing and tonic medicines.

CHIEF RELIANCE.

In curing catarrh and all the various diseases with which it is so frequently complicated, as throat-bronchial, and lung diseases, weak stomach, catarrhal deafness, weak or inflamed eyes, impure blood, scrofulous and syphilitic taints, the wonderful powers and virtues of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cannot be too strongly extolled. It has a specific effect upon the lining mucous membranes of the nasal and other passages, promoting the natural secretion of their follicles and glands, thereby softening the diseased and thickened membrane, and restoring it to its natural, thin, delicate, moist, healthy condition. As a blood-purifier, it is unsurpassed. It is the only blood-purifier which contains catarrh as disease of the lining mucous membranes of the blood, it will readily be seen why this medicine is so well calculated to cure them.

LOCAL AGENT.

As a local application for healing the diseased condition in the head, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is beyond all comparison the best preparation ever invented. It is mildly alkaline, antiseptic and detergent, producing no smarting or pain, and containing no strong, irritating, or caustic drugs, or other poison. This Remedy is a powerful antiseptic, and speedily destroys all bad smell which accompanies so many cases of catarrh, thus affording great comfort to those who suffer from this disease.

PERMANENT CURES.

The Golden Medical Discovery is the natural "helpmate" of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It not only cleanses, purifies, regulates, and builds up the system to a healthy standard, and conquers thrush, bronchitis, and lung complications, when any such exist, but, from its specific effects upon the lining membrane of the nasal passages, acts radically in restoring the diseased, ulcerated membrane to a healthy condition, and thus eradicates the disease. When a cure is effected in this manner it is permanent.

Both Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy are sold by druggists the world over. Discovery $1.00, six bottles for $5.00. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy 50 cents; half-dozen bottles $2.50.

A complete Treatise on Catarrh, giving valuable hints as to self-cure, diet, and other matters of importance, will be mailed, post-paid to any address, on receipt of a 2-cent postage stamp.

"In all respects more than answers my expectations. It is very neat, of a form convenient for use, firmly bound, of large, clear type, with contents of just that general character which the popular reader requires—comprehensive, accurate, and compact. Its marvelously low cost makes it a prize eagerly to be sought in every intelligence-loving household."—PROF. HENRY N. DAY, D.D. LL.D., Yale College, New Haven, Conn.

"We can hardly say too much for the Manifold. It is a rich blessing to the man who feels unable to invest in the larger encyclopedias. We deem ourselves personally unfortunate in having invested in the higher priced works. We have to-day twenty-five volumes of the Britannica, at a cost in cash of $150, and our set is incomplete by at least six to eight volumes. Alden's Manifold actually covers every practical want in this line. The bulky encyclopedia is a piece of showy extravagance that a man will sadly mourn before he gets it paid for. If you wish an encyclopedia, take Alden's before any other."—Herald of Gospel Liberty, Dayton, Ohio.

Consumption Surely Cured.

To the Editor:—

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hope'ess cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address,

Respectfully,

T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., New York.

NOTICE.

The members of the Publishing Board are hereby notified to meet at the Book Rooms, in Philadelphia, at 10 A M on Monday, April 30th, 1888 to finish their work for the ensuing General Conference.

J. H. A. JOHNSON, Secretary.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper. W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, New York.

Do to-day's duty, fight to-day's temptation; and do not weaken and distract yourself by looking forward to things which you cannot see, and could not understand if you saw them.—Charles Kingsley.

By nothing will the Church of the future justify its methods so fully as by the emphasis it lays upon character. In nothing will it differ so radically from the Church of the past.—J. C. Learned.

WANAMAKER'S.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6, 1888.

FINEST OF THE FRENCH SATEENS. THE NEW ones are here; the summer fall. Well worth seeing; so bright, so modest.

More than two hundred and fifty styles. May be some of them like what you have purchased than last year, but nothing obtrusive. The sheen of the fabric and the blended colors live in your mind as a perfect picture.

HABIT CLOTH, FINE, SMOOTH, GLINOING All wool, and not a scrimp about it. From the fleece of the dry-steep sap taken with extra care Combines warmth with lightness. In the favorite Spring shades—twenty of them. Plump 56 inches wide, and 50 cents. We know of no handsomer stuff for the money.

AS A SAMPLE OF WHAT WE ARE DOING IN Robes: Enough 54 inch combination all-wool materials for a liberal dress, $2. In a box.

BLACK SERGE FOULE. A NEW ARRIVAL. Every fibre fine wool Soft to the touch, yet firm and crisp under finger pressure. Stuff that we shall bear much of. 47 inches wide, 37½ cents. A before unheard of price for such goods.

ALL-WOOL TURKISH BATH WRAPS FROM France. Unlike most shaggy ones you can scarcely up Fluffy, fuzzy, fancy, fine. Have been, are and will be $12.

Cosy Bath Wraps of French Flannel, $5 each. They have been $9.50.

VALENTINE'S DAY IN LEAP-YEAR WILL BE an occasion of unusual interest The variety for this season is very large. Some of the quaintest shapes you are likely to come across Sense and sentiment. Fun and fine. Anything a right-minded buyer will care for.

LESSON HELPS FOR 1888.

The Sunday School Union of the A. M. E. Church is prepared to furnish the best series of Lesson Helps that can be obtained. We have received testimonials from scores of our most prominent Sunday school workers endorsing and emphasizing the high quality of our periodicals. Our aim is to do the very best we can to meet the demands of our Sunday schools. A full list of our periodicals and their prices, will be found on another page of this paper. As we are the only authorized publishers of lesson helps for A. M. E. Sunday schools, we expect to receive that patronage which respect for law and denominational interests demand. Samples and price lists sent free on application. Address,

REV. C. S. SMITH,
Nashville Tenn.

NOTICE.

All communications intended for the Sunday School Union of the A. M. E. Church that are addressed to Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tennessee, will be received. It is not necessary to give the name of the street nor the number of our business place. Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tenn., is sufficient. Telegrams addressed the same way will reach us. We are fully settled in our new headquarters and prepared for business. C. S. SMITH, Secretary.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO GENERAL CONFERENCE DELEGATES.—Inasmuch as there is no standing committee on railroad arrangements, I have made application for reduced rates to the General Conference which meets in Indianapolis, Ind., May 7 1888. The reduction, if granted, will cover every section of the country, and extend to every delegate, as well as to such other persons as may desire to attend. Delegates will please not endeavor to make local arrangements until further notice

WITH A BOTTLE

Of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral at hand, one may feel comparatively secure against the various diseases arising from sudden changes of temperature, exposure to drafts and storms, and the inclemencies of spring and fall. "Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of Colds, Coughs, Bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there are none, within the range of my experience and observation, so as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral," writes Thos. G. Edwards, M. D., of Blanco, Texas.

George W. Dick, of Newton, Mass., says: "Two years ago I took a severe cold, which, being neglected, was followed by a terrible cough. I lost flesh rapidly, had night sweats, and was confined to my bed. A friend advised the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I began to take this medicine, and, before finishing the first bottle, was able to sit up. Four bottles effected a perfect cure."

ey thus spent is a thousand fold worse than wasted; but the worst feature of all in this matter is, that so many of the preachers and some of the Bishops—the leaders of the people, the professed representatives of the Lord Jesus Christ—are engaged in this filthy, wickedness, helping to carry on this wholesale waste of the Lord's money, leading our boys astray, and some of the above-mentioned leaders are so blind or so ignorant that they have the assurance to try to prove that it is no sin.

Mr. Editor, I wish to press this one thought upon the mind and heart of all who read this article, that all who use tobacco by chewing or smoking, whether they be professing Christians or infidels, they are guilty of helping to rob God and humanity by wasting $300 000,000 of the Lord's money merely to gratify their acquired appetite.

Now, my dear readers, in view of the above facts, in God's name I appeal to you in behalf of the tens of thousands of our boys and girls who are being led into this whirlpool of filth; I ask you, is it not time for the Church of the living God to lift up her voice as the voice of one man, against those unreasonable and inconsistent preachers and leaders who will use all their mental force to make laws to prevent church members from attending dances and theatres, but are so blind that they cannot or will not see the need of them ever trying to pass a law by the Church that may be relieved of those leaders who are leading thousands of our boys and girls into the filthy and injurious habit of using tobacco?" Some tobacco slaves seem to be so dishonest or forgetful that if the General Conference should pass a law in regard to tobacco and they should happen to be the committee to compile the Discipline, I feel quite sure that they would forget and leave out everything said about tobacco; for we all know men do not love to publish anything to prohibit them from doing what they claim to be their rights. In our next we will give the readers some startling facts that have come under our notice in regard to the injurious effects of tobacco upon human beings.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

BY BISHOP A. W. WAYMAN.

Mr Editor:—I left the "Monument-al City" on Monday, January 16, for the North Louisiana Conference. I had made arrangements to stop off at several places, viz., Chattanooga, Nashville and Birmingham. On reaching these cities I found a great deal of ice and mud. I had the good fortune to reach Shreveport, La., where the conference met safe; and as it had been raining in Louisiana for about six weeks, there were fears entertained that we should have a bad time, for Shreveport is the greatest town for mud that I have ever visited in the South. There were two conferences beside ours that met in that town this winter, the M. E. South and the C. M. E. and the weather and mud were so bad that the people could hardly get to the church. On Wednesday, the day our conference met, the weather cleared up and during the whole time it was as pleasant as any spring weather that you have in Philadelphia. The weather being fine, the conference was very largely attended and the meetings were of the most interesting character. Every morning at 9 o'clock a prayer meeting was held, conducted by some of the ministers, and they were well attended.

The financial reports were better this year than at any previous session, and the outlook is more encouraging than ever. The last two years young and active men have been appointed presiding elders and they have gone to work to build up the cause and they have succeeded admirably. I find that what I so much feared in the work in Louisiana are men who have the work at heart and go to it resolved to succeed.

As this was the conference to elect delegates to the General Conference the candidates had everything cut and dried and almost every minister that was eligible was a candidate and expected to be elected, as he said, on the first ballot. A motion was made to elect on Saturday, but one brother who thought he had the inside track moved to amend by striking out Saturday and inserting Friday, for he was anxious to have things over. The time arrived and the voting commenced, and as Rev. A. M Green, from the Louisiana Conference, was present, he was requested to act as teller, who announced that J. W. Rankine and J. B. Webb were the successful candidates. The conference held very interesting memorial services on Saturday, when Rev. A. M Green spoke of Bishops Shorter and Cain, and Rev. P. W Williams spoke of Elder Walker, who died at his post during the past year.

Sunday was a great day in Shreveport; there were large congregations out and the collections were good. The crowd was so great at night that one of the pillars under the church gave way a little, but there was no harm done Monday was another fine day—the conference met to wind up its business—the several committees reported; the one on temperance provoked the greatest discussion on account of the stand the committee took against the use of tobacco. At night there was an old fashioned love-feast, which lasted until 9 o'clock, and then the conference met for the last time and a few complimentary resolutions were passed. The appointments were read and the conference finally adjourned On Tuesday morning there was a taking out of the members. While they went to their appointments I started to Charleston, S. C., to meet the conference, and should I reach there you will hear from me again.

NEEDS OF THE SOUTH.

THE PLACE FOR YOUNG COLORED MEN OF ABILITY.

BY JOSEPH L. JONES.

Not long since I was before you in an article, "Trip to Waco," but the apparent lack of energy spent in the right direction by the major part of young colored men prompts me to again appear, endeavoring to place a stimulus before the rising generation which will incite them to action in a right field of labor, their minds to a right sense of duty, not only to themselves, but to the colored people at large. For colored men who can place themselves within the scope of my topic, the present South presents a wide field of labor; and for you who are continually condemning the South by your Northern freedom, rests the responsibility of forming a new South. Do not make so much complaint about faults you make no effort to remedy. The South is large and the Southward, especially, is filled with a people thirsting for knowledge, while the Southwest, perhaps, represents a more favorable picture—being newly-giving you the opportunity to settle in a small, thrifty town and grow up with it. Land is cheap, living is cheap and to him who has brains a superabundance of work. Leave your cozy quarters, convivial society, mother and friends, go out into the world and cle r your own path to success. It is a well established fact that there is no place like home; therefore, ere you start ex pect great disadvantages, and if you are energetic you will be surprised what few impediments obstruct your path to prosperity and success, and these will be only momentary. We are gradually but surely marching on to a bright and eventful future. More earnest laborers in the work, not seeking self-aggrandizement, is the present need—good men indeed, be the thickest of the fight, will push onward and not dare to take one retrogressive step; men who are strong mentally, and especially morally, who will seek to lift the colored people to an attainable height which will demand recognition. This cannot be done by talking, therefore cease your hypercriticisms on the South and set yourselves to earnest work. The time is not far distant when we, as a people, shall be felt and the means to make ourselves felt are not shrouded in mystery. We need real estate, more mechanics and less third rate teachers and preachers. Inefficient and immoral teachers have reduced what should be a noble profession to a most pitiable and non enviable condition. The present school teacher is a target for the public to shoot at, an object ever regarded with the eye of suspicion. I pause to find a presentable reason for the seeming moral deficiency of many colored teachers and preachers. Even he who claims to be commissioned by Divine authority to disseminate his word does not always give testimony of a blameless life. Let me be up and doing. The bright star whose rays shall light our people to success is just below the horizon.

THE CENTRAL TEXAS CONFERENCE.

"WHAT IS IT?"

To the Editor Christian Recorder:

In the issue of your paper bearing date of 19th January, 1888 you have seen proper to introduce some questions as to the existence of the Central Texas Conference. With unbecoming taste you say it must be an odd sort of affair. That much permit us to admit true, as there are so many odd things in Texas, as thought by men in your part of the country.

"We hear little of it annually." The reason for which is that, at our sessions every year, a motion prevails that these West Texas and Central Texas Conferences meet together. This is agreed to by the members. Now, we ask the question, Whose business is it if all the Texas conferences should meet together? We have lost no churches, our Dollar Money and church work stand in bold relief for the criticism of all, and peace, success and harmony prevail here from the basin of the Red river to the Gulf of Mexico.

"Is it a quadrennial conference?" Yes; as other conferences it elects every quadrennium its delegates to the General Conference, as that is what you seem to be driving at.

"We find no explanation in the report." We take great pleasure in sending you by to day's mail a copy of our minutes. Possibly you may get, through this medium, the desired information. You will learn that it has held its fifth session.

"It has no place in the Bishops' calendar." After the conferences decided by vote to meet together, the Bishop of course publishes his call accordingly. We happen, dear brother, to understand things down here in this "odd State" much better than many suppose.

"A strange conference." Yes, we frankly acknowledge 'tis "a strange conference," and it being so very strange accounts for the fact that we have no visits from our General Officers in attendance upon our sessions with only one honorable exception, it being that of Dr Embry, who is a member of the West Texas Conference.

Now, to the last interrogatory propounded, "What is it?" We invite you to look on page 300 in our Book of Discipline and you will find the boundary of this "What is it?" the Central Texas Conference, as was laid out by our last General Conference. It has more geographical territory than the States of New York and Pennsylvania combined "What is it?" It is this conference whose votes at the last General Conference were cast to aid in making the editor of the Christian Recorder, who with so much sarcasm now asks the question, "What is it?"

Doctor, if this is not information enough, we beseech you to wait until the month of May, and then Dr Grant, Rev. Wilhite, Profs. Kealing and Moore and others whom you will meet in Indiana will take great pleasure in satisfying your mind upon the matter of this "What is it?" Central Texas Conference. If the above is not enough light upon the subject, doctor, please put on brakes until May.

Yours for God and humanity,

B. W. Roberts,
J. Harvey Jones,
Presiding Elders of the Central Texas Conference of the A. M. E. Church.

"THAT CENTRAL TEXAS CONFERENCE."

In the editorial column of the Christian Recorder of January 19th appeared the following editorial, "That Central Texas Conference must be a sort of odd affair; we hear very little of it annually. Is it a quadrennial conference? We find no explanation in the reports, which shows that it had no district existence The sessions in which its members had those of the West Texas Conference were promiscuously united with one chairman," &c.

In reply to above and for the information of all concerned, I would say that the Central Texas Conference was organized in San Antonio, December, 1883, by Bishop R. H Cain, with between thirty and forty appointments within its bounds, and by resolution it was agreed that the Central and West Texas Conferences meet conjointly in the next session. There have always been those in each one of these conferences who wanted to hold together, hence a resolution that we, the West Texas and Central Conferences meet conjointly has passed in every session since the creation of the new conference. We have always recognized the Central Texas Conference, but still we have hung together by resolutions, each conference electing its own officers, book stewards, local board of education, trustees of Paul Quinn College, &c.

HASTE.

1. As we are rounding up the business for the quadrennium, we ask that conference missionary reports due this office be sent at once, and that all persons knowing themselves to be indebted to the department, remit without further notice.

2. That we desire every church and Sunday school to send at once and get their Easter programmes.

3. That the secretaries of the following conference please send us a copy of their last minutes: West Kentucky, South Kansas, Kansas, Tennessee, Indian, North Missouri, Mississippi, North Georgia, Arkansas, West Tennessee, Florida, South Arkansas, North Alabama, Macon, North Carolina, West Arkansas, Alabama, Texas, Columbia, North Mississippi, Northeast Texas, Georgia, West Texas, North Louisiana and South Carolina. Responses to these requests will greatly favor us.

Brethren will address all communications to

A weak mind is like a microscope, which magnifies trifling things, but cannot receive great ones.

A SINLESS AMBITION.

One of the finest human feelings is the natural wish of parents that their children may be better off than themselves. This may not always be wisely manifested, but there is the essence of self-sacrificing love in it; and in the hearts of most fathers and mothers it is glorified into the hope and prayer that their offspring may be not only better off, but better, than themselves.

At the close of the Civil War, a newly-emancipated negro slave, on his dying bed, kissed the baby fingers of his youngest child, and whispered, "This little hand will write." His last vision on earth was of the happier and more favored future which his posterity would inherit. And his words were prophetic, for he left a wife whose motherly heart sympathized with his longing faith. Her highest joy for freedom, as his had been, was in loving separations and expectations for the little ones who bore his name. There were five of them, and the humble mother set herself resolutely to realize the promise of better things that had come to them with liberty and peace. She could work, and remain ignorant. They could learn to work, but they should be educated. Many years she toiled and struggled, inspiring them with her zeal, and happy in seeing that they seconded her efforts. She has lived to see them all graduated at Fisk University. Last summer her "baby"—the child whose hand the dying father kissed—delivered his commencement oration. The theme of his essay was, "The Evolution of Christianity," and the cloud of witnesses there saw in himself the evolution of Christian manhood. His father's prophecy was more than fulfilled. He could not only "write" but think, with power and clearness; and he spoke like a born orator, bidding fair, with his sanctified gift, to do grand work as a preacher of righteousness. At the same commencement, in the alumni meeting, the oldest son, a teacher, told the story of that mother's noble purpose and sacrifices, and paid manly tribute to her worth and affection. It was but one of many similar stories told (or that could be told) annually in Fisk University, and every other colored school. It was the oft-repeated history of parental hope and desire for the children, always just ting on something better for them, never satisfied till their lot and condition are some improvement on the past.

There is a pathos in the example of that poor negro woman that lingers after one hears it told; but we cannot help dwelling longer on the noble and filial pride of her children in responding to her wishes and carrying out her plan. And here a point suggests itself which parents and teachers are likely to overlook. While we are endeavoring to guide the faith of the young, it is our duty also to stimulate their moral ambition. We can not ignore the solemn fact that they will imitate what they see in us, and hence the emphasized obligation to be as good as we can: but we should encourage them to aim higher, and make them understand that to be simply as good as we are is far too little to be satisfied with. We must tell them that they are not only to be Christians, but they are to hope and try to be grander and more useful Christians than we are. The famous Origen was great, not simply by his gifts, but because he early took and cherished for himself the holy ambition cherished for him by a pious father, the father who need to lean over him in his childhood's sleep, and uncover and kiss his breast, and call it "the temple of the Holy Ghost." If we would help to make the next generation great and good above the average of to day, we need as religious educators of the young, to fasten, with our hope and prayer, upon the highest possibilities of character in them, and train them to recognize these and never live below them, but press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.—Sunday School Times.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS CONSIDERED.

BY REV. R. F. HURLEY.

Mr. Editor:—Notwithstanding my abhorrence of egotism, especially in ministers; and notwithstanding the continual boom of intellectual cannon and the ceaseless clatter of oratorical machinery from all parts of our great Church, all directed to the mighty questions that must engage the attention of the General Conference, I beg space to insert a few thoughts pointing in the same direction.

First of all we come to that mighty question: "Do we need more Bishops?" We don't expect to agree with everybody in what we shall say on this subject, nor do we suppose any one will be troubled about our disagreeing with them, for we are neither a delegate to the General Conference, nor a candidate for the Bench; hence, we can fire away and no one will notice us, we being placed in a harmless position. The question, "Do we need more Bishops?" has been answered both ways—"and no;" and as there are only two sides to it I must side with one; thus I take sides with the negative. We don't need any more Bishops now, which fact seems to me well sustained by Dr. Steward, of Washington, But let us consider whether we need more Bishops or whether we do not need them. If we need them there must be reasons why we need them. The reasons offered by the agitators are on account of the rapid progress of our Church, the extension of our territory and the old age of the present Bishops.

Now, let us notice the first. Our membership is not increasing so rapidly. This is a fact well known to those who are watching the statistics of our Church; but we could grant the contrary and then fail to see by that fact the necessity of more Bishops; our membership might be double and still there would be no need of more Bishops. We have forty-two conferences with a membership of about four hundred thousand, presided over by seven Bishops. Now, it is clear to my mind that we have too many conferences already, and that the seven Bishops get no rest. They could learn to work, but they should be educated. Many years she toiled and struggled, inspiring them with her zeal, and happy in seeing that they seconded her efforts. She has lived to see them all graduated at Fisk University. Last summer her "baby"—the child whose hand the dying father kissed—delivered his commencement oration. to come if we do otherwise. To what do I allude? The election of men by the ung dly method of combinations, that reflect discredit even upon the political parties of this age. But a greater danger than this threatens our Church to-day. What is it? The election of men on account of the section in which they are engaged rather than for their qualification and fitness. I know of nothing so threatening to our Church at this time as the "sectionalistic" election of Bishops. God save the Church from such a calamity.

WHAT WE ARE DOING AND WHAT WE SHALL DO.

BY REV. H. H. KING,

Mr. Editor:—In every Recorder for the last seven months we see an account of what the next General Conference must do. There never has been a time in the history of the Church when our counselors were so numerous and their advice given so freely. We have not come as a counselor, but to give a few facts and figures of the great Southwest.

Verily the wheels of time do move and the old pendulum in the unerring chronometer has ticked off another year, whose memory, within the heart like a spectre dies, points its cold and solemn finger to the beautiful and holy things that have passed away. On the dead waste of life the spectre lifts the coffin lid of hope, joy and love. The quadrennial has gone, and with it many a glorious throng. Its mark is on each brow; its shadow in each heart. In its swift course it has waved its sceptre over the beautiful and the holy; mown on the strong man and the haughty form. It trod the halls of revelry, where thronged the bright and joyous; and the tearful wail of the stricken ones is heard, "Gone from the earth forever." Three has the Church been called on to bow on account of Death's visit to our Episcopal ranks, and in the next General Conference the care-worn veterans will come together to take a retrospective view of the past and provide for the future. He who has led the Eighth Episcopal District, though made to drink from the bitter cup of death, can truly say, "Great is our God who has given us the victory." Four years since Bishop Ward took for the second time this section of our Church, and during that period we can truly say,

"What troubles have we had;
What conflicts have we passed.
Fighting without and fear within Since we assembled last."

What are we doing? We are working, as the figures will show. Arkansas Conference shows over $2 100 Dollar Money. Mississippi comes next, within one dollar, and South Arkansas over $2 000; North Mississippi, $1 950, thus making a total of over $8,000 in these four years ending against $4 000 in 1884. To augment the above, churches have been built in Fort Smith, Brinkly, Forest City, Pleasant Grove, Oseola, Pine Bluff, Texarkana, Raymond, West Point, Vicksburg; a parsonage valued at $2 00); also Batesville, Augusta and a number of smaller places. In all of the work, so far as we have been able to glean, the churches have increased numerically. This is what we are doing down here. To us the A. M. E. Church is the grandest of all the churches now in existence, and it is to be hoped she will remain so. We shall have a word about the General Conference in our next.

ON SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

[The following is by Carrie C. Malone. She is the daughter of Rev J. W. Malone, and is eleven years old.—Ed.]

The Sunday school of to-day is the church of to-morrow, therefore the purpose of the Sunday school is to teach God's word. In noticing thousands of little boys and girls all over this broad land of ours on the Sabbath day rushing to and from their Sunday schools in different directions, with eager eyes and listening ears, desiring to get all information from their teachers in regard to the blessed Saviour and his teaching, for he has taught us in his divine word to search the Scriptures for in them we think we have eternal life. The little boys and girls in the Sunday school are like the plants in the flower garden, the real value of the plants depends upon the care they receive. If the plants are trimmed and the dead leaves are picked off the plants and they receive the sunlight, great success may be expected. The same may be said of the little boys and girls in the Sunday school. If they receive the proper instruction while young they will grow up to be great men and women, doing much good in the glorious cause of Christ. The first impressions are the most lasting, for we never forget the kind and tender words that fall from the lips of our teachers, directing us in the paths of peace and happiness.

Nobody ever outgrows Scripture; the book widens and deepens with our years.

A VOICE FROM PLYMOUTH, MASS.

BY REV. I. A. GRANDY.

Mr. Editor:—I take pleasure in writing you a few lines to ask you for space in your paper to state what I call facts, and that is this. I don't see why our ministers should suffer and bleed to establish churches in this great land of ours and have them deeded to the conference, and just as soon as they leave to other fields, and some to heaven, that the conference should let the property get away from them in the hands of other people without a cent for it after the members say, by their actions and words, that they will not keep it up or have anything to do with it. We have a church here in Plymouth, Mass., worth from $1 500 to $2 000, will soon be in the hands of some private parties or not down if something is not done. If there is no provision made to look after such property, I hope that the General Conference will see that something is done to save deserted property that our fathers have got together and given to the conference. I am here looking after it without one dollar of support, only what I can get out of the white people—now and then five cents from this one and ten from that one. I hope in God that our intelligent head will look after such things, and not let the labor of the fathers be wasted.

VIRGINIA CONFERENCE ELECTORAL COLLEGE.

The Virginia Conference Electoral College met in the Third Street A. M. E. Church, Richmond, Va., at 1 o'clock P. M., January 18, 1888. Hon. George W. Dailey was elected president, and Prof. A. Solomon Walton, secretary. After devotional exercises the meeting was declared ready for business. The delegates presented their credentials, etc., after which quite enthusiastic speeches were made by Brothers Hunt, of Portsmouth; Pryor, of Manchester; Walton, of Richmond, and Dailey, of Norfolk. The college elected by ballot Prof. A. Solomon Walton and Hon. George W. Dailey; alternates, Morris Hunt and H. W. Pryor. Much harmony prevailed. A vote of thanks was tendered Rev. E. H. Bolden, A. M., for the hospitality extended the delegates and visitors. After fraternal interchanges the college adjourned and partook of the repast which had been prepared by Rev. Bolden.

Geo. W. Dailey, Pres't.
A. Solomon Walton, Sec'y.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO GENERAL CONFERENCE DELEGATES.

Reduced fare has been secured for all General Conference Delegates, except those residing in Arkansas, Kansas and Texas. Delegates will pay full fare going and be returned for one-third fare. Persons other than delegates desiring to attend General Conference can be given the same reduction. A circular giving full information will be mailed to each delegate about the 20th of April. I hope to be able to secure some reduction for the delegates from Kansas, Arkansas and Texas. If I cannot, then delegates from Texas can pay full fare to and from New Orleans and obtain the benefit of the reduction from that point to and from Indianapolis. Arkansas delegates can pay full fare to and from Memphis, Tenn., and get the reduced rates from there to and from the General Conference. Delegates from Kansas can pay full fare to and from Kansas City or St. Louis, Mo., and get the benefit of the reduction from either of these points to the General Conference. In all cases the reduction will only be made on return tickets. Persons must return by the same route by which they go.

Fraternally,

C. S. Smith.

Church News.

Rev. E. W. Johnson, Monticello, Fla., writes: I was appointed by Bishop D. A. Payne to this charge, and we have some good property at this place; all it needs is repairing. I have collected for building purposes $104 40 since I was appointed to this charge. I got with the good workers at Monticello. By the last of April I must show you a change at this place.

Rev. I. H. W. West, Macedonia, A. M. E. Church, Amityville, Long Island, N. Y., writes: Commenced a protracted meeting January 1st, and continued four weeks. The Lord revived his work and ten precious souls were happily converted to God, and the church has been greatly revived and the power of God has been wonderfully felt in this place through the preaching of his word. We ended our meeting on the 27th to get ready for our third quarterly meeting, which was on February 5th. We were blessed with a grand time all day, and eight joined the church on probation; and one was received into the church. So the Lord is with us. Pray for us.

Rev. J. A. Broadnax, Walnut Ridge, Ark., writes: Having heard nothing from our vineyard, I thought I would let you know that we are still in existence and trying to let our light shine at Walnut Ridge, with our presiding elder, J. C. Jones, at the head of the district. We have just started a Sunday school, using our own literature, and have twenty-five scholars who seem to take a deep interest in the school, both parents and children. We are not efficient in conducting Sabbath schools, but our superintendent, Prof. Scott T. Bay, Mrs. Gilliam, Miss Ivy, teachers of the females and male classes, and Mr. Johnson, teacher of 23 class, are doing their best. We are ready in need of a chaplain or some one to lead in prayer, but as we have none we will do the best we can. God pity the man who stands idly by finding nothing to do while the world's wide conflict rages. I hope the General Conference, which is not far in the future, will have and eye single to the territory of the west, for in a few years there will be one of the garden spots of the West for the ministers of our great Church. Brethren, pray for us.

SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL.

Mt. Zion Church, Center street, Darby, under the jurisdiction of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, of the Philadelphia Conference, Rev. W. H Davis, rector, is now in the midst of a glorious revival. Since January 29th there have been twenty-eight conversions, and forty-two have come to the altar asking to be prayed for. The like has never before been witnessed in this church. The interest at the meetings has been so great that only not more than two sermons have been preached since they began. The Rev. Nora D Semple, of Morris Brown Mission, Philadelphia, delivered last Sabbath morning a very interesting sermon. In the afternoon, Rev. J. B. Stansberry, of Mt. Pisgah Church, West Philadelphia, delivered a powerful sermon. The church was packed to its utmost capacity. There were twenty-one persons at the altar on Sabbath evening.

FROM CHATHAM, ONT.

BY W. MURRAY.

Dear Editor: Kindly allow me space for statement of Campbell Chapel A. M. E. opening, which took place January 1st, a success that reached our endeavors after an arduous and gigantic struggle for seven months. The site is one of the most desirable of church locations of our town, situated on the corner of King and Princess streets, two blocks from the business centre, which makes it of easy approach for all. The building is of modern architecture, having four gables, a neatly proportioned spire with slate colored top and ornamental peak. The church is built of red brick of uniform color. The dimensions are 62x34 feet; 22 feet ceiling, with a semi-octagon off set at the rear part for the choir. It contains a commodious and excellently lighted and toriment. The entrances are at each side of the north, or King street, point, by easy stairs. The ceiling finished in colored woods, among the gables, which makes it very neat cheerful, the wainscoting, like the ceiling, showing the beauty of the grain, this, assisted by the mechanical skill of the latter in ornaments, adding more to richness of appearance. The Gothic windows, encircled with variegated lights and ground lights for the centre, is another contribution to its grandeur. Two neatly formed vestries, the sides seats diagonal facing the esecutive pulpit, which, I am informed, is a representation of the Metropolitan one, the choir occupies a place back of this, in structure and finish comparative to the other parts, and none less adorned by the talent and ability with which entertain their hearers from whom they receive flatteri g encomiums. There are other attractions this ed fice offers, together with its spacious basement, that makes it one of the rival churches of our town and superior to any colored church of Canada. It has been termed, by our local journals, a step forward. It is one for the race and a tangible evidence of the permanent existence of African Methodism in the Queen's dominion as a representative church. The service in the morning was conducted by Rt. Rev. Bishop Disney, who discoursed to a well filled house, who enjoyed a rare treat, all going away pleased with the services. Rev. H. M. Joseph spoke in the afternoon and a stranger at night. The choir rendered a number of very choice selections, placing them amongst the leaders of the town. Thus, despite opposition, our church moves to the front and inscribes her name, "Excelsior."

They must keep close to the throne of grace who would win the throne of glory.

A SUDDEN DEATH.

Brother Thomas Jones, a well known citizen and much beloved by all who knew him. He held the office of steward and trustee in the A. M. E. Church last year, and was re-elected trustee for another year under the pastorate of Rev. J. G. Cannon. Brother Jones had been a faithful member of our church for a number of years, and was always found at his post. This dear brother was taken sick on the night of January 10, 1888, and died the next morning, the 11th, about 9 o'clock, leaving a dear wife and daughter with a great many friends behind to mourn his departure to a better land. Rev. J. G. Cannon, his pastor, officiated over the remains. Monticello, Ky.

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY.

Whereas, It has pleased the all-wise God to deprive our fellow-student and brother, W. A. Joiner, of an endeared father, who as a minister of the Gospel, having ended his labors in the Church Militant, has gone to join the Church Triumphant; and

Whereas, We realize to the utmost extent of our ability the affliction which our brother must undergo because of the decease of his father; and

Whereas, We are assured that He who notes the sparrow's fall will not forsake him in an hour of trouble—

Resolved, That we, the students and faculty of Wilberforce University, co-operate in tendering our heartfelt sympathies to our brother in this his hour of bereavement, and that we commend him to that Being whose wisdom is made manifest in all of his judgments. Be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to our bereaved brother and a copy be sent to the Indianapolis World, Christian Recorder and Springfield Capitol for publication.

BEAUTIFUL ADDRESS.

DELIVERED BY REV. MORTIMER OVER THE REMAINS OF MRS. LINDSAY.

We are permitted to publish the following brief but beautiful and appropriate funeral address of the Rev. R. G Mortimer, pastor of the A. M. E. Church of this city, the occasion being the death of Mrs. Dr. F. T. Lindsay.

When the bells were about to sound out the glad tidings that there had arrived the day which we celebrate as the birthday of the Christ-child, we were required to pause a moment and look upon all that is mortal of Mrs. Eliza Buwell, who, after months of heroic suffering, fell asleep in Jesus. And now, before the new year is one week old, we again assemble with sorrowful hearts and look upon the remains of another noble Christian woman, whose gentle spirit on last Wednesday passed into the rest which remains for the people of God. Christian friends, our beloved sister is not dead. Redeemed from death are all those who have lived the life of the righteous, freed from the bondage of clay, she has been ushered into the glorious liberty of the children of God.

She has been simply translated—raised to a higher state of existence. Dropping the earthly house of her tabernacle, she inherits now that other building not made with hands eternal in the heavens. No longer, however eloquent, can do justice to the character of this whose life has been an sweet, so pure in word, so Christ-like. Mrs. Lindsay did not think that she should live for herself alone. The talents entrusted to her care, and which had been improved by years of careful reading, were humbly laid at the feet of the Master, and here in Xenia, as elsewhere, are many in whose hearts she has erected a lasting monument and who will rise up and call her blessed. To strengthen the weak, to speak a word in due season to him that was weary, to bind up the broken hearts, in a word to make mankind better and happier—this was the work for which she had received an anointing of the Lord, and the zeal and faithfulness wherewith she fulfilled her mission is surely worthy the imitation of us all.

A devoted wife, a kind neighbor, faithful to the performance of all her Christian duties, she leaves behind a blessed influence, which will surely tend to ennoble the lives of all with whom she was acquainted.

There was joy in heaven when her gentle spirit met in the glory land her dear little son, who for some time has been waiting for her arrival. Soon mother, father and son will meet in our Father's house in the heavens, where there is no night, and where God will wipe all tears from their eyes. Death does not end all. Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning. As one so well said, "There is a region where the rainbow never fades; and where the beautiful beings that now pass before us like shadows, will stay in our presence forever."—Xenia Torchlight.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

To the A. M. E. Sunday School of the St. John A. M. E Church:

Your committee, appointed to prepare resolutions on behalf of the Sunday School, as part of the memorial exercises in honor of the life, character and services of the late Mrs. Dr. Lindsay, beg leave to report the following in that behalf:

Since it has pleased God, in his infinite wisdom, to call from the circle of our associations our beloved friend and co-laborer, Mrs. Eunice P. Shedd-Lindsay, it becomes us as members of this Sunday school, on account of the intimate relations she long held to the school, to place upon its record our appreciation, in so far as words can express it, of the meritorious services she has rendered the school as pupil, teacher and assistant superintendent, and of the precious influences distilled by her noble Christian life.

Resolved, That while we bow submissively to the will of our Heavenly Father, in this sad visitation of his inscrutable providence, we nevertheless realize and here make note of the great loss sustained by the community, the Church and the race, in the removal of one who was a consistent Christian and an earnest, philanthropic worker, one who so lived,

"That when her summons came to join
The innumerable carravan, that moves
To the pale realm of death, she went
Not like the quarry slave, scourged
To his dungeon; but with an unfaltering trust,
Approached her grave as one who,
Wrapping the drapery of her couch about her,
Lies down to pleasant dreams."

Resolved, That in her death the Sunday school and church have lost one who, in counsel, in sympathy, in generous liberality and devotion to the right, was ever reliable and constant.

Resolved, That we regard her life of usefulness, of unselfish endeavors, of unobtrusive benevolence as forming a character worthy the imitation of the women of our church and community.

"Go to the grave; at noon from labor cease;
Rest on thy sheaves, thy harvest task is done;
Come from the heat of battle, and in peace,
Christian, go home; with thee the fight is won"

Resolved, That we hereby tender to the bereaved husband and other relatives our heartfelt sympathy and commend them to Him whose tender and loving compassion is infinite.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our Sunday school and also published in our city papers.

BROTHERS TAYLOR AND ROBERTS tell us what the Central Texas Conference is. The latter seems very tender on the subject and says we were sarcastic. Much depende upon the way a statement or question is taken as to the amount of sarcasm one gets out of it. We put none into our questions. We are informed of the votes that made, that helped to make, the editor. Is that sarcasm? To us the conference seemed anomalous. It seems none the less so after the explanations—this irrespective of voters.

WE THINK it is well for the whole Church to know that our venerable Bishop Brown is a very sick man. Not at the point of death? O no, not by far; but he is, nevertheless, in very poor health. Since we saw him last on returning from the Georgia Conference, December 21st, to our view he has lost ground. With his wonderful power of recuperation, it was reasonably expected that he would have been quite restored ere this, but it must be said that he is suffering an unusually severe trial this time. Need we say the Church should pray for him and his loved ones around him?

IN THE ABSENCE of our editorial chief, we take the liberty of saying that, from a letter appearing in the public press to-day (13), from the Hon. James G. Blaine, refusing the presentation of his name to the ensuing National Republican Convention for the nomination to the office of President, it appears that the tide of affairs politically is taking a decided turn. We believe that we express the sentiment of thousands of the best Republicans of the country when we say we shall be glad if the announcement holde good. We say this for the reason that we want the next President to be a Republican; we want him to win, and hence we want to see a man put in nomination for whom every Republican in the land—who will be allowed to vote—can vote. A united party can cleot its man.

THE SOUTHERN RECORDER still seems disconsolate about the possible election of Dr. B. T. Tanner to the office of Bishop, lest his separation from the Review should result in blotting that particular star from the literary firmament of the race. By way of consolation, we are moved to ask if there is, at this day in our history, a single enterprise worth living that must needs perish on account of the death, the transfer or removal of any one man? The Southern Recorder may believe so, but we do not. While the whole Church appreciates the success of the Review as chiefly owing to the ability and energy of the managing editor, it is certainly saying too much to say that no one else can edit that publication. If the Southern Recorder isn't joking, where is its specs? Will it please put them on and look around before it speaks again?

WE PUBLISH in this issue a business-like proposition from Rev. J. M. Henderson relative to the establishment of an extension society in our Church. That we favor an extension department need not be said now, as it has been said sufficiently frequently. Among a certain class of men, in any race variety, some of the plans of Brother Henderson could be established; some of them could not. In the first piece, while money is a good thing we cannot be too careful respecting conditioning church membership on the payment of money, or ministerial standing upon ability to raise money. "Step aisy; here lies the dead." Nor shall we ever dare say to an applicent for license, "You must become a stockholder in a certain business institution before you can receive license." A few ministers could succeed by such methods, many could not. More option, less compulsion.

"The more come in with a free good will, it make the banquet sweeter still."

Push your canse, brother, but modify your methods, slightly.

IN DISCUSSING, through a labored article, the relations of Bishop Wm. Taylor, now in Central Africa, the Northwestern Christian Advocate of the 8th inst. has this notable passage:

He [Bishop Taylor] makes no report to any Church officer and will make none to the General Conference. Why should he? The General Conference has no more to do with the work or the workers than it had a few years ago with the outside and unofficial work of Bishop Janes, when he laid out a town in New Jersey and inserted in every deed that no intoxicants should be sold on the premises forever; or the unofficial work of Bishop Ames, who, about the same time, laid off an addition to Indianapolis and inserted in every deed: "Said property shall never be sold to, rented, leased, or occupied or enjoyed in any way by a negro or mulatto."

Can any serious Christian man read this statement in one of the authorized official papers of a leading denomination in our country without a blush of shame? How tenaciously the primitive barbarism of our Anglo-Amsrican brethren clings to them! One can scarcely believe his ears when he hears the will of Stephen Girard rehearsed in making his bequest of the magnificent property comprising Girard College, in the centre of Philadelphia. When we reach the provision that no minister of the gospel shall ever be permitted to oven enter the premises, we cannot help feeling that this man was little less than a savage. But here is a Christian Bishop—a ruler in the Church of our Lord—deliberately recording in legal form his malign and barbarous hatred of his followmen. O, but don't our hearts grow sick to fainting when we hear these canting hypocrites, these whited sepulchers, bomoening the superstition and pollution of our race? O, the wiles, the disguises, the malice of satan! The Northwestern ought to be ashamed to publish such a record; for to any mind not distempered by the curse of American race hate, such a statement is no less offensive than to publish a felony in connection with an honored name, or at least an honorsd title.

OUR LAST MISSIONARY EFFORT FOR THIS TERM.

The attention of pastors, superintendents of Sunday schools and the publishers of annual conference minutes is respectfully called to the notices and requeste of Rev. Dr. Townsend, which are published in this issue.

The missionary department of our Church is engeged in a great work Never before in our history was the demand on this branch of service beon more urgent, nor have there ever been so many open doors for its efforts. The dear Saviour calls for workers in the vineyard. We have made answer, "Here, send me." Our offer of service is accepted; and now are we ready,—willing to go? The significance of any answer we may make to this queetion will depend on the push and liberality we show in this last rally for the holy cause of missions.

DEATH OF DR. JOHN M BROWN, JR

"Dust to dust; ashes to ashes."

Dr. Brown, the subject of our sketch, was the oldest son of Bishop Brown, and was especially dear to his mother. He was born August 16, 1854, and died February 4, 1888, aged 33 years 6 months and 12 days. Congestion of the lungs was the fatal malady that carried him hastily to a prematnre grave.

After reaching the junior year in his college course, he entered the medical sobool of Howard University in '77, and graduated from that department June, '80. In 1881 he turned his steps Westward in search of a good location for the practice of his profession, and in proness of time located in Kansas City, Mo. Applying to the legal authorities of the city for a license to practice, he was subjected to the severest tests, and oven after the ordeal of a second examination, he was continually searched and scrutinized by the "profession," by frequent appointments to reed papers, oto., on every imaginable topic.

In June, 1884, eighteenth dey, he was married to Miss Elia Davis, of Kansee City, hereif a greduate of Lincoln Institute, Missouri, than whom a more gifted, sprightly and lovable girl one ocould seldom find throngh the breedth of the land. But now within the period of three and one-half years, the uneeen but resistless hand of death oute asunder the bond of union, bearing the immortal spirit out and up to the realm of spirits, and dasbing the emitten, withered body into the grave.

We can but deplore the untimely end of one who was reared with so much care, and who was reasonably expected to accomplish a nseful carecr. It was a sad and eolemn scene at the funeral. A weeping wife and a weeping mother who seemed to feel nnutterable sorrow at the loss of her first born son. But not the least sad of this sorrowful spectacle was the dear father, lying helpless on bis bed in an upper room, and listened with wekeful, loving attention to ostch each word, each sentence, every prayor that fell from the lips of the officiating clergy and attending friends. Dr. Dorrick, of New York, read the service; Dr. Handy delivered the eulogy; Miss Handy, Miss Patteeon and Prof. Layton chanted the pathetic bymn, "It is well with my sonl." Prof. Layton sang an ode, and then we bore his dnet away to its mother dust.

THE PUBLICATION OF ANNUAL MINUTES.

It is the onstom of universal Methodism to publish the proceedings of the annual conferences in pamphlet form and scatter them throngbout the jurisdiction of the sams for the information and encouragement of the people. We cannot speak advisedly of other branches, but among us these published minutes have become the official documentary record of the conference. This form of printing has become a very important item in our annual fiscal statements. We suppose that of our forty-four conferences the annnal minntes average at least $60 each as the cost of printing, or, in the aggragate, $2,700, and inoinding the cost of distribution, perbaps not less than $3,000. Since our connection with the Book Concern, from constant interconrse with these conferences, we find that a great majority of tbem are in continual financial embarrassment on acconnt of the minutes. We have printed for a nnmber of the conferences and here found, to our own dismay, that very few are prepared to pay for the work. Now, the priutiog of Methodist minutes, es of ell others, is a species of advertisement. It is designed by the diffnsion of information to create enthnsiasm for the work among the ministry and people. Considered in this light, it is a business matter, pure and simple. As a mere official record it is of little value, because that is best conteined in the offiniel journal. Hence it seems clear to our mind that mnch of the matter nsually contained in our minutes could be left ont with profit, and great saving in cost as well, while a good deal of useful information could be inserted that would cost far less and still be of more use toward the end for which they should ho made:

It wes our purpose to have written at length on this very fruitful enbject, but time forbids. But our leading thoughts on the subject may be condensed into this brace of eylehi:

1. Each conference keeps its official journal in three parts in lieu of one: (a) Jonrnal of Proceedings; (b) Jonrnal of Statistics; (c) Jonraal of Finence.

2. Drop from the printed minntes all tables of statistics and finance, give aggregates only, exhibiting increments and losses.

3. Our Publishing House should print all the minutes, and for this purpose each nonference could deposit of its funds with the department a snm equivalent to the average cost and then let the Manager be obligated to print promptly all minntes and distribute them per direction of the Publishing Committee of the conference, and then any helance due the Concern or due the conference could be eesily adjusted after.

If the conferences should appoint a compiling committee to compile as they are made, to transcribe obsenre parts, so that all would be ready to transmit immediately after adjonrnment, the minutes of every conference in the connection could be in print twenty days after its close, and in thirty days all would he sold. We commend these suggestione to our brethren. Some, of course, will oppose and sneer; but we have practically proven the success of such an arraogement by our experience right here on the ground. The Philadelphia Conference, old as she is, had less than $30 for minntes in '84, when we came here, to pay for work costing $100; now her treasurer has cash to pay on delivery and a surplus in in bank.

Personal.

—Bishop A. W. Wayman is still in the Southwest.

—Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Derrick attended the funeral of Dr. John M. Brown, Jr.

—Bishop Campbell assisted Bishop Ward in conducting the South Carolina Conference.

—Drs. Tanner and Lee are attending the South Carolina Conference and will visit the East Florida before they return.

—A work on "The Evolution of Episcopacy and Organic Methodism" is in course of preparation by the Rev. T. B. Neely, D.D., of the Philadelphia Conference.

—We had the pleasure of an introduction to Mr J. M Trotter, Recorder of Deeds, of Washington, in that city last week. Mr. Trotter demonstrates his sagecity in making his home with that princely family, the Pattersons.

OUR WOMAN'S COLUMN.

BY CATHRINE CASEY.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Parent Mite Missionary Society of the A. M. E. Church was held in Bethel Parsonage, February 7th. Since our last meeting two of our faithful co-laborers bed been taken away and a sadness seemed to pervade the meeting, especially as we were sitting in the home of dear Sister Beckett and within the sound of the voices of her dear little children. Alas! they little know what they have lost. May He "who tempers the wind to the shorn lamb," supply a mother's tender faithfulness to these bereaved ones. Words cannot express what I felt as I saw Elder Beckett sitting in his sandy with his little baby on his knee and the other little ones playing about him. If the angels are indeed "ministering spirits" their dear mother might not have been as far off as I thought. The flowers that were sent on the occasion were the most beautiful I have ever seen. One piece was made of sheaves of wheat, bound together with lilies of the valley. This was sent by Mrs. Alice Beckett, of Washington, D. C. The church at Wilmington sent a harp of white rose buds and pinks. Bethel choir sent a wreath, and an exquisite bouquet, which our dear Katie wore upon her breast to the grave, was presented by Mrs. Margaret Jones, of this city. The most beautiful piece in design and workmanship was the offering of Mr. and Mrs John Langford, florist, Thirteenth street, near Greud Depot. It consisted of a dove with outstretched wings, standing upon a crescent with a star of red pinks above it and the whole mounted upon a pedestal made of japonicas and white roses—buds.

Mrs. Lydia Weare was one of the original founders of the Parent Mite Society and lor years an active worker in it. The society, however, decided to hold a memorial meeting to commemorate the services of these two faithful ones—Sisters Weers and Beckett—and a committee was appointed to make arrangements to see if Allen Chapel could be obtained for this purpose Sunday evening, 26th inst.

The Society decided to consider the matter of sending a delegate to the World Conference of Foreign Missions to be held in London in June.

Mrs. Alice Griffin, of New Haven, Conn., is skilled in all kinds of art work and embroidery. Every Sebbath school in the city ought to have a banner made by this excellent woman. Nothing is more needed in the city of Philadelphia than a Colored Women's Exchange, where such beautiful work as that done by Mrs. Griffin, Miss Addie Campbell and Miss Jones might be put on exhibition.

Catbrine has some names ready for the position of Bishops' wives, but that no one may get the start of some one she will wait until the names are handed in from the South and the West.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

BY REV. T. G. STEWARD.

Bishop Brown has been sick since last November and is still seriously ill. His disease seems to be a severe form of rheumatism. A few days ago the sad intelligence of the death of his oldest son, John M. Brown, Jr., arrived and this bereavement, added to his own affliction, has rendered the whole family very sad. On Monday last the Preachers' Meeting of this city visited him in a body and had communion with him.

There are now great efforts being made here by the friends of temperance in favor of prohibition in the district. The meetings seem quite enthusiastic and are well attended. Our choir is much in demand to sing for temperance meetings and are highly spoken of on all hands. The one great evil in the way of all religione and moral improvement is the foolish color line, which seems more definitely drawn here in all social and religions matters than, perhaps, anywhere else in the country. This is probably owing to the fact that there is so little of business and politics to compel the people to associate.

The greatest farce has been played in the efforts at so-called evangelism carried on in the name of the whole city and ignoring one-third of its inhabitants. Those who manage it would like to have the colored people come to Christ, or rather go to him, but they positively object to their coming on that side of Christ where they fancy themselves to be.

The Bethel Literary Society still holds on its way and continues to attract large weekly audiences. Mr.

Graham, ex-secretary of the Senate, read a paper before the society last week dealing with a few interesting facts in American history His paper was a very able one This week J. H. Brooks, Esq., ex-trustee of public schools in this city, read a brief paper and made an address on the history and growth of colored schools in this city

The entertainment given by the literary society on February 3rd was a grand success. About 1,200 persons attended and seemed highly pleased with the exercises, although all regretted the absence of Miss Flora Batson, who was detained by serious illness. Miss Nabia's readings were well received. As an elocutionist she takes very fair rank, evincing a degree of skill that is decidedly commendable.

Rev. J. R. Riley, pastor of the Fifth teenth Street Presbyterian Church, retires from that pulpit on the last of the present month, and as yet no successor has been announced.

In the attempt to reorganize the Republican party here and send delegates to the National convention the whiskey men and the disorderly elements seem to have had it all their own way.

Mud, mud, mud is the general report from all the surrounding country. Rev C. W. Fitzhugh, at St. Paul's; Arthur Jones, at Garfield; C. H. Robinson, at Hillsdale; A. W. Bowser, of George town, and Christ. Jones all report their work as progressing favorably. Rev. J H. A. Johnson speaks especially well of some parts of his work, but not so well of others. His not having appointment and he is entitled to the sympathy and support of all the brethren in his effort to do good and glorify the Master.

The Metropolitan still drives on. Our congregations fell off during the severe weather in consequence of the failure of the furnaces to comfortably heat the building. Since then the heaters have been overhauled and they are now doing much better and the congregation is returning. Pray for us that the Lord's cause may still prosper in our hande We have now in the church twelve good classes, two having been formed since I have been here, and they are doing well. This church has now the outlines of a magnificent work for God and humanity in its hands, and if it can be sustained nntil it acquires sufficient strength to fill up these outlines, it will stand for us a monnment by which we may point with congratnlation and pride.

CHURCH EXTENSION.

BY REV. J. M. HENDERSON.

To the consideration of General Conference delegates I wish to submit a plan for creating a church extension fund, which will be proposed at the coming conference. This is a day of dollars and cents, and a day in which no enterprise, ecclesiastical or secular, can succeed without money. Money is plenty and can be had if sought intelligently and with zeal. A fund of nearly $100,000 can be in our hands for the purpose of church extension by four years from now. But methods up to the times must be adopted.

Some months ago before our church here was completed, we proposed certain additional improvements which would cost about $1,000; one old brother said we could not raise the money; another, that the additional expense was needless; still another objected to the fair which was proposed as the means of raising the money, saying it was a worldly method, and that it would bring church people and worldly people into too close contact, as many who would be needed to help in the fair were unconverted persons. This same brother has honest scruples against the use of subscription books, pin cards, etc. His idea is that the church should get on with the sums paid by its members. To the improvements adopted he subscribed $1. In the sum of $2,700 raised a few weeks before he had given $1, which he paid in installments We held the fair and cleared $916.40, gained several members and now are in the midst of a glorious revival. The honest brother said to me a few days ago, "Bro. Henderson, you were right, but the world does change so I can't keep track of it. I never dreamed such work could be done, and all the time the fair was going on I was praying for you, for I feared it would result badly, but I guess things are different now-a-days." Had this dear and truly good brother and his followers been scrupulous in our society, we would still be worshiping in the rickety old chapel of one year ago instead of the beautiful church. Were it not for Bishop Payne and his kind, our pulpits would still be filled by ignorant anecdote-mongers, dream-tellers, etc; were it not for Bishop Brown and others we would still be groping along in the by-paths of fifty years ago as to our method of worship; were it not for Arnett, Embry, Shaffer and others, we would still be limping on from hand to month in the scant efforts of a financial nature we now make; were it not for Tanner, Lee, Smith and others our Church would to-day be unknown to the literary world, and the loud-voiced, strong-lunged enthusiast would rule instead of thoughtful men. Were it not for the Recorder we would never hear from such truly great thinkers as Dr. Johnson, etc. As it is, though all do not agree with their ideas, they do not meet the encouragement due to them, nor do all show the editor the gratitude due him for his fair and judicious presentation of matter to his readers. But I thank God that men are raised up who are not afraid to drop old notions and methods in the face of new facts and necessities.

To raise a fund for church extension, let a board be appointed with instructions to incorporate. Let stock be issued at $25.00 per share Let these shares be placed in the hands of the Bishops. At the first annual conferences following the General Conference, let each preacher bolding a charge with less then 100 members, be required to take two shares, those with charges with between 100 and 300 take three shares, all over 400 take eight shares. Let each society be required to take from two to eight shares according to the same rule of membership. Make the pastor responsible for the raising of the money. Let each local preacher before receiving his license be required to take one share. Each subsequent year until the ensuing General Conference, let an assessment of 50 cents be collected on each share. Let all this be compulsory, even if several hundred preachers, itinerant and local, are lost; the churches will comply if proper men are sent to them and each party has a chance to be entitled to a loan of $100 on each share for a period of not more than five years upon safe eecurity; also let a certain proportion be given to missions, etc., upon proper recommendation from the presiding Elder and pastor.

The following table shows the figures, the allowance being made for several thonsands of delinquent locals. Not being able without great labor to classify said members, we reckon each church at two shares each:

2,500 pastors, 2 shares, at $2.50	$12,500 00
2,400 societies, 2 shares, " 2.50	12,500 00
7,000 local preachers, 1 share each	17,500 00
10 Bishops, 20 shares each	500 00
3 General Officers, 20 each	250 00
100 presiding elders, 2 shares each	5 00
Total first year	$43,750 00
Interest for one year	3,902 50
Annual assessments:
Pastors	2,500 00
Societies	2,500 00
Local preachers	3,500 00
Total second year	$56,152 50
Interest	4,770 67
Assessments	8,500 00
Total third year	$61,423 17
Interest	5,428 25
Assessments	8,500 00
Total fourth year	$95,722 40

This can be realized without interference with any established interests So confident am I of its practibility that I would not fear to contract, under adequate bonds, to place at least $90,000 to the credit of the Church in four years, if this plan is adopted and faithfully cooperated with by the Bishops. Further more, I would be willing to advance any sum between $1 000 and $5,000 in establishing such a department. Brethren, you have the plan, if you see improvements to it would be pleased to receive suggestions, or to see your plan offered and adopted at General Conference. A letter addressed to St. Paul will reach me.

DR. SMITH'S VERDICT AGAINST THE STATUS QUO OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH.

I am again compelled to state, through the columns of the RECORDER, in defence of the present status quo of the A. M. E. Church, that I shall request the learned doctor at the proper time and place among the many things which he intends to prove, I shall desire him to prove the following:

First. To prove to the satisfaction of the Bishops, the elders and the delegates at the coming General Conference upon what churchly and Christian grounds he could plead justification for committing the Church which he professes to love to the throes of a violent revolution, as he well knows the consequences of disturbing the ancient landmarks and the wisdom in letting well alone.

Second. To prove that the General Conference of a Christian Church is bound by the legal quibble, the mere ex parte statements in a civil court in Canada, to repndiate its Tenth Episcopal District, to place it, s la Rome, under a ban, to interdict it and excommunicate, yea, on that legal quibble, one of the only authorized Bishops of the A M. E. Church. Dr. Smith must know the history of that ex parte statement and the disingenuousness of using so ignoble a weapon in a question of such gravity to our branch of Christ's Church.

Third. To place beyond a legal donbt that any such failure to observe and fulfill the condition of the third article of agreement can render the organic union of two such Churches, after it has been an accomplished fact for four years, null and void at this late period, foisting into the articles of union, as he is attempting to do. The terms were that upon any plan being afterwards discovered the innocent party could dissolve the union after it has been consummated one, two, three or four years. But such option is not even granted in civil matters without original and expressed stipulation How many men have not entered into partnership in firms supposed to be strong and have had to meet the liabilities of bankruptcy. Can so much more exalted a sphere as that of Christ's Church fall bolow the moral code of honor riadily observed in civil contracts? The good doctor is in grave error, however delightfully complacent he might feel to make the A. M. E Church pnse like the irresponsible autocrat of all the Rns sias against itself and to hold it a matter of common sense and decency for her to raise such an issne and cut her own throat.

Fourth. To show it comports with the growth and prosperity of the Church and the advancement of Christ's kingdom for the A. M. E. Church to rend herself into two factions, made bootle by a rupture for ends ignoble and unworthy of her high calling, and why the stronger party should, like a violent mob, take advantage of its superior strength to hurl the weeker party into disgrace of compulsory exile. They say they do such things among the people to whom we are sending missionaries; but why should not our conduct be held worse, if, after wooing the then B. M. E. Church into wedlock, we turn round and repudiate her after being an integral part of ourselves? The doctor knows, as any other Christian gentleman, how extremely shabby it would seem to court with ardor and then kick with hate. Could the A. M. E. Church so act against herself?

Fifth. To explain satisfactorily to the General Conference how a question of mere civil law could so vitally affect the basis of a union consummated for reasons superior to common law, consummated on the higher platform of homogeneousness in origin, in traditions of sorrow and sufferings, in church genius, in doctrines, constitutions, in customs, in objects. Must the naturel basis of society count for nothing because of a legal figment.

Sixth. To fairly show how the desperate remedy in the overthrow of the union could be the only course open to the A. M. E. Church. Dr. Smith must know that the very act that admitted Bishop R. R. Disney into our episcopate subjects him for misdemeanor proved against him to our Discipline, and that the true manly course to be pursued by Dr Smith and his compact or party is to formulate a charge against him before the proper Church tribunal

Seventh. To show the justice, leaving out the charity, of indicting, trying, condemning Bishop Disney; gloating over his remains without granting him the privilege which even civil tribunals allow the meanest subject, of a trial by his peers. The doctor, a man of his wide culture, knows that he has placed himself before the world, at least through the Recorder, as plaintiff, juror, judge, executor of Bishop Disney. That if such is a fair case of malice prepense, he places himself thereby out of court.

Eight. To show the exclusion of the Demarara Conference from the articles of union, how there being no part to it harmonious in all conscience with the fears that now torment the good doctor that they are prepared to send delegates to the General Conference, and with the pains and penalties, as if he were the A. M. E. Church, which he finds it expedient to hold in terrorem over their delegates should they send any. The doctor knows what the Lord meant at "straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel)," and the great men to whom our Master charged the fault. It were a contradiction in terms for Bishop Disney to have failed in consulting the Demarara Conference on their wishes for union and for the same conference to be now Dr. Smith's alarm. Sending delegates to the General Conference, they must have been consulted.

Ninth. To justify his presumption as a minister having the spirit of Christ in hurling defiance against innocent and unoffending delegates whose ears no proclamation of the then A. M. E Church counted to that to which announced the union to be an accomplished fact.

Tenth. To prove that personal hostility toward Bishop Disney on the part of certain parties did not somewhat turn the tide against the spirit of the union in course and check its development after its formal acceptance.

W. B. DERRICK.

IN MEMORY OF DR. JOHN M. BROWN.

BY MISS SOPHIE A. BRODIE.

"The good die first; and those whose hearts are dry as summer dust burn to the socket."

Truly the good die first. Those who are best fitted for God's kingdom He calls first. Death has entered the family of our beloved Bishop John M. Brown, and has taken from the family circle a loved son and brother. The golden chain has been broken and a link has been severed and transferred to heaven to be joined to the loved ones gone before. As the chain decreases here, it increases in the home above. One by one the loved ones pass over to the other side, and we have a strong hope and an assurance that in God's kingdom we will be joined never to be broken. Oh, what a beautiful thought that we shall meet never to be separated; that in the fields of glory we shall be together forever and forever, we shall know each other here and shall worship God eternally.

Dr Brown was one whom we all loved. I have known him for ten years, and during that time I loved him as a brother, for such he seemed to me. He was always kind, gentle and loving; he had a smile and kind word for every one. The rich, the poor, the old, the young, all were treated kindly by him. In his father's family all looked up to John; they loved him with an intense love. Next to father and mother, John was the one to go to for advice. In sorrow or in joy he had to share a part—he would comfort in sorrow and rejoice in joy with them.

His sister and I have, since our first meeting, been intimate friends, and I have almost been as one of the family. There has sprung up between us a strong devotion; we have spent many happy and pleasant days together. I remember well many pleasant incidents which took place during our days and years of friendship. We have studied together, and on an evening after church it would sit and wait for John —who was a medical student at thet time— to come home so to as have a talk with him, either about our lessons or on some topic of interest. He always took a delight in explaining for us what we could not exactly understand. At other times he would say to us, "Come, Mame and Sophie, let us go and have some music." then we would go into the parlor and sing piece after piece; soon father, mother and other members of the family would come in and the evening would be enjoyed by all. "Every day and hour," one of Sankey and Moody's hymns, was his favorite, and especially the last stanza:

"Let me love Thee more and more,
Tilt this fleeting, fleeting life is o'er;
Till my soul is lost in love,
In a brighter, brighter world above."

"Flee as a bird to the mountain" was another favorite of his. His thoughts always seemed to dwell on religious things. Often he would say, "When you get there I'll be there." Yes, he is there.

"He is not dead, but sleepeth."

Seldom do we find a son so devoted to home and mother as was Dr Brown. One year ago he wrote a most beautiful letter to his father and mother, the occasion being the thirty-fifth anniversary of their married life, and as it was their pearl wedding, he sent his mother a pearl card case. Among the other beautiful and noble thoughts expressed in the letter was this, "I hope not one of your children will cause one hair to turn gray that should be black, and not one wrinkle to come upon your cheeks," and in addressing his mother, he said, "You, mother, are my pearl, my princess, my beautiful mother." Such expressions show the love, the devotion, the respect he had for his parents. He loved his sisters and brothers with an equal share of love.

How Dr. Brown was loved and respected in the community in which he was reared has been shown by the hundreds of friends who have called to sympathize with the family. How he was loved by those away from his home has been shown by the many letters and telegrams of condolence received by the family. Telegrams were received from Bishop Campbell, Drs. Lee and Tanner, etc Letters have been received from Bishop Campbell and wife, Dr Derrick, Rev. G. W. Brodie, Mrs. Bishop Turner, Mr. W. H. Gibson, Mr. B. S. Smith and many others that space will not allow me to name. From all parts of the country the friends condole and sympathize with the bereaved family. All have had loving words to say about John, for all loved him.

Dr. Brown fell asleep in Kansas City, Mo., Saturday, February 14th, at 2:30 P. M. When dying he said to his wife, as he lay in her arms, "Pet, I am dying; it is getting so dark and I am growing cold." His wife did not want to believe he was dying. Soon he said, "Tell all good-bys for me and tell them to meet me in heaven." Yes, John is at rest.

A few days before he died he went to spend a day with his brother, Prof. Wm. L. Brown, and, when parting from him, he said, "Will, will any one at the Beautiful gates be watching and waiting for me?" His brother said, "Yes, grandma will be there and other members of the family will be there." Little did that brother think that John would soon be there. Oh, what a meeting there was at the beautiful gate when Dr. John Brown got there. His body was brought home for interment, accompanied by his wife and brother.

On Thursday, February 9th, at 1 P. M., his body was borne home to its last resting place. The services were conducted by Revs. Derrick, Handy and Embry. A quartette from the Metropoli an Church choir, under the direction of Prof. J. T. Layton, furnished the music, and Dr. Brown's favorite hymns were sung. There was not a dry eye in the room, so affecting was the occasion and so deeply did all feel the loss. His father was and is still prostrated upon a bed of affliction and was not able to attend the services; but God is with him and he is bearing the loss with a calm resignation to God's will. Rev. D. F. Brown came on to attend the funeral. May we all so live that when it comes our time to go, we can calmly lie down and say, all is well, meet me in heaven. The family has my deepest sympathy. May God sustain and keep them in this hour of sore trial and sad bereavement.

THE WILBERFORCE REVIVAL.

There has just closed the most remarkable revival ever witnessed at this University. As the Week of Prayer, which has always been observed here, drew to an end, a spiritual concern was manifested by two or three young ladies and a service of prayer and of song was held at their rooms by their companions. The Sabbath following, in answer to an earnest appeal by Dr. Jackson, these went forward. The evening week brought a few additionel seekers and several converts. The next week saw the work growing in intensity and result

The Faculty designated Friday, January 20, as a day for fasting and prayer. Begining at 7 o'clock in the morning, with preaching at 11, at 3 and at 7 o'clock, and with praise and prayer-meetings and private devotions occupying the intervals. There was experienced such a visitation of the Holy Spirit as must heve thrilled the disciples on the day of Pentecost. During the subsequent week it reached a glorious culmination. For two days recitations were suspended. The entire Christian body of school and community gave themselves wholly to the work. Students and citizens who had passed through previous revivals, went down in tears and penitence. The Y. M. C. A. was especially active, boiding a noon service daily and rendering efficient organized aid. The series of meetings ended, forty have been converted, fifty-two added to the Church and a proportion of more than ninety-eight per cent. of the students are professed Christians—only two are onteide of the fold. It is the highest percentage of Christian believers the University has ever recorded.

Wilherforce, Oblo.

We are just receiving from the binder a fresh lot of Hymn Books in cloth, sheep, roan and gilt, and, as business is dull just at this season, and we have some stiff bills to meet in February and March, we have resolved to offer churches, choirs and presiding elders this new lot of six hundred copies at a great reduction from regular rates for the next sixty days. One dozen cloth bound for $7.20; one dozen sheep bound for $8.40; one dozen roan (black), for $9.60; six extra roan gilt for $7.00, and a corresponding reduction on morocco of any class. Now, please send on your orders at once. Do not wait until they are all gone, and then complain thet we cease selling at the same rate. Remember, there are only 600 copies at this rate, and the first that come will be the first served.

Remember, also, that we sell the People's Hymn Book, a small, cheap, excellent work, collected by Mr. S. B. Scheiffelin. It contains tunes of standard excellence on the opposite page. Only 20 and 25 cents per copy But we must tell you that the best selling song book we have had for two years or more is the little gem called "Songht Out Songs," by Rev. A. B. Earle, of Boston. This book contains the famous "Lily of the Valley," and other lively tunes and hymns that stir the multitudes into a glow. Send in your orders. Only 30 cents per copy; 5 cents extra by mail.

Finally, we call attention to this paper. We have been late "to press" the past two weeks, and we come a little late still, this week, but with all this we submit that we are handsomer and handier than ever we have been. We are clipped and pasted, we are lighter weight and finer paper than ever before. One drawback only is worthy of note. Having changed our printer, our new pressman has not, for want of skill or time, been able to give ne a clear page as we have been accustomed to show our readers hitherto. In appreciation of all we have tried to do for the convenience and pleasure of our patrons, will not our patrons help us a little by securing for the paper at least one cash subscriber for '88?

To the Pastore and Superintendents of our Churches and Sunday Schools:

Dear Brethren—Our programme for Easter, "Missionary Day," are ready. We desire to supply every church free of charge. Please send at once for the nnmber you need. Let us begin in time.

Address,

NOTICE AND REQUEST TO THE PRESIDING ELDERS OF CENTRAL AND WEST TEXAS CONFERENCES:

You will remember that the conference appointed me to take the names and money for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. This was done on the last day of the session when we were all pushing to get through and be at home for Christmas. I was neglected to call the roll for the RECORDER. The presiding elders will please collect from each pastor on the district the sum of $1 50. Send the money and address to Rev. J. C. Embry, 633 Pine St., Philadelphia, Pa. By doing so, you will save collecting at the next annual conference $3.00. Where the brethren have sent on and paid for the paper, as I am going to do to-day, of course you will not collect. This will be shown by receipts from Manager Embry.

Yours, faithfully,

Dyspepsia

Makes many lives miserable, and often leads to self destruction. Distress after eating, sick headache, heartburn, sour stomach, mental depression, etc., are caused by this very common and increasing disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the stomach, creates an appetite, promotes healthy digestion, relieves sick headache, clears the mind, and cures the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia. Read the following:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling. I have felt so much better since I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I am happy to recommend it." O. A. FAOY, Watertown, Mass.

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again. I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a lifelong study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my Infallible Remedy. GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

WHAT AILS YOU?

[COPYRIGHT, 1887.]

ARE YOU SICK? Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, darting pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. Complicated with your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY will subdue it if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Disease, Heart Disease, Scrofulous Humors, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in, and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thus building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful remedy has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague and Kindred Fevers, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

BILIOUS ATTACK. DAVID G. LOWE, Esq., of St. Agathe, Manitoba, Canada, says: "Being troubled with a terrible bilious attack, fluttering of the heart, poor rest at night, etc., I commenced the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and derived the very highest benefit therefrom."

LIVER DISEASE. Mrs. I. V. WEBBER, of Yorkshire, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., writes: "For five years previous to taking 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' I was a great sufferer; had a severe pain in my right side continually; was unable to do my own work. I am now well and strong."

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and bodily health and vigor will be established.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY cures all humors, from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating remedy. Even the worst cases rapidly heal under its benign influence. Virulent blood-poisons are, by its use, robbed of their terrors. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

SALT-RHEUM AND RHEUMATISM. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Gentlemen—For several years I have felt it to be my duty to give to you the facts in relation to the complete cure of a most aggravated case of salt-rheum, by the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' An elderly lady relative of mine had been a great sufferer from salt-rheum for upwards of forty years. The disease was most distressing in her hands, causing the skin to crack open on the inside of the fingers at the joints and between the fingers. She was obliged to procure the raw plaster by means of adhesive plasters, salves, ointments and bandages, and during the winter months had to have her hands dressed daily. The pain was quite severe at times and her general health was badly affected, paving the way for other diseases to creep in. Catarrh and rheumatism also added a great deal of misery in addition to the salt-rheum. She had used faithfully, and with the most unqualified success, the remedies prescribed by her physician, but without obtaining relief. She afterwards began treating herself by drinking tea made from blood-purifying roots and herbs. She continued this for several years but derived no benefit. Finally, about ten years ago, I chanced to read one of Dr. Pierce's pamphlets setting forth the merits of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and other medicines. The name struck my fancy, and seeing that it was essentially a blood-purifier, I immediately recommended it to the old lady who had been so long a sufferer from salt-rheum. She commenced taking it at once, and took one bottle, but seemed to be no better. However, I realized that it would take time for any medicine to effect a change for the better in such a deep-seated case, and finally induced her to take a half-dozen bottles, and before these had all been used she began to notice an improvement. After taking about a dozen bottles she was entirely cured. Her hands were perfectly well and as smooth and healthy as a child's. Her general health was also greatly improved; the rheumatism entirely left her, and the catarrh was almost cured, so that it ceased to be much annoyance. She has enjoyed excellent health from that day to this, and has had no return of either salt-rheum or rheumatism. The 'Discovery' seems to have entirely eradicated the salt-rheum from her system. She is now over eighty years old, and very healthy for one of such extreme age.

I have written this letter, of which you can make any use you see fit, hoping that some sufferer from salt-rheum might chance to read it and obtain relief by using your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' —for 'Golden' it is in its curative properties, and as much above sarsaparilla, or nauseous and so-called 'patent medicines,' so much above the vile nostrums of quacks and the poisonous beer tonics, as the sun is above the earth in glory.

Respectfully yours,

F. W. WHEELER, 182 21st St."

CONSUMPTION, WEAK LUNGS, SPITTING OF BLOOD.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. While it promptly cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood.

CONSUMPTION. SOLOMON BUTTS, of North Clayton, Miami Co., Ohio, writes: "I have the pleasure to express my gratitude for the good your 'Golden Medical Discovery' has done my wife. She was taken with consumption, and after trying one doctor after another I finally gave up all hope of her living very poor and having but one dollar in the world. I prayed to God that he might show me something; and then it seems as though something did tell me to get your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' My wife took it as directed, and as a result she is so she can work now."

COUGH OF FIVE YEARS' STANDING. Mrs. N. W. RICE, of Newfane, Vermont, says: "I feel at liberty to acknowledge the benefit I received from two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' which cured a cough of five years' standing, and dyspepsia, from which I had suffered for a long time. I have also used Dr. Pierce's Extract of Smart-Weed, or 'Water Pepper,' in my family, with good effect."

GAINED 25 POUNDS. Consumption, Disease.—WATSON F. CLARKE, Esq., of Box 100, Summerside, Prince Edward Island, Can., writes: "When I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I was not able to do work and was a burden to myself. I weighed 125 pounds, and to-day I weigh 147 pounds. Then I used to eat about one meal a day, and now can eat four or five if I dared to."

WORTH $1000 A BOTTLE. W. R. DAVIS, Esq., of Belleville, Florida, writes: "I have taken your wonderful 'Golden Medical Discovery' and have been cured of consumption. I am now sound and well, and have only spent three dollars and I would not take three thousand dollars and be put back where I was."

Discovery $1.00, Six Bottles for $5.00; by Druggists.

God hath made many flowers, but the fairest of them all is Heaven, and the flower of all flowers is Christ.

Consumption Surely Cured.

To the Editor—

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hope'ess cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address.

Respectfully,

ASTHMA.

A young man taken down with asthma was very much frightened, and went to the best physician in the place and stated his symptoms, and in great suspense awaited the response. After several questions, the answer was: "Long life and ill health. Your disease is asthma." The first clause of the physician's answer comforted the young man, who feared death was near. But the second clause, given after waiting a little while, depressed his spirits to nearly as low a point as he had reached when he entered the doctor's office. This consultation was held before the discovery of our Compound Oxygen. By its use multitudes of sufferers have been cured. A monograph giving reports of cases of asthma, and our brochure, "Compound Oxygen—Its Mode of Action and Results," of two hundred pages, can be had on application either in person or at our office. Address Drs. Starkey & Palen, No. 1529 Arch street, Philadelphia Pa.

Lady (to drug clerk): "A two cent stamp, please." Clerk (absent-minded): "Yes madam. Will you take it with you or have it sent."

No other spring medicine has won for itself such universal confidence as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is the most powerful combination of vegetable alteratives ever offered to the public, and is acknowledged by the medical profession to be the best blood purifier.

A visitor to Ireland was bidding farewell, and said to an attendant: "Goodby, yer honor. May God bless you, and may every hair in your head be a candle to light your soul to glory." "Well, Pat," he said, showing him a bald pate, "when that time comes there won't be much of a torchlight procession.

A book containing statements of cures accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla will be sent to any desiring it who send address to C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

"Did it rain!" exclaimed the Western man in the course of a thrilling recital of border life. "Say, it rained so hard that afternoon that the water stood three feet on a slant roof."

DESERVING OF CONFIDENCE—There is no article which so richly deserves the entire confidence of the community as BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. Those suffering from Asthmatic and Bronchial Diseases, Coughs, and Colds should try them. They are universally considered superior to all other articles used for similar purposes. The late Rev. Henry Ward Beecher said of them: "I have never changed my mind respecting them from the first, except I think yet better of that which I began by thinking well of. I have also commended them to friends, and they have proved extremely serviceable."

LAST CALL.

All ministers who have not sent in their Centennial reports are hereby requested to remit their collections as directed, at once. And we respectfully urge those who have not made the collection up to date to do so at once and send the proceeds in, as the committee must meet early in January to settle up, and the Manager to have his list complete before publishing the same.

Brethren will please respond promptly. Fraternally yours,

All communications intended for the Sunday School Union of the A. M. E. Church that are addressed to Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tennessee, will be received. It is not necessary to give the name of the street nor the number of our business place. Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tenn., is sufficient. Telegrams addressed the same way will reach us. We are fully settled in our new headquarters and prepared for business. C. S. SMITH, Secretary.

NOTICE BY THE MANAGER.

We again call the attention of the pastors and presiding elders to the form of Warranty Deed we have prepared and published for general use in the purchase of church properties. The form is simple, and plain as plain can be, yet it is believed to cover every point in the law. It was drawn by an old experienced attorney, with our Discipline before him. Price, 25 cents per copy, or 5 for $1.00.

All Travelers

Whether by land or sea, who are liable to be out of reach of drug stores and doctors, would do well to have a supply of Ayer's Pills at hand. For this purpose, the Pills are put up in bottles as well as boxes, and may be conveniently carried in one's pocket. Six of the most distinguished physicians of Syracuse, N. Y., in giving their joint testimony as to the excellent medical combination of Ayer's Pills, make this point: "Their beautiful coating of gelatine and sugar is a great advantage, in that it protects them from change by time or climate, and renders them pleasant and even agreeable to take."

"During the twenty-five years I have lived on the frontier," writes John McDowall, of Sweetwater, Col., "Ayer's Pills have been my best friend. I have lived, mostly, where there was no doctor within twenty miles, and have been hard sick several times. I always kept Ayer's medicines on hand, and with them, and the Almanac, have pulled through. I have also doctored others, and believe I have saved some valuable lives by the use of Ayer's Pills."

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame." —Civil Service Gazette.

PUBLICATIONS
OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH.

LESSON HELPS IN FOUR GRADES.

THE TEACHER'S QUARTERLY. A thirty-six page pamphlet devoted to lesson helps for teachers and older scholars. Its value is enhanced by the introduction of appropriate forms for opening and closing exercises, hymns and tunes, maps, dictionary of proper names, etc.

THE SCHOLAR'S QUARTERLY. Similar to the above, but with such necessary changes as adapt it to the wants of scholars in the main school. It is marvelously cheap. Five or more copies to one address, per year, 7 cents each.

THE JUVENILE LESSON PAPER is a four page weekly, designed for younger scholars who have outgrown the Infant class, but who retain their fondness for pictures and simple stories. 208 pages for a dime!

THE GEM LESSON PAPER is a beautiful lesson sheet, four pages handsomely illustrated and printed on pink paper; for primary or infant scholars. Each number contains, besides the lesson, a page or more of "baby-land" talk. All for 8 cents a year, where five or more copies are sent to one address.

THE CHILD'S RECORDER, now beginning its eighth volume with a larger issue than ever before, offers superior attractions for the coming year. With additional editorial force, and a list of regular contributors skilled in the style of writing required by the young, no pains will be spared to put this publication abreast with the foremost of its class.

ASTHMA.

A young man taken down with asthma wes very much frightened, and went to the best physician in the place and stated his symptoms, and in great suspense awaited the response. After several questions, the answer was: "Long life and health. Your disease is asthma." The first clause of the physician's answer comforted the young man, who feared death was near. But the second clause, given after waiting a little while, depressed his spirits to nearly a low ebb point as he had reached when he entered the doctor's office. This consultation was held before the discovery of our Compound Oxygen. By its use multitudes of sufferers have been cured. A monograph giving reports of cases of asthma, and our brochure, "Compound Oxygen—Its Mode of Action and Results," of two hundred pages, can be had on application either in person or at our office. Address Drs. Starkey & Palen, No. 1529 Arch street, Philadelphia Pa.

Lady (to drug clerk): "A two cent stamp, please." Clerk (absent-minded): "Yes madam. Will you take it with you or have it sent?"

No other spring medicine has won for itself such universal confidence as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is the most powerful combination of vegetable alteratives ever offered to the public, and is acknowledged by the medical profession to be the best blood purifier.

A visitor to Ireland was bidding farewell, and said to an attendant: "Goodby, yer honor. May God bless yon, and may every hair in your head be a candle to light your soul to glory." "Well, Pat," he said, throwing him a bold note, "when that time comes there won't be much of a torchlight procession."

A book containing statements of cures and testimonials of Samaritan Nervine will be sent to any desiring it who send address to C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecerics, Lowell, Mass.

"Did it rain!" exclaimed the Western man in the course of a thrilling recital of border life. "Say, it rained so hard that afternoon that the water stood three feet on a slant roof."

DESERVING OF CONFIDENCE—There is no article which so richly deserves the entire confidence of the community as Brant's Cough Balsam. Those suffering form Asthmatic and Bronchiel Diseases, Coughs, and Colds should try them. They are universally considered superior to all other articles used for similar purposes. The late Rev. Henry Ward Beecher said of them: "I have never changed my mind respecting them from the first, except I think yet better of that which I began by thinking well of. I have also commended them to friends, and they have proved extremely serviceable."

THE CENTENNIAL OF AFRICAN METHODISM.

LAST CALL.

All ministers who have not sent in their Centennial reports are hereby requested to remit their collectione as directed, at once. And we respectfully urge those who have not made the collection up to date to do so at once and send the proceeds in, as the committee must meet early in January to settle up, and the Manager to have his list completed before publishing the same.

Brethren will please respond promptly. Fraternally yours,

J. M. BROWN,
Chairman of General Committee.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH.
LESSON HELPS IN FOUR GRADES.
THE TEACHERS QUARTERLY. A thirty-six page pamphlet devoted to lesson helps for teachers and older scholars. Its voice is enhanced by the introduction of appropriate forms for opening and closing exercises, hymns and tunes, maps, dictionary of proper names, etc.
THE SCHOLARS QUARTERLY. Similar to the above, but with such necessary changes as adapts it to the wants of scholars in the main school. It is marvelously cheap. Five or more copies to one address per year, 7 cents each.
THE JUVENILE LESSON PAPER is a four page weekly, designed for younger scholars who have outgrown the infant class, but who retain their fondness for pictures and simple stories. 20s per hundred.
THE GEM LESSON PAPER is a beautiful lesson sheet, four pages handsomely illustrated and printed on fine paper, for primary or infant scholars. Each number contains besides the lesson, a page or more of "baby-land" talk. All for 6 cents a year, where five or more copies to one address.
THE CHILD'S RECORDER, now beginning its eighth volume with a larger issue than ever before, offers superior attractions for the coming year. With additional editorial force, and a list of regular contributors skilled in the style of writing required by the young no pains will be spared to put the publication abreast with the foremost of its class.

OUR WOMAN'S COLUMN.

BY CATHARINE CASSY.

I cannot understand how any one can feel that honest work of any kind is degrading. The greatest men that have ever lived have been the greatest workers.

"The heights by great men gained and kept
Were not attained by sudden flight;
But they, while their companions slept,
Were toiling upward in the night."

The great mistake we make is in supposing that the honor lies in the kind of work that we do, but both the honor and the reward lie in the way that we do our work, whatever that may be, whether it is to paint a picture or to write a poem, to sweep a room or cook a beefsteak In the simplest duties of life there is room for faithfulness and artistic taste So that all intelligent and faithful service must have an enobling effect upon the character and is well pleasing in the sight of God. To a certain extent we all serve one another, and our happiness and well-being are increased or diminished in proportion to the faithfulness of this mutual service. Victoria, with all her royal power, is not independent of the one who cooks her dinner. The most precious lives among us are in a large degree dependent upon those kinds of personal service which we loosely consider insignificant and degrading. I know many an excellent woman who is wearing her life away by over work in her children and her family, because she does not dare to trust those duties to such "help" as she can get. I will not say "servant," for that seems to shut out many of many people to whom our dear Lord, "who chose the lowliest duties on himself to lay," said, "I am among you as one that serves." When will we get rid of our false ideas of honor and dignity? I will continue this subject next week.

Our dear Bishop Campbell is with us again. But, as his duties will take him out of town next Sabbath evening, our memorial meeting will not take place until the first Sabbath evening in March

It is an unusual thing to have to call the great South to come to time, but where are the names of those excellent women that are to be mentioned for higher honors? Think how that our brothers have much more ambition than we. Perhaps some one is too modest to send his wife's name. Well, just whisper it on a soft, solemn breeze and start it up this way immediately, for we're having terrible weather.

THREE QUESTIONS ASKED.

BY REV. A. T. HALL.

MR. EDITOR:—I wish you to answer three questions for me as a benefit to young ministers:

1. I have missed Sabbath school but three times out of sixty years. How many preachers can say the same?

2. I have been a paid up subscriber to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER since the first issue in 1852 by Green and Clark. How many preachers in the general Church have done this?

3. I have traveled on circuits and stations regularly, on foot, on horseback, in stages and on cars since September, 1856, and have disappointed my congregation but three times, and that through accident of roads. How many have done this?

4. I have never had a congregation to protest against or have had anything against my moral character in any annual conference Yon need not answer the last half of number four. I am now too old to run for Bishop. I learned my alphabet in Sabbath school in the old stone school house in Mifflintown, Juniata connty, Pa., in 1827.

OUTBAGE UPON THE ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

PROTEST OF REV. A. W. ATWATER.

EDITOR OF THE CHRISTIAN RECORDER:—I hereby give notice that I shall protest against the following name, who are on the General Conference delegate list from the Alabama Conference, Viz: E H. Dixon and H. C. Calhoun. I do this because these two brethren were not elected. In 1886, Bishop Payne would have the Alabama Conference then to elect its delegates to the General Conference which convenes next May, 1888. In 1887, the Alabama Conference reconsidered that action of electing its delegates before time. For this cause, a.) It was not done according to law, which says on page 84 in our book of Discipline, "The last annual conference prior to the sitting of the ensuing General Conference shall elect its delegates. b.) In the conference of 1887 it was clearly proven that the election which was held in 1886 was invalid, and after hearing the evidence, Bishop Payne so ruled. The conference then proceeded to elect its delegates according to law. The first thing done, conference decided her full vote to be 75, and five delegates were elected in due form according to law on the first ballot, to represent her in the General Conference.

I will now in my protest give the names of the brethren which were then elected, and place the number of votes each one got opposite his name: 1st, A. W. Atwater, 53; 2d, S L. Mims, 49; 3d, Noah Davidson, 43; 4th, A. B. Evans, 41; 5th, I. N. Fenderick, 39. I will also give [As the proper time and place —Ed] the cause of this irregularity. Mr. Editor, believe me, what a disgrace and shame to have it said the Alabama Conference should be deprived of her choice, if the two above-named brethren are to represent her, who were not elected. It has always been the custom of our conference, for the brother who was elected on the first ballot, to head the list of delegates from his conference It seems, from the General Conference delegate list, as published in the RECORDER, we are to be robbed of that honor by one who was not chosen at all.

I sign myself, yours for the Church,
A. W. ATWATER.

IN MEMORY OF LINCOLN.

THE ANNIVERSARY OF HIS BIRTH APPROPRIATELY CELEBRATED AT WASHINGTON.

The anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln was fittingly commemorated by the African Methodist Episcopal rooms, Washington, D. C., on Sunday, February 12:h The clnb rooms were filled with members of the league and prominent Senators and Representatives with their families. W. W. Dauenhower, vice president of the league, presided and Dr. John P. Newman opened the meeting with prayer. The speakers were Senator Cullom, Frederick Douglass, Simon Wolf and Capt. Patrick O'Farrall.

Dr. Newman in his opening prayer paid a tribute to the life and character of Lincoln and his great effect upon our national life. The gathering, he said, was not political, but religious and educational in its nature.

Senator Cullom delivered the principal address of the occasion. He spoke for about an hour and was listened to attentively throughout. In conclusion, the Senator said: "The world is made better by recounting the virtues of such men as Abraham Lincoln. There are none whose lives teach to Americans a grander lesson than that of Lincoln. The study of it will conduce to private and public virtue, correct ideas of our relations to each other, and inspire moral courage to stand by our convictions of duty. In commemorating the virtues of the honored dead, let Americans renew their devotion to the sacred cause of liberty, and resolve to do their part in seeing that 'this Government of and by and for the people' shall not perish from the earth."

Fred Douglass followed Senator Cullom. "Nothing new can be said of the life and character of Abraham Lincoln," he began. "Not even with the aid of the electric light can anything be seen that has not been seen before. The moral and mental greatness of Abraham Lincoln is now generally conceded than that of any other man of modern times. All classes, both at home and abroad, revere his memory as that of the highest type of American manhood. The colored people, whom he came to save, wish to share with you to day in admiration of his character and the perpetuation of his name You may extol him as a statesman, as a patriot, as a hero, were him as a man and a philanthropist. You may honor his memory in that he saved the country. We cherish it, in that he struck the galling fetters from the limbs of 4,000,000 slaves. You may honor him because of the possibility of a united country. We, because he raised us from the condition of mere chattels to the height of American citizenship. It is said of Wilberforce that he went up to heaven with a million of broken fetters in his arms in evidence of a well spent life. We can say the same many times over of Lincoln. He was a man to sympathize with, so noble in his character, and so entirely free from prejudice that all classes and conditions can claim him as a clansman, friend, brother, and benefactor. I knew Lincoln personally, and esteemed it the greatest privilege of my life. I met him when the fate of the Republic was trembling in the balance. I came down from the North early in the summer of 1863 It was the first visit I had ever made to Washington; the first time I had ever gazed on the Statue of Liberty high on the towering dome of the National Capitol. It was also the time of my first visit to the White House, and it was a great day for me. No man who had not worn the yoke of bondage and been scourged and driven beyond the beneficent range of the brotherhood of man by popular prejudice can understand the tumult of feeling with which I entered the White House. I had little cause for trepidation, however. I was going to see a great man, and it is far easier to see a great man than a little one. Lincoln was ready to meet me when I entered. His face showed marks of toil and care I perceived at once, however, that a genial welcome was in store for me. When he came near me I told him who I was and what I had come for. He stopped me. 'I know you already,' he said. 'Mr. Douglass, Mr. Seward has told me all about you.' I shall never forget that interview and the peep it gave me into the soul of that greatest of men."

A GREAT EXPOSITION PROPOSED.

THE LATEST PROJECT OF THE COLORED PEOPLE—AN INTERVIEW WITH THE DIRECTOR-GENERAL.

It is generally known that the colored people of the Southern States, especially those inhabiting that region commonly known as the "black belt," are making large preparations to hold a national industrial exposition in Atlanta. For some time they have been having State and county fairs, and have met with such success in their enterprises that now they desire to open up on a larger scale and make a thorough exhibit of all their race has accomplished in the various occupations and trades. The New Orleans Exposition, in which a large space was reserved for them, greatly stimulated the desire for such an exhibition as is now contemplated Their space in that exhibition is said to have attracted quite as much attention as any other department, and was an object of agreeable surprise to all who visited the exposition. It did much to convince all who saw it that the colored man had made undoubted progress as a skilled laborer. It will be remembered that two commissioners were appointed from each one of the States to superintend the displays made by their respective States. These men are the leading spirits of the new enterprise Philip Joseph, the director-general, is at present in Washington working up the exposition and securing the cooperation of prominent colored men. Mr. Joseph is a young man, apparently about thirty-five years old; gentlemanly in his beering, possesses a shrewd, intelligent countenance and has the general appearance of a thorough business man. In an interview with a reporter of the Washington Post recently he said:

"The Colored World's Fair Association is incorporated with a capital stock of $200 000. It is to be assisted by commissioners from each of the States and Territories appointed by the President of the United States. We propose to hold the exposition for three months, commencing November, 1888. It will include everything, works of art, field products, manufactures, machinery, invention, works of skilled labor—in fact, we will make a display of samples of everything colored men have used, fabricated, owned or produced throughout the United States."

In answer to the question as to what the colored people of the United States had to exhibit that can in any way resemble manner show their capabilities, Mr. Joseph said: "They own farms, mills, mines, shops, stores, large printing establishments, patents, manufacturing establishments, orange groves, coasting vessels, hotels, ranches, a street car line, a railroad and stock of all kinds. They are merchants, traders, brokers, printers, farmers, speculators, manufacturers, inventors, mechanics, in fact we have representatives in all trades and professions. In Louisiana the colored race pay twenty five per cent. of the taxes, owning $30,000,000 worth of property. In South Carolina they own $10,000,000; in Alabama, $12,000,000, and in the United State $250,000,000. In Kentucky colored citizens own 200,000 acres of land, 3,000 town lots, 52,000 head of stock, the whole valued at $4,000,000. Their private fortunes range all the way from $20,000 to $1 000,000, and the Lincoln family of Dallas, Texas, are worth in all, have recently come into possession of $48,000,000, giving them the snug little fortune of $8,000,000 apiece. In business they have many successful men. Take for instance the Mercer Bros., who carry a clothing stock of $300,000 in New Orleans, and T. T. Allain, member of the Louisiana Legislature, who is a levee contractor and employs hundreds of both races. E. Gomez & Sons, of Mobile, own and conduct the largest tin manufactory in Alabama. Their goods are sought by the wholesale merchants of Mobile and are in constant demand all over the State. A. Arnaut, of Mobile, is a steamboat boiler-maker and has shops both in Mobile and at Scranton, Miss. He employs mechanics of both races and is liberally patronized In Nashville, colored men own a large broom factory. In New Jersey they are manufacturing clothing. John McKee owns four hundred houses and other property worth half a million in Philadelphia Samuel W. Lowry, of Huntsville, Ala, was recently awarded the first prize on silk cocoons and raw silk at the Louisville Exposition. He had seven competitors, one of whom was the exhibitor of cocoons raised in France. He recently purchased sixty acres of land near Birmingham, and has demonstrated that the climate of central and north Alabama is especially adapted to the growth of the mulberry tree. He proposes to establish a loom and one million cocoons upon his property at Birmingham. He is a pioneer in this industry. Prof. G. T. Wood, of Columbus, Ohio, is the inventor of the synchronous multiplex railway telegraph, by means of which the railway company can note the position of any on the route at a glance. It also enables telegrams to be sent from the train while in motion. Mr. Wood and Mr. Edison, who claimed to have invented the same process, and won the same before the Patent Commissioner on the ground of priority of invention On February 8th last, Elijah McCoy, of Detroit, received his twenty-eighth patent pertaining to steam engines and railway attachments, while W. R. Davis, of this city, has seven patents and people engaged required able generalship. Did not the result of their labor stand there, the greatest structure in the world, we should be disposed to question the statement that any such body of workmen was ever engaged, under the will and direction of one man in a single enterprise, and for so long a time. How little do we know about it, and how baffled are we when we attempt to solve the great problem! The benign-looking statue of its builder was found by Mariette in a neighboring tomb, and now sits in the Bnisq museum, but it affords no information except as to its identity.—Scribner's Magazine for January.

Sometimes men are dissatisfied with their work and with the position they occupy. They think they are not appreciated, and that they are competent to fill what they regard as much more important positions. This may sometimes be true; but if such persons are faithful in the positions they occupy, their work will be appreciated, and they will be called to such positions as they are found competent to fill. But a man of real worth may be successful in one position, to which he is adapted, while he would be a failure in another to which his talents are not suited. Men are not always the best judges of their own abilities, or of the position which they are best qualified to fill. It is also very necessary for the place to seek the men, than for the man to seek the place. Modesty is generally an evidence of worth, while presumption is almost invariably an evidence of shallowness or unreliability. If a man has but a small field, let him cultivate it well; when it becomes too small for him, others will perceive it, and he will be called to more extensive labors. A man who is always laboring to do good will succeed; while a man who is always seeking for place will fail. The place may be secured, but he will prove a failure in it.

We saw some time ago in an exchange that a member-elect to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church was annoyed by persons who desired his influence to secure for them certain official positions at the approaching session of the conference. One of these declared that it would break his heart if he should fail to secure the position he desired. The Central Christian Advocate, without any reference perhaps to this particular case, has some very sensible remarks in a recent nnmber on the general subject of place-seeking. It says, "To strive for place is unseemly in a Christian. If one believes that he is in God's hands and engaged in God's work, why should he not so commit himself to God's will as to allow God to put him forward Does he fear that God may neglect him and allow some one to supplant him? This is a most unworthy view of God, and ought never to be entertained by one who believes himself called of God and living in communion with him. The meek are to inherit the earth, according to the Saviour's teaching, and he illustrated it in his own life. 'Commit thy way to him and he shall bring it to pass,' says one whose experience taught him lessons by which we may profit." The trouble with most persons is, they went to choose their own way and are unwilling that God should lead them.—Methodist Recorder.

The grand plateau being completed, the workmen were ready to receive the product of the quarries, and soon the stupendnous structure began to rise. Tier after tier was placed, receding one upon the other, until the two hundred and twentieth had been raised to its place. Finally the apex, a mammoth crystal, was set, and the inner elevation was ready for the more finished outside casing. How the work was done to one has been able to explain.

After the great mass had been erected "in the rough," it was encased in highly polished marble, which, at a short distance, gave it the appearance of a precise geometrical figure. And it was indeed precise. Undoubtedly it was planned entire, with all its internal intricacies, before a stone was quarried for its construction. The head that contrived it seems to have been equal to the task of completing his scheme in the most workmanlike manner. The commissary arrangements alone for the army of people engaged required able generalship. Did not the result of their labor stand there, the greatest structure in the world, we should be disposed to question the statement that any such body of workmen was ever engaged, under the will and direction of one man in a single enterprise, and for so long a time. How little do we know about it, and how baffled are we when we attempt to solve the great problem! The benign-looking statue of its builder was found by Mariette in a neighboring tomb, and now sits in the Bnisq museum, but it affords no information except as to its identity.—Scribner's Magazine for January.

THE GREAT PYRAMID.

Ever since the peges of history were opened, and ever since science began to plod, the mind of man has been puzzled by one unchanging query: "What is the meening of the Great Pyramid?" History has been repeated; science conversant with the subject has been wonder of nature; but that monster work of man still remains enfolded by the veil of mystery.

Its builder was King Cheops, of the fourth Egyptian dynasty. His choice of a site for the great structure must have been governed by his purpose in erecting it, but we have no certain knowledge as to what that purpose was. When first he visited the proposed spot with his architects and pre-empted the needed space it looked far more promising than it does to-day. For there were then at Gizeh, not only rolling hills, and fertile valleys, but groves of trees, picturesque islands, canals and well cultivated farms. Vast quarries existed close to the escarpments of her limestone hills, whose strata were so regular as to give one the idea of more than Cyclopean courses of masonry. The summits of the hills, which were craggy end picturesque, told their own history by the congeries of small shell fish which formed them

The traveler of to-day may yet find within a few hundred feet of the Great Pyramid nummulites and pebbles in abundance, with an occasional shark's tooth, all proving that once upon a time the sea rolled over the desert of Gizeh. Moreover, if the earnest explorer sinks a shaft in the sand to the depth of thirteen feet, a stratnm of antique Nile mud is reached, while a few feet lower good water is found. In the sand lying thereabouts to day has been showered down from the West and Southwest, long eluce the days of Cheops.

The site chosen for the massive structure was that of a rocky hill West of end six miles away from the Nile. It is ninety miles from the Mediterranean and 215 feet above the sea level. The labor of 100,000 men for twenty years was required for the work. While some of the vast army were sent to the Mokattan quarries on the East bank of the Nile for limestone and marble, and some far South to hyene for granite, others were dispatched to the Mount Sinai region for stone of other varieties. Then a canal was dug from the Nile to the Gizeh hill for conveying the quarried blocks to their places of transfer. From the Western terminus of the canal to the pyramid base a wide causeway was constructed for the further conveyance of material.

While all this was going on the chosen hill itself was made ready to receive the enormous weight to be placed upon it. The general surface was lowered until good, solid, fissureless material was reached and a broad plateau formed, as firm and so extensive as to serve for the foundation. The naturally inclined strata were leveled to accommodate the courses of the building. Where it could be done the lavish builder was yet economical enough to utilize the natural rock, for at the Northeast corner the lowest course and part of another are formed of rock trimmed off square in situ The natural rock may also be seen at one place in the entrance of the passage, and again in the course of the "well;" but in no other place has there been found anything but well built limestone or granite masonry.

To the ministers, members and friends of the New Jersey Conference: This is to inform you that Brother R. H. Coleman's wife was stricken with paralysis while at Church, Feb. 5th, and while conclusions has not spoken since. Brother Coleman is compelled to be at home with her and to be in great need. Now, brethren, do not stop to ask the wherefore, but rally to his aid with actual cash sympathy. Send what you can now and more when you get it. Send direct to him. Rev. R. H. Coleman, Yorktown, N. J. I will see that you get credit for it. Yours, J. H. Morgan, Presiding Elder 6th District, N. J. Conference.

None are ruined by the justice of God but those who will not be reformed by the grace of God.

What Scott's Emulsion Has Done!

Over 25 Pounds Gain in Ten Weeks. Experience of a Prominent Citizen.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7th, 1886.

I took a severe cold upon my chest and lungs and did not give it proper attention; it developed into bronchitis, and in the fall of the same year I was threatened with consumption. Physicians ordered me to a more congenial climate, and I came to San Francisco. Soon after my arrival I commenced taking Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites regularly three times a day. In ten weeks my avoirdupois went from 155 to 180 pounds and over; the cough meantime ceased. C. R. BENNETT

ANNUAL CONFERENCE NOTICE.

To the North Louisiana Conference, A. M. E. Church:

All candidates for admission in the itinerancy in the North Louisiana Conference and all students for first, second and third years' classes, must put in an appearance at Shreveport, La., on Tuesday morning, January 24th, 1888 for examination as the committees all will be positively instructed not to examine any one after that day. All the respective committees must also be present on same day, else others will be substituted. The conference will meet Wednesday, January 25th 1888, and reports must be ready on first day.

By order of Bishop Wayman.

J. W. RANKINS, Secretary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION NOTICE.

The Quarterlies and the Lesson Papers for the fourth quarter are now ready for distribution. Patrons will please send their orders without delay. All Sunday school supplies must be paid for in advance. Address

Rev. C. S. SMITH,

Nashville, Tenn.

The Friends' Review remarks editorially: On a smaller scale, the desperate wickedness of the human heart of which wars come (James iv. 1, 2), is just now being brought to light, as the border between Kentucky and West Virginia; where, for more than twenty years, a "vendetta" has been going on between two families and their adherents, killing one another at sight. Is there anything more barbarous among heathen tribes in the centre of Africa?

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

AN EXCELLENT MEDICINE.—TARRANT'S Effervescent Seltzer Aperient is the safest and most reliable remedy for Sick Headache, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaints and Constipation. Recommended by physicians and sold by druggists everywhere.

I CURE FITS!

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again. I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a free bottle of my infallible remedy. THE PROPRIETOR'S OF Dr. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY

$500 WILL PAY FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS

For a case of Catarrh in the Head which they cannot cure.

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS 50 CENTS.

The Only Guaranteed Cure

[COPYRIGHT, 1887.]

CATARRH IN THE HEAD.

SYMPTOMS OF THE DISEASE.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid; at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, a thorough system of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a "nasal twang"; the breath is offensive; smell and taste impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a backing cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians.

COMMON SENSE TREATMENT. If you would remove an evil, strike at its root. As the predisposing or rent cause of catarrh is, in the majority of cases, some weakness, impurity, or otherwise faulty condition of the system, in attempting to cure the disease by other than any such means, we are directed to the removal of that cause. The more we see of this odious disease, and we treat successfully thousands of cases annually at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, the more do we realize the importance of combining with the use of a local, soothing and healing application, a thorough and persistent internal use of blood-cleansing and tonic medicines.

CHIEF RELIANCE. In curing catarrh and all the various diseases with which it is frequently complicated, as throat, bronchial, and lung diseases, weak stomach, catarrhal deafness, weak or inflamed eyes, impure blood, scrofulous and syphilitic taints, the wonderful powers and virtues of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cannot be too strongly extolled. It has a specific effect upon the lining mucous membranes of the nasal and other air-passages, promoting the healthy secretion of their follicles and glands, thereby softening the diseased and thickened membrane, and restoring it to its natural, thin, delicate, moist, healthy condition. As a blood-purifier, it is unsurpassed. As those diseases which complicate catarrh are of the lining mucous membranes, or of the blood, it will readily be seen why this medicine is so well calculated to cure them.

LOCAL AGENT. As a local application for healing the diseased condition to the head, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is beyond all comparison the best preparation ever invented. It is mild and pleasant in use, producing no smarting or pain, and containing no strong, irritating, or caustic drug, or other poison. This Remedy is a powerful antiseptic, and speedily destroys all bad smell which accompanies so many cases of catarrh, thus affording great comfort to those who suffer from this disease.

PERMANENT CURES. The Golden Medical Discovery is the nature's "helpmate" of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It not only cleanses, purifies, regulates, and builds up the system to a healthy standard, and conquers throat, bronchial, and lung complications, but when taken in connection with the Catarrh Remedy effects upon the lining membrane of the nasal passages, it aids materially in restoring the diseased, thickened, or ulcerated membrane to a healthy condition, and thus eradicates the disease. When a cure is effected in this manner it is permanent.

Both Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy are sold by druggists the world over. Discovery $1.00, six bottles for $5.00. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy 50 cents; half-dozen bottles $2.50.

A Complete Treatise on Catarrh, giving valuable hints as to cleanliness, diet, and other matters of importance, will be mailed, post-paid to any address, on receipt of a 2-cent postage stamp.

LITERATURE AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY MAGAZINE

$1.00 a Year. Specimen Copy Free.

LITERATURE presents, weekly, a comprehensive survey of the entire literary world, from the standpoint of the interest of American readers of books. Its many unique features can not be adequately described in these few lines. A specimen copy—free—will best tell the story. It will be one of the most characteristic and "lively" products of the Literary Revolution. Biographies, with portraits of notable characters; select readings from new books, including specimens of choice illustrations of new; criticism; anecdotes; gossip—whatever interests readers of books—will fill its 1200 or more handsome pages. It will be not simply worth more than its cost to any lover of good books, but also the means of saving subscribers many times its cost in the reduced prices of the books they buy. Address JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 393 Pearl Street, New York, or 218 Clark Street, Chicago, Ills.

Dr. PIERCE'S PLEASANT PURGATIVE PELLETS

THE ORIGINAL LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

SIZE OF PELLETS.

PURELY VEGETABLE! PERFECTLY HARMLESS!

As a LIVER PILL, they are Unequaled!

SMALLEST, CHEAPEST, EASIEST TO TAKE.

Beware of Imitations, which contain Poisonous Mineruls. Always ask for Dr. Pierce's Pellets, which are little Sugar-coated Pills, or Anti-bilious Granules. ONE PELLET A DOSE.

SICK HEADACHE,

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pellets. In explanation of their remedial power over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence.

Sold by Druggists. 25 Cents a Vial.

BEING PURELY VEGETABLE,

Dr. Pierce's Pellets operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a gentle laxative, alterative, or active purgative, they give the most perfect satisfaction.

"Used Up,"

"Tired Out," "No Energy," and similar expressions, whenever heard, indicate a lack of vital force, which, if not remedied in time, may lead to complete physical and nervous prostration. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine to vitalize the blood, build up the tissues, and make the weak strong.

"For nearly three months I was confined to the house. One of the most celebrated physicians of Philadelphia failed to discover the cause of my trouble or afford relief. I continued in a bad way until about a month ago when I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It acted like a charm. I have gained flesh and strength and feel ever so much better. Shall continue using the Sarsaparilla until completely cured."—John V. Craven, Salem, N. J.

"I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla to be an admirable remedy for the cure of blood diseases. I prescribe it, and it does the work every time."—E. L. Patet, M. D., Manhattan, Kansas.

into prison—punished for having committed no crime. How many a young man would have commenced his ruin here. Only think of the situation; turned out of the influence of good society—wicked men and hardened criminals for his companions, whose language is rife with vulgarity, profanity and blasphemy, and he, a little transplanted, tender twig, struggling against the furious blast of the immoral hurricane. Still more to add, no Bible to read to encourage; no good books of any kind and no religious papers to help to console; no Christian conversation to strengthen. Yet, in the privation of all these, he remains steadfast and unmoved, a true and only child of God in the midst of a great heathen nation. My young Christian friends, could any one of you have endured the same and remained steadfast in good marks of righteousness? But remember that when we trust and obey God, he helps to overcome all things that encounter and accomplish all that duty enjoins.

Young women and young men, my heart in deep solicitude bends toward you in behalf of your interest. It is realities that make life serious, and we should wisely learn from the realities of the past to prepare for the realities that are coming. Never give up the right for the wrong under any consideration. But then, in the first place, be sure that you are right. Young people sometimes make a mistake and think that they are right when they are "terribly" wrong. Study your Bible often and that will teach you wisdom; read good books and good papers and they will make you intelligent. Give your heart to Jesus and he will preserve both your soul and body, and his Holy Spirit will sanctify and lead you higher and higher in degrees of holiness. Be decided, be firm, yield not to temptation's beckonings, stop your ears to her entreaties, for within the folds of her cloak is hidden the dagger that smites and kills. Jewels, they are the ornaments of a lady. The shining pearl, the glittering gold, the sparkling diamond, so lovely, so grand; but virtue untarnished and sanctified excels them all. Virtue—it is this that makes the perfect lady when all other things may fail. Virtue—it is a crown of strength to the young man and makes him king over his baser passions. Virtue—it is the basis of manhood and manhood's grandest constituent, earth's richest adornment and heaven's highest pride. Therefore prize it, keep it, cherish it, for it is a treasure that you cannot afford to be without it. Joseph would not have remained a slave; Pharaoh would have been without an interpreter for his dreams and famine would have spread carnage through the land, and Noah would have been without a storehouse to supply the wants of his family. Like Joseph, be steadfast in all things that are right and good. If you are engaged in mercantile, mechanical, literary or domestic business be steadfast in every duty relating to it. Or, if you have engaged your services to another, pursue every duty appertaining to your position with a willing mind and steadfastness that will insure your own success and gain the confidence of your employer. And as in temporal duties, be also steadfast in spiritual duties. This is the greatest and most important concern of all. Be faithful to God and never allow yourself to backslide. As long as you keep close to Jesus, as long as you daily commune and converse with him in prayer and praise, as long as you strive to get nearer and nearer to him and further and further from that which is wrong, there can be no backsliding, because he who continually advances cannot go backwards.

And now to you who are yet strangers to the Saviour my cry is, awake, awake. Prepare to meet your God. The receding events of the past are admonishing you; the stern realities of the present are enrealing you, and the future is brightening with gilded radiance of prophetic vision, betokening the coming of Him whose tread will awake the dead, whose voice will assemble together all the nations of the world; when the gospel shall cease her invitation and truth shall vindicate its cause before the bar of justice; when priest and preacher shall step down from the altar of God and the last convert shall cease his labors and with quickening heart come to receive his eternal reward. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ he with you all. Amen.

ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF MEHARRY MEDICAL COLLEGE, NASHVILLE, TENN., FEBRUARY 20, 1888.

BY "CASCARA."

DR LEE:—I thought a word in reference to the above memorable occasion would be of interest to the readers of the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. The Grand Opera House, the place selected for the event, was literally packed with humanity long before 7:30 o'clock, the hour for the execution of the programme to begin, had arrived. The programme was as follows: Prayer, Rev. E. Tyree; Salutatory, Thesis, "The Tongue"—C. W. Honesty; Music. Valedictory, Thesis, "Odontalgia"—C. M. Wade (Dental Department); Music; Valedictory, Thesis, "Diphtheria"—R. T. Brown; Music; Address to the Dental Graduating Class, J. P. Bailey, D. D. S.; Music; Address to the Medical Graduating Class—Prof. E. L. Gregory; Music; Conferring of Degrees by the President—J. Braden, D. D.; Music; Benediction. Reception Committee—J. F. Dyson, B. J. Smith, A. M. White, H. R. Butler, A. J. Love, E. P. Darden, J. B. Goin, G. Phipps, J. R. Grossland.

This graduating class is the largest that the college ever had, numbering 18, and the dean, Dr. G. W. Hubbard, says, as a whole, it made an excellent average in marks. This occasion was also the second commencement of the Department of Dental Surgery of Meharry Medical College, and "sheep skins" were given to Messrs. C. M. Wade and Smith. The platform was occupied by many distinguished citizens of both races of this city and from abroad, some of whom, upon invitation, delivered themselves of thoughts complimentary and encouraging. The remarks of Bishop Walden, president of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, were especially interesting, as coming from one who is in a position to answer the question whether the Christian philanthropists who have contributed in so large a measure to the present intellectual status of the colored people of his church are pleased with the returns from their applied charity. His opinion upon this question may be gleaned from his reply to that part of the address of the dean of the dental department to the graduates from that department which referred to the profession of medicine among colored people as being merely experimental. He replied that it was not experimental, that it was not problematical, but that the colored physician had passed the experimental part of his career, and that he was a success. In illustrating what he said, he referred to a colored dentist in Little Rock, Ark., to whom the best and wealthiest families of the city applied for treatment in his line. Dr. C. Smith, a graduate of the class of '80, was invited to encourage the class, which he did in his own inimitable style. His appearance was greeted with enthusiastic applause, which was continued at appropriate opportunities throughout his remarks.

Among other things he advised the young doctors not to start out to be "colored doctors," but to be doctors. He said that there are two laws of life that are accorded higher regard than race, color or previous condition of servitude—those are life and death; that seldom would a person be found whose prejudice is stronger than his love of life; that when a person is sick and death he does not inquire whether the physician is white or black, but, "Can he cure me?" When the speaker had concluded his remarks he presented a handsomely bound volume of DaCosta's Physical Diagnosis to Dr. Geo S. Pryce, of Jamaica, West Indies, who had made the highest general average on his final examinations. Although there were quite 5000 people present, they were well behaved and manifested increasing interest throughout the exercises, from the opening prayer to the benediction.

OUR CHILDREN'S EDUCATION—PHYSICAL CULTURE.

I cannot conceive how the pleasure of a Patonic dialogue or a passage from Socrates, or a Shakespearian play could be marred if we sat by the rushing waters of Niagara or at the base of some tall oak. What we wish the student, in respect to health and good taste, is not to carry the breath of books about with him like some men carry the odor of tobacco. To prevent this fever of bookishness the best thing a young man can do is to join a volunteer corps. The drill will serve to brush off the taint of pedantry and gird the loins stoutly for all the duties that belong to citizenship and noble manhood. We would not ignore or disapprove such organizations in our modern schools as would compel the student, without undue exertion, to go through certain gamesgymnastics—which would develop the muscles and make a young person strong and vigorous for the contest of life. Some nations make it obligatory on every man to serve in the army. We, the Americans, rush to the store or counting room, and our citizenship and manhood are blunted accordingly. Our advantages are superior to those of one hundred years ago. The cheapness of food makes it possible and inexcusable in the youth that is studious, who will sit week after week and month after month as if chained to the dull book, when he might breathe a purer air, inhale imagination from the very face of nature in some green glen or wave-splashed isle. A book, of course, may always be in the pocket, if at all a book is necessary; but it is better by far to steer clear of them and cultivate independence. Learn directly from observation of nature and to sit in a frame of "wise passiveness" growing insensibly in strong thought and feeling by the breezy influences of nature playing about us. We cannot close this subject without mildly referring to eating and drinking as practiced by students. Of course it is necessary to have something in eat, but what we eat should be substantial and nourishing. Regarding the details of this subject we shall refer you to hygiene and your medical adviser. But we believe it is generally agreed that the plainest food is the best for the good of the brain and blood.

The supply of good nourishment may be adequate to the demand and yet persons err when they come to use it. Many men do not walk, but roll through life; they never sit down and take things quietly. Bustling and hurrying, they snatch their meals so as to be done with them as soon as possible. This is the worst kind of all philosophy. Ah, we will not call it philosophy, for we do not like the use of the word in this connection; nonsense. They who eat in a hurry lose the pleasure of eating and the benefits of digestion. Business men, who, in the constant excitement of their business, are apt to indulge in this unhealthful habit. Students and bookish men are not free from the same temptation, and it often happens that the man who is an eager reader will not hurry down to his dinner, that he may get back to his book, but will read it while eating, thus forcing nature to act from two points at the same time, alike vital—the brain and the stomach. The result is the ill-feeling of both. Some one once said, "A whole man to one thing at a time."

The use of drink is most damaging. Strong drink too often enters as a stimulant or aid to digestion. Students, as a rule, are poor and the money thus spent might aid them in some great achievement in life. Water, at least, can lay claim to one merit—it never made any man a murderer and a sinner, and whiskey, however mild, however beneficial its claim may be, only deadens the nerves, produces unhealthy fat and weakens the muscles. He who never drank has gathered her by his shaft and you are left awhile longer to tour the valleys and mountains of life. But, dear Bishop, if we be faithful to our Redeemer we all, sooner or later, shall see her with the rest of the saved children of the King, in those jasper walls where trouble never comes. You have my earnest prayer that the Great Companion of all men be ever by your venerable side, yea in your soul.

NORTH LOUISIANA ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

BY REV. J. GOINS.

The sixth session of the North Louisiana Annual Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church convened in St. Matthew's Chapel, Shreveport, La., at 10 o'clock A. M. The Bishop being absent by misconnections of the trains, Rev. J. W. Rankin, presiding elder of the Shreveport District, on motion was elected Bishop pro tem. He then sang hymn on page 503 and fervently appealed to the throne of grace for divine guidance. The secretary of the last annual conference came forward and called the roll, and members present answered to their names. This having been done, Rev. I. J. Williams was elected secretary. On motion Rev. J. B. Webb was elected recording secretary; Revs. N. Henderson and E. L. Cromwell were elected marshals of the conference; Rev. J. Goins, reporter for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, and Rev. J. H. Hurd, for the city papers. The annual sermon was preached by Rev. J. H. Ford. On second day the statistical reports and other business was taken up. Revs. G. W. Dudly, L. Allen, Thomas Welsh, G. W. Sims and Christian Chinn of the Baptist Church, were introduced. Rev. A. R. Calhoun, of the C. M. E. Church, and S. R. Haron, of the M. E. Church, were introduced and seated within the bar. The Sunday school, and conference, night by members of conference and visiting brethren from Texas and Louisiana Conferences. The third day statistical reports were completed. Revs. A. McGrew, of Louisiana Conference, and C. A. Harris, of the Texas Conference, were introduced and made welcome among us. Reports from the various departments read and acted upon. Much time was consumed in acting on the fourth day was the election of the following named elders as delegates and alternates to the General Conference, Rev. J. W. Rankin and J. B. Webb; alternates, J. Goins and J. E. Martin. Missionary sermon at night by your reporter. After the missionary sermon, the conference resolved itself into a missionary society, the roll of which was called and the sum of $28 was taken up from the brethren, and $12 from the congregation.

Sunday services. At St. Matthew's A. M. E. Church, Dr. A. M. Green preached at 11 A. M., Bishop A. W. Wayman, D.D., and C. A. Harris. At the close of the morning service, the Bishop ordained two deacons, and at the close of the afternoon the Bishop ordained five elders. The brethren were very lively and appeared to be in earnest. There were some powerful sermons preached. The sermon that the Bishop preached Sunday evening will never be forgotten. The house was packed from time to time. Memorial services were held on Monday, at 1 o'clock, Bishop Wayman conducting them feelingly. The first speaker, Rev. A. M Green, spoke of the lives, labors and deaths of Bishops B. R. Cain and James A. Shorter. The second speaker, Rev. P. W. Williams, spoke of Rev. R. Walker, an elder, who was summoned at his post, Lake St. Joe Circuit. Prayer, singing and remarks from Bishop Wayman closed the said service. Mrs Mary A. Rankin, wife of Rev. J. W. Rankin, P. E., has taken great interest in the missionary cause and has organized five societies, known as the Woman's Home Missionary Society. She read a report of conference labor doings, and turned over to the conference $11 05. May God bless Sister Rankin in her undertaking. Our report of Dollar Money this year is $431 70, which beats last year by $6 30.

The Bishop announced the transfer of Rev. M. Smith to the Texas Conference. May God bless him wherever he goes. Nine o'clock having arrived, the Bishop read the appointments for the year, the conference then adjourned sine die to meet next year in Delhi, La. The doxology was sung and the benediction by the Bishop, thus closing one of the grandest sessions ever held in North Louisiana Conference.

WHEREAS, The Rev. J. H. Martin and his good people of Shreveport and community at large have so hospitably entertained and cared for the Conference; and

WHEREAS, They have so liberally responded to our appeals for help; therefore be it,

Resolved, That our thanks are hereby tendered to them, and that this Conference ask God's blessings to rest upon their city and community.

A TRULY ENGLISH IDEA.

In our anxiety to find remmerative employment for women, we are injuring the prospects of England's young sons, who, after all, are the legitimate supporter's of the national prosperity. Surely there are sufficient occupations to supply our surplus population of women, without entering them in the labor market as the rivals instead of the helpers of men. On every side we hear of the scarcity of domestic servants. Would it not be well if women, who have the time at their disposal to develop this industry, would use their efforts to persuade their sisters of the working class to send their daughters to service instead of into factories? Many would gladly do so if they only knew how to obtain the situations, and would welcome warmly ladies who would find good, comfortable homes for their girls. There are thousands of good situations in England, and in Canada a girl is without doubt at premium, even as a servant or a wife. For women of the educated classes there is hospital nursing (which should be undertaken entirely by them), taking charge of charitable institutions, various kinds of parochial and philanthropic work, teaching in families, middle and upper class schools, national and Board schools; and for the lower middle class there is dress-making, mantle-making, millinery, and many other light occupations, unsalted to men.

Amongst women workers teaching has not hitherto taken the position which is its due. A lady will undertake the life of a governess in private family as a friend which a cook or a housemaid would flout with scorn; but she has, as a rule, considered teaching in a national or board school, with a comfortable stipend, as quite beneath her dignity. Therefore, one important factor in our national life is relegated to the working classes, who are the least fit for the work. If the girls of the educated classes who are obliged, from adverse circumstances, to earn a living for themselves, would go into training to fit them for teaching in Church or Board schools, they would receive a remuneration which would make them independent of their friends, and confer an inclaimable boon on the nation. The refinement and culture of their life and manners would do more to raise and refine the life of the masses than any other agency which could be employed.—The Woman's World for March.

HOW BIG MAY LONDON GROW?

Why, for example, should not London, which we think so overgrown, grow almost indefinitely bigger? London has been growing for centuries, and is now growing at such a rate that it adds to itself a population as great as that of Norwich every year, or, say, 750,000 every ten years. If it goes on in this way for another century it will contain 11,000,000 people, which seems somehow to everybody to be absurd; but nobody will tell us precisely why it is absurb, or what is to be the ultimate checking force. Certainly it will not be the want of room, for London is not built up to half the height in the air of Paris or New York or old Edinburgh, and has quantities of building space all round it. The northern suburbs can be spread out five miles in a direct line before they are met by an omnibus reach; the west can expand nearly as many miles, and eastward miles of cheap land invite the builder.—London Spectator.

In my opinion there are many truths it is not worth while to know. If we had a dozen centuries of life allowed us we might perhaps be pardoned for spending a little time upon such curious trifles; but with the small pittance of life we have it would be ill husbandry to spend a considerable part of it in what makes neither a quick nor sure return.—John Wesley.

If you wish for the only true and second peace, which is the peace of God, do your duty. Try to be as good as you can, each in his station of life. Take an example from the soldier on the march. And if you do that you will understand what I mean. The brave soldier has no peace, just because he is robbing himself bonta things untaide himself and not in his own power.—Kingsley.

Never be discouraged because good things go on slowly here; and never fail daily to do that good which lies next to your hand. Do not be in a hurry, but be diligent. Enter into the sublime view of it. God can afford to wait; why cannot we, since we have him to fall back upon? Let patience have her perfect work, and bring forth her celestial fruits.—G. Macdonald.

There are some things that do not change. The sunlight and shadows bring their old beauty and waken the old heart strains at morning, noon and eventide. The children are still the symbol of the eternal marriage between love and duty. And men still yearn for the reign of righteousness and peace—still own that life to be the highest which is a conscious voluntary sacrifice.—George Eliot.

DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

BY REV A J. MIXON.

MR. EDITOR:—I thought I would withhold my pen for awhile and let more experienced men of the Church do the writing and I do the reading; but having been elected reporter to the RECORDER by the district conference which convened in the town of Burlington, N. C., on the 1st of February, 1888, I therefore pen a few lines to the RECORDER.

The conference was called to order at 9 o'clock A. M. Presiding Elder F. P. Giles in the chair, after some very appropriate remarks, announced the first thing in order the election of a secretary; thereupon, your humble servant was chosen. The roll was called and most all the brethren responded to their names. We certainly enjoyed a pleasant session, great interest being manifested for our beloved Zion in this quarter of the moral vineyard. Suffice it to say, that the good people of Burlington spared no pains in trying to make us pleasant for us during our stay with them. Rev. Moose B. Shepard preached to a crowded house at 7 o'clock, using for his text, "And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season: his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper."—Psalm 1, 3. After the sermon two souls came to the mourner's bench, and 3 joined connected themselves with the church. There was a discussion of some very important subjects. On the morning of the second day the several committees made their reports, which showed marks of improvement in this district. There was something said about the work of the ensuing General Conference, especially that of the election of more Bishops. We did not get the facts in detail, but we think the spirit of the North Carolina delegation is to go for five more Bishops. The finishing touch of the work of the district conference was a sermon by Rev. J. E. C. Barham, using as his text, John 3, 5.

Church News.

Rev. J. C. Ayler, of Princeton, (N. J) charge, reports a glorious revival in his work. A number of converts and all received.

Rev. C. T. Shaffer, of Union Church, this city, has been gathering a splendid harvest. Thirty-two new names added to the list of fellowship with the household of faith.

From Toledo, Ohio, and Kansas City, Mo., from far off St. Paul, Minn., and many other points come the good tidings of many souls accepting the offer of salvation and entering into the fellowship of believers. Even so, let thy kingdom come, O Lord.

Bro. J. H. Garner, New Richmond, Ohio, writes: With great pleasure and joy I inform you that we are having a great revival in New Richmond. Our meeting has been going on for six weeks. The number added to the church is 33, and still the good work goes on. With the out pouring of the Holy Spirit we are made to exclaim, surely the Lord of hosts is in this place.

Rev. S. A. Barber, Coal River, West Va., writes: When I came to this region, the colored people were worshiping with white preachers, had never heard a colored preacher before; and as for a colored Bishop, they had never heard or known of one in the world. I have now five points for preaching and twenty members. Elder Bonner has has been with me and we had a glorious time while he preached the word of life to the people in an old school house. I am the first colored preacher in this mountainous country, and am doing a good work. Pray for us. [We will. Go on, Brother Barber, and may the Lord abundantly bless thee.—ED]

Rev. G. H. Wada, Clinton, Iowa, writes: As is customary, we began our revival with a week of prayer. It being intensely cold, sometimes 33° and 36° below zero, we hardly thought of going longer than two weeks; but we continued seven weeks. Our church could not hold the people; standing room was sometimes hard to get. Doctors, lawyers and preachers all came and took hold. A German preacher said, in a speaking meeting, "The represents heaven as I never saw it before; here are Irish, Swedes, Americans, Africans and Germans; rich and poor, all worshiping God alike and no difference is made." Truly the Lord was with us, sixteen souls happily converted and joined our church. When we came here we found sixty-five members, now we have ninety odd and more to come. There are but six or seven sinners left and I should not have stopped till all were saved, but my health has failed me. Pray for the peace of Israel.

Rev. Robert Davis, Winchester, Va., writes: Winchester is the Gate City to the Shenandoah Valley. It is a healthy, sociable and quiet town of 5,000 inhabitants; situated on the V. B. of the B. & O. Railroad, thirty miles from Harper's Ferry, the place where John Brown died in defence of freedom. There are 15 churches here in this town. Six are colored. There are four different kinds of Baptist and two Methodist churches. The A. M. E. Church is a nice brick building 30x50. The foundation was commenced eighteen years ago, but somehow it was always a failure. When I arrived the idea of building a new African M. E. Church in this place was considered a thing of the past. I was told as soon as I arrived that it was no use to try; that I had come to do as the rest had done, get up a room of church building and get what money I could out of it and then leave. I would not back down. I went to several gentlemen and told them the condition of my church. As soon as they heard my story they told me what they knew about that church and how long it had been on hand, and said they could not lend money to that church; that it was a failure. I did not stop there, as I had made up my mind to build the church if it could be done. I went to the editor of the paper called the "Winchester Times," and he did not see how the church could be built. "Everybody has lost confidence in the thing; but," said he, "I will do all I can for you with my paper." And he did so, too. I went to the court house and on Sunday, had a grand rally and, to the surprise of all, I collected the sum of $80. With other small collections I had one hundred dollars in hand to start with. With this small sum of money we started out to build a brick church that had been on hand for several years, and one that nobody had faith in on account of it being struggle. Now we have, or rather, have as nice a church, when completed, as any in this place. The Virginia Annual Conference does well in be prond of Corning Station in Winchester, Virginia. We have 32 members and have raised $600 from May 7th, 1887, to February 7th, 1888. The Sunday school is in a flourishing condition. The first thing we did after our arrival was to purchase an organ for the Sabbath school. This has added much to the life of the church. The superintendent, Mr. J. T. Marker, is a very zealous worker and is loved by teachers and scholars. He is the best worker in the Sunday school and church I ever saw in my life, and is a religious man. Why is it that such men don't give their hearts to God? We have a grand literary society in our church, which meets every Wednesday evening. The main object of this is education. The attendance is large and the exercises very interesting. Miss Betsy Evans is the organist. My object is to bring our young people to a higher standard. Rev. Robert Grick, a local preacher in the M. E. Church, is the wealthiest and most prosperous man of color in the valley. He has a large livery stable with thirty-five horses and a grand outfit; he owns several lots, houses and farms. There are two factories here—one paper, the other a shuuac and bark mill. These mills employ about fifty men. Outside of this there is a very little for laborers to do. The principal dealing is done by colored men. There are two colored stores here. Mr. John T. Marker has a fine store and does quite a good business. There is also a company store here that promises to be a success. There are a great many of our people who own their homes. We have local option here on the high order. It works grandly. You hardly ever see a drunken man on our streets.

Obituary.

The sad news of the death of father Edward Gordon, leader and local preacher of Trinity A. M. E. Church, was announced in Edgefield, Saturday, February 11th inst. For fifty years this noble man and father has been a follower of Christ; and for 21 years a member of the A. M. E. Church. He has ever been prue, faithful and loyal to his Church. Our loss is his gain. "The Lord giveth and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord." His funeral was held by the pastor, Rev. Bedwell, Sunday, 12 inst., from 14th chapter 12th verse Revelations, "Him that overcometh I will make a pillar in the temple of my God."

Edgefield, S. C.

The Judge of a New York District Court, at a marriage ceremony which he recently performed, introduced a new form which will, it is prophesied, please the ladies. He asked the bride if she promised to obey her husband in all things "right and reasonable," to which she responded promptly, "I do." "May your last days on this earth be your happiest, and may you love and cherish each other always," was the parting benediction of the Judge, after pronouncing the couple husband and wife.

OUR CENTENNIAL RETURNS.

In the list of names and amounts given below, we aim to be exact. We wish every pastor to scan the report and see that it is correct, and that it corresponds with the amount mentioned in his receipt from us. We cannot give the names of officers and churches in every case. Because not one-half of them were sent in, and while the whole amount raised is less than half what we reasonably hoped for, we tender our heartiest thanks to the pastors and churches who generously raised the money sent us.

Marriages are on the decrease in England. This fact is brought out in the English Registrar General's report for 1886, just issued. The marriage rate in England and Wales last year was the lowest on the record, which began with the year 1838. The highest point was reached in 1853, when the number of persons married was at the rate of 17 9 per thousand of the population. In 1882 the ratio had dropped to 15 5, and since then there has been a continual decline, the rate last year being only 14 1. England does not stand alone in this respect. There has been a decline both in Scotland and Ireland. The average marriage rate in Scotland during the twenty years ending 1886 was 14 2 and in Ireland there had been a decrease in the corresponding period from 9 8 to 8 4. The great European nations, with the exception of Italy, also show the same tendency. The age at which people marry has been steadily rising—the age in England in 1886 being the high est yet recorded—namely, twenty-eight for men and twenty-five for women.

AN ANGEL IN THE HOME.

It is probable that one-half of the entire globe is composed of free or combined oxygen. This gas occurs in a state of freedom in the atmosphere of which it constitutes one-fifth part by volume. At every inspiration oxygen passes into the lungs, there meeting the blood in which it is dissolved and carried into every part of the animal frame. It is what supplies the heat to the system. As a remedial agent, in restoring impaired vitality, its value is universally conceded by all branches of the medical profession. Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1520 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., have found means by which this valuable and safe remedy for many of the ills from which humanity suffers can be supplied to patients at their homes. Compound Oxygen as prepared by them has already effected thousands of cures, as their testimonials, printed in a pamphlet sent to any address, free of postage, amply proves.

Seed that is warranted pure, fresh, and raised on his own farm, is what the veteran seed grower, James J. H. Gregory, of Marblehead Mass., offers the public, and his well-known integrity makes his warranty a valuable one. Send for his 1888 catalogue.

CATARRH CURED.

A clergyman, after years of suffering from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, and vainly trying every known remedy, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self addressed, stamped envelope to Prof. J. A. Lawrence, 313 East 9th St., New York, will receive the recipe free of charge.

Warner's Safe Cure!

The Most Wonderful Medicine of the Age.

We herewith give some nearby testimonials of the power of the greatest medicine in popular estimation ever put upon the world's market. Read them over. Millions more like them could be procured. The following are only samples with fac simile signatures. If you are ill, or any friend is suffering, use and recommend WARNER'S SAFE CURE:

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 14, 1887.
I have used half a dozen bottles of "Warner's SAFE Cure" and have been greatly benefited by it, and no other medicine can take its place.
James E. Allen.
Capitalist, 7th Street.

NEW HAVEN, Fayette Co., Pa., January 12, 1888.
About ten years ago I became afflicted with weakness of Kidneys. Tried strengthening plasters and other remedies, but obtained no relief. I commenced taking "Warner's SAFE Cure," and received immediate relief. Accordingly I made up my mind to take it regularly, which I have done for ten years and enjoy good health.

Passenger Conductor B. & O. R. R.

NEW HAVEN, Fayette Co., Pa., January 12, 1888.
I have been troubled somewhat with irregular urinary action through Kidney trouble. I have derived great relief through "Warner's SAFE Cure."
James Allen
Capitalist, 7th Street.

CONNELLSVILLE, Fayette Co., Pa., January 12, 1888.
I have been in the employ of the B. & O. R. R. for the past 18 years. Eight years ago, while working in one of the company's locomotives, I contracted a severe cold and the physician, Dr. Graham, informed me that it had settled on my kidneys, and a report to that effect was made, by him, to the B. & O. Employees' Relief Association. I suffered severely for 47 days with terrible pains in the back and kidneys, could not sleep at night, and was greatly depressed and almost wished for death as a relief. After being under the doctor's charge for the time mentioned, Dr. Graham recommended "Warner's SAFE Cure." After taking six bottles I was entirely relieved. Was benefited almost with the first bottle. Since then I have enjoyed the best of health. In fact feel better than I have for many years.
D. B. Boord
Chief Car Inspector B. & O. R. R. Co.

NEW HAVEN, Fayette Co., Pa., January 12, 1888.
I have been troubled for a number of years with stomach, liver and kidney troubles for about 10 years. Five years ago commenced using "Warner's SAFE Cure." After using two bottles my health commenced improving. Had several different physicians who did me no good. I was very thin, weighing only 110 pounds. I now weigh 147 and am enjoying excellent health and feel convinced that it is due to the use of "Warner's SAFE Cure," as I use no other medicine.
Mrs. E. J. Buttermore
Main Street bet. 6th and 7th.

CONNELLSVILLE, Fayette Co., Pa., January 13, 1888.
Twelve years ago I was run over by a locomotive, thereby losing my right arm. I was improperly treated and consequently have been subject to nervous attacks and suffering fits ever since. "Warner's SAFE Nervine always affords me great relief.
John N. Wilson
Painting Dept't B. & O. R. R. for 16 years.

Mrs. Annie Jenness Miller, Editress of Dress (253 Fifth Avenue, New York City), was cured of complete physical and nervous prostration, six years ago, by "Warner's SAFE Cure," which is the only medicine she says she ever takes. It cured the husband of blindness (caused by acid blood) when every physician consulted pronounced the case hopeless.
Annie Jenness Miller

BROTHER BRADWELL'S article will receive the endorsement of all men in so far as it is direct and clear. Inuendoes are as likely to hit nobody as to hit anybody. We have heard of but two annual conferences expressing their preferences for Bishops. It may be in bad taste, but might certainly be done in good spirit and righteousness. In 1864, when all elders who had traveled six full years composed the General Conference, one man went to the conference with votes for his election counted and made known to him, without his asking. It is true he was not elected; for some of the voters changed their mind. There are many sins that disqualify men from exercising any and all ministerial functions. Where shall we find the men whose pure arms can cast a stone that will not rebound to some spot on the sender?

EN ROUTE to Wilberforce, we met Dr. C. Asbury, at Pittsburgh, on his way to Evansville, Ind., where his aged father, Ambrose Asbury, was buried February 1st, aged over ninety years.

It was our pleasure at one time to be pastor of this faithful Christian, at Marietta, O. He was an earnest, modest Christian; zealous, prompt and wise with the wisdom that comes down from above. He had twelve children—eight sons and four daughters. The sons and two daughters survive him. Four of his sons have been ministers in the A. M. E. Church, all eloquent and well informed. Three are still in the active traveling connection: Rev. J. W. Asbury, in Kentucky, Rev. J. Asbury, of Virginia, and Rev. Dr. C. Asbury, of Pennsylvania.

Ambrose Asbury was a native of West Virginia. His father was not named Asbury. The name was derived from the following circumstances: At the time his father who had the same man for both master and father—reached the proper age for naming and baptizing, his father, having a white family, was visited by Bishop Francis Asbury. It was agreed that the slave son who was to be baptized by the Bishop should not receive the sacrament under the name of his master—father. After weighing the matter it was decided to make Asbury his surname. Thus, by name, leading African Methodist ministers are connected with the first Methodist Bishop ordained in America.

Father Asbury was a member of the African Methodist Church.

WE PUBLISH this week an article from Brother R. Seymour, evidently one of our original contributors. We are not inclined to discuss the subject with Brother Seymour, though he knows that all he says relative to theology in human hands can be well said of natural science in the same hands. He knows that theology is as pure as any science, and that nature as a source of truth is, to say the least, no purer than the source of theology. If we possess theology in an impure state it is no more argues the impurity of the original source of theology than the possession of geology in an impure state argues that the fountain or basis of the science is impure. If nature is our only pure source of truth, should we not discard not only popular theology, but popular Scriptures also? If nature is "our only pure source of truth," may we not be unduly exercised in placing our faith in God? Or does Elder Seymour consider nature and God synonymous? We direct the world to Christ with all the perspicuity and emphasis that we exercise in directing students to the study of the material world: in the one case to learn to do well, in the other to see "how the lilies grow" for practical purposes in aid of well-doing. We cannot doubt that our knowledge of theology may be faulty, but we know that our knowledge of all materiality is imperfect; so while we know "in part" concerning the divine, the same may be said of our knowledge of everything else. In looking out upon the prairies and streams, mountains and seas, Elder Seymour is as truly, if not so greatly, perplexed as when he scans the moral and religious pictures before him. We must insist that nature gives us much impure knowledge. She hardly begins to answer us satisfactorially. Is she "soiled by the hand of man," or is all human knowledge limited, finite, concerning all things?

WE VISITED Wilberforce University January 30–31st, en route we called at Pittsburgh and Allaghany, Pa., and Columbus, Ohio. Rev. John Coleman, B.D., is pastor at Columbus. The Lord is blessing his work with spiritual growth to the church, as well as additional members. Lively revival meetings were in progress. Elder Coleman is a man whose solid character and pious devotion to the truths he preaches must commend him to all who receive his services, while his thoughtful and earnest presentation of gospel truths must enlist men in the service of Christ. His works in the past are lasting works. He has now a good field. May the Lord bless him, his family and his good people abundantly.

At Wilberforce we found the great revival in progress, mentioned in these columns last week. To say that everybody there was interested would be no exaggeration. Many ex-Wilberforce students will rejoice to learn that among the converted are John Morris, Abram Jackson (son of the late Rev. H. A. Jackson), Joseph Smith, Henry Y. Arnett, Josephine Pipers, Earnest Clark and others. Altogether we saw some of the most wonderful revivals in our trip that it has ever been our privilege to see. On our return home we spent an evening with Rev. W. H. Colman, at Newark, O., and one with Rev. R. C. Ransom, at Altoona, Pa. Elder W. H. Coleman is the cheerful, happy pastor. He is in his third pastoral year at Newark. The book of original sermons promised by the elder will be forthcoming soon. At Newark we were greeted by a good, appreciative audience.

At Altoona Elder Ransom had called out a good number of people. He is accomplishing a good work. Vigilant, eloquent, studious and religious, he is enlightening the people by the power of the truth. Our call on him and Mrs. Ransom was very pleasant.

We were kindly entertained at Wilberforce by Rev. J. A. and Mrs. Clark. Upon the whole our visit was exceptionally pleasant. We stated in a former number that we were West in connection with business pertaining to the quarto-centennial of Wilberforce University under the control of African Methodists. The kindness of all the brethren and their families is highly appreciated.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

The South Carolina Conference began its sessions in Mt. Zion Church, Charleston, February 8th, Bishop Ward presiding, assisted by Bishops Wayman, Campbell and Ward. The Rev. S. Washington was elected chief secretary, choosing his assistants. This organization was very easy.

The address of Bishop Ward was noble and assuring. The religious services, by Bishops Wayman and Campbell, were touching.

The principal events of the conference were the reports, the anniversaries of the several conference sub-associations and the election of delegates to General Conference. Several brethren from the Columbia, North Georgia and Georgia Conferences visited this conference. Rev. A. Grant, of the Central Texas Conference, also spent several days at the conference.

Dr. W. J. Gaines represented the Church Financial Department; Dr. Johnson, the Educational Department; Drs. Lee and Tanner the Publication Department, and Rev. W. H. Heard, the Sunday School Department.

This is a large conference, numbering over one hundred and sixty members. Their Dollar Money and other finances were reported on the increase. There are some refined, cultured, strong men in the South Carolina Conference. It may be observed that Rev. L. R. Nichols leads the General Conference delegation. Rev. J. E. Hayne, B.D., has brought out his new book, entitled, "The Negro In Sacred History," which, judging from a slight scanning, is well worth the reading. It contains over one hundred pages and is neatly bound in cloth. We regard it as a valuable addition to our literature. Rev. M. B. Salter was changed from Marion to Morris Brown, Charleston, at this conference. The Rev. B. H. Williams revices, while his thoughtful and earnest presentation of gospel truths must enlist men in the service of Christ. His works in the past are lasting works. He has now a good field. May the Lord bless him, his family and his good people abundantly.

At Wilberforce we found the great revival in progress, mentioned in these columns last week. To say that everybody there was interested would be no exaggeration. Many ex-Wilberforce students will rejoice to learn that among the converted are John Morris, Abram Jackson (son of the late Rev. H. A. Jackson), Joseph Smith, Henry Y. Arnett, Josephine Pipers, Earnest Clark and others. Altogether we saw some of the most wonderful revivals in our trip that it has ever been our privilege to see. On our return home we spent an evening with Rev. W. H. Colman, at Newark, O., and one with Rev. R. C. Ransom, at Altoona, Pa. Elder W. H. Coleman is the cheerful, happy pastor. He is in his third pastoral year at Newark. The book of original sermons promised by the elder will be forthcoming soon. At Newark we were greeted by a good, appreciative audience.

At Altoona Elder Ransom had called out a good number of people. He is remain to tell the present generation of the pre-organic days of negro Methodism. Grand old gentlemen to whom the name of A. T. Carr is still precious; as it is to thousands in our Church.

The brethern of both South Carolina Conferences are making extra efforts to lift Allen University out of its indebtedness. Elders Wall, S. H. Jefferson, I. S. Lee, C. Pierce Nelson and President Morris were at the South Carolina Conference in the interest of their school. Allen has had a long struggle. It is to the interest of our connection to aid this work and establish it upon a living basis. The one thing to which that school, as well as others, should bend its strength, is theological work; for our Church suffers greatly from the want of a better educated ministry.

In Savannah, Ga., we were guest of Rev. S. H. Robertson, but also enjoyed briefly the hospitality of our old friend, Rev. M. R. Wilson, B.D., and his intelligent wife.

Elder Robertson is pastor of St. Phillips A. M. E. Church, of which we had often heard. February 14th, it was our privilege to preach in it to a large and interested audience. Brother Robertson has opened a series of meetings. He is almost constantly receiving additional members. For solid, common sense he is a rare man. St. Phillips is a nice church. Rev. Wilson's church, St. James, is a good size building and its present pastor is doing a very good work.

In Savannah we called on Col. Devaux, of the Tribune. The colonel and his associate were in good spirits. The Tribune is set up and printed by colored men. The office also has a liberal job patronage.

February 15th, the East Florida Conference opened at Palatka, Fla. This is a conference of about 120 members and probationers, presided over by Bishop Payne. There are some very thoughtful, strong ministers on its roll. Among its oldest members are Rev. W. W. Sampson, who, on account of sickness, was unable to be present; Revs. Long, Brown and Sawyer. Its younger members are marked by a dozen strong men. The secretary, Rev. S. H. Coleman, leads his General Conference delegation; other delegates are Revs. M. M. Moore, J. E. Lee, T. C. Denham and W. P. Ross. Elder Lee is a practising lawyer in Jacksonville, and is making a noble reputation. He is pastor of St. Paul's, Jacksonville. Elders Moore and Denham are presiding elders. Elder Ross has been for five years the leading spirit in our educational work in Florida. The Divinity School, a nice brick building, is a lasting monument to his patience, patronage and push. Its present president, Rev. J. H. Welch, is directing its affairs with a view to increasing its usefulness to its patrons.

The Rev. John R. Scott, B. D., former student of Wilberforce, has done good work as teacher in the Divinity School. Florida brethren should take care of that school and lift the idea of its progress and ultimate greatness far above the little differences that may exist among them, on whatever account.

True to his episcopal record, Bishop Payne has drilled these brethren in essay writing and trained them in critical scriptural studies. With age, his powers to analyze and impress the teachings of the Bible seem to increase. Several of the young brethren read good prize essays on the subject, "Missions—Home and Foreign." With Bishop Payne's conferences great stress is laid upon the literary society anniversary. The fees paid in amounted to between $100 and $150.

To us it was a rare pleasure to sit once more at the feet of our old instructor each morning while he unfolded the interesting truths of the book of Malachi. Would that this good man could give these morning readings to all our conferences. The Rev. W. W. Hicks, D.D., LL.D., visited this conference and made a remarkable speech, expressing the most sanguine hope of the "negro's case in equity," and in righteousness. Dr. Hicks will be remembered as the spiritual adviser of Gnitsan and the only man upon whom Wilberforce University has conferred the honorary degree of LL. D.

The doctor is thoroughly acquainted with the negro. His appeals to our feelings could not have been more skillfully directed by the most adroit of our own orators. He is a man of deep and strong feelings himself, and capable of arousing the deep feelings of his fellows. When such a man uses right methods he is no more forcible than when he uses wrong methods. Dr. Hicks doubtless meant right in his strong encouragement of the development of emotionality by colored people, but in seeming to discard intellectuality from the realm of religious life, he was giving us a very injurious lesson. There is not the least necessity nor excuse for degrading intellect in religion for feelings in religion in order to exalt either of them. Both are natural, both are right. The Book of God says comparatively little about either, but it certainly does not degrade nor speak lightly of intellect, or thought and reason. It is unnecessary to make discriminations that are useless—much less those that are harmful.

The Florida Conferences have a large field and a work to do that admits of no delay. With brave and pure hearts they can accomplish it. Revs. A. J. Kershaw and E. W. Johnson, of the Florida Conference, attended the East Florida Conference, representing their conference as trustees of the Divinity School.

Bishops Wayman and Turner assisted Bishop Payne. All seemed to associate in perfect harmony and helpfulness. The presence of Revs. S. H. Robertson, of the Georgia Conference; W. J. Gaines, of the North Georgia Conference, and A. Grant, of the Central Texas Conference, was apparently appreciated highly by the East Florida Conference.

A noticeable coincidence occurred in connection with the two "big brothers," Gaines and Grant. At the South Carolina Conference we heard the latter preach from the text, "Men ought always to pray and not faint;" at the East Florida Conference we heard the former preach from the same text. Each carried his audience and received several persons into church on probation after his sermon. Both are strong men to rally our great forces. Both appear to be good executors and organizers. Elder Grant is a native Floridian; when Bishop Turner spoke to the conference of the mighty work God is doing in the Southwest through the instrumentality of Elder Grant and our good Brother B. W. Roberts, the conference was exultant. Grant is a fair sized Central Texas Conference, himself; we have nothing more to say on the subject, Brother Roberts.

Personal.

—Mr. H. O. Tanner is casting a host of Bishop Payne.

—Bishop and Mrs. Campbell spent last Sunday in Trenton, N. J.

—Rev. D. P. Brown, of Evanston, Ill., is visiting his father in Washington, D. C.

—We spent a few minutes with Bishop Brown en route from Florida. He is improving slowly.

—Rev. L. M. Beckett, of Elmira, N. Y., was in Philadelphia on the occasion of his sister-in-law's funeral.

—Dr. J. C. Price, the talented president of Livingstone College, has been tendered the Liberian consulship. Hope he will not accept.

—Rev. J. B. Stansberry assisted Rev. F. F. Smith, Little Bethel, Camden, in his quarterly meeting last Sunday. Six persons joined the church.

—Rev. W. H. Heard has done a great work for the Charleston (S. C.) people, in bringing before them as lecturers such men as Derrick, Price and Douglass.

—The Rev. R. A. Johnson, of Cleveland, O., and his people, are enjoying a gracious outpouring from on high. Twenty conversions and thirty-five accessions.

—Three Wilberforce graduates teach in the Tuskeegee Normal and Industrial School—Misses L. L. Clark, B. A., and E. A. Gaines and Mr. J. L. Watkins, B. A.

—Dr. J. H. A. Johnson spent last Sunday in New York. He paid our office a brief call. The doctor will soon issue his series of articles, published in the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, in book form.

—Rev. J. S. Brown, of Morganton, N. C., has had a revival in which fifty two souls have been converted and sixty-eight added to the church. He prays for Bishop Campbell to be returned to preside over the North Carolina Conference.

Literature.

The most interesting frontispiece the Woman's World has yet had is the portrait of Christian Rossetti, which accompanies the March number. It is a capital reproduction in fac simile of a crayon drawing by her brother, Dante Gabriel Rossetti. A sympathetic criticism of Miss Rossetti's poems, by Amy Levy, is the occasion of the portrait.

Under the non-committal but very enggestive title of "Eighty-Nine," Cassell and Company will soon publish one of the most unique and curious of books. It is a story based on the possibilities of the present socio-political conditions, written from a standpoint so new and singular that it seems strange that it should not before have attracted attention and yet so full of probability that the reader is startled with the thought that what is therein described may at any moment occur. Unlike all other works of this character, the climax is not reached by an overwrought appeal to force, but by a quiet and simple evolution of social forces, the growth and character of which are set forth with a sort of thundering deceitfulness that half conceals the art which underlies the wierd forecast it rivets in the reader's consciousness. The author's name is given as Mr. Edgar Henry, a name previously unknown in literature and which would suggest the idea of a nom de plume were it not that the book contains incontrovertible evidence of being a first novel—though by no means a first work, as it is unquestionably written by a writer of great power and pronounced ability. It has a sort of intensity which, combined with the peculiar character of the subjects it discusses, makes it certain to attract wide attention and awaken sharp criticism.

OUR WOMAN'S COLUMN.

BY CATHARINE CASEY.

As it will not be long before our schools and colleges all over the land will be sending out into the world their finished products, in the shape of young people whose minds have been trained within their walls, a word to "our sweet girl graduate" about their commencement dresses may not be out of place. The truth of the old adage that "Beauty unadorned is adorned the most" is never more plainly felt than when we turn from a mass of frizzes, flounces and foolish fashions to rest our gaze upon one whose good sense, refined taste and modest simplicity have adorned her beyond the power of any gaudy furbelows. It is a noticeable fact at commencements that those who have the highest averages and the best essays are generally the most simply dressed. Nun's veiling, a soft and graceful material in all colors, and white material are very cool, and make as pretty a dress as any girl could wish. Indeed, it's just "the thing" now for young girls to graduate in dresses made by themselves, as an evidence of the fact that their hands have had a little training in important matters as well as their heads. But some one may say, "My parents can afford to buy me what I want," and so she comes to the front radiant "in silk attire." As a matter of taste, it would seem that the parlor and reception room were the places for such display; and if the taste of this person had been cultivated and refined by her educational training, as it ought to have been, I think she would agree with me. But our young girls must not bear the burden of being the only ones who are fond of making a fine appearance on public occasions. Many older ones are not without sin in this matter. But, in spite of our outward trappings, the truth remains that "It is the mind that makes the body rich, and as the sun breaks through the darkest clouds, so honor peereth in the meanest habit." Not what people appear to have, but what they are, commands the respect and admiration of those whose esteem is worth having. The Ledger, under the head of "A Lenten Study," says with its usual just criticism: "We heard a word of remonstrance, in yesterday's Ledger, about the dresses worn on graduating days, among the Normal School girls, 'pink stockings and satin slippers' being specially objected to. The school girls dress like brides or bridesmaids, and the mill girls, at Newark at least, wear quite costly headgear. Yet is not very much of fashionable society also engaged in 'aping something that it is not,' adopting English speech, epithets, customs, fashions, and scorning the proper and staid old American ways of doing things. Criticism must begin at home. Study of false conditions of life should be focussed upon any one set of circumstances, or occupations or positions. Many persons during the Lenten season wear black, or dress with the severest simplicity. It might be a good idea to consider how the almost universal extravagance of dress that is conspicuous among American women may be reduced to moderation. The very fashionable set or sets do not wear fine clothes on the streets or in public conveyances, it is true. They have their opportunities for it Example might permeate more quickly than precept if some of the Lenten leisure were given to remembering what are the sound and what the unsound ideals of life in this country."

The granddaughter of Henry Highland Garnett, a lovely and promising young girl, is at school in this city, being prepared to assist her mother, Mrs. Sarah Smith, in her Normal and Industrial School at Brewerville, West Coast of Africa. She is being thoroughly trained for her work, and we have high hopes of what she will accomplish if her life is spared to take her place at the head of that school and train the native women to become efficient teachers. I have long wanted to get my hand on some young girl that might be trained for this great work, and Providence has sent me Nellie Barbour. She was for five years with her mother in Africa, and, although young, knows something of the responsibilities of her future position. God grant that from the seed thus sown Africa may reap an hundred fold.

CRITICISMS.

BY REV. C. L. BRADWELL.

MR. EDITOR:—Please allow me space for a few thoughts. Surely the world does move. Now, Dr. J. H. A. Johnson's General Conference is over, the districts are all laid out the eight new Bishops selected, and everything is in readiness; make the assignments and let us move on under a new dispensation. Yet some brethren do not think the General Conference over, for they are going around having resolutions passed pledging whole delegations to vote first, last and all the time for them. We would like to know if anybody ever before heard of ungodly practices in the Christian Church? Were sure we are doing. What has God to do with the selecting of the man or men, when conferences pass resolutions instructing their delegations to support none other than the resolution on a certain man is consummated? This very fact, on shows conclusively the unfitness of the man.

I believe there is a law or rule in politics called the 'gag law,' which compels a delegate to vote and be guided by the wishes of the party, but this, I think, is the first instance in the history of the Church wherein this dangerous rule has ever been applied to Christian bodies. What will the world think of us coming with this or that delegation pledged to support unflinchingly this or that man? If God does rule the man can we not believe he will reveal it to us in time sufficient without human aid? Does it not show weakness on the part of those who pass such resolutions, and a greater weakness on the part of that poor deluded man in whose interest they are passed.

If I had concluded to vote for a certain brother, and should it come to my knowledge that he was the agent of such actions and resolutions, a reaction would set in and I would never, no, never deposit a vote for him. Judging from the delegates elected the amount of intelligence and common sense that will characterize our General Conference will warrant nothing but the best interests of the Church and the edification of God's kingdom upon earth as grasing their first, paramount and permanent actions, and not the flippant aspirations of ambitious men. Now, in the name of God and in the name of the purity of the fathers of the Church, let the General Conference keep her hands off of every man upon whose lips is guile. The dignity of the office demands men of higher character than those who would stoop to the tactics of ward politicians. What I have said I hope every delegate to the General Conference and every thinking man who has the Church at heart will read with though and care.

THE PITTSBURGH REVIVAL.

BY "HICKORY."

MR. EDITOR:—And still the great revival in Wylie A. M. E. Church continues. Over two hundred have professed the faith and quite a number yet remain at the altar. Friday evening, the 17th inst., was the occasion of the jubilee over the conversion of the second one hundred souls. The attendance was extremely large. All the available seating capacity and very nearly the entire aisles were crowded with standing, interested persons. The mellowing influence of the Holy Spirit seemed to pervade and characterize every effort of the evening, so much so that from the pulpit to the rear of the congregation individuals stood up with the greatest liberty and spoke for Christ, so that all the house was filled where we were sitting and expressions of joy over recent deliverance from sin. Spiritual experience and miraculous deliverance in old age were heard. An old gentleman eighty six years of age, who had just the week before found Christ, arose, giving a wonderful experience. Prof. J. C. Dorsey, who but lately from the fountain, being acquainted with the former wicked life of the old gentleman, involuntarily exclaimed, "Lord, send the power!" which sent a thrill of animation throughout the congregation, bringing on the spontaneous burst of amen and praise the Lord. The pastor requested to be sung as a closing piece, "I believe that Jesus saves." During the singing of the chorus a young man, quite intelligent looking, sprang to his feet, exclaiming, "I believe that Jesus saves me," which caused another general outburst of rejoicing throughout the congregation, thus closing one of the grandest gospel jubilee meetings your correspondent ever had the favor and privilege of witnessing in all the years of his experience. One of the fathers of the church, stepping up to me during the fervor of the moment, gleefully stated, "Wylie will regain her lost standard. Yes, she will retake her lost territory and establish herself as the church among churches." We have one hundred and eighty odd that have joined the church; but look, we are filing our own and other churches, too, with converts; let the good work go on, they can but point back to this church as the home of their birth, the Jerusalem of their joy. One feature of the revival at work we very much appreciate is the musical part. Nearly all the hymns sung during its progress have been selections from Moody and Sankey, though while many we have thought our people could not profess religion during the singing of such music aside from their own peculiarly written songs But strangely, it is the fact now in Wylie, yea we acknowledge that we have never heard the selections sung before with such great interest and power as they are now. Several evenings ago a stranger attended the church, and after the discussion he came forward to know of the pastor what hymn books they were using, as the singing was so beautiful and powerful. "Why, Moody and Sankey." "Well, pastor, I never heard them sung before with such power and beauty." The fact is, by practice, having a through knowledge of over one hundred of them, understands the art of introducing and singing to awaken an interest in the cause of Christ. Another important development we noticed in the present pastor of this church: he is so very successful in his conversations to those who visit his study for more light. Seekers invariably find Christ after they have had the fortune to converse with him, as he holds up the light so brightly that it seems they cannot escape the truth. The writer only wishes he had that gift, that whomsoever he might approach would live nearer to Christ than they were ever before; yet we know it is wrong to covet the gifts or graces of anyone, therefore we regard Brother D. S. Bentley as being certainly an evangelist in the truest sense of the term, an orator and a preacher apparently sent from God to do the work of an evangelist. He has a great fort in God's word from which he can deliberate freely, and present the points of interest of any doctrine necessary to be heard on any occasion. In a word, he is not afraid to and forth the gospel truth in all its simplicity and power, and to shake and arouse from center to circumference the sluggard's heart.

EDGEFIELD CIRCUIT AND WARD'S MISSION.

BY REV. N. W. EDWARDS.

This being my third year as pastor of this flock, you will allow me to speak for them and myself.

Two years ago, when I came to this town as pastor of the Edgefield Circuit, I found Methodism at ebb-tide. The church in town had split the year before, 1885, and the rebellious faction was adhering to what is known as the "Independent A. M. E Church," under leadership of one Rev. Wm. E. Johnston, expelled minister from A. M. E. Church, South Carolina. The church had no title for its property, no parsonage and no doors to the church, although we have been been organized here seventeen or eighteen years. The membership numbered one hundred, according to the pieces of books then found. Moore's Church, seven miles in the country, was in a worse state, for there we had no church, or equal to none, for it was an old building seventy-five years old. At Cochran's we had thirty members and a log church. Having built a church at Moore's and Cochran's, and having procured titles for all of the property and somewhat repaired the church in town, at the last sitting of our conference, at New Berry, S. C., Moore's and Cochran's were detached from Trinity Church and made the Moore's Circuit. Johnson and Trenton Missions were detached from the Leesville Circuit and attached to Trinity, which made up the Edgefield Circuit. Each of my churches or points is in town seven miles apart. My work is a triangle.

Johnson is a beautiful town on the C. C. & R Railroad, seven miles northeast of Trenton. My church at this point is about 30x20 feet, built to what it is four years ago by Rev. J. W. C Mintz Membership ten; indebtedness $60, and no title to the property No doors, windows, or seats in or to the church.

Trenton is a nice little town seven miles southeast of Edgefield, on the C. C. & A Railroad Here we have a church 20x18; membership six, indebtedness $25 The church is not finished; no title, no seats, doors or windows. This church was built by one of our local preachers in 1883, who has since joined the Baptist Church because he could not get his local deacons ordination in our conference; they, the Baptists, offering him his orders and a church Besides the above, there is a mortgage over the tract of land of which we (our church) is buying two acres. Trinity, Edgefield. This church is at the county seat. Edgefield is an inland town at present; a fine, healthy and growing town. We expect to have two roads through here by May, 1888: the Augusta, Edgefield & Newberry and the C. C & C. Railroad We started a parsonage here last year on the lot bought for that purpose in 1886. It is now near completion. We expect to quarter the presiding elder in the same on his first round, March 23d. We raised $30 for said cause Friday night, 17th inst

Wood's Mission. Here we have no church. Several of our ministers have tried here, but failed. Tried? Well, they went. This is a nice little town four miles east of Johnson's, on the C. C. & A Railroad. It was last unsupplied at the last conference, in fact, for the two last conferences. I sent Brother Myer W. Welton, local deacon of Edgefield Circuit, down to look it up and bring the news. He found four members, a bush arbor and a C. M. E. Church one mile out of town unsupplied, who wanted to join the A. M. E. Church. I wrote Mr. Clinton Ward (white) to sell us an acre of land in "words," and received the following reply:

REVS N. W. EDWARDS AND M. W. WELTON—

GENTLEMEN: Whenever you will lay down the timber and commence building a church here I will give you a lot. Respt's,

CLINTON WARD."

Now, dear brethren, we appeal to you in God's name, in the name of the Church, in behalf of the fathers who sleep quietly in their graves, but whose work goes on, to send us some help. We ask from Bishop down. Mr. Editor, please give us a blank form of title deed. Any amount, brethren and friends, from twenty-five cents up. You shall have credit through this paper for it. You shall hear from us again (D.V)

A PARSONAGE BURNED.

GREENWOOD, S. C.,
February, 17, 1888.

MR. EDITOR: Please allow me to inform you and the many readers of the RECORDER of the sad misfortune that befell me here. Last Saturday night, the 11th ult, about 12 o'clock, some fiend in human guise applied the incendiary torch to the parsonage and all its contents were consumed. We had about five minutes in which to make our escape. Everything we had was destroyed—lose between six and seven hundred dollars Any donations from my friends will be thankfully received and highly appreciated. My congregation gave me quite a surprise last night toward replacing what was lost; in fact they have been giving us clothing, money and provisions every day since the misfortune. The white citizens of the town have also contributed very liberally.

Yours in Christ,

T. F. HARPER.

PUBLISHER'S NOTICE.

To all who know themselves indebted to the Book Concern this notice is kindly sent with our greeting:

WHEREAS Our term of service as Manager is near closing, and whereas it is our duty, as well as our desire, to settle up all the business of our term in a just and satisfactory manner, so that our successor may be untrammeled by unadjusted claims, either for or against the Concern.

We therefore notify all persons who have contracted bills with us that full settlement must be made in cash or note, acceptably endorsed, before the 10 h of April proximo. As our quadrennial report will be closed on the 15th of that month our friends can readily see the urgency of this request.

First, To all who owe us, a bill of account will be sent before the 10th of March.

Second, When no response shall have been made to our bill, on the 1st of April such bill will be put in the hands of a collector with power to press the claim to settlement.

Third, Those who may not be able to pay up in full, may pay part of their bill and settle the balance by note (properly endorsed) or by "due bill," payable in one or two months. We will furnish in all cases the notes and bills to be signed or endorsed.

Fourth, All who may have open accounts against us for merchandise or anything (excepting notes and bonds) will please put in their statement by April 1st, that we may adjust and settle them by cash or note promptly. With hearty thanks to all who have given us patronage, and with Christian love and friendship to all, we remain, etc. J. C. EMBRY.

"STAMMERING"
AND ALL DEFECTS OF SPEECH PERMANENTLY CURED.

I first met Mr. E. S. Johnston seven years ago. He was then such a stammerer it was painfully unpleasant to converse with him. Since that time he has succeeded in working a marvelous cure, not only upon himself so that he now talks with great ease and fluency, but also upon many others, who were wrecked stammerers. In the interests of all such sufferers I cordially commend Mr. Johnston as a gentleman whom I believe to be worthy of confidence. John S. Rande, Pastor Arch Street Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA
COMPOUND EXTRACT
TRADE MARK
plaint, catarrh, rheumatism, etc. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself. Hood's Sarsaparilla sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

The contemptible action of a Western man in stealing half a dollar from the eye of a corpse seems likely to have a bright side after all. The Detroit Tribune says that policemen who find the thief are sold for the benefit of the widow.

According to a dispatch to the New York World from Pittsburg, Dr Arthur Debassiet, "a Frenchman by birth, and President of the Trans-Continental Aerial Navagation Company," has contracted for the construction of a number of mammoth air ships. Each of these ships will be 654 feet long, 144 feet in diameter, cone-shaped, of steel, and will cost $150 000.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.
THE WORLD-FAMED LIVER, BLOOD AND LUNG REMEDY.
WHAT AILS YOU?
[COPYRIGHT, 1887.]

ARE YOU SICK?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally: experience a sense of fullness or swelling after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, sudden heats, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity? If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from the most complicated of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in, and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

BILIOUS ATTACK. DAVID G. LOWE, Esq., of St. Agathe, Manitoba, Canada, says: "Being troubled with a terrible bilious attack, fluttering of the heart, poor rest at night, etc., I commenced the use of Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and derived the very highest benefit therefrom."

LIVER DISEASE. Mrs. L. Y. WEBBER, of Yorkshire, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., writes: "For years previous to taking 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' I was a great sufferer; had a severe pain in my side continually, and was unable to do my own work. I am now well and strong."

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and bodily vigor will be established.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY cures all humors, from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Virulent blood-poisons are, by its use, robbed of their terrors. Especially has it proved its efficacy in curing Salt-Rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, White Swellings, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

SALT-RHEUM AND RHEUMATISM. "COLLINSVILLE, ONTO, AUG. 13th, 1887. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.: Gentlemen—I have used your medicines, and it is to be my duty to give to you the facts in relation to the complete cure of one of the most aggravated case of salt-rheum, by the use of your Golden Medical Discovery. An elderly lady relative of mine had had a bad sufferer from salt-rheum for upwards of forty years. The disease was most distressing in her hands, causing the skin to crack open on the inside of the fingers at the joints and between the fingers. She was obliged to protect the raw places by means of adhesive plaster, salves, ointments and bandages, and during the winter months she have to keep them dressed daily. The pain was quite severe at times and her general health was badly affected, saving the way for other diseases to creep in. Catarrh and rheumatism caused a great deal of suffering in addition to the salt-rheum. She had used, faithfully, many of the most commendable perseverance, all the remedies prescribed by her physicians, but without obtaining relief. She afterwards began treating herself by drinking tea made from blood-purifying roots and herbs. She continued this for several years but derived no benefit. Finally, about ten years ago, I chanced to get hold of one of Dr. Pierce's small pamphlet setting forth the merits of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and other medicines. The name struck my fancy, and seeing that it was essentially a blood-purifier, I immediately recommended it to the old lady who had been so long a sufferer from salt-rheum. She commenced taking it at once, and took one bottle, but seemed to be no better. However, I realized that it would take time for any medicine to effect a change for the better, and encouraged her to continue. She then purchased a half-a-dozen bottles, and before these had all been used she began to notice an improvement. After taking about a dozen bottles she was entirely cured. Her hands were perfectly well and as smooth and healthy as a child's. Her general health was also greatly improved; the rheumatism entirely left her, and the catarrh was almost cured, so that it ceased to be much annoyance. She has enjoyed excellent health from that day to this, and has had no return of either salt-rheum or rheumatism. The 'Discovery' seems to have entirely eradicated the salt-rheum from her system. She is now over eighty years old, and very healthy for one of such extreme age.

I have written this letter, of which you can make any use you see fit, hoping that some sufferer from salt-rheum might chance to read it and obtain relief by using your 'Golden Medical Discovery' —for 'Golden' it is in its curative properties, and as much above the multitude of nostrums and so-called 'patent medicines,' so deservedly flaunted before the public as gold is above the baser metals. Respectfully yours, F. W. WHEELER, 324 St."

CONSUMPTION, WEAK LUNGS, SPITTING OF BLOOD.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and Kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. While it promptly cures the severest coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood.

CONSUMPTION. SOLOMON BUTTS, of North Clayton, Miami Co., Ohio, writes: "I have not the words to express my gratitude for one good your 'Golden Medical Discovery' has done my wife. She was taken with consumption, and after trying one doctor after another I finally gave up all hope of relief. Being very poor and having but one dollar in the world, I prayed to God that He might show me something; and then it seems as though something did tell me to get your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' My wife took it as directed, and as a result she is as well as ever now."

GAINED 25 POUNDS. Wasting Disease.—WATSON F. CLARKE, Esq., of Box 100, Summerside, Prince Edward Island, Canada, writes: "When I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I was not able to work and was a burden to myself. At that time I weighed 125 pounds, and a day I weigh 147 pounds. Then I used to eat about one meal a day, and now can eat four or five if I dared to."

COUGH OF FIVE YEARS' STANDING. Mrs. N. W. RICE, of Newfane, Vermont, says: "I feel at liberty to acknowledge the benefit I received from two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' which cured a cough of five years' standing, and dyspepsia, from which I had suffered for a long time. I have also used Dr. Pierce's Extract of Smart-Weed, or Water Pepper, in my family, with good effect."

WORTH $1000 A BOTTLE. W. R. DAVIS, Esq., of Belleville, Florida, writes: "I have taken your wonderful 'Golden Medical Discovery' and have been cured of consumption. I am now sound and well, and have only spent three dollars, and I would not take three thousand dollars and be put back where I was."

Discovery $1.00, Six Bottles for $5.00; by Druggists.

Consumption Surely Cured.

To the Editors:—

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy free to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address.

Respectfully,

LESSON HELPS FOR 1888.

The Sunday School Union of the A. M. E. Church is prepared to furnish the best series of Lesson Helps that can be obtained. We have received testimonials from scores of the most prominent Sunday school workers endorsing and emphasizing the high quality of our periodicals. Our aim is to do the very best we can to meet the demands of our Sunday schools. A full list of our periodicals and their prices, will be found on another page of this paper. As we are the only authorized publishers of lesson helps for A. M. E. Sunday schools, we expect to receive that patronage which respect for law and denominational interests demand. Samples and price lists sent free on application Address,

REV. C. S. SMITH,
Nashville Tenn.

NOTICE.

All communications intended for the Sunday School Union of the A. M. E. Church that are addressed to Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tennessee, will be received. It is not necessary to give the name of the street nor the number of our business place. Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tenn., is sufficient. Telegrams addressed the same way will reach us. We are fully settled in our new headquarters and prepared for business.

C. S. SMITH, Secretary.

To the Pastors and Superintendents of our Churches and Sunday Schools:

Dear Brethren—Our programme for Easter, "Missionary Day," are ready. We desire to supply every church free of charge. Please send it once for the number you need. Let us begin in time.

Address,
J. M. TOWNSEND,
516 South Ninth St., Richmond, Ind

To the ministers, members and friends of the New Jersey Conference: This is to inform you that Brother R. H. Coleman's wife was stricken with paralysis while at Church, Feb. 5th, and while concious has not spoken since. Brother Coleman is compelled to be at home with her and is in great need. Now, brethren, do not stop to ask the where-fores, but rally to his aid with actual cash sympathy. Send what you can now and note when you get it. Send direct to him. Rev. R. H. Coleman, Yorktown, N. J. I will see that you get credit for it. Yours, J. H Morgan. Presiding Elder 6th District, N. J. Conference

To the Members of the Baltimore Conference of the A. M. E. Church:

Dear Brethren—Your conference will meet on Wednesday, April 11th, and not on Thursday, 12 h, as is found in the list of conferences in the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. A. W. WAYMAN.
New Orleans, La.

A Bolted Door

May keep out tramps and burglars, but not Asthma, Bronchitis, Colds, Coughs, and Croup. The best protection against these unwelcome intruders is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. With a bottle of this far-famed preparation at hand, Throat and Lung Troubles may be checked and serious Disease averted.

Thomas G. Edwards, M. D., Blanco, Texas, certifies: "Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there are none, within the range of my experience and observation, so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."

John Meyer, Florence, W. Va., says: "I have used all your medicines, and keep them constantly in my house. I think Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life some years ago."

D. M. Bryant, M. D., Chicopee Falls, Mass., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has proved remarkably good in croup, ordinary colds, and whooping cough; and is invaluable as a family medicine."

LESSON HELPS IN FOUR GRADES.

THE TEACHER'S QUARTERLY. A thirty-six page pamphlet devoted to lesson helps for teachers and older scholars. It is twice enhanced by the introduction of appropriate forms for opening and closing exercises, hymns and tunes, maps, dictionary of proper names, etc.

THE SCHOLAR'S QUARTERLY. Similar to the above, but with such necessary changes as adapt it to the wants of scholars in the male school. It is marvelously cheap. Five or more copies to one address, per year, 7 cents each.

THE JUVENILE QUARTERLY PAPER is a four page weekly, designed for younger scholars who have outgrown the infant class, but who retain their fondness for picture and pleasing stories. 300 pages for a dime!

THE GEM LESSON PAPER is a beautiful lesson sheet, four pages handsomely illustrated and printed on pink paper; for primary or infant scholars. Each number contains besides the lesson, a page or more of "baby-land" talk. After 6 cents a year, when 10 or more copies are sent to one address

THE CHRISTIAN RECORDER, now beginning its eighth volume with a larger issue than ever before, offers superior attractions for the coming year. With additional help and force, and a list of regular contributors skilled in the style of writing required for the home and no pains will be spared to put this publication abreast with the foremost of its class.

EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Warranted Seed. I have founded my business on the belief that the public are anxious to get their seed direct from the grower. Raising a large proportion of my seeds makes me sure of their purity, as see my Vegetable and Flower Seed Catalogue for 1888, FREE to everyone and daughter of Adam. It is liberally illustrated with engravings taken directly from photographs of vegetables grown on my seed farms. Besides an immense list of seeds of standard merit, I offer valuable new vegetables not found in any other catalogue, as Gregory's Mammoth Squash, Gregory's Early Onion, Hubbard Squash, Deacon Colman, Perry Corn, and a score or more valuable vegetables. I invite the patronage of the public.

LIFE.

A life that is not worth living,
A boat that's no taller nor wider
Than is love is not worth giving—
Is life all the life we know?

Have the skies and the palm and the willow
Made us blind to all save our love,
That we fall of the hope for to-morrow,
That stream from the radiant eyes?

No; there's a life for outreaching,
Beyond the bounds of our sphere—
There's a voice that is still beseeching
"Come to me, weary ones, do not fear."

There is hope for every condition,
There is joy for those who mourn,
There is peace for a heart of contrition,
And its burdens are lightly borne.

For the burden of sin has been lifted,
By Him who died on the tree,
That our joy may be full as we sing it be blended,
The nigh the life of a unity.

—W. A. C.

A CUP OF COLD WATER.

The Lord of the harvest walked forth one day,
Where the fields were white with the ripening hay

Who were those He had sent in the early morn,
Were reaping the grain in the noon-day heat,
He had chosen a few for each field that one,
And bidden them work till the day was done.

Apart from the others, with troubled voice,
Spoke one who had gathered no golden grain:
"The Master has given us work to do,
And my coming hither has been in vain;
The reapers with plenteous grain will come,
But no sheaves will be mine to the harvest home."

He heard the complaint, and He called her name:
"Dear child, why standest thou idle here?
Go! lift up from the hill the nearest sheaf,
And bring it those who are toiling near;
I will bless thy labor, and it shall be Kept in remembrance as done for me."

'Twas a little service but grateful hearts
Thanked God for the water so cool and clear
And some who were faint with thirst and heat
Went forth with new strength to the work so sweet

And many a weary soul looked up,
Revived and cheered by the little cup.

Dear Lord, I have looked with an envious heart
On the sheaves others were gaining for golden grain;
I have thought in Thy work I had no part,
And mourned that my life was all spent in vain;
But now Thou hast opened my eyes to see
That Thou hast some little work for me.

If only this labor of love be mine—
To gladden the heart of some toiling saint;
To whisper some words that will cheer the weak;
To comfort the sorrowful, mingle with faint—
Though small be the service, I will not grieve,
Content just a cup of cold water to give.

And when the Lord of the harvest shall come,
And the laborers home from the field shall call
He will not look for my gathered sheaves;
But His loving words to me then will fall:
"Thou gavest a cup of cold water to Me,
A heavenly home thy reward shall be."

ARTICLE THIRD

MR. EDITOR:—In my last article upon the above subject, I discussed at some length the financial ability of the African M. E Church, in keeping with the labors of Dr. J. H. A. Johnson. I was fully cognisant that "Bishops" and "finance" had heretofore received considerable attention at other and abler hands, hence our argument was not made by establishing a financial system—in opposition to the present one—but to demonstrate beyond successful contradiction that the well-constructed, deeply thought out, analytical conclusions—which have been christened "Johnsonism"—are neither fanciful nor Utopian, but can be carried out with comparative ease, giving the Church greater facilities to continue its work of Christianizing, civilizing and evangelizing the world. It is true these topics seem to monopolize all others They only do so, however, in the same sense that the tariff, civil service, illiteracy and other measures in the national Government. Therefore, as long as we need a Church and are required to elect officials to fill important stations, discussion and action must continue. Therefore no delegation can afford, in justice to the Church, to wait for their information or to depend upon the measures that may arise during the daily sittings of that learned and influential body, the General Conference, composed of our ablest, most thoroughly trained tacticians and legislators. In such a body, amid the whirl incident to the presentation of measures, the force of argument and oratory, little time is given for sober deliberate thought Action, action is depicted in the countenances of each delegate, and those unequal to the task will be most wofully found wanting so far as legislation is concerned.

Hence, if we would accomplish much for the Church, we are to follow the example of our nation's leaders, in so far as preparing revisions, new measures, etc., for general action, ready to be presented to the proper committees, etc that when we are sleeping in the dust, coming generations may see our wisdom displayed in giving shape and efficiency to the Church—"our fathers' Church.

Aside from other methods of information, it is to the organ of the Church we are looking for a full discussion of every phase of legislation necessary to give potency to African Methodism. In keeping with this idea, Dr. Johnson's papers come as an electric flame, flashing in upon, and dispelling darkness which had gathered, so illuminating the "episcopacy" that he has prepared both clerical and lay delegates to do their duty at the ensuing General Conference. A united brotherhood East, West, North and South are anstinted in showering praise upon such a fearless thinker and writer. Notwithstanding force of argument and clearness of statement, one brother, who had evidently flown the track, wanted to know, "How many Bishops does Dr Johnson want? First, he wanted eight; next, more Bishops; then again more Bishops, and in his twentieth article still more Bishops; of course we don't want all them Bishops," said he.

The intention of each paper is so clear that it requires no philosopher to see the design of the Church to action, to continue at her head the ablest and most influential men found in her ranks; in fact, it ought never to be possible for any but the most learned and thoroughly Christian to reach the office of Bishop in any branch of Methodism. No one acquainted with the vast amount of work done and required of our episcopal force but what realises its inadequacy to the present and constantly increasing demands of the Church For instance: our Bishops are called for almost everywhere; many are solicited to be in at least a dozen places at the same time; calls for dedication of churches, conventions, addresses, lectures, articles for magazines and periodicals, marriages and baptisms, the holding of three, four and sometimes five annual conferences with their weighty responsibilities and manifold complications, in which, to make time, they are forced to race from conference to conference with little or no time to consider either man or measures; letters racing after them piled mountain high, with hardly time to examine, much less answer. It is no wonder some of them when trying to sleep see fish golden line. It is a wonder they hold out so well.

We failed to notice that these men who stand at the head of the Church ought to have some time to adjust personal business and spend some moments around their fireside. How can they do it unless the Church provide an episcopal force equal to our great and growing necessities? To this account our beloved Bishop Ward, though possessing the knowledge that his affectionate companion was prostrate and life was slowly ebbing away, instead of being privileged to send at her bedside catching the last look of devotion or the whisper of affection, or encourage that loving form ere she stepped amid Jordan's cold and swelling stream, man of God as he is, away, yes, far away from home, with wife dying, one thousand miles away down in Southland at the call of duty he was trying to soothe the orphan's cry and dry the widow's tears

Let us increase the force that our chief pastors may live to bless the Church with their ripe scholarship and abundant experience It is greatly to the credit of the A. M. E. Church that she has so much Bishop timber that no forty articles could contain special mention, but it ought to be emphasized that the men to be voted to and elected to the high and responsible office of Bishop in the A. M. E. Church should be representative preachers, should be Methodists in the highest and truest sense; their learning should be broad, deep and varied, not pedantic or that that putteth up, but enthroned and thoroughly sanctified by the Holy Ghost they should be known to pass as or striving to possess more and more of the mind of the Lord Jesus. Men abundant in sympathy with their brethren, full of brotherly kindness, possessing a thorough knowledge of doctrines, customs, usages and precedents of Methodism, free from impracticable and dangerous innovations and whose elevation will give African Methodism efficiency and power.

Let it be echoed from the placid waters of the Atlantic to the boisterous and white-capped waves of the Pacific; from the Great Lakes on the North to the Gulf Stream on the South, that the African M. E. Church wants to elect none who canvass for the position, pack or attempt to pack delegations. Such a person or persons ought not to be considered in the field, such a course being the clearest proof of unfitness to be Bishop, though he be a philosophical as Aristotle, or as eloquent as Demosthenes. Let no sectional lines be drawn, but fitness be the test, whether found in the North, East, South or West. In this only can the name of the Lord be glorified and his Church advanced.

EPISCOPAL RESIDENCES.

The location of our episcopal residences, as suggested by Dr. Johnson, is a question of considerable import. They should not be too near or remote, but located where they could be capable of effecting the greatest good for the Church. Said residences should be provided by the connection and recognized as connectional property throughout its jurisdiction or bounds. By so doing, at the end of each quadrennium, when episcopal changes take place, the Bishops could occupy said residences without detriment to themselves or inconvenience to the Church. Such an arrangement would give the Bishops greater opportunity to overlook the whole Church and to touch each other at such points as to be brought together in council, with comparative ease, there by avoiding miles of direct and expensive travel Such meetings, striking great centres, would give extra facilities for the adjustment of many serious humiliating difficulties and give greater opportunities for the consideration of wise and timely measures, which, under the present arrangement, cannot be done. Aside from these considerations the episcopal residence, distributed throughout the connectional bounds, would give the Church greater prestige, command the highest respect and attention of these centres and permeate society in the greatest degree. The episcopal residence of Bishop Payne at Xenia, (though personal property) is felt throughout the great State of Ohio and known wherever our Methodism has gone as the house of a sage in learning, moral and spiritual power Bishop Campbell, at Philadelphia; Brown and Ward, at Washington; Wayman, at Baltimore, and Turner, at Atlanta, all go to demonstrate the wisdom of our conclusions.

WORK AND INFLUENCE OF OUR EPISCOPACY.

Dr. Johnson makes no mistake when he says the episcopacy of the African M. E. Church has a work to perform in connection, hence, to constitute the A. M. E Church with a certain branch of Methodism is the very acme of absurdity, which no one acquainted with the past history of either could think of doing It is true, however, the object aimed at is identical, but an entire different state of things confront us. We have a greater distance to travel, requiring many, (yes, many) years of self-sacrificing, hard, laborous work to bring this people out of the wilderness of illiteracy, superstition, prejudice, etc., to the waving forests of the promised land We has only to look over the vast field to behold the thousands totally unacquainted with our episcopal form of Church government, the fact being obvious to the dullest mind that the stability and perpetuity of the Church (ours or any other) is not guaranteed by the ingathering of heterogeneous masses; but, like a nation, its stability and perpetuity depend upon the industrial, intellectual, moral and spiritual development of its membership. Therefore, if we would have a strong, healthy, progressive Church, one of whose efficiency we can boast, we must bring clergy and laity into closer relations with its cultured and experienced episcopal heads, who, in turn, must in be themselves felt personally in the rank and file of the clergy, into our homes and communities, into all educational and charitable institutions so far as compatible with strength and opportunity To do this the supply must be equal to the demand; no assistant or set of assistants should be left to perform this work.

The illiteracy of the masses, associated with the elements which find their way into and become an integral part of our general national life, is the conundrum which our most astute statesmen cannot decipher, and unless this vast host is imbued with the spirit of our institutions, their obligations to foster and maintain as a nation, down we go; and what is true of a nation is true of a church in this particular, at least.

Dr. Johnson's work will not be done until his papers appear in pamphlet or book form, with such revisions as this age and state of the Church demand, and a copy put into the hands of the entire force of the African M. E. Church—clerical and lay; that those of us who have experienced so much pleasure and received so much that is new and timely upon the episcopacy may send it down to coming generations. I conclude these observations with some measures likely to be presented to our next General Conference:

1. A fixture of the time limit. This topic is of the utmost importance. While the law regulates and fixes the maximum limit of a pastor's stay in a charge, it has been found necessary, in several instances, for the good of the church, to re-appoint five and even six years. This only verifies the well-known fact that emergencies arise that even the most experienced law-makers cannot foresee. Just such necessities may continue, therefore the General Conference will be called upon to make suitable amendments.

2. Extension of the jurisdiction of the episcopal Bishops over all ministers and other connectional preachers' aid society. In review ing the past and present ministry, seeing the many, very many men, some of whom at one time exceedingly popular, whose lives were consecrated to the Master, we see them stricken down in youth and old age too often without any means of support, in some cases nothing to provide respectable burial or transportation to home or friends, the question propounds itself, Ought we not make provision for our fallen comrades and those who must inevitably fall? Let the General Conference make the Preachers' Aid Society one throughout the connection and help our colleagues in the work of the Master

3 The equipment and operation of be Church Extension Society. The many mortgaged churches destroyed by fire, and fields where a few hundred dollars would be of immense value in spreading African Methodism the strongest argument for the thorough equipment and operation of this department. Let it be done and the column be placed in all our conference tables.

4. The organic union with the B. M. E Church settled. A great man once said, "You say peace when there is no peace." Notwithstanding it is claimed that the union is an accomplished fact and working admirably, there are Bishops and ministers armed with documents repudiating the entire proceedings Let the General Conference act wisely and stamp its yea or no, that the Church may know how to act.

5 The presiding eldership one thing throughout the A. M E Church There has evidently been a misinterpretation of the will of the General Conference concerning this office. In different sections of the Church the old ownership presiding elder system prevails, while in another section the will of the General Conference prevails de facto. Adjust this.

6 Trustees elected for all of our educational institutions Notwithstanding the law requires trustees to be annually elected for Wilberforce, it seems, if the other schools are connectional property a similar control ought to be exercised and much more good accomplished Trustees could visit colleges and schools in their sections and come to an annual meeting better prepared to legislate for the schools of learning throughout the Church.

7 A thorough and comprehensive Discipline From actual occurrences the present Book of Discipline does not in some cases contain the action of the General Conference. For the past two or three years it has required Bishops, General Officers and even the revisers to explain to conferences what the General Conference really did do Let the law be so plain and such care exercised in its preparation that no apologists will be needed.

And now, Mr. Editor, accept, for indulgence, many thanks. May the great Head of the Church raise up more such thinkers and writers as Dr. Jas. H. A Johnson May his years be many to scatter light and truth East, West, North and South; let us take his warning and when he has served this grand old Methodism of the Church militant, may he peacefully, joyfully and full of glory, like the sainted Elijah, step aboard the chariot drawn by the swiftest steeds of the New Jerusalem, and as he sweeps heavenward in this car of flaming grandeur, passing the portals may his mantle of piety, love, consecration and holiness fall on

THE BRITISH M. E. CHURCH AND EQUITY.

BY REV. W. H. CARSON.

MR. EDITOR:—For the last two years the columns of the RECORDER have been filled with articles from the brethren about the election of more Bishops and the needs of the Church, etc. I have been looking at each RECORDER to see what would come next And at last it comes from the pen of Rev. C. S. Smith, January 6, 1888, as a contestant of the Bishop and delegates of the British M. E. Church to seats in the coming General Conference. I don't see his point in this, except it is this: That the senior Bishop presides the first day of our conference, and he, Dr. Smith, proposes to get in his work on that day, as it is generally supposed that Bishop Payne will appoint the committees of the churches at that time and is now, and would rule in Dr. Smith's favor. But let me ask: Who are the delegates to the General Conference? Under the rule of the last General Conference, each delegate that comes must present his credentials properly signed by the presiding Bishop and secretary of his annual conference, and they passed upon before any one can be declared a delegate. This will naturally bring Bishop Disney's delegation equal with ours, and the only way to declare their seats vacant will come altogether under another rule.

It is time the General Conference of 1880 sent a commission to confer with the British M. E. Church General Conference, September, in Toronto, Canada, which met, Dr. Hunter preparing the articles of agreement, which were accepted. There were three that opposed them, i. e., Revs. Miller, Hawkins and Josiah Henderson. I thought then, as I do now, that the agreement was very strong. To my mind it was a big fish swallowing a little fish—head and tail—and the commission will remember I told them so at the same time.

The agreement: The British M. E. Church shall accept of the name and discipline of the A. M E Church, and give up their seal, etc. Their Bishop shall take the junior place on the Bench of Bishops. This agreement shall be submitted to all the annual conferences in both Churches for their approval, and then to the General Conference for its confirmation, which was done in 1884. The General Conference accepted the agreement of the commission and then ratified the same.

THE NEEDS OF THE CHURCH.

BY REV. J. H. CONNER.

Revival, says Mr. Webster, means to renew, i. e., a religious awakening, and that is just what the Church needs; for in many places love-feasts, class-meetings and prayer-meetings are heard of no more, and it is impossible almost to tell an African Methodist episcopal Church or congregation from other denominations and the people hardly know what Church they belong to. In other places we have Sunday schools, and in a good many cases as when the A. M. E. Sunday schools are they use literature published by other denominations and at the same time try to make African Methodists of their children. If they want to be children of the A. M. E. they should give it A. M. E. literature: Now let us stop talking so much about more Bishops and go to work for revivals in the Church.

The presiding elders need to be revived, the Church needs to be revived, the Sunday school needs to be revived. A great part of the main work is left behind and the preachers and presiding elders are talking about eight more Bishops when four can do the work. Now, if the General Conference elects them, what will we pay them in? The Church needs a general, thorough revival so it can go to work and build churches, work up mission fields, help to circulate the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, raise money to aid our educational departments, i. e., schools to prepare young ministers to battle with ignorance. If half the talk about more Bishops had been spent in collecting money to pay those we have and in revivals, the wicked would tremble and men would he crying far and near, men and brethren, what shall we do to be saved? We need more able presiding elders to extend the Church—men who know how to hold quarterly conferences, and if no one can be found to keep the proceedings of the meeting, keep them himself; men who can go where pastors fail and build up the Church; men who can preach with power and stir the people up; men who can build churches and get up revivals and know how to represent and explain the Church everywhere.

If the Church had as many good men as it needs, it would shake the foundations of hell and tear down the kingdom of darkness. Men who will help the pastor to explain, spread the Church; who will not talk behind the preachers back to the Bishop and members any more than he will say before the preacher We need more good Christian-hearted ministers for pastors—men who know how to get on with the people and bring them up to the Church law and teach it to them These are the men whom we need; also men who are educated and know how to preach and what to preach, how to get up revivals and convert men and bring people from far and near into the church—men able to preach with power—men who are able to hold quarterly conference when the presiding elder cannot get there—men who will help to circulate African Methodist literature in every home, and also are able and willing to collect the conference claims and presiding elders' assessments—men who can plan and build churches and pay for them. I have heard preachers say that they did not believe in revivals. I don't believe a man ought to be allowed to preach in our Church unless he believes in revivals. We need more members. I have seen men go to places and live hard and build churches, also take a large body of members in the church, and as soon as that hard-working Christian man gets the work in shape another man goes there, turns them all out, tears up the church and fails to add a single member to the church. He will leave the church dead. We need more good men for pastors.

WHAT WE ARE DOING AND WHAT WE SHALL DO.

BY REV. H. H. KING.

We thought to have nothing to say about the General Conference until we got there, should it please God to spare our life, but we feel, that our conscience are going to be on hand, who seem to know the wants and needs of the Church to perfection and take delight in braoding every brother who does not agree with them as narrow-minded, stogy Christians, who will never get to heaven without repentance for disagreeing with so wise conselors, we shall consider our chance slim.

This subject of Bishops has been so thoroughly discussed this we shall have nothing to say on that point. Rev. R. F. Hurley voices our sentiments. Our whole Church seems to be on the high road to success, but there are very many places in the great Southwest where the Church is not known, and the reason is, our home missionary department is so poorly provided for that men cannot be found to take up the barren waste and break the head of life to these multitudes of suffering humanity. There are a plenty of ministers who go in the jungles of Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana to work, preach, pray and almost starve, and in their worn garments come to the annual conference and report $50 support, salery, travelling expenses and all told. Then there are many of the veterans of our Church who fostered and fanned the spirit of African Methodism into a flame, now old and decrepit, and some of our preachers are such close financiers that they turn out every member who cannot pay their dues, when these same members, out of their penury, have year after year, paid their Dollar Money and all other Church assessments. It is bottom mockery to ask what has been collected for the preacher, church and poor until we have some law that heare directly on that point. We had better leave the poor off. The laity of the Church must be looked after, for many of them are growing tired of the situation of affairs, and even now the ministers in many places are taxed to satisfy the demand of public sentiment on certain things relating to the Church. If our finances can be placed on such a firm basis as to support retired Bishops, better take a few hundred dollars and give to the widows and orphans of preachers who died in the harness and were retired by God. Better look after these old mothers and fathers in the Church, who opened their doors and took the Church in its infancy, nursed it until it could stand alone while hitching up and arranging for the machinery of our great Church; better look to the oil-cans or we may hear a squeak in the running gear and have no oil. We want some of our counselors to tell us how to increase the Church numerically, how to succeed in giving to our people the greatest hope by connecting with the greatest body We want to make the Church a heaven here below and the worship of God a pleasure instead of a burden. It is time to quit singing, "You may have all the world, give me Jesue."

THE WORK AT BLACKSBURG, VA., AND THE CAUSE OF CHRISTS AND MISSIONS.

BY REV. G. W. NICHOLSON, B. D.

Great is the encouregement that comes to the laborer in the Master's cause when, after a term of years of hardship and privation, in sowing the precious seeds of gospel truth, to experience at the close the outpouring of the Holy Spirit in converting power. Such has been our experience in these cheered-less mountains; isolated in many respects from those environments which give inspiration and encouragement, we have plodded on, hearing the blessed gospel of "salvation and life," waiting patiently for the harvest; and at a time when we leest expected, the Holy Ghost descended upon a humble home in the valley, where we went through much difficulty, succeeded by divine aid in perfecting an organization under the banner of the A. M. E. Church last spring. Here a small company of believers were assembled for worship each and-deuly the Holy Spirit descended upon them, and after accomplishing wonders in convertiog many of the most obdurate sinners—banjo-pickers, card-players and horse jockeys—this fire continued to burn its way, and, leaping over the mountains, has brought many of the youth of Blackeburg,—young men and maidens!—to the saving knowledge of our Lord. Subtle opponents and heresies have endeavored to impede the cause by denying the efficacy of the Holy Ghost, and would fain attribute this miracle of grace to water, and its evidences to fanciful dreams and travels, and thereby have misled some who were not sound in the faith; but ont of some fifty or more conversions thirty-two have been brought into the fold of the A. M. E. Church. We visited our mission work last Sunday, and what a noticeable change was here presented Men who formerly took no pleasure save in revelry and Sabbath breaking, were found clothed in their right minds," worshiping, apparently with the deepest emotions, Jesus their Saviour; and in that lonely school-house, cornered in the extremity of a deep valley, we had a season of such a heart consuming time by the presence of the Holy One of Israel being in the midst of us.

In closing this short sketch, permit me to add, by way of parenthesis, that the band of the connection is exceedingly too cold in its dealings with our local mission work in the State of Virginia, especially in sections in the Southwest, where our churches are few and far between, as is also the case in other conferences similarly circumstanced. We are not competent to compete with the formidable rivalry of other and more dominant churches, growing out of the fact that the ministers of our conferences are sent ont, in many instances, with scarcely one coat, to work up a society field among an illiberal people; and how can we blame these worthy preachers and God know what their sufferings are. Other well organized churches, as a whole, do not put the burden of support of their ministers entirely upon a people, when it is found that they cannot provide for them a living support It should be remembered that the circuits and missions of the connection make up a very large per cent of the four hundred thousand members of which we so often boast, and some home missionary enterprise should be put on foot by the ensning General Conference by which to foster and encourage indigent circuits and missions. While we are so zealous for the welfare of benighted (?) Africa, we ought not to forget that charity properly should begin at home.

THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS.

BY REV. DANIEL K KNIGHT.

MR. EDITOR:—I will offer some thoughts on a passage of Scripture for the examination and criticism of your many readers. It is the parable, "The rich man and Lazarus," and may be found in Luke xvi, 19, to the end of the chapter.

As this was a parable and not a narration of events that had transpired literally, so this name of Lazarus, although significant, may be regarded as a fictitious name.

We find but one person in all the Scriptures named Lazarus, and that was he whom Jesus raised from the dead. That was, undoubtedly, a representative case and his resurrection from the dead designed to be emblematical. Hence his name, which implies "he whom God helps," is significant. It was meet that he whom Jesus raised from death to life should hear his name While one of the characters in our parable bears such an expressive name, the other one is rich and lull and needs nothing of God or of men; and as such characters are numerous and common, no name need be given. We need only to be told that "there was a certain rich man," etc.

I understand the Saviour here to be presenting to the Jews a picture of themselves as Abraham's literal seed and heirs to the literal provisions of the Abrahamic covenant. If they did not exactly possess the kingdom of their father David, they were in the zenith of their glory religiously, and it was their pride and boast. They were as rich as they wished to be. In all that might be implied in a clothing of people and the men they would be disposed to appropriate it as theirs by exclusive rights.

The rich man is impeled within an enclosure, and, although there is a gateway through it, the poor beggar is outside, and though crumbs may fall to him, he cannot pass that gate to the rich man's table. Here are the Jews in all their zeal and pride and legal works on the one hand and those publicans and sinners and all others who were debarred by the provisions of the Jewish covenant from the sanctuary on the other They are laid at the rich man's gate. We are told how long they have been there, nor how they came there They have no table of their own, and they are unable to go to it if they had one, or, indeed, to go anywhere else and horse dogs—this fire continued to burn its way, and, leaping over the mountains, has brought many of the youth of Blackeburg,—young men and maidens!—to the saving knowledge of our Lord. Subtle opponents and heresies have endeavored to impede the cause by denying the efficacy of the Holy Ghost, and would fain attribute this miracle of grace to water, and its evidences to fanciful dreams and travels, and thereby have misled some who were not sound in the faith; but ont of some fifty or more conversions thirty-two have been brought into the fold of the A. As to the five brethren mentioned, what I have said goes to show that in galists do not consist of Jews only, but that there is a family of them The numbers five and seven are frequently used in the Scriptures in a kind of general or indefinite sense, simply meaning a great number. Those who are of the faith of faithful Abraham know that sinners are not brought to the knowledge and love of truth by one raised from the dead.

EAST FLORIDA CONFERENCE, brethren: Do not allow weeks to pass before you send Dr. Embry your addresses. Presiding elders and others please stir the brethren up.

SOUTH CAROLINA Conference, brethren: Do not allow weeks to pass before you send Dr Embry your addresses. Presiding elders and others please stir the brethren up.

BISHOP WAYMAN, at the request of presiding elders, has deferred the day of opening the Baltimore Conference to April 18th, instead of date previously given. See Conference calendar.

OUR EASTER COLLECTION comes early this year; hence preparation must be rapid and strong. There are only a few weeks between now and the first Sunday in April. Make ready, is the order of Dr. Townsend.

ANYONE knowing who are the Nova Scotia delegates elected to General Conference, we shall be glad to insert them in the list; as the list forwarded by Bishop Disney was misplaced. Since writing the above, the duplicate list has been received.

THE LONG standing difficulty between the United States and Canada relative to fishing in the waters dividing the two countries has been settled by the commission appointed by the two countries, awaiting only the confirmation of the respective governments.

THE ARTICLE from Brother Carson is published in abridged form. We notice that the Southern Recorder publishes it in full, with explanations that are reasonable, but with remarks relative to the regard that churches should pay to decisions of civil courts that are not nearly so reasonable. "Bosh" is an easily uttered word.

OUR DEPARTMENT has just completed the Columbia Conference minutes, the largest, and, we believe, the neatest book of annual conference minutes gotten out in our Church. The composition of the tables alone, at regular rates, was worth $54. It is nice work, brethren; turn your minutes over to our Publication Department. Try us.

THERE IS to be a grand union concert given in Association Hall, Philadelphia, March 30, under the auspices of the Morris Brown Mission and Allen Chapel. The people of Philadelphia and vicinity always expect to help Elder Coppin fill halls when he calls; Brother Temple will be satisfied if Association Hall is filled for Brother Coppin, as the entire proceeds go to Morris Brown.

WE PUBLISH this week the last article of Rev. W. G. Alexander endorsing "More Bishops." In the article published last preceding this we committed an error, omitting the words, $20,000 per annum for church extension. According to Brother Alexander, Dr. Johnson "has prepared both clerical and lay delegates to do their duty at the ensuing General Conference." This is comforting news for the Church.

WHAT A pleasure to ride all the way from Philadelphia to Jacksonville and return, a gentleman; so one questioning it; at least until we were about to leave Washington en route for home, when a lady(?) remarked, "Jnet to think, two big niggers just in front of me; each occupying a whole seat. Just look at 'em," speaking to a person on the platform. She left the train at Baltimore. If she had never left it the seats would not have grown too large for us.

THE REV. W. H. DAVIS, pastor at Darby, Pa., has been abundantly successful in this year's work. His churches seem to love him and God blesses his work. Already between forty and fifty persons have been converted. Elder Davis' management of revivel meetings might be imitated with advantage by hundreds of our churches. He has the happy knowledge of the true secret between the two extremes in our Church relative to the emotional and the intellectual developments in religion, and how to use them together.

THE PHILADELPHIA TIMES was at the pains the other day to "hoot" at the probability of color prejudice entering into the verdict and judgment by which Samuel Johnson was declared guilty of murder in the first degree. The "hoot" may be well directed, but a regular practicing white physician in Pennsylvania said, after the original verdict at Media, that he was not strongly in favor of capital punishment, but that in respect to such a case as Johnson, he did not know that he would interfere about pardon, whether or not he was guilty. At least one man, prejudiced either against Johnson's class, whether regulated by color condition does not appear, regarded his life unworthy of saving, though no cause for death existed. There are many of this wretched class, like that physician.

THE FOLLOWING card shows the widespread influence the RECORDER exerts and the extent of territory it traverses. An inquiry about a lost brother from North Carolina brings the welcome answer from Illinois. It must be remembered that no charge is made for these notices, and that we only accommodate actual subscribers. Thus, if an inquiry is desired to be inserted by a non-subscriber, it must be accompanied by the cash for a yearly subscription to the RECORDER. By this means the paper obtains a still wider and more useful circulation and the subscriber not only gets his paper for a year, but also gets an advertisement, worth at least five or six dollars, as a premium:

HICKORY, N. C., February 28, 1888.

REV. J. C. EMBRY:

DEAR SIR:—I drop you a card to let you know that I have found my brother by the advertisement in your paper, with many thanks to you for it. A lady in Kansas wrote to him in Chicago of the notice.

Yours,
ALFRED HAWKINS.

RECENT observations at conferences lead us to make the remark that annual conferences can scarcely be too careful in exercising the function of legislators. While they may doubtless pass certain laws relating to their own actions while in session as a conference, and the development of certain trusts and responsibilities, self-assumed, in their field, they certainly should not pass any resolutions establishing laws or rules of action with sanctions conflicting with constitutional or statutory laws of the Church. What right has a conference to resolve that any brother failing to report a given amount of money for contingent funds or educational purposes shall be left without an appointment? Any and all such actions on the part of conferences tend to create dissatisfaction and general trouble. No conference can enforce such rule without laying itself liable to censure by the General Conference. Arbitrary regulation of men in any government should be the very last resort.

THE ARTICLE of Rev. G. W. Nicholson, as well as that of Rev. H. H. King, expresses some very serious thoughts—thoughts that should awaken in the Church grave feelings. Put with many other thoughts, it makes it questionable whether, while we are attempting to rescue Hayti from the hand of Catholicism and a little part of Africa from the grasp of heathenism; while we are theorising about the character and the number of Bishops to be elected; while we are exercising ourselves about the union consummated between our Church and the B. M. E. Church and the speculative union between our Church and the A. M. E. Z. Church—we say it is questionable whether, ie all war of words and large arrangements, we are progressing as we should do, at home and on the ground occupied for nearly a century.

Our home mission work is not as systematically supported as it might be. The missionary percentage is not used as fully and wisely as it might be used. The most of our home missionaries must toil a whole year on very indefinite grounds as to support. Sometimes, after they have done a heroic and consecrated year's work, they come to conference to receive but $2.50 or $5 00 There is too much liberty taken in some cases in the disbursement of the moneys that should go to missionaries. There could be $10,000 more distributed among our home missionaries than is done, our home missionary system being properly respected.

OUR GOOD FRIEND, Dr. Albert, of the Southwestern Christian Advocate, in an editorial referring to the improbability of union between the A. M. E. and A. M. E. Z. Churches, attributes the cause largely to the fact that the union would lessen the number of officers by one-half. That is, he thinks as others have thought, that the anxiety to be Bishops keeps able ministers on either side from pushing the subject to its utmost standing. But if he takes the pains to inquire he will find quite as large a ratio of elders as of Bishops in favor of the union. The fact is, there are many graver questions than the Southwestern mentions, in the way of union. The greatest of all is that the masses on either side have probably thought very little about it. The second is like unto it; the two Churches are unprepared for union in the very particulars and principles upon which unions could be effected. Shou'd they ever really want union, for Christ's sake and the good of mankind, the matter of name, episcopal quality, excellence of quality and similar minor facts will occupy them but for a moment.

There are many on both sides who do not see that the union, effected now, would give to the peoples included nearly the advantage that many others think must, of necessity, follow. We are, as the two race varieties in the M. E. Church in this country seem to think of their cases, doing more good separated than we would united. There is really much less reason in the M. E. and M. E. South remaining separate than is our doing so. Their failure encourages us to fail. Let them unite; we should likely follow. Or, Brother Albert, let the M. E and and A. M. E. unite.

WE HAVE received a copy of "Morgan's History of the New Jersey Conference of the A. M. E. Church," cloth bound. The work is on fair paper and in large type, containing 254 pages. The author merits the thanks of the present generation, as he will doubtless have of succeeding generations, for the pains and expense to which he has gone to publish this work, containing biographical sketches, records of the establishment of the respective societies included, pastoral succession, tables of places and times, Bishops and secretaries of conference; valuable reports, and so forth. The introduction is by Dr. B. T. Tanner. There are some humiliating facts in the body of the book, but the author gives them to the world as he found them. Instance: When the conference was fourteen years old it reported but 163 more members than at the time of its organization. In its first year it came to have lost 220 members, and from '77 to '78, 234 members; from '84 to '86, it gained 2 members. To those who have noticed the recklessness characterising some ministers relative to some of the facts entering into conference reports, this is not strange; to those who have seen how reports of members have been contracted to make the ratio of Dollar Money collected seem large, this is not strange.

There is many a bit of precious history in this book; especially to those who are more or less intimately connected with the Church in New Jersey.

We could wish the author had been more careful in reference to the English construction, the orthography and the spelling of facts, but, withal he has done what every one is glad to see accomplished. His work is well worth its price, $1.25. Adress Rev. J. H. Morgan, Salem, N. J.

BETWEEN Savannah and Jacksonville, February 22nd, we met the President's special train on its way to Florida. In the morning we had left Jacksonville all alive with anticipations of a visit from the nation's Chief Executive. The pine, the palmetto, the myrtle and the laurel, the orange plant, flower and fruit, moss and bunting had challenged art and skill to arrange them in conning devices and significant expressions; festoons and arches, mottoes and welcomes were woven out of them. Bay street fairly spoke, like a living thing, the warmth of Florida's heart; yet the whole was the utterance, the expression of Florida. How different from Pennsylvania's demonstrations. Everything in the former case is soft, easy and submissive. In the latter there is a peculiar vigor and energy in every arrangement and movement that look stable and progressive. It is the difference of sand and granite; of winter orange blossoms and winter ice harvesting. Both are beautiful. To the President and Mrs. Cleveland the visit seemed to have been most agreeable. Our train was anticipating meeting the President's train from the time we left Jacksonville till we came up to it near "Jessups," where we went off on a "siding" to allow the Executive's train to pass. Many stepped off into the sands to wave handkerchiefs, newspapers and hats. The President, on the rear platform, acknowledged the salutations with uncovered head and very slight nod. Mrs. Cleveland sat at a window, giving us a fair, a full view of her; yet some passengers, who had probably never noticed any one of the thousands of pictures of the lady of the White House, said, after the train had passed, "I'd a liked to 'a seen her; 'd good 'eal rather seen her 'n him." Evidently the President's visit to the South has helped his cause. The "Hail to the Chief," "Jacksonville rejoices to day," "Welcome to our Sunny South," arching the streets of Jacksonville were doubtless outgushes of true and simple appreciation and were as simply and purely appreciated by the President.

THE CASE of Rev. W. H. Heard before the Inter State Commission has been settled about as was that of Prof. W. H. Council, on the Commission's declaring that for the same price all travelers shall have like conveniences, comforts and protection. This says nothing against the outrage of being thrust into a given car because of the mere fact of color, but stipulates that said railroad companies may compel colored persons to ride in separate cars. It does not require great wisdom to observe that this is, ie itself, a bar to equal accommodations. A colored and a white man may be glad to travel together in one car for business sake; they may be glad to do so for friendship sake; they may be glad to do so on other grounds. Two men on any commission of Church or State may be inclined to ride together. But, whatever the claim, this gracious committee says if railroads choose to say they shall not do so, the federal law is satisfied. Superficial observers who favor this decision or are indifferent to it, say, "Well, it restricts against white persons as much as against black persons," but this is not so.

Every white man knows that, as a matter of fact, the law does not mean to keep him from the colored man's presence. Every colored man knows this also; hence feels himself degraded by the government that he is bound to respect and defend. Admitting that this is a big step from the smoking cars, it is also a big step from the proper position. It gives us some ground on which to speak back to the white man, but we want to be relieved from the embarrassment of fighting for legal and national rights.

In Florida, where half of a given car on each train is allotted to colored passengers, we observed a colored woman assert her rights and force six white men out of that precious apartment. They demurred, but she was uncompromising and told them they should get out, saying, "If I get in your car you soon put me out; now you've got to get out of here." It was in vain that one of them replied, "Madame, I have no objection to your sitting in my car; you can sit in my parlor if you like." She continued to belabor them till the conductor came through, then told him, "These men must go out of here." They went out.

Limited rights are better than no rights, but we demand all rights accorded to other travelers, and we expect to get them.

IT IS EVIDENT to all who have studied the subject that we must no longer measure our work for any quadrennium by our enthusiasm. Our educational status is as plain a warning on this subject as we could ask. In enthusiasm we could establish dozens of schools, but the perpetuation of schools depends upon continuous effort, harmony and cash. Faith and enthusiasm have their place, but patronage must be counted in.

Our educational department is not properly arranged. We have not arranged it so as to enable the Secretary to reap such results as all would like to see flowing from the work of the department. The multiplication of schools goes on and the weakness of the going follows. The great opportunity offered to our Church to foster and strengthen the State educational movements in the South seems scarcely to be seen; yet in it is our opportunity to acquire a master hold of the children of our race variety. Our ministry, by attending to the election of school officers and school teachers; noticing the individual and social character of persons appointed to teach and securing the strength of our societies, districts or conferences in educating capable and loyal African Methodist persons as teachers, see greatly enhance education among colored people, and at the same time supply many districts with competent African Methodist teachers. Besides this, we can do much toward exteeding terms of schooling by contributing to school funds in places where they are only three or four months. Our local churches can aid industrial schools like the one located in Montgomery, Ala., in such way as to accomplish great good. Each of our conferences could easily establish a common school—more easily than all can establish a university. Think for a moment of a school under the auspices of one conference or district, conducted, if possible, under the school system of its locality, as respects order and drawing moneys from the public funds, where practicable, but having fully nine months guaranteed, teaching the English branches and also maintaining an industrial annex; the teacher being selected by the conference. There are hundreds of communities that would be glad of such arrangements.

Two or three good theological schools should be maintained and our conferences should force our young men into them as fast as possible, by supporting them in part; rarely fully. Instead of giving to the Church from one to six trained ministers annually, our schools should give it from twenty to fifty.

PUBLISHER'S NOTICE.

To all who know themselves indebted to the Book Concern this notice is kindly sent with our greeting:

WHEREAS Our term of service as Manager is near closing, and whereas it is our duty, as well as our desire, to settle up all the business of our term in a just and satisfactory manner, so that our successor may be unhampered by unadjusted claims, either for or against the Concern.

We therefore notify all persons who have contracted bills with us that full settlement must be made in cash or note, acceptably endorsed, before the 10 h of April proximo. As our quadrennial report will be closed on the 15th of that month ecer friends can readily see the urgency of this request.

First, To all who owe us, a bill of account will be sent before the 10th of March.

Second, When no response shall have been made to our bill, on the 1st of April such bill will be put in the hands of a collector with power to press the claim to settlement.

Third, Those who may not be able to pay up in full, may pay part of their bill and settle the balance by note (properly endorsed) or by one bill, payable in one or two months. We will furnish in all cases the notes and bills to be signed or endorsed.

Fourth, All who may have open accounts against us for merchandize or anything (excepting notes and bonds) will please put in their statement by April 1st, that we may adjust and settle them by cash or note promptly. With hearty thanks to all who have given us patronage, and with Christian love and friendship to all, we remain, etc.

MARCH MAGAZINES.

THE CENTURY.

The recent negotiations of the city of Chicago for the purchase of the old Libby Prison brings Captain Frank E. Moran's Century article, on the escape of Col. Rose and his brave comrades through a tunnel constructed with almost the empty hands, into especial prominence.

The Lincoln history in the March number relates the stirring "call to arms" that awoke a people who had almost forgotten war, when secession began to crystalize at Fort Sumpter.

In poetry, engravings, history, humor, etc., the March Century is calculated to give back large returns for investment of time and money. The editorials and open letters are rich and edifying.

ST. NICHOLAS.

The March number opens with a beautiful engraving as frontispiece, "Babie Stuart," by T. Johnson. Our readers will be interested in the general make-up of this magazine. Those who have read St. Nicholas know that its excellence is uniform. Those who have not done so will find their families better trained by buying the March number at once, and all subsequent numbers as they appear.

THE METHODIST REVIEW.

We call the especial attention of our ministry, and reading laity as well, to the following papers in the Review: "Time Limit to the Pastorate," "The M. E. Church in the South," and "The Atonement."

Personal.

—Bishop Wayman is at home.

—Dr. Tanner spent last Sunday in New York.

—Mrs. M. B. Wilson is a good newspaper writer.

—Mrs Bishop Wayman has been sick three or four weeks.

—Rev. D. Ridout, of the Baltimore Coeference, has been paralyzed.

—We are pleased to inform the Church that Bishop Brown still improves.

—Read Bishop Campbell's strong appeal in behalf of Easter Day work for missions.

—Prof D. W. Parvis, leader of Bethel choir, will sing at Association Hall March 30th.

—Bishop Ward's rallying notes in this number have a clear ring. He does nothing by halves.

—Rev. B. H. Williams, of the South Carolina Conference, drives a stylish horse named Bishop Allen.

—The Rev. J. J. Sawyer, one of the pioneers of our work in Florida, is able still to do something at stenography.

—Rev. R. F. Wayman, of the Baltimore Conference, has been seriously afflicted with rheumatism. He is improving.

—Rev. W. J Johnson, B D, besides paying off the debt on the Walnut Hills (O) Church, has been blest with a revival.

—Miss Mary A. Crawford, the Philadelphia elocutionist, will give readings in Association Hall, Philadelphia, March 30th.

—It is said that the Hon. J. M Langston is thoroughly in the race in Virginia for the National Coegress. We trust he may win.

—The Rev. C. A. Mills, of Morristown, N J., has been blest with an extensive revival. Elder Mills' work is usually even, bet strong and righteous.

—The Rev. A H. Mevs and Mrs. Mevs, of San Domingo, are guests of Dr. Toweesend, in Richmond, Indiana. Elder Mevs will remain on the Continent.

—Rev. M. E Bryant says if Dr. C S. Smith should be made Bishop, the Rev. B. M. Cheeks, B. D., would be a good man to make Secretary of the Sunday School Union.

—Rev. C. S Smith has purchased for the Sunday School Union a four-story brick building, with store front and basement, located near the centre of the business portion of Nashville, Tenn.

—The Hon Frederick Douglass was honored with a birthday reception by the Bethel Literary Association in Metropolitan A. M. E. Church, Washington, D. C., 28th ult., it being his seventy first birthday. It is well. Too great honors cannot be done men like Mr. Douglass, whose single correct acts cover his hundred faults. Our race variety—indeed, the American people—have by far too short time in which to acknowledge his services.

NOTICE BY THE MANAGER.

We again call the attention of the pastors and presiding elders to the form of Warranty Deed we have prepared and published for general use in the purchase of church properties. The form is simple, and plain as plain can be, yet it is believed to cover every point in the law. It was drawn by an old experienced attorney, with our Discipline before him. Price, 25 cents per copy, or 5 for $1.00.

OUR WOMAN'S COLUMN.

BY CATHARINE CASEY.

The memorial meeting to the glory of God and the memory of Mrs. Lydia C. Wears and Mrs Katie S. Beckett was held at Allen Chapel, Sabbath evening, 4th inst. The church was crowded and many had to stand in the aisles. The occasion was one long to be remembered. The contemplation of the example of these lives was full of profit and abiding consolation to the bereaved families, to the churches and the societies in which they had so faithfully and so ceaselessly labored. Nor were the names of Mrs. Mossell, Mrs. Maria Shorter and Mrs. Julia Knight forgotten on this interesting occasion. The devoted and self-sacrificing labor of Mrs Mossell in the Island of Hayti was spoken of with deep feeling How true it is that one touch of sorrow makes the whole world kin, for the appearance of our venerable and beloved Bishop, with his noble wife and the bereaved husband, John Wesley Beckett, touched all hearts. But I must not anticipate the full report of this interesting meeting, which will be given in next week's RECORDER.

I have long been impressed with the fact that if as many native African women as men had been sent to this country to be educated for mission work in Africa, the benefits reaped would have been a hundred-fold more than they are, and also promising young girls from the islands of Hayti and San Domingo should be sent here to receive a Christian education and to be trained for the work in those historic countries There is no use in sending teachers to those countries who are not perfectly acquainted with the native language. Their teachers must be able to speak French and English, or Spanish and English, with equal facility, for they speak French in the Haytian part of the Island and Spanish in San Domingo. The ordinary smattering of these languages, which young people get in this country is entirely insufficient for the purposes of easy and rapid illustration, which a teacher must always have at command. I earnestly hope, therefore, that we shall soon have some native African women sent to this country to be educated. None of these young people should be kept long enough to become homanized, as has been the case with some young men sent here. One young man that I heard of was disgusted with Africa when he returned home, and would not even stay long enough to go into the interior to see his poor old heathen mother. This young man may have had his head educated, but the finer qualities of his heart were more uncultivated than the country from which he came. The experience of the world has proved that woman is a powerful civilizing and educating force; therefore, for every boy sent from Africa or Hayti to be trained for missionary work, a girl should be sent, too. Three-fourths of the whole hee ness of teaching is now being done by women. They understand child nature better than men, and they are more patient and devoted

WORK WILL WIN THE DAY.

BY BISHOP T M. D WARD.

TO MY CONFERENCES:

The work of a Methodist preacher is never ended until he drops into the grave.

The Little Rock School, under the patronage of the three Arkansas conferences, needs $500 at once. We have an excellent principal in the person of Professor Delany. He is building up a first-class school, assisted by Miss Murphy. The conferences did grandly meeting all their notes and sweeping off nearly all the old debts; but where is the money to come from to pay teachers and meet current expenses between now and conference? The cost of teachers is only $30 per month. There are more than two hundred ministers to look after this school. A large sum was subscribed at some of the conferences. Then Mississippi and North Mississippi made me a handsome donation Will our brethren interested send five dollars now and then? Tell your people what it is for and they will give it freely and willingly. Trustees and trust them. If each pastor would send Professor A. D Delany, or Rev. I P. Howard, one dollar each month, we can tide over until conference; but the money must be forthcoming from some source continually. The little silver rills and greenback streams must never cease flowing. Say the school shall live and the victory shall be our's.

What has been said of Bethel Institute is equally applicable to Allen University. We have rising one thousand members in the State of South Carolina, and yet the school planted by Bishops Brown and Campbell, and placed on a solid foundation by the lamented Dickerson, can scarcely breathe. Bishop Campbell has given me permission to call upon all South Carolina ministers to rally round Allen. Those two grand conferences will not permit Allen to die a miserably untimely death for the want of good nursing. Let the men of those two giant conferences show their strength by raising one thousand dollars at once, thus preparing to lift the three thousand dollar mortgage which hangs like a millstone around the neck of the college. To the rescue, men of the Palmetto State.

Don't forget your delegates, who will represent you at the General Coeference See that their expenses are met.

Remember that Easter-tide is at the door. Let your offerings on that great historic day fill the hearts of our friends with joy. Let the choral strain reach the celestial choir and the liberal gift fill the golden censer and roll up like a cloud of incense toward that throne upon which the God of Missions sits. The kingdoms of this world must be brought to Christ. Hasten thy coming, thou Great Messiah. When the June book burst, let the little ones fill Children's Day with ceo prolonged, glad hallelujah

Will the pastors who have not already done so, place themselves upon record by doing something for the Centennial fund. We have paid off nearly $1,500 or the debt, and did all our pastors do something, say each charge five dollars, we could cancel the last debt held against our Publishing House Will every pastor in our Conference and Zion send his offering? Ten years ago the Southern Publishing House was in debt $200,000 All they owe to-day is $35,000. Can't we do the same? When every Bishop, pastor and member says the work is done, it is done, not words, sweep off debts. Unity of action and not a divided council builds up a powerful material interest. Work, wait, live, trust, hope and perseverance, and the work is done.

To the ministers and people of the Eighth Episcopal District, as well as the Philadelphia, New England and South Carolina Conferences: I again tender from my heart felt acknowledgments for the many substantial expressions of sympathy they have shown me in the hour of deep, bitter, unutterable anguish. Blessings descend and abide with my race, my Church and my fellowmen everywhere.

Press onward the foe be strong.
"Thrice armed" the victory shall be ours;
The minions who uphold the wrong
Shall quail before the Conqueror's power.

THE UNITED STATES CONSTITUTION A SHAM.

BY MRS M POSIE CHEEKS.

The Constitution of the United States reads thus: "Sec. 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

The Fifteenth Amendment reads: "Sec 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any State on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

"Sec. 2 Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

The negroes are citizens. They were made citizens by the above amendments to the Constitution. The amendments were ordained by the concurred action of Congress and of a sufficient number of States to meet the constitutional requirement in such case. The vital points in the amendments, so far as the negro's citizenship is concerned, are found in these amendments. The negroes are not only citizens in that they are entitled to complete protection under the laws in all their rights of person and property, but also citizens in that all males, twenty one years old, not disqualified by crime or other condition as that would disqualify a white man, are entitled to vote. Every negro man of lawful age, if otherwise qualified, has the same legal right to vote that the President of the United States has. Some one may ask why mention the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments? It is simply to let so many of our people who do not know what portion of the Constitution entitles them to a citizenship of the United States.

The Constitution entitled nearly one million men who had been slaves to vote before they could read. In recognizing the black man's vote is acknowledging him a citizen; his vote is of as much benefit to the aspirant as any other, for now his vote is sought in the South, yea, and throughout the country. Candidates are courting the black man to day for his vote in the coming election In the eyes, as to the election, at least, "a negro is as good as a white man," if not somewhat better; but ah, when election is over, then comes the sting of war. That seeming cordiality has disappeared; the negro, like the "spider and the fly," allured in the candidates' den, his vote is gained and he is left to "paddle his own canoe." In many cases it is paddled. Discriminately he is jailed, murdered, assassinated and sent to the gallows upon suspicion more than upon guilt. A proof of this is the criminals' blackening method; many have done heinous crimes and blackened themselves to escape punishment. Of course, when the criminal is sought, in many cases he is said to be a "nigger," while a few will detect it is of another race. And why is this? It is because every man, race and nation is given the protection the Constitution calls for but the poor down trodden and despised negro. Doesn't this prove the Constitution a sham? The white man says the negro has no right that he is bound to respect, and the Constitution upholds him in this belief; but the black man has a right that the white man is bound to respect, and to live where it pleases him and to vote as it pleases him, so long as he obeys the law, are two of these rights. The Constitution is a sham in its protection to the negro citizens of America. All institutions, charitable as well as those of learning, are barred against the negro. All can find refuge, protection and succor in these United States but the negro, although a citizen and voter, entitled to the protection of the laws. And yet can anyone tell us how much of this liberty and protection we receive; and can any one say how often Congress has enforced this article by appropriate legislation?

Oswego, N. Y.

"HOW CAN THIS THING BE?"

BY REV. G. H. WADE.

MR. EDITOR:—I heartily endorse what Rev. E. H. Harper, of Lake Forest, said as to the spiritual condition of the church at Racine and Lake Forest; but must confess that I cannot see how the Sunday school at Racine is increased ninety per cent., which would say that it is ninety per cent. larger than when I left it in July last, when it was attended by an average of twenty-five pupils. How can it be that he has a ninety per cent. larger Sunday school? I also left a flourishing Sunday school at Lake Forest, whose teachers and superintendent were white, of an average of at least thirty-five pupils. How can this school have a fifty per cent better school when I had all the children there were in town? A man should not attempt to elevate himself as a Christian fellow traveler by misrepresenting the former pastor. Dr. Townsend said to me, by way of card, that we sent him more Missionary Money than any school of its size. We sent a larger collection to Dr. Smith Children's Day. If those schools have increased ninety and fifty per cent., then the inference is that we had no school at all, otherwise, "how can it be?"

MANAGER'S NOTICE.

We are just receiving from the binder a fresh lot of Hymn Books in cloth, sheep, roan and gilt, and, as business is dull just at this season, and we have some stiff bills to meet in February and March, we have resolved to offer churches, choirs and presiding elders this new lot of six hundred copies at a great reduction from regular rates for the next sixty days. One dozen cloth bound for $7.20; one dozen sheep bound for $8 40; one dozen roan (black), for $9 60; six extra roan only for $7.00, and a corresponding reduction on morocco of any class. Now, please send on your orders at once. Do not wait until they are all gone, and then complain that we cease selling at the same rate. Remember, there are only 600 copies at this rate, and the first that come will be the first served.

Remember, also, that we sell the People's Hymn Book, a small, cheap, excellent work, collected by Mr. S. B. Schnellin. It contains tunes of standard excellence on the opposite page. Only 20 and 25 cents per copy But we must tell you that the best selling song book we have had for two years or more is the little gem called "Songs of Zion Songs," by Rev A. B. Earle, of Boston. This book contains the famous "Lily of the Valley," and other lively tunes and hymns that stir the multitudes into a glow. Send in your orders. Only 50 cents per copy; 5 cents extra by mail.

Finally, we call attention to this paper. We have been late "to press" the past two weeks, and we come a little late still, this week, but with all this we submit that we are handsomer and handier than ever we have been. We are clipped and pasted, we are lighter weight and finer paper than ever before. One drawback only is worthy of note. Having changed our printer, our new pressman has not, for want of skill or time, been able to give us a clear page as we have been accustomed to show our readers hitherto. In appreciation of all we have tried to do for the convenience and pleasure of our patrons, will not our patrons help us a little by securing for the paper at least one cash subscriber for '88?

GENERAL CONFERENCE DELEGATES.

SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is a combination of two of the most valuable remedies in existence for the cure of Consumption and all Wasting Conditions; is more generally recommended and used by Physicians than any known remedy; it gives most satisfactory results, and tones up the system; and when the Consumptive has wasted away and loses hope, the Emulsion will speedily check the ravages of this terrible disease, and restore the sufferer to good health and happiness. This is equally true in regard to Rickets in Children, or Marasmus and Anæmia in Adults, and all impoverished conditions of the blood; and especially desirable for Colds and Chronic Coughs, as it will cure them more quickly than ordinary Specifics used. Palatable as milk.

Sold by all Druggists.

"STAMMERING"
AND ALL DEFECTS OF SPEECH PERMANENTLY CURED

It gives me great pleasure to add my testimony to the efficiency and thoroughness of your treatment in cases of stammering, as to the almost miraculous cures effected thereby. In the case of my son David, his cure was effected two years ago, and has entirely averted what threatened to be a serious disadvantage to him through life. I cordially commend your treatment. Truly yours, CLIFFORD LEWIS, Treasurer Mutual Assurance Co. 526 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

NOTICE.

To the Trustees of Wayman's Normal and Agricultural High School: This will inform you that our first meeting of the board will convene March 14, 1888, at Delhi, La., by order of the president. Come, brethren, with a mind to work, in this our edncational struggle. May God help you all to be on time.

An Arkansas suicide filled his mouth with powder and then applied a lighted match. The explosion tore away a portion of his face.

Professional beggars are once more an important factor in the "social" life of San Francisco, where the police are kept busy trying to arrest them.

It is reported that at a recent wedding in Pittsfield, Mass., the bride was bought by the groom of a rival for $85, the young woman consenting to the transfer.

The remains of an unknown man, which had been taken to a San Francisco hospital and pitilally dissected, were recognized by a young woman as those of her father, Benjamin Armstrong, wealthy miner, who disappeared from Reno, Nevada, in January.

March April May

Are the months in which to purify the blood, for at no other season is the body so susceptible to benefit from medicine. The peculiar purifying and reviving qualities of Hood's Sarsaparilla are just what are needed to expel disease and fortify the system against the debilitating effects of mild weather. Every year increases the popularity of Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it is just what people need at this season.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I had erysipelas in the worst form, being nearly covered with blisters. I had taken but a few doses of Hood's Sarsaparilla when I began to feel better; in a week I was sure it was doing me good, and when the first bottle was gone I was entirely well I have not been troubled by erysipelas since." MRS. L. BACON, Brimfield, Mass.

Purifies the Blood

"I take Hood's Sarsaparilla every year as a spring tonic, with most satisfactory results. I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all who have that miserable tired feeling at this season." C. FARMELEE, 349 Bridge street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

CATARRH IN THE HEAD.

SYMPTOMS OF THE DISEASE.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with some from the throat; the voice is changed and has a "nasal twang"; the breath is offensive; smell and taste impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians.

COMMON SENSE TREATMENT.

If you would remove an evil, strike at its root. As the predisposing or real cause of Catarrh, in the majority of cases, is a constitutional taint, or otherwise faulty condition of the system, in attempting to cure the disease our chief aim must be directed to the removal of that cause. The more we see of this odious disease, and we treat successfully thousands of cases annually at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, the more do we realize the importance of combining with the use of a local, soothing and healing application, a thorough and persistent internal use of such cleansing and tonic medicines.

CHIEF RELIANCE.

In curing or relieving all the various diseases with which it is so frequently complicated, as throat, bronchial, and lung diseases, weak stomach, catarrhal deafness, weak or inflamed eyes, impure blood, scrofulous and syphilitic taints, the wonderful powers and virtues of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cannot be too strongly extolled. It has a specific effect upon the living mucous membranes of the nasal and other air-passages, promoting the natural secretion of their follicles and glands, thereby softening the diseased and thickened membranes, and restoring it to its natural, thin, delicate, moist, healthy condition. As a blood-purifier, it is unsurpassed. As those diseases which complicate catarrh are diseases of the liver and lining mucous membranes, or of the blood, it will readily be seen why this medicine is so well calculated to cure them.

LOCAL AGENT.

As a local application for healing the diseased condition in the head, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is beyond all comparison the best preparation ever invented. It is mild and pleasant to use, instantaneous in relieving pain, and containing no strong, irritating, or caustic drug, or other poison. This Remedy is a powerful antiseptic, and speedily destroys all bad smell which accompanies so many cases of catarrh, thus affording great comfort to those who suffer from this disease.

PERMANENT CURES.

The Golden Medical Discovery is the natural "helpmate" of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It not only counteracts the poisonous effects of the blood, but tones up the system to a healthy standard, and consequently throat, bronchial, and lung complications, when any such exist, but, from its specific effects upon the living mucous membranes of the nasal passages, it aids materially in restoring the diseased tissue, or formed pus-globules, to a healthy condition, and thus eradicates the disease. When a cure is effected in this manner it is permanent.

Both Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy are sold by druggists the world over. Discovery, $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00. Dr. Sage's Remedy, 50 cents; half-dozen bottles $2.50.

A complete Treatise on Catarrh, giving valuable hints as to clothing, diet, and other matters of importance, will be mailed, post-paid to any address, on receipt of a 3-cent postage stamp.

KNOWLEDGE FOR THE MILLIONS.

The fourth volume of Alden's Manifold Cyclopedia contains 122 illustrations, and extends from Baptism to Bellperney—637 pages, large type, handsome cloth binding, for 50 cts., or in neat half Morocco binding for 65 cts.! Postage 10c. Is not that, truly, bringing knowledge within the reach of the millions?

The great merit of the Cyclopedia is its adaptation to practical use, giving under each proper head the information most likely to be needed, and in concise, easily available form. Careful examination impresses one with its accuracy, as well as the remarkable fullness of its information. For actual use it abundantly answers the needs of all save those whose pursuits require exhaustive study of certain subjects. The combination of Unabridged Dictionary and Cyclopedia is a very great convenience. Each volume, as it comes to the reader's hands, invariably renews the surprise felt that a book so well got up can be afforded for a price so low. Whoever wants a Cyclopedia—and who does not?—would do well to order at least a specimen volume, which may be returned if not wanted. Reduced prices are offered to early subscribers for complete sets, which are to consist of 30 or more volumes, the volumes being issued at intervals of about a month. The work is not sold either by agents or booksellers, but only by the publisher direct, which in some measure accounts for the wonderfully low prices. Specimen pages, also 84-page descriptive catalogue of choice books, sent free. John B. Alden, Publisher, 393 Pearl St., New York, or 218 Clark St., Chicago.

THE ORIGINAL
LITTLE LIVER PILLS.
PURELY VEGETABLE! PERFECTLY HARMLESS!
As a LIVER PILL, they are Unequaled!
SMALLEST, CHEAPEST, EASIEST TO TAKE.
Beware of Imitations, which contain Poisonous Minerals. Always ask for Dr. Pierce's Pellets, which are little Sugar-coated Pills, or Anti-bilious Granules. ONE PELLET A DOSE.
Sold by Druggists. 25 Cents a Vial.
BEING PURELY VEGETABLE,
Dr. Pierce's Pellets operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a gentle laxative, alterative, or active purgative, they give the most perfect satisfaction.

SICK HEADACHE,
Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pellets. In explanation of their remedial power over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence.

Consumption Surely Cured.

To the Editor—

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address.

Respectfully,
T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., New York.

NOTICE.

The members of the Publishing Board are hereby notified to meet at the Book Rooms, in Philadelphia, at 10 A. M. on Monday, April 30th, 1888, to finish their work for the ensuing General Conference.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, New York.

HEADS ON WRAPS. THINGS GOING. ARE crowding and crushing in. Winter things are yielding inch by inch. Between these some prices are going with a power.

THE NEW SPRING THINGS AND ON DRESS parade. Wraps and Dresses of all sorts for Women and Children. Suits and Overcoats for the very small Boys. Wise heads have been planning, there have been snipping, neighbors have been borrowing and busy headed tailoring for months past to get ready for our opening.

In Berlin, in Paris, at home—everywhere and particular thing could be best done, it has been done. Every grace of fit and finish. They are in the sunlight of Fashion's shrine.

JAPANESE MATTINGS. THEY ARE SOMEWHAT less in weight than the Chinese, and have peculiar figures or their own. Some have large squares and small ones, others have long squares and darts across them. Alike on both sides. There is a fine, soft, pliable quality to the best for most folks. They have been selling in small quantities for a year or two, but not enough to attract general attention. There is a sensation in them now. We have 275 rolls, which we sell as a sort of Spring discount bargain at 10c the roll or 40 yards.

WATER COLOR OF COFFEE, CONSISTENCY OF SYRUP. Five minutes later same water clear as crystal. Filtered. Simple as washing. Go on drinking mad. If you choose; you can have Schuylkill water like morning dew if you are to. A roomful of Filters that will do the work thoroughly.

With cooler, $5 50 to $10 00.
Kitchen Pillars, $4 to $7.25.
Garden Stone, $5 to $20.

THE EXCELSIOR COOKING CROCK. A NUTS on boon. Easy to clean said proof, will not crack or chip off, or get out of sorts with age or use. A no leal porcelain crock in a block of wood, which holds the crock above the stove. Hot air and radiant heat do the cooking. No chance for food to burn. The merits of a farina kettle with the simplicity and cheapness of an iron pot.

2 quart, $.6; and 4 quart, $.66 cents.

When you tire of scorched eatables take a look at them—if any are left them.

BETTER THAN EVER.

LESSON HELPS FOR 1888.

The Sunday School Union of the A. M. E. Church is prepared to furnish the best series of Lesson Helps that can be obtained. We have received testimonials from scores of our most prominent Sunday school workers endorsing and emphasizing the high quality of our periodicals. Our aim is to do the very best we can to meet the demands of our Sunday schools. A full list of our periodicals and their prices, will be found on another page of this paper. As we are the only authorized publishers of lesson helps for A. M. E. Sunday schools, we expect to receive that patronage which respect for law and denomination interests demand. Samples and price lists sent free on application Address,

REV. C. S. SMITH,
Nashville Tenn.

NOTICE.

All communications intended for the Sunday School Union of the A. M. E. Church that are addressed to Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tennessee, will be received. It is not necessary to give the name of the street nor the number of our business place. Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tenn., is sufficient. Telegrams addressed the same way will reach us. We are fully settled in our new headquarters and prepared for business. C. S. SMITH, Secretary.

To the Pastors and Superintendents of our Churches and Sunday Schools:

Dear Brethren—Our programme for Easter, "Missionery Day," are ready. We desire to supply every church free of charge. Please send at once for the number you need. Let us begin in time. Address,

Impure Blood

Is the cause of Boils, Carbuncles, Pimples, Eczema, and cutaneous eruptions of all kinds. There can be no permanent cure for these complaints until the poison is eliminated from the system. To do this thoroughly, the safest and most effective medicine is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Give it a trial.

"For the past twenty-five years I have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In my opinion, the best remedial agencies for the cure of all diseases arising from impurities of the blood are contained in this medicine."—G. C. Brock, Druggist, Lowell, Mass.

"My wife was for a long time a sufferer from tumors on the neck. Nothing did her any good until she tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla, two bottles of which made a complete cure."—W. S. Martin, Burning Springs, W. Va.

"We have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla here for over thirty years and always recommend it when asked to name the best blood-purifier."—W. T. McLean, Druggist, Augusta, Ohio.

DR. WILBOR'S
COMPOUND OF
Pure Cod Liver Oil And Phosphates
OF LIME, SODA, IRON.

CURES
CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, DEBILITY, WASTING DISEASES, and all SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

It has required much experience and care to enable the proprietor to combine the oil and Phosphates so as to render them become thoroughly efficacious together, and he has the only recipe by which this can be accomplished. Another important advantage which Dr. Wilbor's Cod Liver Oil possesses prepared in this way, over the plain cod liver oil, is the fact that besides adding largely to its medical qualities, it removes the oily taste and renders it a luxury to those who cannot take the plain oil. There is no other manner. The combination of ingredients in the form of using the Oil gives it the qualities it did not, also add vastly to the healing qualities of the preparation. The perfect incorporation of the phosphates with the cod liver oil has only been accomplished by the proprietor of this most perfect preparation of the day. Almost as palatable as cream. It can be taken with pleasure by delicate persons and children, and after using it, become very fond of it. It assimilates with the food, increases the flesh and appetite, builds up the nervous system, restores energy to mind and body, creates new, rich and pure blood, in fact, rejuvenates the whole system.

FLESH, NERVE, BLOOD, BRAIN.

This preparation is far superior to all other preparations of Cod-Liver Oil: it has many imitators, but no equals. The results following its use are its best recommendation. Be sure, as you value your health, get the genuine. Manufactured only by DR. ALEXR. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston, Mass. Send for illustrated circular, which will be mailed free. Sold by all druggists.

"THE QUESTIONS OF THE HOUR" REVIEWED.

BY REV. ISAAC S GRANT.

It is a rare thing to find two persons of the same opinion, whether in religious or secular matters, and especially being many miles apart. Were I personally acquainted with the scribe who wrote the article in the CHRISTIAN RECORDER of February 23d, under the caption above: "The Questions of the Hour," I could not be any more of the same opinion. I shall endorse the article with a few amens.

Rev Walter Thompson, I trust my endorsement will not be an offense to you and the readers of the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. The first thought in any great undertaking should be the probability and possibility of the power to carry it out to a successful end. Will, opportunity, wisdom, means and money. That the A. M. E Church possesses these requisites in abundance, none will dare to deny. To this you have my hearty amen. O, thou man of God

Again, the article said, "The connection needs to concentrate in her General Conference the practical wisdom of the Church. By this we mean the intelligent minds that are sanctified to the work; men that respect rule and order; men that will go to the General Conference to work and not to make bombastic speeches in order to show what they know, and often what they do not know. It is not always the man that has received the best scholastic training that will make the best delegate." Amen.

Take such men as our Dart, Bellamy, Lites, Lykes, Salter and W. M Thomas—such men never would shut their eyes against this passage, "Do unto others as you would that they do unto you."

"Such men, as the scribe said, could best be secured by a slight change in the law governing the eligibility of delegates. Let the law read: 'Every delegate representing an annual conference shall be a minister who has traveled eight consecutive years preceding the General Conference session as a minister in the service of the A. M. E. Church;' who had thus been able to form opinions from a reasonable experience." To this is my third amen.

"Would it not be a good idea to have our Bishops rotate? The system of rotation will do much to break down sectional feeling and will also modify the abuses of the transfer system. The system of rotation will make the Presiding Elder system absolutely necessary We would suggest but one change in the Presiding Elder system, and that is, let the presiding elders be elected by the annual conference, thus throwing upon the conference the responsibility in regard to the charcter and ability of the men placed in the office, and also causing the presiding elder to feel that he is responsible to the conference for the success and failure of his work." These are my views and several whom I conversed with. Thus I say, amen. The arrangements of our various departments. I agree do away with so many secretaries; and as regards the location of the Financial Department, it is immaterial to me whether it is located in the North, East, South or West. But as the writer said, "Let the system be simplified, let the fund be known as the connectional fund instead of the present term Dollar Money; make the assessment per member fifty cents, consolidate the three days and let it be known as the general fund day. This I heartily endorse. If the system were changed I am of the opinion the churches, especially in South Carolina, where some of us are getting for support sugar, coffee, peas, corn, eggs and, now and then, a dollar, would improve. I know what I am speaking about, for I am in the very hot-bed of the late reformation. Change our financial system to 50 cents Give us more Bishops—rotate. If Georgia is solid for Gaines, South Carolina is for Salter. Let the two States [illegible] hands Let our annual conference elect their presiding elders. SCATTERING FLOWERS ON HIS GRAVE

To the memory of Dr. John M. Brown, Howard University, Medical Department, class 80, Washington D C., who died in Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 4th, 1888.

A TRIBUTE BY GEO. C. SMITH.

Sorrow finds fittest expression, oftentimes, in silence. It rules in a realm which is sacred, but its sway is disputed always by duty. I would stand mute, did not this joint ruler, duty, itself sad-eyed and sorrowful, beckon me to speak. It would, perhaps be more grateful and fitting if I would remain mute of lip while the voice of the heart only responded. I shall, therefore, in my weak way, attempt to fulfil every promise made. Dr. John M. Brown, living, was my friend and who, dead, I sincerely mourn. To me it is a painful pleasure to add my heartfelt tribute of veneration and love for him. I shall present my estimate of his character as a modest tribute to the memory of a modest man.

Man may dominate the earth, but it is given to God alone to conquer death. He may span continents with iron girders and bridge them with the commerce of the world; may measure the depth of the sea, the distance and magnitude of the heavenly bodies; may predict with mathematical precision the course and velocity of the planets—the visit, exit and return of the comets, yet with all this power over earth he can not tell the day nor the hour of his exit'se oe, for death "cometh as a thief in the night." Nor wealth, nor talent, nor high position can arrest the footsteps of death; the great destroyer of hopes and human expectations. Happy for us that we cannot foretell his coming, yet when we see a man like he, cut down in the prime of life; when the dreams of his early ambition were being so fully realized in his profession, we are tempted to complain at what would seem a harsh visitation of Providence. But death waits for no man. The justice and wisdom of an Allwise God are beyond human ken. To his will we meekly bow. It is hard for us to comprehend the wisdom of Providence in designating a man so circumstanced as he, as a victim for the grave, yet it is not for us to pass upon the wisdom of the Almighty in matters of this kind. It is possible that He interfered to save him from prolonged suffering and that what appears to be our loss is, in reality, his gain. "God's finger touched him and he slept." Reason reels at the blow, yet we are reminded that we are here simply as executors of another's will.

It was most fitting that death should come to him quietly and without a struggle. Happy is he who is thus laid to rest with his life's warfare accomplished and with the feeling in the hereafter that he fought the good fight and has passed away loved, honored and respected by all. Beautiful and precious is the faith which teaches that God has in his keeping the dust of those we loved and who loved him. To the soul prepared, it matters not. The "well done" is the crown of life. So long as man dwells on earth, life is but a fragment. But the close seals the work with the benediction of changeless fruition. The career finished in honor and radiant with faith becomes a completed power and an everlasting blessing.

When Dr. Brown spoke or wrote it was from a thorough knowledge of his subject in pregnant and weighty words. Being a student and a lover of the best and blade would he thrust with fatal relitersmre. he brought a fine literary culture to his professional life. He thoroughly mastered the science of his chosen profession The leading members of the medical fraternity in this city have often told me that no man in Kansas City was better equipped and fitted for his life work than he; and that he was held in the highest esteem is evidenced from the many honors conferred upon him, from time to time, as a member of the Medical Association and once one of its chief officers.

It was a pleasure to walk with him through the streets and see in what esteem he was held by the profession, the business men and the common people, for whom he always had a pleasant word and a hearty shake of the hand. He died an honor to his parents, his Alma Mater, his friends, both at home and in this community where he began and ended his professional career. Kansas City was not ashamed of the son of her adoption. She can and does point to him with pride as one of her valued jewels. His intellectual attainments were of a high order; he possessed a diversified knowledge outside of the profession rarely obtained by the laborious practitioner.

The month preceding his death his practice was remarkable, so that he was kept busy day and night.

When indulging in satire he carried in the velvet scabbard of his well turned period a sword sharp as the scimiter of Saladin. If one should meet him in controversy it were well to see that there were no weak or unguarded places in the joints of the armor; for his keen eye was sure to find them and his trenchant blade would be thrust with fatal result. Were I fully to express my admiration for the man I might, possibly, be suspected of intemperate speech. Although comparatively a young men in years, none can feel that that life was not rounded out into full completion. Judged by what he was no one can call the life of our friend a short one.

I believe in the immortality of good deeds—those that are such are not and cannot be buried with the bones of their authors, but live after them. The good that men do

"Time but the impression deeper makes,
As streams their channels deeper wear."

No man takes in the range and altitude of a mountain while environed by near jotting prominences and thick forest, neither do we correctly measure the man until his presence is wanting and his place is vacant. A drop of water which to-day may be tossed into a wild commotion on the waves of the deep, may to morrow glitter in the dew drop or fall in a tear. Thus every act of man is followed by an ever widening circle of consequences and results that forever reappear in renewed and varied phases of existence. If we would correctly weigh a man's life and character we must know the moulds in which he is cast. His was a nature cast in the finest moulds. Dr. Brown I knew well; coming from the same city, he was my physician and friend in the earnest sense of that word, and I loved him because of his virtues and for the sorrows he bore during the closing of his life. In life he had no enemies; no consciousness of wrongs inflicted or of trust betrayed. In my long association with men in public and private life I have come to contact with none whose personal character was more lovable, a gentleman of more perfect honor, of more perfect kindness of heart—as tender as that of a woman—of more catholicity of spirit, of less bigotry, of less envy or of less self seeking with his attainments I have not known—so knowing him as I did—as his personal friend and confidant in his last months—during his long period of depression and sorrow I was his constant companion when in the city; he trusted and clung to me with such a tenacity that I could not but love him.

He never made a brow look dark,
Nor caused a tear, but when he died.

His was an open, generous, sanguine, earnest nature—such an one as "he who runs may read." Strong in his convictions of right, he had a rare faculty of impressing one with the purity and sincerity of his motives. His life in this city was an open, manly one; his friends have no occasion to invoke the charity of silence; the gentleness of his disposition, the frankness of his manner, the integrity of his character made him many friends and mourners at his death.

He was by nature incapable of doing a mean act. None of the little meannesses of human nature belonged to him—with a high sense of personal honor, no narrow influences controlled his acts. Those who knew him can hardly fail to speak with warmth of his striking personal characteristics; of the genial and gracious presence in manner and essence, but that of a gentleman. The few flaws in his character were of manner rather than of the heart, having a mind so cultivated he could neither be mean nor small. Like the Sultan Akbar he believed that "no man was ever lost in a straight road." He was without craft or deceit. Those who knew him could not but be charmed by the frankness of his address, the intelligence of his conversation—a stranger would have recognized in him a man above his fellows.

There may have been stronger men than he, but he was strong; there may have been better men at heart than he, but I have not known them. No one has gone out from us who would feel a richer joy than he to know that all men speak to him kindly and lovingly.

The broad, deep river which rolls its majestic waters to the sea, tells but little of the movement of the mountain stream it once was or the mountain through which it came; so it is often with the pleasing anxious being of our common humanity. One of the characteristic traits of his character was its disgust of shams or false pretensions, whether in public or private life; his dislike of the thin veneers and disguise plastered over personal infirmities. He believed that a dividing line seperated the right from the wrong in the affairs of men and that the right, ever was, everywhere, better than the wrong. Many things at times distorted the vision, but nothing ever confounded the distinction or tempted him to barter the one for the other. He hated with all the power of his being hypocrisy or unfaithfulness either in woman or man. To find himself deceived by either seemed almost to crush his tender heart.

From my personal and intimate knowledge of the man there is no doubt but that his late sorrow tinged his life. Although at times cheerful, there was still the unseen presence of melancholy which would check the exuberance of his spirits. This sorrow was the minor chord in the harmony of life. It is not for me to dwell upon this theme—perhaps I have no right to speak of his domestic relations, committed to me as a sacred trust by him, as his friend, except so far as commissioned. That home far away from here has been saddened, that charmed circle broken, and stricken by grief which no words of mine can soothe. I will not lift the veil from that circle of crushed hearts there over a broken-hearted son and brother. It seems too sacred for discussion here. His love for his mother was fervent; of her he never tired of speaking—scarcely a night we did not talk of her, home and loved ones, and for the time live over the happiness we left behind—and of when it should be ours to return to those that loved us. He looked forward with delight to our anticipated visit this spring. The early impressions made by that devout mother were never thrown off; almost every night we would sing together his favorite song—"Where is my Wandering Boy tonight?" and read his favorite poem, "Weary," which I possess and which seemed to fit his own life. Perhaps the insertion of this poem will give his friends a better idea of his feelings than I can portray. The words in italics were underscored by himself:

WEARY.

Weary, so weary, O, weary of tears;
Weary of heartaches and weary of fears,
Weary of mourning and weary of pain;
Weary, so weary of hoping in vain.

Weary, so weary of the burden of life;
Weary of toiling and weary of strife;
Weary of parting and weary of night;—
Weary, so weary and longing for light.

Weary, so weary of waiting alone;
Weary of asking—receiving a stone;
Weary of watching, weary of jeers;
Weary, so weary of taunts and of sneers.

Weary, so weary; but sometime I'll rest;
Dreamlessly sleeping, hands crossed on my breast;
No more to sorrow, no more to weep;
Only to lie down and quietly sleep.

Those who have felt the warm contact of his love, who have experienced the joy of his friendship, who have shared his confidence and sorrows, as I shared, and secured his esteem, carry in their hearts the fervent appreciation of his virtue and will long cherish his memory. Let us hope that when timid nature, for a moment, shrank at the approach to the dark valley the voice of the risen Saviour came to him in reassuring accents from the other shore, "It is I, be not afraid." And as his last moments were peaceful, when he fell asleep, so his last sweet sleep will be unbroken by the turbulent memories which throng the air above his grave. It is said that a pebble dropped in the ocean will send its wavelets to distant shores; is it too much to say that the life of our deceased friend, dropped in the great ocean of humanity, will not pass from sight without leaving behind an influence that shall teach the hearts and lives of generations to come?—Exchange.

REMARKABLE LONGEVITY.

The most extraordinary British examples of longevity are those of Thomas Parr, who died in 1635 at the age of 152; Henry Jenkins, of Yorkshire, who died in 1670, aged 169; Mr. Feirbrother, who died in Wigan, May 1770, aged 133; James Shellie, an Irish farmer, who died in June, 1759 aged 136; and Martha Hannah, of Cullybackey, Ireland, who died in 1808, aged 126 But Great Britain and Ireland are not the only countries that breed centenarians.

In 1809, Elizabeth Haywood, a free negro died in Jamaica, aged 130 years; in 1742 a Portuguese gentleman, Jos Homem da Cunha Deca, died aged 120; and in 1791 a Portuguese lady, Joanna Francisca de Piedade, was still living at the age of 120. But most writers on the subject seem to agree that our own islands produce an unusual proportion of long-lived people. They also agree that more men than women reach extreme old age. The oldest person whom I personally have known died at the age of 116. I cannot be quite sure of the year of his death. It must, I think, have been about 1868 or 1869 He was a quiet old gentleman, who had two weaknesses, books and port. Several times during his last years he narrowly escaped burning himself to death in bed, where, whenever he was wakeful, he loved to read at night; and to within a few weeks of his death he always drank three or four glasses of old fashioned port after his dinner. He neither smoked or snuffed, but he hunted until he was over 90. He had a marvelous digestion, his sight, aided by spectacles, was good to the last, and he was sufficiently clear-headed to be able to make a little joke to one of his great-granddaughters within an hour or two of his end. This kind of pleasant extreme old age is, I am afraid, very unusual. I should add that my old friend, in his early days, held an appointment in India, and I have before me as I write a copy of "Horace" (Tonson's edition of 1715) which gave me, and which bears, in his handwriting, on the fly-leaf, his name and the date, "Calcutta, 16 March, 1779" He gave it me about 30 years later.—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

Church News.

Rev. C. Wright, of Harrisburg, Pa., writes: A portion of the Harrisburg District has been blessed with a glorious revival. Steelton reports 35 converts, Carlisle 42 and Greencastle, Chambersburg and Middletown report religious interest.

Rev. T. J. Peterson, Des Moines, Iowa, writes: We have just closed a glorious and profitable revival of seven weeks, having had thirty-eight conversions and fifty added to the church, and notwithstanding the very cold weather our church has not been sufficiently large to seat those who have nightly attended.

Rev. T. W. Lewis, Arkansas City, Kans., writes: After reading the great success with which the A. M. E. Church is meeting throughout the Southwest, I thought it would not be amiss to let you know what we were doing in the way of improvements in this part of the South Kansas Conference. Notwithstanding our town—Arkansas City—is located in the Southern tier of counties and on the borders of the Indian Territory, we find that God manifests his goodness and great mercies down here just the same as he does any other place. I came here on the 12th of October, found the people waiting to receive me, which they did with a warm hand, but did not forget at the same time to fill my ears full of the various proceedings of last year, and at the same time asking my opinion, but as soon as I got a chance to put in a word edgewise, I told them I did not come here to rehearse last year's business, but that we were now commencing on a new year. But when I became acquainted with the people I found them to be a working people and ever ready to assist in building up the Master's cause. They believe in the old adage that "God helps those that help themselves." I have been very busy since I came here, and these good people have not failed to lend a helping hand, and the fruits of this labor up to present writing is a neat little parsonage, consisting of three rooms, which we have erected on the rear end of our church lot, and I am now living in it. The improvements will amount to about $300, donation and all. We were a little bothered about plastering our building, and when I called to remembrance some of the grand instruction you used to give me, when I used to be employed by you on Monday's, at Wilberforce University, that work was honorable, I bethought myself that I had had some experience in operative masonry, so I just laid aside my theological garb and took up the trowel until the walls were completed, and now I can have the pleasure of knowing that we shall not throw away any more money for rent, but can apply the amount toward diminishing our church debts. My charge is small, consisting of thirty-five members, but they are not only church members, but Christians. We have a nice little church here and located on a very valuable corner. Our church is not entirely free from debt, but we hope to pay the amount in an early [illegible], as our hands have been released from the burden of parsonage rent. We have just stopped our improvements a little while to share in some of the pleasures of Christmas and to make ready for our first quarterly meeting, which will take place the second Sunday in January. Father J. M. Wilkerson is our presiding elder and all feel interested in making things pleasant for our old Kansas pioneer. I expect to enroll many names in the church whose names shall be enrolled in the Church triumphant, God being my assistance. Pray for us.

Rev. J. M. Henderson, of St. Paul, Minn., writes. After a protracted and arduous series of financial efforts, which God has crowned with unusual success, we have without stopping to rest plunged into special endeavors for the salvation of souls. God thus far has blessed me with a wonderful outpouring of his spirit; African Methodism in the past few weeks has gained forty-two new workers and the kingdom of Satan has lost forty-two victims. The work has only begun; we trust God and look for great things. Scarce as our people, comparatively speaking, are, we hope to find at least one hundred who are willing to enter God's service. Thus far there has not been, in a single case, a sinner who has attended our meetings consecutively three nights, but that by the third night he was at the mourner's bench. Our mourner's bench is the old fashioned Methodist mourner's bench, and the past week has seen men worth their thousands bowed as humbly and

By this we mean the intelligent minds that are sanctified to the work; men that respect rule and order; men that will go to the General Conference to work and not to make bombastic speeches in order to show what they know, and often what they do not know. It is not always the man that has received the best scholastic training that will make the best delegate" Amen.

Take such men as our Dart, Bellamy, Lites, Lykes, Salter and W. M Thomas—such men never would shut their eyes against this passage, "Do unto others as you would that they do unto you."

"Such men, as the scribe said, could best be secured by a slight change in the law governing the eligibility of delegates. Let the law read: 'Every delegate representing an annual conference shall be a minister who has traveled eight consecutive years preceding the General Conference session as a minister in the service of the A. M. E. Church; who had thus been able to form opinions from a reasonable experience." To this is my third amen.

"Would it not be a good idea to have our Bishops rotate? The system of rotation will do much to break down sectional feeling and will also modify the abuses of the transfer system. The system of rotation will make the Presiding Elder system absolutely necessary We would suggest but one change in the Presiding Elder system, and that is, let the presiding elders be elected by the annual conference, thus throwing upon the conference the responsibility in regard to the character and ability of the men placed in the office, and also causing the presiding elder to feel that he is responsible to the conference for the success and failure of his work." These are my views and several whom I conversed with. Thus I say, amen. The arrangements of our various departments. I agree do away with so many secretaries; and as regards the location of the Financial Department, it is immaterial to me whether it is located in the North, East, South or West. But as the writer said, "Let the system be simplified, let the fund be known as the connectional fund instead of the present term Dollar Money; make the assessment per member fifty cents, consolidate the three days and let it be known as the general fund day. This I heartily endorse. If the system were changed I am of the opinion the churches, especially in South Carolina where we are now, of us are getting for support sugar, coffee, peas, corn, eggs and, now and then a dollar, would improve. I know what I am speaking about, for I am in the very hot-bed of the late reformation. Change our financial system to 50 cents—Give us more Bishops—rotate. If Georgie is solid for Gaines, South Carolina is for Salter. Let the two States shake hands Let our annual conferences elect their presiding elders. Oh, Lord, meet with my brethren at Indianapolis and remain there until these things are passed; they will be for the upbuilding of the Church militant. Amen.

SCATTERING FLOWERS ON HIS GRAVE

A TRIBUTE BY GEO. C. SMITH.

Sorrow finds fittest expression, oftentimes, in silence. It rules in a realm which is sacred, but its sway is disputed always by duty. I would stand mute, did not this joint ruler, duty, itself sad-eyed and sorrowful, beckon me to speak. It would, perhaps be more grateful and fitting if I would remain mute of lip while the voice of the heart only responded. I shall, therefore, in my weak way, attempt to fulfill every promise made. Dr. John M. Brown, living, was my friend and when, dead, I sincerely mourn. To me it is a painful pleasure to add my heartfelt tribute of veneration and love for him. I shall present my estimate of his character as a modest tribute to the memory of a modest man.

Man may dominate the earth, but it is given to God alone to conquer death. He may span continents with iron girders and bridge them with the commerce of the world; may measure the depth of the sea, the distance and magnitude of the heavenly bodies; may predict with mathematical precision the motions and velocity of the planets—the visits, exit and return of the comets, yet with all this power over earth he cannot tell the day nor the hour of his exit to or, for death "cometh as a thief in the night." Wealth, position, the test nor high position can arrest the footsteps of death, the great destroyer of hopes and human expectations. Happy for us that we cannot foretell his coming, yet when we see a man like he, cut down in the prime of life; when the dreams of his early ambition were being so fully realized in his profession, we are tempted to complain at what would seem a harsh visitation of Providence. But death waits for no man. The justice and wisdom of an Allwise God are beyond human ken. To his will we meekly bow. It is hard for us to comprehend the wisdom of Providence in designating a man so circumstanced as he, as a victim for the grave, yet it is not for us to pass upon the wisdom of the Almighty in matters of this kind. It is possible that He interfered to save him from prolonged suffering and that what appears to be one loss is, in reality, his gain. "God's finger touched him and he slept." His season reels at the blow, yet we are reminded that we are here simply as executors of another's will.

It was most fitting that death should come to him quickly and without struggle. Happy is he who is thus laid to rest with his life's warfare accomplished and with the feeling in the hereafter that he fought the good fight and has passed away loved, honored and respected by all. Beautiful emblems are those is the faith which teaches that God has in his keeping the dust of those we loved and who loved him. To the soul departed, it matters not. The "well done" is the crown of life. So long as man dwells on earth, life is but a fragment. But the close seals the work with the benediction of changeless finish. The error of indeed to honor and radiant with faith becomes a completed power and an everlasting blessing.

When Dr. Brown spoke or wrote it was from a thorough knowledge of the subject in preparation and weighty words. Being a student and a lover of the best cast blade would he thrust with fatal relentance, he brought a fine literary genius to his professional life. He thoroughly mastered the science of his chosen profession The leading members of the medical fraternity in this city have often told me that no man in Kansas City was better equipped and fitted for his life work than he; and that he was held in the highest esteem in professional from the many honors conferred upon him, from time to time, as a member of the Medical Association and once one of its chief officers.

It was a pleasure to walk with him through the streets and see in what esteem he was held by the profession, the business men and the common people, for whom he always had a pleasant word and a hearty shake of the hand. He died an honor to his parents, his Alma Mater, his friends, both at home and in this community where he began and ended his professional career. Kansas City was not ashamed of the son of her adoption. She can and does point to him with pride as one of her valued jewels. His intellectual attainments were of a high order; he possessed a diversified knowledge outside of the profession rarely obtained by the laborious practitioner.

The month preceding his death his practice was remarkable, so that he was kept busy day and night.

When indulging in satire he carried in the velvet scabbard of his well turned period a sword as sharp as the scimiter of Saladin. If one should meet him in controversy it were well to see that there were no weak or ungusarded places in the joints of the armor; for his keen eye was sure to find them and his trenchant blade would be thrust with fatal result. Were I fully to express my admiration for the man I might, possibly, be suspected of intemperate speech. Although comparatively a young man in years, none can feel that that life was not rounded out into full completion. Judged by what he was no one can call the life of our friend a short one.

I believe in the immortality of good deeds—those that are such are not and cannot be buried with the bones of their authors, but live after them. The good that men do

"Time but the impression deeper makes,
As streams their channels deeper wear."

No man takes in the range and altitude of a mountain while environed by near jutting prominences and thick forest, neither do we correctly measure the man until his presence is wanting and his place is vacant. A drop of water which to-day may be tossed into a wild commotion on the waves of the deep, may to morrow glitter in the dew drop or fall in a tear. Thus every act of man is followed by an ever widening circle of consequences and results that forever reappear in renewed and varied phases of existence. If we would correctly weigh a man's life and character we must know the models in which he is cast. His was a nature cast in the finest moulds. Dr. Brown I knew well, coming from the same city, he was my physician and friend in the earnest sense of that word, and I loved him he cause of his virtues and for the sorrows he bore during the closing of his life. In life he had no enemies; no conscientiousness of wrong inflicted or of trust betrayed. In my long association with men in public and private life I have come to contact with none whose personal character was more lovable, a gentleman of more perfect honor, of more perfect kindness of heart—as tender as that of a woman—of more catholicity of spirit, of less bigotry, of less envy or of less self seeking with his attainments I have not known—so knowing him as I did—as his personal friend and confidant in his last months—during his long period of depression and sorrow I was his constant companion when in the city; he trusted and clung to me with such a tenacity that I could not but love him.

He never made a brow look dark,
Nor caused a tear, but when he died.

His was an open, generous, sanguine, earnest nature—such an one as "he who runs may read." Strong in his convictions of right, he had a rare faculty of impressing one with the purity and sincerity of his motives. His life in this city was an open, manly one; his friends have no occasion to invoke the charity of silence; the gentleness of his disposition, the frankness of his manner, the integrity of his character made him many friends and mourners at his death.

He was by nature incapable of doing a mean act. None of the little meannesses of human nature belonged to him—with a high sense of personal honor, no narrow influences controlled his acts. Those who knew him can hardly fail to speak with warmth of his striking personal characteristics; of the genial and gracious presence in manner and essence, but that of a gentleman. The few flaws in his character were of manner rather than of the heart, having a mind so cultivated he could neither be mean nor small. Like the Sultan Akbar he believed that "no man was ever lost in a straight road." He was without craft or deceit. Those who knew him could not but be charmed by the frankness of his address, the intelligence of his conversation—a stranger would have recognized in him a man above his fellows.

There may have been stronger men than he, but he was strong; there may have been better men at heart than he, but I have not known them. No one has gone out from us who would feel a richer joy than he to know that all men speak to him kindly and lovingly.

The broad, deep river which rolls its majestic waters to the sea, tells but little of the movement of the mountain stream it once was or its source, which through which it came; so it is often with the pleasing anxious being of our common humanity. One of the characteristic traits of his character was his disgust of shams or false pretensions, whether in public or private life; his dislike of the thin veneers and disguise plastered over personal infirmities. He loved to read sunshine in the face of men and that the right, ever was, everywhere, better than the wrong. Many things at times distorted the vision, but nothing ever confounded the distinction or tempted him to barter the one for the other. He hated with all the power of his being hypocrisy or unfaithfulness either in woman or man. To find himself deceived by either seemed almost to crush his tender heart.

From my personal and intimate knowledge of the man there is no doubt but that his late sorrow tinged his life. Although at times cheerful, there was still the unseen presence of melancholy which would check the exuberance of his spirits. This sorrow was the minor chord in the harmony of life. Has not Shakespeare truthfully said, "Sorrow on sorrow heaps, when one falls another." Has not the same been true of him? Has not the same and the date, "Calcutta, 16 March, 1779" He gave it me about 38 years later.— Cassell's Saturday Journal.

OUR WOMAN'S COLUMN.

BY CATHARINE CASEY.

A CALL TO OUR WOMEN.

OWEGO, N. Y., March 8, 1888.

MR. EDITOR:—There is to be in Washington, commencing March 25th, a jubilee of women, in which we may expect a representation of the most gifted and noted women of the various reforms and labors of the day; and the question arises, have we, the colored women, no part nor lot in this matter? It is to celebrate the fortieth year of anniversary since woman began to agitate on the question of Woman's Rights. Since then a wonderful change has come over the condition of our people The colored man has exchanged the fetters on wrist for the ballot in his right hand. Schools have sprung up like wells in the desert dust. Churches have been multiplied and charitable institutions established among us. In view of this, will not Philadelphia and Washington and Boston be represented as women as delegates to that convention? I go by special invitation, but there are other women in Philadelphia younger than I am, and fresher from the schools, at whose feet I could sit, and from whose lips I could learn. Will not Philadelphia honor herself by sending to that council her best brain and heart?

WOMEN TO THE FRONT.

BY REV. L. J. COPPIN.

One of the most impressive meetings I have ever attended under the management of women was held at Allen's Chapel, Philadelphia, Sunday evening, March 4. The occasion was a "missionary rial" to Mrs Lydia Wasra and Mrs Kate S. Beckett, and it was under the management of the efforts of the Parent Mite Society of Allen's Church, and participated in by the Sarah Allen Mission Society Of course, what we expected, was that which we are accustomed to see and hear upon such occasions, but to the contrary, it was unique The programme was an unusually interesting one, managed with dignity and decorum from beginning to end.

The president in her opening remarks brought the work and the claims of the Mite Society before the large audience in a way that could not fail to forward its cause. Then the pith and point of the meeting throughout was the forcible way in which true and noble womanhood was defined, and the value of organised effort was shown. So the occasion was at once lifted above the too often practice of overdrawn words of praise for the departed, and "whereas" and "resolved" forms. I think we may safely say that at least three things were accomplished:

1st. The relatives of the deceased persons were comforted when they were made to see how clearly the Bible promises to which their "saints" "dead" had lived; and the sure reward that awaited them for labor performed, and the sure promotion into a higher sphere of work

2d. The women present were inspired to find something to do, and to do it well, whether that something be the management of their domestic affairs, or work in the Sunday school, or as missionaries, or in some other department of the Church Indeed, the possibility of attending properly to home duties, and also finding some time for work outside, was clearly shown, and that not simply by words, but by the example of those in whose memory the meeting was held

3d. What women may do for God and humanity, by a little encouragement. In a breath Dr. Pierson says a few weeks ago that the Christian Church was over fifteen hundred years making an important discovery, viz., the value of its women and of its young men. At last the lesson is learned, and the church is forced to seek and faithful that utilizes those two great forces. The Methodist Church is generally liberal in its views respecting its women, and, being a Methodist from my birth, I perhaps no wonder at my

AND ALL DEFECTS OF SPEECH PERMANENTLY CURED

[Philadelphia Public Ledger Editorial]

Among the interesting correspondence in to-day's Ledger is a letter from a well-known business man telling in what a marvelously short time he cured himself of stammering. We can vouch for the truth of the statement. It was a painful thing, because of stammering for Mr. Johnston to engage in discussion: now he speaks with fluency, ease and elegance. The c is not the slightest trace of his former infirmity. As to this, we write from actual knowledge.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.
THE WORLD FAMED LIVER, BLOOD AND LUNG REMEDY.
WHAT AILS YOU!
[COPYRIGHT, 1887.]

ARE YOU SICK?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or blushing after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or sensations, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from the most common of American maladies—Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia or Indigestion. The more of them you have, the more serious is the derangement of your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY will conquer it in a majority of cases, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complicated multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Disease, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or Dropsy, with shortness of breath, are liable to set in, and, sooner or later, in the fatal result.

BILIOUS ATTACK.

DAVID G. LOWE, Esq., of St. Agathe, Manitoba, Canada, says: "Being troubled with a terrible bilious attack, fluttering of the heart, poor rest at night, etc., I commenced the use of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and derived the very highest benefit therefrom."

LIVER DISEASE.

MRS. I. V. WILSON, of Yorkshire, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., writes: "For five years previous to using 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' I was a great sufferer; had a severe pain in my right side constantly; was unable to do my own work. I was reduced to a mere skeleton. Was induced to try your remedies, and by the use of six bottles of the 'Discovery' and one vial of 'Pellets' I was restored to perfect health, and have remained so ever since. Weighed three hundred and forty pounds. Now I weigh one hundred and eighty-five pounds. Can recommend them as you have represented them."

SALT-RHEUM AND RHEUMATISM.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.:

"COLUMBUS, OHIO, Aug. 18th, 1887.

Gentlemen:—For several years I have felt it to be my duty to give to you the facts in relation to the complete cure of a most aggravated case of salt-rheum, by the use of your Golden Medical Discovery." An elderly lady relative of mine had been a great sufferer from salt-rheum for upwards of forty years. The disease was most distressing in her hands, causing the skin to crack open on the knuckles at the joints and between the fingers. She was obliged to protect the raw places by means of adhesive plasters, salves, ointments and bandages, and during the winter months she have her hands dressed daily. The pain was quite severe at times and her general health was badly affected, paving the way for other diseases to creep in. Catarrh and rheumatism caused a great deal of suffering in addition to the salt-rheum. She had taken faithfully, and with the most commendable perseverance, all the various remedies prescribed by her physicians, but without obtaining relief. She afterwards began treating herself by drinking tea made from the blood-purifying roots and herbs. She continued this for several years but derived no benefit. Finally, about ten years ago, I obtained for her one of Dr. Pierce's small pamphlets setting forth the merits of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and other medicines. The name struck me favorably, and seeing that it was especially a blood-purifier, I immediately recommended it to the old lady who had been so long a sufferer from salt-rheum. She took one bottle, and to my surprise and delight, found relief. She then procured two bottles more, and before these had all been used she began to notice an improvement. After the use of three bottles of the 'Discovery' her hands were entirely healed, and she was well and healthy as a child. Her general health was also greatly improved; the color returned to her cheeks, and her appetite almost equal, so that it seemed to be much stronger. She has enjoyed excellent health from that day to this. She had no return of either salt-rheum or dyspepsia. The 'Discovery' seems to have entirely eradicated the salt-rheum from her system. She is now over eighty years old, and very healthy for one of such extreme age.

I have written this letter, of which you can make any use you see fit, at the request of my relative, who is very grateful for the benefit she has derived from your medicine, and who recommends the use of 'Golden Medical Discovery' to her friends. I have seen the multitude of testimonials and so-called 'patent medicines,' so widely circulated before the public, but I believe the best medicine of them all is Dr. Pierce's.

F. W. WHEELER, 39 East St."

CONSUMPTION, WEAK LUNGS, SPITTING OF BLOOD.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating, and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and Kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. Widely known as CONSUMPTION.

SOLOMON BUTTS, of North Clayton, Miami Co., Ohio, writes: "I have not the words to express my gratitude for the good your 'Golden Medical Discovery' has done my wife. She was taken with consumption, and after trying one doctor after another I finally gave up all hope of relief. Being very poor and having but one dollar in the world, I prayed to God that he might show me something; and then it seems as though something did tell me to get your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' My wife took it as directed, and as a result she is so she can work now."

GAINED 25 POUNDS.

WASTING DISEASE.—WATSON F. CLARKE, Esq., of (Box 100, Summerside, Prince Edward Island, Can., writes: "When I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I was not able to work and was a burden to myself. At that time I weighed 125 pounds, and to-day I weigh 147 pounds. Then I used to eat about one meal a day, and now can eat four or five if I dared to."

CURED OF FIVE YEARS' STANDING.

MRS. H. W. RICE, of Hastings, Vermont, writes: "I had a bad humor in my blood for five years. I tried various remedies, and doctored with several physicians, but got no relief. I was confined to my bed most of the time, and thought I should die. I was induced to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and before I had taken half a bottle I felt relieved. I have taken four bottles, and am entirely cured. I am now able to do my housework, which I have done for the last two months, and I feel like a new woman. I cannot say too much in favor of your medicine."

WORTH $1000 A BOTTLE.

W. B. DAVIS, Esq., of Bellville, Fayette Co., Texas, writes: "I have taken your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and have been entirely cured of Consumption. I was given up to die by my family, with good doctors in attendance, and was pronounced by them incurable. I was induced to try your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and before I had taken a bottle I felt like a new man. I have taken six bottles, and am entirely cured. I am now able to do my own work, and have only spent three dollars and a half. I would not take three thousand dollars for what it has done for me, if I could not get more when that was gone."

THE NOVELIST
A WEEKLY MAGAZINE OF AMERICAN FICTION

A unique literary enterprise.

Novel in name, form, purpose, and method; the worthiest FICTION that AMERICAN authors can be tempted to produce—foreign Authors not admitted. No sentimental talk about justice to American authors, and the development of American literature, but bold, practical action. Handy in form, beautiful in dress, excellent in all mechanical qualities, low in price—for "the millions" of intelligent American readers who are capable of appreciating "the best"—of course THE NOVELIST will not stoop to compete with the sensational story papers. A specimen copy—free—will best tell the whole interesting tale.

JOHN B. ALDEN, PUBLISHER,
New York, 393 Pearl St.; Chicago, 218 Clark St.

"George," asked the teacher of a Sunday school class, "whom, above all others, shall you wish to see when you get to heaven?" With a face brightening up with anticipation the little fellow shouted: "Gerfish."—Boston Christian Register.

The Sheriff at Mobile, Ala., resorted to rather novel means to overpower a rebellious prisoner. Armed with a dirk, the belligerent defied the prison officials to remove him to a dark cell, whereupon the neighborhood fire company was ordered to turn a stream upon him. While he vainly attempting to dodge the ice cold water the officials rushed upon and overpowered him.

An orange tree near Quitman Ga., owes its existence to a unique cause. Away back in his boyhood days the planter raised a churlish acquaintance for part of an orange he was eating. Being refused, he solicited a seed, which he afterwards planted as a memorial of the acquaintance's selfish disposition. The seed developed into a most sturdy tree, more than a foot in diameter, and which, at last accounts, was loaded down with 2500 oranges.

NOTICE BY THE MANAGER.

We again call the attention of the pastors and presiding elders to the form of Warranty Deed we have prepared and published for general use in the purchase of church property. The form is simple, and plain as plain can be, yet it is believed to cover every point in the law. It was drawn by an old experienced attorney, with our Discipline before him. Price, 25 cents per copy, or 5 for $1.00. Address,

Health and Strength

If you feel tired, weak, worn out, or run down from hard work, by improverished condition of the blood or low state of the system, you should take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The peculiar toning, purifying, vitalizing qualities of this successful medicine are soon felt throughout the entire system, expelling disease, and giving quick, healthy action to every organ. It tones the stomach, creates an appetite, and rouses the liver and kidneys. Thousands who have taken it with benefit, testify that Hood's Sarsaparilla "makes the weak strong."

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I have taken not quite a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and must say it is one of the best medicines for giving an appetite, purifying the blood and regulating the digestive organs, that I ever heard of. It did me a great deal of good." MRS. H. A. STANLEY, Concordia, N. Y.

Makes the Weak Strong

"Feeling languid and dizzy, having no appetite and no ambition to work, I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, with the best result. It is a health invigorator, and for general debility I think it superior to anything else." A. A. RIKER, Utica, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

THE NEGRO BARBER.

A barber is a publish benefactor when he fully realises his relations to the public and lives up to his duty. Indeed, a "colored barber-shop" is a necessity. No white man will shave a colored man, but the black man will shave a white one and at the same time reject his own color, and yet these colored barbers who act in this way bow down against the white people for their opportunity. Theaters, hotels, and other public places. We never want to bother any man who don't want us to bother him, but these man ought not to take a back seat on question of rights. Now, while the negro barber is a necessity and we are bound to give him our patronage, why in the name of common decency don't they make it pleasant for the customer? How shops that do not tolerate a gang of loafers, who swear, tell lies, and tyrannize over the whole house and smoke bad tobacco. The bootblack is familiar with the customers and plays too much for his station. In addition, the shop is dirty, the windows filthy, the walls smoky and unpapered, razors dull, cups chipped, and company poor. The personal appearance of some of these barbers is seriously objectionable. Old shoes run down at the heel or wrinkled worn-out slippers with open toes, a pair of dirty pants worn with a deep coating of red dust, protruding through what was once called socks, but now a rag "more holey than richlows," no coat on, dirty sleeves with fringed wrist bands, and collar that looks like a dirty necktie that has been and a dirty necktie that has been with the collar. But worst of all is the stinking breath that he blows in your face, tainted with bad whiskey, onions or rotten teeth, and the more they talk aboard the more they talk. These should be a reform in some of these shops. Run out the loafers, clean up the shop and improve your personal appearance, and more money will come to your fingers. In Louisville there are some good shops, but in traveling we have met scores that are a disgrace to the profession. The calling is honorable and stood very high among all nations, but every lazy fellow sets up for a barber now-a-days. Away with dirty towels, cracked looking-glasses, dirty shelves. Put some water on your floor, clean out the spittoons, renovate the whole affair. Then would cleanliness and respect when he goes to a barber-shop.—American Baptist.

A cablegram has been received at Dudley Observatory, Albany, from Cape Town, Africa, announcing the result of the calculations by Finlay, of the Royal Observatory at the Cape, relative to the comet discovered there recently. When seen it was of the 5th magnitude. It is now ranked as one and half a half pre-sent hour. It was moving north at the rate of about a degree and a quarter daily and it is predicted that it will be visible with the unaided eye part of the United States about the 20th inst., when it must be looked for at dawn near the northeastern horizon.

The orities who expect warmth and color to instrumental music should study the steam whistle.—New Orleans Picayune.

WANAMAKER'S.

PHILADELPHIA, March 12th, 1888.

THE STORY of the DOONS continues. A WARday like the murmur of the sea in a shell. The roar of squadrons of Elephants, Satans, Behemoths and Leviathans is only heard in deep meditation.

Liver Disorders

Soon cause the blood to become contaminated and require prompt treatment. The most marked symptoms are loss of appetite, headache, pains in the back or side, nausea, sad relaxation of the bowels. Ayer's Pills assist nature to expel the superabundant bile and thus restore the purity of the blood. Being purely vegetable and sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take, mild in operation, and without ill effects.

"After many years' experience with Ayer's Pills as a remedy for the large number of ailments caused by derangements of the liver, peculiar to malarial localities, simple justice prompts me to express to you my high appreciation of the merits of this medicine for the class of disorders I have named."—S. L. Loughridge, Bryan, Texas.

"I had tried almost everything for chronic liver complaint, but received no relief until I used Ayer's Pills. I find them invaluable."—W. E. Watson, 77 East Illinois st., Chicago, Ill.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH.

LESSON HELPS IN FOUR GRADES.

THE TEACHER'S QUARTERLY. A thirty-six page pamphlet devoted to lesson helps for teachers and older scholars. Its value is enhanced by the introduction of appropriate forms for opening and closing exercises, hymns and tunes, maps, dictionary of proper names, etc.

THE SCHOLAR'S QUARTERLY. Similar to the above, but with such necessary changes as adapt it to the wants of scholars in the main school. It is marvelously cheap. Five or more copies to one address, per year, 7 cents each.

THE JUVENILE LESSON PAPER is a four page weekly, designed for younger scholars who have outgrown the infant class, but who retain their fondness for pictures and simple stories. 208 pages for a dime!

THE GEM LESSON PAPER is a beautiful lesson sheet, four pages handsomely illustrated and printed on pink paper; for primary or infant scholars. Each number contains, besides the lesson, a page or more of "baby-land" talk. All for 8 cents a year, where five or more copies are sent to one address.

THE CHILD'S RECORDER, now beginning its eighth volume with a larger issue than ever before, offers superior attractions for the coming year. With additional editorial force, and a list of regular contributors skilled in the style of writing required by the young, no pains will be spared to put this publication abreast with the foremost of its class.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame." —"Civil Service Gazette.

PUBLICATIONS
OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION O THE A. M. E. CHURCH.

LESSON HELPS IN FOUR GRADES.

THE TEACHER'S QUARTERLY. A thirty-six page pamphlet containing helps for teachers and older scholars. Its value is enhanced by the introduction of appropriate forms for opening and closing exercises, hymns and tunes, maps, dictionary of proper names, etc.

THE SCHOLAR'S QUARTERLY. Similar to the above, but with such necessary changes as adapt it to the wants of readers in the main school. It is marvelously cheap. Five or more copies to one address, per quar., 7 cents each.

THE JUVENILE LESSON PAPER is a four page weekly, designed for younger scholars who have outgrown the infant class, but who retain their fondness for pictures and simple stories. 20c per quar. dzn.

THE GEM LESSON PAPER is a beautiful lesson sheet, four pages handsomely illustrated and printed on pink paper; for primary or infant scholars. Each number contains, besides the lesson, a page or more of "Baby-land" for the little folks. All for 6 cents a year, where five or more copies are sent to one address.

THE OHIO'S RECORDER, now beginning its eighth volume with a larger basis than ever before, offers superior attractions for the coming year. With additional editorial force, and a list of regular contributors skilled in the style of writing required by the young, no pains will be spared to put this publication abreast with the foremost of its class.

THE LAST FOUR YEARS.

BY MRS. R. E. WILLIAMS.

Oh, how sad and very dreary
These four years; how very weary:
Wife so near,
Children dear,—
All have gone from earth forever.
Brothers, look to God in prayer,
Who will all thy sorrows bear.

Bishops, friends—all, one by one—
Have from earthly dear ones gone—
Gone to rest
With the blest—
Gone from all their earthly care—
Gone a heavenly home to share,
And a crown of glory wear.

Mourn ye not for those departed,
But be true and Christian hearted.
Look alone
To the throne.
Has He not said: I'll defend
All who on me will depend,
Such I'll keep into the end?

Hear ye not the Master say
To the men of this poor day:
"Do the right,
Pray and fight—
Fight the battle of the Lord,
Sing and preach his every word,
For the gospel is his sword?"

Jesus Christ, God's only Son,
Bids you undismayed go on;
Watch and pray
Night and day,
When on earth your work is done
Then go home and get your crown;
By your Father's side sit down.

"WHERE I STAND."

BY REV. W. H. HEARD.

MR. EDITOR:—I pen you these thoughts for the consideration of the General Conference. In union there is strength, and we should concentrate all of our departments until we grow strong. Dr. C. S. Smith has laid the foundation for the International Department should be moved to Nashville and the Business Manager have control of the publishing of all our periodicals and literature. We need as business manager a man of first-class business capacity, and then a force under him who have some knowledge of business—not this man to give him a place, nor that boy because his father has influence with the head of the department. We have four floors. Then the Sunday School and Publication Departments could occupy the first and second stories, and the Missionary and Educational Department the third, the Financial and Executive Departments the fourth floor and give the business manager control of all the publishing of our general Church, editors and secretaries filling their position as directed by law.

I am not in favor of abolishing a single office, but electing efficient officers. Missionary Department under a truly missionary business man. Sunday School Department under a capable editor and two assistant to travel and lecture and hold institutes. Educational Department under a man who will appeal to the moneyed men of this nation and raise money by his individual efforts sufficiently to run the office, and the money raised by the churches let it go directly to the school for which collected. The financial department under a financier who can ingather the finances of our Church and see that every department is running smoothly and successfully.

I am in favor of the branch house in some city that will support it, and a man at its head who will make it a branch house, as the one at Macon, Ga., of the M. E. Church, South, or the one at New Orleans, La., of the M. E. Church, or the one in Atlanta, Ga. of the Baptist Church. We need to bring our departments under one roof and show the world what we are doing and thne grow strong, but we need branch offices of the Publication Department at Charleston, S. C., Baltimore, Md., Galveston, Tex., St. Louis, Mo., and one in Liberia, Africa. These could only be depositories for four years, the agents selling on commission and traveling over the territory assigned by the manager. Then the editors could remain in their offices and these agents would make the department ten-fold more productive. We have always made a mistake in making a man's salary sure whether he earned it or not. But these agents would sell each $5,000 worth of goods a year; one-fourth of which should be paid them for salary and traveling—$1,250 - $400 for expenses, $850 for salary; being good too. Many men would sell $6 000 worth of goods, giving them $1,600—$500 for expenses, $1,000 for salary. Try this, brethren, and four years will tell.

NOT YET.

REPLY TO THE SUGGESTIONS OF REV. W. H. HEARD.

BY J. C. EMBRY.

The A. M. E. Sunday School Union has purchased lately a splendid business property in the city of Nashville, Tennessee, for the use of the Union. We suppose the purchase is all right and will be approved by the Board of Managers of the Union. The law authorizing the Board to locate the headquarters and designating the Union as a publisher of Sunday school literature implied, perhaps, the authority to invest the money given by the Church through her Sunday schools in this way. And when all proper steps shall have been taken in the way of incorporation and appointment of trustees, etc., it may go forward and invest all that may be thought necessary to perfect its facilities for its business. To all of which, when regularly and well done, we shall with all others say, Amen! But when it is proposed to throw up our base in a fit of enthusiasm and make a thoughtless rush pell mell to Nashville with all the publishing and other interests of our Church, we promptly interpose our emphatic no!

Why shall we go there for—because the Sunday School Union has purchased a house? Shall the publishing interests of our whole Church be subordinated and put under the patronage of the General Conference? Shall the pyramid be inverted to secure stability? But what for? According to the Nashville American, which has given us all the detailed information we have; the M. E. Church, South, is our real publisher of Sunday school literature. It also publishes our Hymn Book, our Discipline, the RECORDER and Review? Is the African M. E. Church, founded by Richard Allen, ready for this? Concerning the half disguised sneer at the present Manager and his advisers and associates in the Publication Department, we have only to say that if such a causeless insinuation is any credit to the writer's judgment or taste, let him have the benefit of it for what it is worth.

The Publication Department located in Philadelphia, the home of Allen and the birthplace of our goodly Church, will not be friendless in the General Conference next May. She has served the Church so many long years of incomputable service may be despised and kicked by the men whom she has helped and lifted into the upper atmosphere of notoriety on the white wings of her honest, clean and respectable publications, but when it is proposed to kill her off and transfer the honored chair she holds to a mewling babe, there will be some few present to ask at least for reasons.

An old book I have tells us, "Woe to thee, O land, when thy king is a child!" We are not willing to go under the children just yet. We shall try to show at the proper time that the Publishing House in Philadelphia, with all its disadvantages, has done a noble service for the connection during the past four years. She will have the audacity to show that while conducting the most burdensome and perplexing business of any in the Church, she has discharged much of her debt; that her name and credit are good in business circles, that in spite of sneers and misrepresentation by persons without and within, some of whom have treated her very badly. She will ask to be reimbursed for the transfer of her property to the other branch of the Church service, by appropriation or otherwise. She will ask for means, by collection or otherwise, to establish a large job room in connection with her work, together with a small bindery and press large enough to do her job work and her RECORDER. It will not seek to oppose or antagonize any other branch of the Church service, but, as in the past, to reciprocate and serve them all. But it will ask for a clear track and a fair chance to do a better work.

Of the wheat crop of this country only 60,000,000 bushels were available for export February 1, against 93,000,000 a year, 85,000 000 two years, and 160,000,000 three years ago.

THAT COLONIZATION SOCIETY AND THE AFRO-AMERICAN.

BY REV A A BURLEIGH

I am of the opinion but few of our people throughout the country are aware of the pernicious influence of an old, defunct organization, known mostly along the Atlantic seaboard as the "African Colonization Society." It was born and fostered to pander to race caste and race prejudice. However honorable may have been the motives of Finley, Mead Mercer and Hopkins, the founders of this society, the sound, intelligent, Christian element have never endorsed the society or sanctioned its undertakings. At this advanced stage of American ethnological development, it is certainly impertinent and misanthropic, at least the arguments used in its favor lead to that conclusion.

The arguments used to obtrude this Utopian scheme upon our illiterate class of people, were the sanctimonious pretense of philanthropy, are all but criminal. There never was a more degrading and vicious reason put forth for low political purposes than is put forth by this society to induce the Afro-American to leave his native land and emigrate to Africa. When a true humanitarian scans such addresses as that made by Rev. J. A Hodge in Washington, D. C., on the 15th of last January, he would be forced to the belief that such a man, with such opinions, is unchristian, un American—nay more, that he was making that society a plausible chance to give vent to his race-prejudice notions. The tendency of the argument and the whole colonization enterprise is to disparage our race variety, unsettle the minds of the illiterate and credulous arouse old grudges in the hearts of the revengeful, stimulate race clannishness, and under the sophistry of Divine, race antipathy, breed discontent and race hatred. Such work is satanic.

Mr. Editor, for your manly defense in the editorial of the 15th ult., against this vicious scheme, gods applause is on the lips and in the hearts of all our thinking readers. Your words are not only powerful because they are logical and bold, but also because they are pertinent and true. We are in our formative pe iod legally influenced, easily mingled, yet, as a people, we are arousing great forces, putting in motion great currents of influence that will help shape the destiny of generations. The influence of certain individual men among our people at this time is far greater for good or evil than will be the influence of any similar number for an entire generation. How necessary, therefore, that our leaders be right in judgment, sound in opinion and safe in their course of action.

THE FINANCIAL SYSTEM OF THE A. M E CHURCH REVIEWED.

"Make haste slowly" is an old saying gray with age and worthy of note

In the January number of the A. M. E. Church Review, under the caption, "The Financial System of the A. M E. Church," appears a well written and able article from the pen of Rev. C. T. Shaffer. As I understand it, Brother Shaffer proposes to throw our entire financial system into and under one general management. In view of the fact that my time is very much limited, I cannot write at length upon this subject; however, each of his sub headings shall have a passing notice. Our Church organization is now upon the eve of a great revolution all must admit, and in view of the plan and progress of a young and aspiring ministry who will be the controling power in the coming General Conference, changes and interchanges of systems and policies would, overthrow our entire financial superstructure and work to the detriment of the whole connection—better "make haste slowly."

Brother Shaffer claims that the present financial system is unwieldy and cumbersome, which is to say, in other words, it is burdensome and unmanageable. He pays a glowing compliment to the Dollar Money System; pronounces it simple and comprehensive. So it is, and will be more easily comprehended if allowed to remain as it is. He shows an annual increase of funds into the Dollar Money treasury from 1872 to 1884 and claims had it not been for the interference of other departmental collections the Dollar Money System would have by this time been sufficiently able to meet all of the demands of the Church for which it was intended. A careful perusal of the facts and figures presented brings me to this conclusion: that the establishment and management of the several departments alluded to has made the Dollar Money System what it is; competition and push have been the means of developing its strength, the truth of which I will endeavor to prove by Brother Shaffer's financial statement. He says: "The receipts of the department from 1872 to 1876 were $95 553 93; from 1876 to 1880 were $99 999 42, and from 1880 to 1884 the receipts were $170 286 88. Now, then, these figures show that from 1872 to 1876, before the establishment of Brother Shaffer's unwieldy auxiliary department, when the Dollar Money System had no rivals in the field, that it did comparatively nothing compared to our numerical strength then, which did not exceed 300 000; but after the thorough organization of each of the departments under notice from 1880 to 1884, the Dollar Money collections, with the Missionary Educational and Sunday School departments contending for their portion of the funds, came near doubling itself, whereas, had it not been for these outside forces, it would not have shown its strength. And the point I make is this: that the Dollar Money System did not meet the demands of the Church is the why the General Conference threw each of the departments out upon their own responsibilities. Under the new management no department of our general work has suffered, neither does it interfere with the local interests of the Church, but stimulates the laity to greater activity. If each of the general departments require all of the time and attention of their representatives, how in the name of common sense can one man superintend the whole successfully? The man is not living in my next I will discuss propositions second and third.

RICHARD ALLEN, THE SECOND REFORMER.

BY REV. J. A JONES.

The history of human events reveals the fact that as men become rich, powerful and influential, they usually become more wicked, heartless and ungodly, often using their wealth and power to crush down their fellow-man and mock Jehovah to his face. What is true of individuals is consequently true of nations, families and societies. But God, who is long suffering and full of mercy, who sees even the worm crushed beneath the heedless tread of the pedestrian and hears the sparrow's cry for food, holds the destiny of nations in the hollow of his own hands. So while great and powerful institutions of men seem to control for a time the nations, and predestine the affairs of governments, both State and Church, God himself not infrequently rises in his own majesty and raises up a man of his own choice in spite of the voice of the people. Men are born leaders and not educated to lead. God raises up the man when he is needed most.

By way of argument we need only mention such horn leaders as Moses, the champion of the host of Israel. The people of God were oppressed by a powerful and wicked heathen nation, held in bondage and not permitted to serve the God they loved. The popular vote might have chosen a different man—some one better known among them—but God sends a marcel down to Midian to a man that he had been preparing for forty years. Moses, equal to the emergency, successfully led the people on till from Pisgah's apex he gazed on the land flowing with milk and honey.

Such men as David, the Psalmist of Israel, who was anointed king to the great astonishment of his father and profound disgust of his brothers. Yet God directs Samuel to send to the pasture, for the king of Israel was minding the sheep. There sat God's choice with a shepherd's crook, to be soon displaced for the golden scepter. David was the greatest king that ever reigned in Israel. But, leaving biblical history, addressing so intelligent an audience, I need only refer to such men as the Ptolemies, Scipio, Cæsar, Alexander and Pompey, but the history of deeds of men is a record of carnage, death, despair, devastated cities and hungry widows and orphans.

Peter, the hermit, toward the close of the eleventh century, in his fanatical attempt to wrest from the infidel Turks the holy city, Jerusalem, leaves on the pages of history an account of one of the most ungodly crusades that ever incensed the righteous indignation of a just God. Yet the historian calls his career "the holy war."

We stated on the outset that as societies become more powerful, their opportunities for doing good or evil are increased, and it is the rule rather than the exception that they become exceedingly corrupt. The Christian Church, having survived the storm of persecution, fightings without and fears within, led on by Him who had declared over a thousand years before that "upon this rock I will build my Church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it," had now become too polluted for the peaceful dwelling of a regenerate soul.

In 1378, when the great Western schism broke out by the election of two Popes, one at Rome and the other at Avignon, war between the adherents of the several Popes was waged and carried on to an alarming extent. It is not a sad truth that there has been more blood shed on the account of religion than any other institution of man on earth?

But notice the hand of God in the affairs of the things of earth. While the Popes were thundering ont red-hot anathemas against each other, while religious enthusiasts were waring among themselves on account of their devotion to their Popes, and while the Papacy was promulgating the damnable doctrine of transubstantiation, invocation of the saints, image worship and selling of indulgencies, God raised up John Wicklif, who, by such strong opposition to these accursed dogmas, caused the papal kingdom to tremble to its base. In fact, Wicklif led the way for the opening of the great campaign begun by Martin Luther in 1517. We are not expected, however, to discuss the reformation of Luther, but suffice it to say that the immediate cause of the reformation was, that the spiritual Church had lost its essence, the salt had lost its savor, the Kingdom of Christ was in the hands of sinners and Zion's banner was trailing in the dust. It is remarkable how man corrupts whatever he lays his hands to.

We are here to day to celebrate the one hundred and twenty-eighth anniversary of the birth of Rt. Rev. Richard Allen, the first Bishop of the A. M. E. Church, and in so doing we make no hesitancy in holding him up and placing him on the annals of history as the second reformer in the Christian Church. Richard Allen was born in the State of Delaware, in the year 1760, on the 14th day of February. As soon as his infant eyes saw the light the chains of slavery fell upon his neck. As Richard Allen grew into manhood into manhood, often using their wealth and power to crush down their fellow-man and mock Jehovah to his face. What is true of individuals is consequently true of nations, families and societies. But God, who is long suffering and full of mercy, who sees even the worm crushed beneath the heedless tread of the pedestrian and hears the sparrow's cry for food, holds the destiny of nations in the hollow of his own hands. So while great and powerful institutions of men seem to control for a time the nations, and predestine the affairs of governments, both State and Church, God himself not infrequently rises in his own majesty and raises up a man of his own choice in spite of the voice of the people. Men are born leaders and not educated to lead. God raises up the man when he is needed most.
